ROOSEVELT READY TO IMPOSE CODE IF COAL MEN FAIL TO COME TO TERMS

More Time Has Been Spent on Bituminous Operators Than on All Other Groups Combined, but NRA Still Hopes for Agreement.

FINAL HEARINGS SET FOR TUESDAY

Price-Fixing for Retail Trades on Cost-Plus Basis Continues to Be Complicated by Difficulty of Figuring Cost.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — After a day of secrecy and seeming indecision, it was learned tonight on reliable authority that the National Recovery Administration expects the representatives of soft coal operators to agree on a code of fair practice by the middle of the week, and that unless they do so President Roosevelt is prepared to impose a code by executive order. If the President is compelled to impose a code, one official stated, "the operators must expect no mercy."

The delay in agreeing on a code, the writer learned, is being caused mainly by operators in the Southern Appalachian fields, notably in West Virginia and Alabama. They have been represented in the negotiations here by James Francis and R. E. Taggart. It was stated that J. D. A. Morrow, speaking for the Mellon properties, and Charles O'Neill, spokesman for other Northern Appalachian operators, have been more amenable.

It appears that one of the principal stumbling blocks in the negotiations is that fact that when the spokesmen of the operators reach an agreement on some point with Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, the operators back home refuse to accept it, and the bargaining starts all over again . More time already has been consumed in an effort to frame a satisfactory code for the soft coal industry than has been spent on all other codes combined.

Final Hearings Tuesday.

Final hearings are set for 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, and it can be stated on the most responsible authority that unless an agreement is reached quickly thereafter, President Roosevelt will proclaim a code compiled by Johnson, Chief Counsel Richberg and Deputy Administrator Simpson.

Meantime, late into tonight, O'Neill and Duncan Kennedy, representing 960 operators in the North and South Appalachian fields, were in conference with Philip Murray and Van Bittner of the United Mine Workers of America, endeavoring to negotiate labor contracts. The Appalachian operators, heretofore bittedly anti-union, long ago became resigned to recognition of the union.

"Chiseling Practices."

What is holding up agreement on a code, one official stater, is no outstanding controversial issue, but what he described as "a lot of little chiseling practices," such as compelling miners to live in company houses and trade at company stores. This is especially true of the Southern Appalachian operators. The difficulty has been complicated by the fact that Francis and Taggart possess only limited authority to speak for the operators whom they represent. Morrow and O'Neill have more freedom.

Details of the meeting which Gen. Johnston had with the four operators yesterday afternoon, and about which he and they have been reticent since, seeped out today. The report said that Johnson consumed an hour of the three-hour session "reading the riot act" to them. Earlier in the day they had broken off negotiations wth the union, and sent Johnson a letter which infuriated him.

When the operators departed last night they had promised to do their utmost to induce those whom they represent to agree to the terms proposed to Johnson, and had promised to resume negotiations with the union officials. Those negotiations were, in fact, resumed this morning. Basic wages and working hours have already been agreed upon.

Johnson considers that the coal problem will be settled when the Appalachian operators are under a code. Little difficulty has been

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL WINS MISS AMERICA TITLE

Marion Bergeron, 16, of West Haven, Conn., Crowned at Atlantic City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9. —Marion Bergeron, 16-year-old West Haven, Conn., high school girl, who entered the national beauty tournament here this week as "Miss Connecticut," was tonight crowned "Miss America, 1933," at the closing session of the pageant. She is a natural blonde.

She was selected from the 30 interstate beauties by a committee of seven judges tonight in the auditorium before a crowd of 10,000.

Blanche McDonald, 18 years old and also a blond, of Hollywood listed as "Miss California," and Florence Mayer, 19-year-old brunette, "Miss New York State," of Rockaway, L. I., were the runners-up.

The new Miss America is the daughter of Elmer R. Bergeron, a motorcycle policeman, and Mrs. Florence Begeron, who acted as her chaperon.

Four girls were disqualified. They were: Miss Iowa (Eleanore Dankerfring), Miss Illinois (Lillian Karasson), Miss Idaho, (Margaret Whitman), and Miss Arkansas (Virginia Ferguson).

The first three were eliminated because they do not live in the place they were supposed to represent. The fourth was disqualified because she is married. Married women are not permitted to enter the competition.

This Week's Weather Forecast.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The weather outlook for week beginning Monday for the Upper Mississippi and Lower Mississippi valleys and the Northern and Central Great Plains—Generally fair; temperatures mostly above normal until near end of week.

About $332,000 of $510,000 paid by the Government for hogs during the first nine days of the premium market at the National Stockyards was expended for meat which was rendered inedible and thrown into the Mississippi River or consigned to the dumps, a survey among packers and commission men by a Post-Dispatch reporter disclosed yesterday.

Destruction of pigs weighing between 25 and 80 pounds, representing 75 per cent of about 100,000 pigs received during the nine days, accounts for the discarded material.

Pigs in that weight, range, it was pointed out, do not ordinarily come into the market and packing house machinery is not gauged for curing meat of pigs that small. So ordinarily the farmer, save for a few "little roasters" at holiday times, does not market his pigs until they have attained heavier weights.

But the Government's premium market—offering fancy prices for little pigs which would have grown to big pigs by the time of the regular fall market—brought out the young pigs, swamping packing house facilities.

Tankage Facilities Swamped.

It was announced intention of the Government to convert the small pigs into fertilizer, grease, and other by-products. This is done primarily through "tanking" them.

But tankage facilities were swamped. So the Government authorized the packers when necessary to salvage what grease they could from the pigs and destroy the residue, instead of converting it into fertilizer. Since the grease represents only about 8 per cent of the material in a pig, 92 per cent of each small pig was thrown away.

Pigs subjected to the tanking process at the East Side yards, it was estimated, represented about 4,500,000 pounds of pork, of which 350,000 pounds was converted into grease. The remaining 4,150,000 pounds, which cost the Government, packers said, about 8 cents a pound, has been discarded.

To the $332,000 represented by the waste material must be added a cost to the Government of about $29,050 paid to the packers for handling the pigs at a rate of about 70 cents per 100 pounds.

Expenditures Continue.

Thus, the total cost to the Government for material for which it can receive no return is about $361,050 at the East Side yards. Proportionate expenditures continue daily as 10,000 hogs a day arrive at the East Side yards for Government purchase.

While the Government bought 100,000 pigs here in the 9-day period —curing 25,000 of them weighing from 80 to 100 pounds for distribution to the needy—only 1000 sows arrived. They were cured. The anticipated ratio of pigs to sows was 4 to 1 in the Farm Administration's effort to boost pork prices by taking a large quantity of the meat off the market.

The influx of young pigs, swamping tankage facilities, not only has resulted in a modification of the Farm Administration's intention to use all of the material but also has caused problems at other markets. In Chicago, for instance, the sanitary conditions arose because waste material was accumulating faster than it could be disposed of.

A trucking farm has been engaged by several East Side packers to remove the discarded material almost as fast as it accumulates. A further check in arrivals consists in the establishment of daily market quotas, which has averted glutting the market except on the day it opened, Aug. 28.

In some instances packers possessing sufficient facilities have rendered pigs into both grease and fertilizer but no such cases were reported on the East Side. One St. Louis packer has made tons of fertilizer but most packers agreed that there is "no danger of the fertilizer market being flooded on account of Government hogs." All that remains of the young pigs in most packing plants in this area consists of 400-pound drums filled with grease—used as a soap base—held for the Government.

Corn Problem May Be Next.

Discussing the Government's problem of disposing of pigs on its hands, an official of the Farm Administration at Washington said yesterday to a Post-Dispatch correspondent:

"The problem is exactly the same as with cotton. We paid farmers to get rid of cotton because that seemed the only way to raise the price. And we are paying them to get rid of pigs and sows for the same reason. If the hog plan succeeds, there will be a corn surplus and then we will have to do something about curtailing acreage."

Proponents of the $55,000,000 hog-buying program estimate it will add $1 to $1.50 to the prevailing market

POLISH BALLOON RACERS SAFE IN QUEBEC PROVINCE

HAD ONLY DOZEN ORANGES TO EAT

Hungry and Tired but Otherwise in Good Shape After Hike — Van Orman Unreported.

By the Associated Press.

RIVIERE A PIERRE, Quebec, Sept. 9.—The two missing Polish balloonists, Capt. Francizek Hynek and Lieut. Znigniew Burzynski, who started from Chicago last Saturday in the James Gordon Bennett balloon race, reached here tonight.

They had landed in a forest on Monday.

The two aeronauts were suffering from fatigue and hunger, but beyond that did not appear to be much the worse for their long flight and march through untracked woods.

They had only a dozen oranges to eat on their trip.

The Polish officers' balloon came down in a dense forest about 90 miles northeast of Lemieux, Quebec, a small station on the Canadian National Railway between Quebec and Chicoutimi.

By the aid of a compass they were able to lay and follow a course which brought them to Lemieux.

Here they were picked up by railroad section hands who gave them a lift to this point, 12 miles distant.

The aeronauts said they expected to remain here until they had made arrangements for the location and recovery of their balloon.

At Sudbury, Ont., two fishermen had announced positively they saw a balloon about 5000 feet in the air and that the pilot sent it up above the clouds to avoid a threatening storm. They said it was sighted late Monday afternoon.

Twenty-four hours earlier, a balloon was reported seen by another fisherman near Meteor Lake, northeast of Sudbury. Rescuers assumed it was the same craft.

Previous to its being sighted near Meteor Lake, the balloon believed to be the Goodyear IX, was seen at about noon Sunday across the American border near Pickford, Mich.

Preparations to send the huge dirigible Macon out on the search were made by Naval authorities. They said the Macon would set out tomorrow if weather conditions were such that observers could scan the ground closely enough from the air.

Missing since the start of the race a week ago, Capt. Hynek and Lieut. Burzynski, Polish war heroes, had been the object of a search extending from the north shores of the Great Lakes to the Atlantic coast.

Nothing had been heard from them since they took off from Chicago in a gaily-painted basket under a huge gas-filled bag.

Two other pilots in the Goodyear IX, of Akron, O., Ward Van Orman and Frank A. Trotter, are still missing. It is believed their balloon descended somewhere in the same part of Canada.

Pair Given Unofficial Lead in Race Went 1000 Miles.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—The Polish crew in the James Gordon Bennett International Balloon Race, were accorded an unofficial lead in the distance event by race officials here.

The spot where Capt. Frncizek Hynek and Lieut. Znigniew Burzynski landed was estimated roughly to be about 1000 miles from Chicago.

ROOSEVELT'S DAILY MAIL OF 8000 LETTERS A RECORD

Prior to NRA, Wilson With 800 Received More Than Any Other President.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt receives an average of 8000 letters a day—a record for a chief executive of the United States.

This was disclosed today by Louis P. Alber, chief of the NRA speakers' division. He said that prior to the NRA the record for presidential mail was 800 letters received by President Wilson during the World War. President Hoover's average was 600 letters daily, Alber said.

MEDIATION BOARD HOPEFUL IT HAS SETTLED STRIKE

Believes Proposed Agreement Will Be Accepted by 3000 Woman Garment Workers and Employers.

STATEMENT AFTER LONG CONFERENCE

St. Louis NRA Group Took Initiative in Conciliation Effort Rather Than Wait for Requests to Act.

Hope that settlement of the strike of 3000 workers in women's garment shops will result from conferences held yesterday, and that the workers may return to their jobs tomorrow, was expressed last night by former Circuit Judge Jesse McDonald, chairman of the Mediation Board of the St. Louis NRA committee.

McDonald, Emmett J. Canty and William J. Gibbons, members of the board, were in conference most of the day with representatives of the strikers and their employers.

"The board believes the agreement it has formulated will entirely protect all the rights of the employes, and enable satisfactory operation of the shops without undue friction and trouble," McDonald said. He declined to give details of the proposed agreement, or to say whether further conferences would be held today.

"We found that the employes felt very strongly they had been unfairly denied rights in the past that they now must have recognized before they could consider returning to work. We tried to cover those adequately.

Thinks Employers Will Accept.

"The board believes the employes will consider this contract as sufficient in all respects to give them full protection, and it hopes that the employers will subscribe to its terms."

McDonald announced earlier that the board's policy would be to take the initiative, and ask strikers and employers to present their cases to it, rather than wait for a request for its services.

Present yesterday at its conferences in executive session were Ben Gilbert, manager of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, and Howard Elliott, attorney for St. Louis Garment Industries, the organization of silk dress manufacturers. About half of the 3000 strikers in Gilbert's union are silk dress workers. The others have been employed in cotton dress shops, which have made no request for a hearing before the mediation board.

Wants "Preferential" Shop.

The demands of Gilbert's organization are the same as those of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union which has 1600 members on strike, and the millinery division of Cloth Hat, Cap and Millinery Union, with 2000 strikers. Each is asking recognition of the union as the agency of the employes for collective bargaining under the National Recovery Act.

One of the demands which the union makes as the chosen representative of the employes is that a "preferential union shop" be established. Under such an agreement, employment would be restricted to members of the union as long as it could supply workers.

The D. Werber Dress Co., 808 Washington avenue, yesterday signed an agreement recognizing the Ladies' Garment Workers' union and approving a preferential union shop. The firm's 40 employes returned to work.

Nine Have Recognized Union.

Dave Werber, president, was the sixth of the 32 members of the Associated Garment Industries to sign the agreement. The union also has been recognized by three shops not members of the employers' organization. About 375 workers are employed in the nine shops.

Werber stated he believed the demands of the union to be fair. He said he welcomed the attempt of the union to organize and stabilize labor rates because he had paid his employes more than the average rate and was placed in an unfair competitive position by shops which paid low wages and worked long hours.

The Ladies' Garment Workers' Union was restrained from posting more than two pickets at any shop where a strike is in progress by a temporary order issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Calhoun after dress manufacturers had filed an injunction suit.

The order is returnable Sept. 21. Gilbert and other officers were named defendants. The suit was filed by the Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co., Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co.,

F. J. M. GRACE SLAIN BY WOMAN, HIS FORMER NURSE

Nephew of Late Shipping Magnet Shot to Death by Mrs. F. W. Weltz at Santa Cruz, Cal.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Sept. 9.— Francis Joseph Morgan Grace, Sr., 57 years old, a nephew of the late W. R. Grace, steamship magnate, was shot and killed here tonight by a woman identified by police as a former nurse in the Grace home.

The woman about 40, who gave her name as Frida Wilhelmina AugustaWeltz, appeared to be in a stupor after the shooting police said and repeatly said: "You wouldn't understand.'

Police said Grace was sitting on a bench in the garden with his present nurse.

Mrs. Weltz, who was discharged about a year ago, the police report added, entered the garden and, without warning, drew a pistol and shot Grace in the side. He staggered to the door of his home and fell dead.

Servants at the home told police that Mrs. Weltz was disarmed by a cook after the shooting. She was taken to jail for questioning.

Grace's wife, an invalid, was inside the home at the time of the shooting.

Police said Mrs. Weltz came to Santa Cruz today.

PRESIDENT DEPARTS ON OVERNIGHT YACHT TRIP

QUANTICO, Va., Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt sailed for an overnight yacht trip from this Marine base today after talking for half an hour with Col. R. P. Williams, commander of the provisional regiment held here for possible use in Cuba.

With the President and Col. Williams during the talk on the deck of the yacht Sequoia was Gen. Harry Lee, commander of the marine post.

There was no evidence of troop concentration at the base as the Roosevelt party motored through to the pier.

4 MEN CONFESS, $1695 POSTOFFICE LOOT RECOVERED

Recovery of $1695 of the $3239 loot stolen in the holdup of the Preetorius Branch Postoffice, 3501 South Jefferson avenue, Thursday, was announced by police and post office inspectors yesterday following the arrest of four men, one a postal clerk employed at the station.

All four have confessed complicity in the robbery, according to police. The clerk, Angeles W. Bowman, 37 years old, 3327 Lawn avenue, and Thomas M. Bugg, 52, 4508 Chouteau avenue, head of the bus drivers' union, have confessed they planned the holdup of two of Bowman's fellow employes primarily to cover up a $120 shortage in the clerk's stamp stock.

The other prisoners, who said they were John Hert, 31 years old, 1721 Michigan avenue, and Charles Hines, 50, 1368A Louisville avenue, admitted they were the actual holdup men, police said.

Bowman was arrested at his home Friday night after a friend of his had bought $120 worth of stamps at the Main Postoffice, Eighteenth and Walnut streets. Inspectors, who had previous information of the stamp shortage, reported they found the stamps in Bowman's home and that he said he had planned to put them in his stock yesterday.

Bugg arrested as a result of Bowman's confession, at first denied knowledge of the robbery, but later admitted he helped plan it, pointed out the home of one holdup man and showed police where he had hidden $1180 in a fishing-tackle box in his own home, the officers said. They quoted him as saying he drove the automobile in which Hert and Hines went to the postal station, waited for them in an alley and drove them from the scene.

The $1180 was Bugg's share of the loot, minus $120 that he gave Bowman, police said. Hines turned over $75, which he at first said was all that was left after he took his $450 share to the Fairmount race track Friday and bet on the horses. Later, however, he led police to a beer flat on St. Louis avenue and produced $440 from under a rug,

CUBAN JUNTA TO RESTORE PRESIDENTIAL GOVERNMENT

Agrees to Do So on Demand of Army Officers Ousted Monday—Declares 'Period of Transition Is Ended.'

THREE ASSUME CABINET POSTS

Portel, San Martin and Barnet Take Oath of Office —Official Communique Does Not Name New Chief Executive.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

HAVANA, Sept. 9.—The four-day old radical Junta ruling this country, today agreed to the formation of a new government, with the office of President restored, while the presidential palace bristled with machine guns put into position without official explanation.

The weapons were mounted a short time after Dr. Horacio Ferrer formally demanded on behalf of the army officers ousted in last Monday's revolution that the Junta step down to make way for the reinstatement of Carlos Manuel de Cespedes as provisional president.

Expects Junta to Step Out.

Ferrer later told a group of officers that he interpreted the Junta's move as an indication it considered it had concluded its mission and would resign as soon as a president was installed. He amplified the statement by saying the new executive would be selected in consultation with representatives of all opposition factions. His remarks were greeted with loud cheers.

Ferrer was secretary of war and navy in de Cespedes' cabinet.

The officers' demand was formulated at a long session of 300 of them at the National Hotel, where 100 soldiers with machine guns took up posts after the meeting began.

The president, it was announced by one of the five members of the Junta, would be chosen by that group. No immediate indication was given as to the man to be named, and no mention was made of de Cespedes either in an official communique of the commission or in statements of its members.

Cabinet Officers Take Oath.

Supporting the Junta's announced intention of forming a government, Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, former University of Havana professor, took the oath of office as secretary of public instruction.

Guillermo Portel was sworn in as secretary of state as well as secretary of justice, and Jose A. Barnet, one-time minister to Brazil, became sub-secretary of state.

The Government announced that Dr. Luciano Lopez Ferrer, Spanish Ambassador to Cuba, had notified the state government that Spain had accorded formal recognition.

Official Communique.

The official communique by the Junto follows:

"The Executive Commission, after exchanging views with other elements representative of the revolution, and considering the period of transition which justified the present structure ended, have resolved to proceed to the organization of a presidential form of government which will continue and bring to conclusion the revolutionary program."

This decision, which marked an about-face so far as restoration of the presidency was concerned, followed discussions with representatives of eight revolutionary groups. Guillermo Portela, one of the Junta, said the groups have voted confidence in the organization.

Election To Be Called.

Under the new governmental plan a constitutional assembly would be called to set a date for general elections.

San Martin, a member of the Junta, was greeted by an acquaintance with the title "Mr. President," and he replied: "I am not the president, just a university professor."

Another indication that political matters are nearing a solution was seen by observers in the request of Col. Fulgencio Batista, former sergeant, who was elevated to the rank of Chief of Staff of the Army, for an interview with Col. Julio Sanguily, army chief of staff during the de Cespedes regime. Bastista gave no inkling of the nature of his mission.

Batista announced following the

Of These 58 Have Occurred in St. Louis County and 49 in City Since Outbreak of Epidemic.

13 NEW CASES ARE REPORTED

These Increase Number to Date to 663—Sporadic Instances of Disease on East Side.

Two deaths of St. Louis County residents and two in the city late yesterday increased to 107 the total of fatalities in the sleeping sickness outbreak which began late in July. The dead:

Mrs. Minnie Bremmer, 71 years old, 601 Loughborough avenue.

John Robert, 65, of 105 Radian avenue, Ramona Park.

Earlier in the day the death of Sandy Pointer, 65-year-old Negro, of 826 South Elm avenue, Webster Groves, was reported.

Since the epidemic began there have been 58 deaths in the county and 49 in the city. Eight neg cases in the county and five in the city were reported yesterday. In all 663 cases have been reported, but in many instances the patients have recovered without apparent after effects.

There have been several cases of the disease in nearby towns in Illinois. Five were reported during the week at Edwardsville, in Madison County, and in St. Clair County there were three cases. Two of these patients are convalescing and the third was only mildly ill.

Advises No One to Stay Away.

The State Health Department, in answer to many inquiries, has advised against delay in opening schools, and has informed students from other States that they could resume studies in Missouri without risk, said State Health Commissioner E. T. McGaugh, who spent part of last week studying the local outbreak at first hand.

Comparatively few cases have been reported in the State outside St. Louis and St. Louis County, and those mostly from scattered localities. Sporadic cases of encephalitis, with no epidemic aspects, have been recorded for years.

Dr. McGaugh, who was accompanied by his assistant, Dr. Earl Kraus, has kept in intimate touch with the situation here through the State Epidemiologist, Dr. E. K. Musson, who has been on the scene from the start. He said that nothing he had observed so far provided any reason for advising students or persons on vacation to delay return to any part of the State or for discouraging business men from visiting the metropolitan centers. His view was concurred in by local health authorities and Senior Surgeon J. P. Leake, directing the United States Public Health Service experts here, who has studied epidemics of this nature at first hand in this and other countries for the last 15 years.

Stilling Unreasonable Fear.

In reply to infrequent suggestions that ungrounded fears of tourists or business men outside the city might have caused some money loss, the health authorities said that an attempt to suppress the news would have been a failure in the first place and a blot on the city in the second, and pointed out that prompt and scrupulous publication of the facts had figured materially in the remarkable organization of defenses against the epidemic.

As indication that the community is free of unreasonable fears, Health Commissioner Obrock of St. Louis County announced that some county schools showed an increase in enrollment over last year's. Like most other health officers, he has advised that schools open on schedule time. The basis for the advice is the experience that epidemics, even of diseases definitely contagious, and particularly affecting children—neither characteristic applies to this disease—can be controlled beter with children in school than with them out.

Supported by recent developments of the many-sided research in the epidemic, Health Commissioner Bredeck of St. Louis repeated his request to physicians to isolate suspected cases pending diagnosis and strengthened provisions for isolation of known cases allowed to remain at home.

Remarking that high fever sometimes was the only symptom, and conclusive diagnosis called for spinal puncture, a procedure which physicians were naturally reluctant to order until other indications demande dit, he said: "I can't find fault with a physician for failure to diagnose such cases, but I cannot excuse a physician who fails to isolate a fever case until he knows what's wrong with it.

"We are catching some of these mild cases through material sent to the Health Division laboratories for typhoid fever tests. That shows some of them are unrecognized, and we know it is the mild cases that spread infantile paralysis, which has some epidemiological similarities to this disease. If this is a carrier disease, we must maintain isolation."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Dr. Josephine Neal of the New York Health Department, one of the world's foremost experts on encephalitis, departed for St. Louis today to aid in the fight on the epidemic there.

Dr. Neal for the last six years has headed a study of sleeping sickness which has been carried on with funds provided by one of its victims, the late William J. Matheson, millionaire vice-president of Corn Products Refining Co., who gave $500,000 to carry on the work.

JUNTA AGREES TO RESTORATION OF PRESIDENCY IN CUBA

statement of the executive commission that more than 300 de Cespedes army officers had agreed to return to service. Lieut. Felipe Loys of the navy, said about one-third of the naval officers also had agreed to return.

"The Junta," said Ferrer, "has melted away as a piece of ice on a hot stove. They have agreed to deliver the power to a president now being selected in consultation with all political factions."

In addition to the machine guns which were placed in position on the roof of the palace and on two sides of the building, the presidential guard was augmented. Sentries normally on duty within the building were moved outside and two truckloads of soldiers arrived to strengthen the detail already there. Ammunition was issued.

So far as could be learned the Government apparently made no attempt to enforce an ultimatum giving the army officers until 10 a. m. today to obey orders to return to their posts.

Batista delivered the order last night at the hotel meeting.

The reply to his ultimatum was a declaration by the officers that they did not recognize the present government. "Let the commissioners get out," said one of the group.

Maj. Alfredo Boffil, deposed police chief, stated the stand of the officers in these words: "We are unanimous in the decision not to return to our posts until the commission and Batista are ousted."

Officers' Stand.

"Public order having been secured and the phantom of American intervention having disappeared," said Sergio Carzo, another commissioner, "a new government with a president will be formed which will carry forward without hesitation or wavering the revolutionary program. That was all we aspired to."

Ferrer declared in presenting the officers' demand that they would not return to duty unless De Cespedes was put back in office "with ample power to reorganize the cabinet to make it representative of all political factions."

The new government, he continued, also must be "non-political and a government of national concentration."

The former secretary disclosed that only seven or eight of the 940 army officers who were deposed by the revolt of non-commissioned officers and enlisted men had taken their old posts, although several had been offered reappointment by eheo Junta.

Violence Opposed.

"All officers are constantly receiving adhesions from sergeants, corporals and enlisted men in this movement," Ferrer said later. "They are asking the officers to resume their command and act for the restoration of the former government.

"The officers, however, are advising against any violent means in order to avoid bloodshed, and they are hoping that the present government will realize the situation and surrender power to avoid threats of American intervention."

Although no formal demand apparently was made by his organization, Joaquin Martinez Saenz, leader of the A B C revolutionary society, said his group also was pressing for the return of the provisional president. Saenz was a member of the De Cespedes cabinet.

Trouble in Interior.

Workers at Camaguey picketed the highways leading out of the city after they heard reports that officers of the Consolidated Railways, who had refused recent strike demands, intended to leave that place. Two of the officers are Americans.

Sixteen persons, including one army sergeant, were imprisoned at Santiago. The prisoners were taken to Santiago in trucks after their arrest at Bayamo on charges of rebellion.

American officials of the Manganese mines at Cristo in Oriente Province, expressed concern over the labor situation there. Guantanamo, also in Oriente Province, was reported relatively quiet after an attempted prison break last night in which guards killed two persons and wounded two others.

The problem of public order along the north coast of Matanzas, and Santa Clara Provinces was made more difficult by last week's hurricane and the fact that relief machiney set up under the de Cespedes administration was brought almost to a halt by the governmental crisis.

"Out With the Yankee Marines."

Thousands of persons lined the waterfront as the United States Battleship Mississippi steamed slowly up toward the harbor's mouth as though about to enter, then turned away and plowed out westward this afternoon.

The United States Embassy had announced before the ship's arrival that it would not enter the harbor.

There was no demonstration in the crowd which watched the Mississippi.

One automobile carried a poster in the rear window, printed in red, reading: "out with the Yankee marines." Similar cards were distributed to other drivers by the occupants of the machine.

It was reported tonight that ammunition and arms had been stored in the Hotel National, possibly, some informants said, by a student group.

Groups of armed men were reported on the streets of Holguin, Jiguani, San Luis and Palma Soriano, all in Oriente Province, but there were no disorders.

Warning of New Tropical Storm.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning: "Advisory 9 p. m. tropical disturbance of unknown intensity apparently centered about seventeen north sixty one west near Antigua moving westward." Antigua is one of the British West Indies of the Leeward group.

U. S. JUDGE KENYON DIES; SERVED IN SENATE 11 YEARS

By the Associated Press.

SEBASCO ESTATES, Me., Sept. 9.—Judge William S. Kenyon, of Fort Dodge, Ia.; who resigned from the United States Senate to accept appointment to the Federal bench and later turned down a post in the Cabinet and consideration as a presidential candidate in order to remain a jurist, died today at his summer lodge here after a six weeks' illness.

The 64-year-old Judge apparently was improving after a heart attack suffered late in July and only two days ago had rallied from a relapse so that attending physicians saw "no cause for alarm." His invalid wife was the only member of the family here with him.

Judge Kenyon first was elected to the Senate in 1911 and resigned in 1922 to accept appointment by President Harding to the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth District.

The post of Secretary of the Navy was proffered him by President Coolidge, but he declined. When Coolidge issued his "I do not choose to run" announcement, liberal Republicans tried to get Kenyon to enter the Republican free-for-all, but he said his wife's health prevented his return to the political arena. He was frank to admit in both instances that he preferred to remain on the bench.

He had spent the summers in the colony here for 14 years and after his appointment to the bench, devoted much of his vacation period to writing decisions in the cases that had come before him in the Mid-West district.

His office here was a shack on a spur of rock jutting out into the water. A stranded boat was used for part of the building and there he dug through legal books and briefs and dictated his findings to a secretary. His lone digression from his judicial duties came as a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

Turned Down Coolidge's Offer to Make Him Secretary of Navy.

William Squire Kenyon was born at Elyria, O., June 10, 1869, son of Fergus L. and Hattie Squire Kenyon. He was educated at Grinnell College, Iowa, and in the law school of the State University of Iowa and started practice of his profession at Fort Dodge, where he afterward made his home. On May 11, 1893, he married Mary Duncombs of that city.

As a practicing attorney, Kenyon tried for varied experience, always with the idea of fitting himself for a place on the Federal bench. Hence in his early professional years at Fort Dodge he was a railroad attorney for a while, Prosecuting Attorney of Webster County for five years and then Judge for two years of the Eleventh Iowa State District.

While serving on the Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Judge Kenyon wrote a decision in the Teapot Dome oil lease litigation that was a bitter, sweeping denunciation of the transaction. The opinion reversed the District Court at Cheyenne, Wyo., which had held there was no fraud in the dealings between the Mammoth Oil Co. and the Department of the Interior under Albert B. Fall.

The opinion, bristling with such words as deceit, falsehood, subterfuge and bad faith, held the entire transaction was "tainted with favoritism, collusion and corruption, defeating the proper and lawful function of government." It ordered the District Court to oust the corporation from Teapot Dome.

Elected to Senate in 1911.

Kenyon was first elected to the Senate in 1911 to fill out the unexpired term of the late Jonathan P. Dolliver of Iowa. Twice the Iowa voters returned him to Washington, but in 1922 he resigned when President Harding named him as United States Circuit Judge.

NOTED JUDGE DEAD

WILLIAM S. KENYON.

President Coolidge offered to make him Secretary of the Navy, but he declined, saying he was not qualified for the place.

After leaving the Senate his only essay away from strictly court work came in 1929 when he was a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission. That body surveyed the effects of prohibition laws and also made a report on the country's crime, denouncing the "third degree" methods practiced by police in many cities.

Kenyon's road to the Senate was opened by his work as a special Assistant Attorney General of the United States in 1910 and 1911. He had charge for the Interstate Commerce Commission of cases arising under the Hepburn rate act and the Sherman anti-trust law and prosecuted rebate suits against the Southern Pacific, Hocking Valley and several other roads. He also received wide recognition for the part he played in the famous packers' rebate cases in Chicago.

Champion of Union Labor.

In the Senate, he was a champion of union labor, urged passage of a law creating a Federal tribunal for settlement of disputes between employers and workers and also sought legislation regulating the coal industry.

He was frequently a non-conformist so far as party rule was concerned and the climax of his 10 years' service in the upper house came in 1921 when he led the newly formed "farm bloc" to a victory on its first test of strength. Western legislators in both Houses of Congress had tried to obtain enactment of a group of bills designed to aid their agricultural constituencies. Despite the efforts of such men as McNary of Oregon and Capper of Kansas, they were unsuccessful, and saw the end of the session approaching without having obtained serious consideration for their bills.

Sponsors and proponents of the measures then organized a formal "bloc" with Kenyon as chairman. Under his guidance the group mustered sufficient strength prevent the scheduled adjournment of Congress and, after the session had been prolonged, the "farm bloc" had its way. Ultimately only one vote was cast against the proposed laws in the Senate.

He left Washington with the observation that "the aisle marking the dividing place between the Republican and Democratic seats was a purely artificial demarcation." He also denounced what he termed "the social bloc" in Washington.

"I do not believe there is a man in the American Congress whom money could influence," he said. "But there is an influence coming out of society, persistent and insidious."

His place in the Senate went to Charles A. Rawson, a chum since college days. The two men were so close to each other that they were called the Damon and Pythias of American politics. Aside from his devotion to Rawson and to court work, Kenyon's chief interest was in pitching horseshoes. At Fort Dodge, when twilight hours proved too short, he was instrumental in having electric lights placed around the lot where he and his cronies were wont to practice "barnyard golf."

Judge Kenyon as St. Louis Knew Him; He Was Here Much of Year.

Judge Kenyon was a dry; personally as well as politically. Yet he advocated a national referendum on prohibition; he told friends that the "graft and corruption which followed the eighteenth amendment" far outweighed the benefits of prohibition.

He was in St. Louis each year from late November or early December until April or May. He was at his third-floor office in the Federal building by 8 o'clock every morning and almost always he was the last to leave the building. He was a close friend of Federal Judge Faris, he was on equally good terms with everyone in the building here. He chatted frequently with janitors and porters and clerks and no one ever found him too busy to discuss politics.

One Saturday afternoon he and his wife went riding with a friend. They saw parts of St. Louis they knew nothing about; were amazed particularly at the vastness of the brewery properties. The next day, as a conscientious governmental servant, Judge Kenyon worked many hours to make up for the Saturday afternoon off.

When President Coolidge offered him the portfolio of Secretary of the Navy, "I almost laughed in his face," the Judge said later. "I told him that all the time I was in the Senate I opposed every Navy appropriation bill that came along and that I thought I'd make a hell of a secretary."

However, Judge Kenyon said he would be receptive to an offer of appointment as Attorney-General and the President indicated that if there was a vacancy at that post he would give it to the former Senator from Iowa. However, Judge Kenyon did not believe him. When Harry M. Daugherty resigned as Attorney-General a short time later, Judge Kenyon was not named his successor. He never again referred to President Coolidge except as "the little man in the White House."

Liquor Prosecutions Dwindle As Probability of Prohibition Repeal in December Increases

Supreme Court Has Ruled That Constitutional Amendment Is in Effect as Soon As 36 States Ratify It.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The usual Federal prohibition prosecutions, already on the wane, will virtually cease just as soon as the thirty-sixth State has voted ratification of the twenty-first, or prohibition repeal amendment, which probably will be Nov. 7 when six States will vote on the proposed amendment.

Formal ratification by the requisite number of State conventions is predicted by Dec. 4 or 5, and the proclamation of the Secretary of State of the adoption of the repealer is scheduled before Jan 1.

Attorney General Cummings, while declining to make a definite announcement about prohibition prosecutions in the near future, merely says that district attorneys and prohibition agents will use "common sense" in enforcement. About 800 employes in the prohibition enforcement unit were recently dropped when that division was merged with the bureau of investigation.

To Fix Exact Date of Repeal.

Cummings has also been indefinite when asked whether repeal would become effective on the date of ratification by the thirty-sixth State or on the date the Secretary of State formally proclaimed the adoption of the twenty-first amendment and the repeal of the eighteenth. He also announced that he expects to make a report on this subject which will include whether violators of the Volstead act will be technically subject to prosecution during the short interim between the ratification and the Secretary's proclamation.

As matters of fact, the United States Supreme Court and the State Department have already ruled on these questions. In the famous case of Dillon v. Gloss in 1921, the court definitely held that the eighteenth amendment was a part of the Constitution when the requisite number of States had ratified it.

"Its ratification," the decision said, "of which we take judicial notice was consummated Jan. 16, 1919. That the Secretary of State did not proclaim its ratification until Jan. 29, 1919, is not material, for the date of its consummation, and not that on which it is proclaimed, controls."

Supreme Court Decision.

About the same time, the United States Supreme Court affirmed the decision of a District of Columbia court in the case of U. S. vs. Colby, in which the lower court refused to cancel the proclamation by the Secretary of State of the adoption of the eighteenth amendment.

The affirmation covered the following statement by the lower court: "Moreover, even if the proclamation was canceled by order of this court, it would not affect the validity of the amendment. Its validity does not depend in any wise upon the proclamation. It is the approval of the requisite number of states, not the proclamation, that gives vitality to the amendment and makes it a part of the supreme law of the land."

The State Department, last February, in commenting on the adoption of the twentieth or "lame duck" amendment to the constitution, said: "It may be pointed out that the ratificaion of an amendment to the constitution is not consummated on the date when the Secretary of State issues his certificate, but on the date when the requisite three-fourths of the legislatures of the states have ratified the resolution proposing amendment in question."

The repeal amendment, of course, is being ratified by conventions instead of state legislatures, but the reasoning of court and the state department is applicable to it.

Justice Department officials point out unofficially that they are already having difficulty obtaining jury verdicts against ordinary prohibition violations. This difficulty is expected to increase as more states ratify the repeal amendment.

Of the 300,000 children who will return Monday to school, nearly one-third of them will attend classes under canvas.

GIRL, 10, MURDERED; BODY LEFT IN BUSHES

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 9.—Described by District Attorney Warren Bishop as "the most fiendish crime ever to come to my attention," the slaying of 10-year-old Margaret McCarthy brought the full forces of the law tonight in a search for her killer.

The strangled body of the child of Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy of Somerville, was found early today in a clump of bushes near the Harvard Divinity School.

There was a wound on the head. Medical examiners said death was caused by strangulation. There was no evidence of criminal assault.

Three men known to police as annoyers of childern were under surveillance with the possibility they would be taken into custody for questioning.

Margaret was missing since she went to a shoemaker's near her home yesterday. All night neighbors and friends searched for her in the Somerville-Cambridge neighborhood.

At the shoemaker's the girl purchased polish to shine several pairs of shoes in anticipation of the opening Monday of St. Joseph's parochial school, where she would have entered the sixth grade. Instead, the funeral services will be held Monday.

Melvin Fowler, a Cambridge resident, found the body—a few feet from the eight-foot fence surrounding the Harvard property—as he went to work.

The shoes were missing and these have been the focal point of the search for the slayer.

There was a possibility, police said, the child's body was thrown from an automobile since no attempt was made to conceal it, aside from the bushes in which it lay.

15 BUS TERMINALS MUST MOVE OWING TO ROUTE ORDER

PARKING PERMITS HAVE BEEN REVOKED

Hearing Will Be Held Tuesday Morning on New Applications—Traffic Relief Purpose.

About 15 bus terminals will be forced to seek new quarters as a result of an order issued a month ago by the Board of Public Service restricting interstate and intrastate bus routes to certain city streets.

Four of the largest terminals are included on the routes designated by the board. They are the Union Bus Terminal, Sixth and Walnut streets, a stop-over for 12 lines and an agency for four others; the Greyhound Lines Terminal at Union Market; the Nevin Bus Lines, Southwestern Transportation Co., and Union Stages at 101 North Fourth street, and the Midwest Bus Depot, 710 North Twelfth boulevard.

A discussion was held yesterday at a terminal at Broadway and Washington avenue by several terminal agents whose stations are not on the approved routes. They charged that the approved routes favored the larger companies and put the smaller terminals at a disadvantage.

They said they would have to break their leases, would lose money spent in improving their terminals and would lose the patronage of travelers to whom their present locations were known. They also said that the Greyhound Lines had acquired an interest in the Union and Midwest Terminals on the approved routes since the order was issued by the board, giving the Greyhound Lines three preferred established locations.

Among the largest terminals not on the approved routes are the Missouri Pacific and Great Eastern Stages Terminal, 1728 Olive street; another Great Eastern terminal, Broadway and Washington; Consolidated Bus Stations at Maryland Hotel and 1801 Washington avenue; De Luxe Stages, 600 Chestnut, 1803 Chestnut street, 200 North Eighteenth street and 1805 Washington; Golden Eagle Lines, 117 North Sixth street; Midland Stages, 124 North Eighteenth street, and New Yelloway Bus Line, 1801 Washington avenue. The Midland and Great Eastern Lines, however, make stops at the Union Terminal, Sixth and Walnut streets.

Terminal agents said they had no plan of action and didn't know what they could do except move to the approved routes. Their permits for parking busses have been revoked, effective next Tuesday, when a hearing will be held at 10 a. m. before the board on new applications. The board has power by an ordinance to deny permits for locations not on the approved routes. The board took its action to regulate traffic conditions and to eliminate congestion caused by parked busses.

Another ordinance, which has not been enforced, designates parking areas for exclusive use of busses on the south side of Delmar boulevard, from Sixth street to Broadway, and the west side of Fourth street, from Chestnut to Market streets.

The approved routes permit busses to operate on Franklin avenue and Delmar boulevard, Fourth to Sixth streets; Sixth street, Franklin to Delmar; Fourth street, Franklin to Walnut street; Walnut, Fourth to Seventh streets, and the Sixth street cutoff; Seventh boulevard, from Market street to the city limits; Twelfth boulevard to Gravois road to city limits, and Chippewa and Watson road to city limits; western outlets: along Market, Clayton, Oakland and McCausland avenue to Manchester road, and Delmar to Leonard, Page, Hamilton and Easton; northern outlets: along Thirteenth, Blair, Florissant, Taylor and Broadway.

BEATING OF ST. LOUIS CAFE MAN PRAISED BY FASCIST PRESS

Compares Attack Over Blue Eagle With Early Days of Mussolini.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Sept. 9.—The Fascist press today applauded the beating administered to Max Komen in St. Louis, Mo., because he didn't have an NRA Blue Eagle for his lunchroom.

Finding the incident reminiscent of the early days of Fascism, the newspaper Messagero printed news of the incident on its front page and states editorially:

"Nobody will lose the moral of the persuasive adventure experienced by Komen. It teaches that also in the most individualistic nation of the world, the conscience of the man in the street bursts forth instinctively against the egoism and incomprehension of someone who is obstinate to the damage of the good of the whole."

Komen, proprietor of a restaurant at 815 Market street, was beaten severely and forced to press his lips against a Blue Eagle placard on Aug. 14, while a crowd looked on and a newspaper photographer recorded the event. Robert Wright, 29-year-old unemployed cook, admitted committing the assault and on Sept. 5 was fined $500 by Police Judge Finnegan. He appealed.

NRA 'PRIMER' TO CARRY 'NEW DEAL' TO THE SCHOOLS

Head of Speakers' Bureau Tells of Plan to Use Moral Suasion.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Into the schools and churches of the nation the Roosevelt "New Deal" will be carried by the Administration this fall.

Louis P. Alber, chief of the Speakers' Division of the NRA, said today that a "primer" of NRA and the Roosevelt program would be sent into the high schools—public and parochial—of the country, and to the Universities to be taught in a more advanced manner.

"The rugged individualism of Americanism must go," said Alber in an interview, "because it is contrary to the purpose of the 'New Deal' and the NRA which is remaking America.

"Russia and Germany are attempting to compel a new order by means typical of their nationalism—compulsion. The United States will do it by moral suasion."

The "primer," Alber said, was only the first step of the Administration's educational program. He said he had a plan before the Government council for approval that involved the extensive use of motion pictures in the schools to foster the NRA and an intelligent understanding of what it means.

ENGINEER'S DAUGHTER INTERRUPTS HEARING

Tries to Protect Father at Investigation of Wreck on the Erie.

By the Associated Press.

HORNELL, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The 24-year-old daughter of Martin King, engineer on the Erie milk train which crashed into a passenger express at Binghamton, last Tuesday night, killing 14 persons, came to the defense of her father today when he appeared to her to be confused and nervous on the witness stand.

Elizabeth King, school teacher at Painted Post, frequently interrupted the hearing before Inspector A. E. Duffy of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to ask questions.

Tonight J. W. Graves, superintendent of the Susquehannah division of the Erie, issued a statement in which he said it appeared to him that "Engineer King's mind, for a moment at least, failed to function normally and the accident was the result of this."

King again was asked to tell his version of what happened, and explained that his train was running too fast through a caution zone because "they had given me no warning that train 8 (the wrecked Atlantic Flyer), was doing different than usual." The flyer was rammed from behind when it stopped because of switching operations in Binghamton yard, something King said had never happened before.

Miss King listened attentively as John W. McCarthy, road foreman of engines, testified that "about an hour after the collision, I interviewed King in the cab of the milk train. I asked him, 'What in your opinion caused the collision?' King said, 'I got too bold with the speed and could not stop when I saw the flagman and the rear end of No. 8. I admit I am wholly responsible.'"

Miss King, half rising, asked: "Has anyone asked if the same answer would be given at another time when the person questioned was not excited or shaken by remorse?"

BODY OF GIRL FOUND IN DITCH

Apparently Slain or Killed by Auto, Los Angeles Officers Say.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—The body of a girl, 13 to 14 years old, was found in an arroyo today a short distance off a main boulevard west of Pomona. Sheriff's officers said the girl apparently had been slain or struck by a motor car.

The Coroner said death had occurred two or three months ago. The girl wore a white dress, blue jacket, white sport shoes, ankle high hose and a white scarf. She had blond hair. The body was found by Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Reyes. Authorities have been unable to establish the girl's identity.

4 MEN CONFESS, $1255 POSTOFFICE LOOT RECOVERED

where he had thrown the money as the police were arriving to arrest him earlier in the day.

Hines then took the officers to a house in the 4500 block of Page boulevard, where he had rented a room yesterday morning, and showed them a revolver and an automatic pistol he said were used in the holdup. Police are seeking to trace disposition of the rest of the money.

Fake Calls from Depositors.

Police said their investigation showed that Bowman and Bugg arranged to have $3000 in the postal station at the time of the robbery by a series of fake telephone calls from supposed savings depositors. Hert, the officers reported, said Bowman gave him and Bugg the names of two depositors, whom he and Bugg impersonated over the telephone on Wednesday, asking that $1750 be obtained for withdrawal by one of them and $1250 for the other. One of the two telephoned at 5 p. m. Thursday, an hour before the holdup, to be certain the money was there, according to the inspectors.

BABY ORANG-UTAN ON VIEW

The baby orang-utan born recently at the Zoo will be exhibited to the public today for the first time, in a glass-enclosed cage fitted out like a nursery.

An announcement of the exhibition made at the zoological garden yesterday stated the baby would be shown from 11 to 12 and from 2 to 4. She is the daughter of Bobby and Bimbo, orangs which have been in the zoological garden for some time.

AUTO TROUBLES CAUSE CAPTURE OF TWO ROBBERS

Pair Arrested at Sullivan, Mo., After Abducting Victim From Kingshighway and Neosho.

Two men who held up W. Herman Bushman, chewing gum salesman, while he was sitting in his sister's automobile, parked at Kingshighway and Neosho street yesterday afternoon, and forced him to accompany them to Sullivan, Mo., were captured there shortly afterward, when the men drove the car into a tree and Bushman ascaped and notified police.

The capture occurred after the men drove the damaged car three miles west of Sullivan, abandoned it, took another man's car and then got lost on country roads, ending up in Sullivan again. When Chief of Police Roy Tyree and Patrolman Coleman Johnson came upon them, the men drew pistols, but surrendered after Johnson fired a shot at them.

The men gave their names as G. J. Kelly, 26 years old, and Elmer Davis, 22, both of Indianapolis. Kelly, according to police, said he was on parole from the Indiana penitentiary, where he served part of a term for an offense against a woman.

They told a story or having held up a man and a 17-year-old girl at Terre Haute, Ind., last Wednesday, robbing the man of $30 in cash and $150 in money orders and forcing the girl to accompany them to East St. Louis, where they left the girl, with the car, in front of a hotel. They then crossed to St. Louis and held up Bushman, they said. They were taken to the Franklin County jail at Union and held for action by the Prosecuting Attorney.

Bushman, who resides at 5884 Lisette avenue, had driven his sister, Miss Elizabeth Buschmann, East St. Louis school teacher, who was visiting him, to a store on Kingshighway and was waiting while she went inside. The men approached, drew pistols and said, "Drive west, buddy, we want to get out of St. Louis."

They ordered him to drive to Highway 66. Reaching the city limits, they made him get in back while one of the men drove. Traveling at a high rate of speed, they entered Sullivan, where in an effort to avoid another machine, the car was driven into a tree. In the excitement, Bushman ran to a filling station and told attendants what had happened.

The car was only slightly damaged, however, and the men were able to drive it out of town before police arrived. Three miles out a tire became flat and the robbers stopped L. F. Branson, Owensville, Mo. They took his watch and a small amount of money, tied him ot a tree and drove down a side road in his car. Branson freed himself and was waiting on the highway when Sullivan police arrived in pursuit of the robbers.

One police car trailed the robbers on the side road while Tyree and Johnson returned to Sullivan, on the chance the fugitives might return. They discovered them shortly after returning and the capture followed.

PRINCE OF WALES IN SHIRT SLEEVES; BIARRITZ GASPS

He Sends Coat, Vest and Suspenders to Check Room and Cools Off.

BIARRITZ, France, Sept. 9.—The Prince of Wales gave the guests a gasp at the fashionable Chateau D'Espagne night club here by sending his coat, vest and suspenders to the checkroom and sitting comfortably in his shirt sleeves one night this week.

It was hot enough to warrant the innovation, especially when dancing, which the prince did often enough. His white shirt was quite in harmony with the women's white satin gowns, most prevalent here in the evenings.

The prince's hair and eyebrows, by the way, have been bleached yellow by constant exposure to the sun while swimming and golfing, but try as he does, he cannot get his persistently pale skin to tan.

TO RECEIVE BIDS SEPT 22 ON FEDERAL AID HIGHWAYS

State Highway Department Announces Second Letting Under Public Works Act.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9. — Bids on the second group of Missouri road projects under the $12,000,000 allotment from the Federal Public Works Act will be received Sept. 22, T. H. Cutler, Chief Engineer of the State Highway Department, announced today.

Cutler said the 16 Federal projects on which bids are being asked involve an estimate expenditure of $1,350,000. In addition, the department will receive bids at the same time on 57 sections to be built from State funds at an estimated cost of $580,000.

The first bids on road projects under the Public Works Act will be received Sept. 15 on $1,750,000 of new road construction. The Federal projects include construction of 14.7 miles of 10 and 20-foot concrete pavement on highway No. 20, between Glasgow and Marshall, and 23.6 miles of 20-foot paving on Route No. 21, between Perryville and Ste. Genevieve.

The State projects include a total of 199 miles of roadway, of which 4.4 miles is 20-foot concrete, 9.8 miles rock asphalt, 113.9 miles of gravel and crushed stone, and 71.6 miles of graded earth.

ANOTHER CHICAGO HOODLUM CONVICTED ON CRIMINAL REPUTE

James Belcastro, "Public Enemy," Gets Six Months Under New Illinois Law.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Another Chicago "Public Enemy" was found guilty by a jury and sentenced tonight under the State's new "criminal reputation" act. He was James Beilcastro, called the "King of the Bombers," the fourth hoodlum to be found guilty of vagrancy within two weeks. Belcastro's sentence was six months at Bridewell Work House.

Policemen called as State witnesses described Belcastro as a bomb maker and gunman.

Police characters whose vagrancy convictions preceded that of Belcastro were: Walter Guida, a West Side character; "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, and Maxie Eisen, racketeer boss of the fish peddlers. All three were sentenced to serve six months in jail.

25,000,000-ACRE LIMIT FOR COTTON NEXT YEAR

Secretary Wallace Says Control Plan Will Include a Rental Payment to Farmers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said today the Farm Adjustment Administration had decided to embark on a cotton control plan for 1934 which would limit acreage next year to about 25,000,000.

The secretary said the plan probably would be announced early next week and that it would include rental payment to farmers who reduce acreage as well as a form of the domestic allotment plan. It was understood the allotment features would include a virtual guarantee of parity price on approximately half the total crop, the amount being arrived at on the basis of domestic consumption.

Wallace said the President was in sympathy with the plan.

Confesses Looting Accounts at Defunct Union Trust in Cleveland, Using Money for Speculation.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 9.—Miss Elsa J. Lackamp, 43-year-old trusted employe of the Union Trust Co. for 27 years, disclosed today that she had embezzled $37,000 because she "went crazy over stock speculation like a lot of other people."

She signed a complete confession at the county prosecutor's office, and charges were prepared for filing against her, probably Monday.

The discrepancy in Union Trust accounts was discovered by investigators for the liquidating officers of the bank, who went into accounts after the company was denied a license to reopen this spring.

Miss Lackamp was able to carry out her manipulations, she said, because customers so trusted her that they signed notes and withdrawal slips in blank, leaving amounts to be filled in. More than $18,000 was abstracted from a single savings account in this manner.

RICHARD LEAHY, POSTOFFICE INSPECTOR, DIES SUDDENLY

Stricken in Auto on Way From Races—Had Been Treated for Heart Disease Two Years.

Richard V. Leahy, a postoffice inspector and a member of the department for about 40 years, died suddenly yesterday after becoming ill in an automobile while on his way home from Fairmount racetrack. A. F. Schaub, 749 Heman avenue, University City, with whom he was riding, took him to a drug store at Page boulevard and Pendleton avenue, where he collapsed.

Mr. Leahy, who was 63 years old and resided at 1373 Blackstone avenue, had been under treatment for heart disease for two years. An inspector for about 30 years, he was on detached duty at the Main Postoffice, where he was in charge of investigation of postoffice leases. He had been in the St. Louis office since 1914.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Anna M. Leahy; a son, Richard V. Ueahy Jr. and a daughter, Mrs. T. R. Usher. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

$1,431,540,234 IS ALLOTTED TO DATE FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Assignment of $2,273,671 Made Yesterday for 22 Buildings in 15 States by Administrator.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Public works allotments totaled $1,431,540,234 to date with the allotment today of $2,273,671 for 22 buildings in 15 states.

Allotments this week totaled $33,377,396.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, as Public Works Administrator, is trying to speed the actual beginning of construction. Estimates are not available here, however, to show the actual amount of construction underway.

An increasing number of non-Federal projects was provided for in last week's allotments. Many allotments to city or sanitary districts, county and state bodies and to publicly-controlled low-cost housing corporations, have been approved, and many other such projects have been sent to Washington for study.

Nogales, Ariz., postoffice, $135,000; Anaheim, Cal., postoffice, $117,000; Tecate, Cal., border station, $53,550; Eastport, Ida., border station, $53,100; Carville, La., Marine hospital, $285,500; Portland, Me., Marine hospital, $198,000; Baltimore, Md., quarantine station, $45,000; Boston, Mass., Marine hospital, $27,000; Boston, quarantine station, $99,000; Independence, Mo., postoffice, $58,500; Sweetgrass, Mont., border station, $54,980; Fort Stanton, N. M., Marine hospital, $243,000; Buffalo, N. Y., Marine hospital, $220,000; New York City, quarantine station, $108,000; Pittsburgh, Pa., Marine hospital, $157,500; Charleston, S. C., quarantine station, $117,000; Canaan, Vt., border station, $47,390; Highgate Springs, Vt., border station, $52,821; North Troy, Vt., border station, $50,400; Norton Mills, Vt., border station, $47,875; West Berkshire, Vt., border station, $52,655; Laurier, Wash., border station, $50,400.

KANSAS STATE TREASURER TO BE TRIED FOR CONSPIRACY

Accused of Converting $150,000 in State Funds for Use by Himself and Another.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 9.—Tom B. Boyd, State Treasurer of Kansas, today was bound over to the Shawnee County District Court on charges of conspiring to convert $150,000 in State funds to his own use and to the use of Ronald Finney, young Emporia, Kan., financier.

Following his preliminary hearing, Boyd was sent back to jail in default of $25,000 bond, fixed by Judge Allen Meyers of the court of Topeka, but was released when he gave satisfactory bonds to both State and Federal Courts.

The action came following the testimony of Edwin S. Tucker, vice-president of the Eureka Bank, who told of having taken a check for $150,000 from the State Treasurer to Finney's headquarters.

President Ready to Put Coal Men Under a Code

encountered with Illinois and Indiana operators, who already are paying a higher basic wage than that the Appalachian operators are asked to pay. An Alabama group is threatening to make trouble, but Johnson was described as being ready to "crack down" on them once the main groups are in the fold.

Price Fixing in Controversy.

The issue of price fixing in the proposed code for the retail trades continuesto provoke controversy. Deputy Administrator Whiteside and many retailers and manufacturers favor it, while the consumers' advisory board and several experts borrowed from the Federal Trade Commission are strenuously opposed to it. They assert that one of its principal effects would be to put out of business the "little fellow" who thinks it would protect him.

One of the main obstacles in arriving at any cost-plus formula is the difficulty in ascertaining cost. The corner grocer, for example, buys his bread from a bakery wagon, while the large store chains have their own bakeries. Thus, the question is asked: How would you fix the cost of a loaf of bread to apply to both types of stores? It is a question that is certain to provoke controversy.

Alabama Group Objects to "Political Socialization."

Alabama commercial bituminous coal operators told Johnson that adoption of the code of competition he proposed for their industry would mean "political socialization" of the mines. The operators' code committee said: "Political socialization of the industry was not authorized by the Recovery Act and has been disclaimed by you and your staff, but this important code was drafted on no other theory."

The Alabama producers also said they could not accept "under existing conditions the proposed basic increase" in miners' wages. The administration draft called for a $3 a day basic wage in Alabama.

The Alabama statement, prepared by Forney Johnson of Birmingham, said that under the proposed code "there can be no doubt whatever that the final decision on the basic question of wages, price and distribution is by this code transferred to the National Recovery Administrator or his subordinate appointees. If these are not primary functions of management we are at a loss to know what are."

Objects to Union Provision.

Concerning labor provisions, the statement said the code "proceeds effectively to exclude from important provisions for its administration if not from every provision any collective bargaining except that entered into by 'organized' employes or unions." That, it added, was contrary both to the Recovery Act and to Johnson's interpretation thereof.

A protest against the $3.84 basic wage scale for Western Kentucky was made today by George B. Harrington of Chicago, president of the Chicago, Wilmington & Franklin Coal Co.; Charles G. Hall of Terre Haute, Ind., general manager of Walter Bledsoe & Co.; D. W. Buchanan of Chicago, president of the Old Ben Coal Corporation, and George K. Smith of Columbus, O., president of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. They maintained it was unfair for the administration to give the Western Kentucky operators a $1.16 a day wage advantage over Illinois, Indiana and Ohio producers. The committee held a long conference with Johnson this afternoon.

C. F. Richardson of Sturgis, Ky., representing the Western Kentucky operators, on the other hand, said the $3.84 rate was too high to permit continuation of operations in many places.

"Forty thousand people will be in Kentucky breadlines this winter if they make us pay that scale," Richardson said.

Appalachian producers told Johnson by letter yesterday the code was so objectionable as a whole that there was little use detailing specific objections.

Johnson "Played for a Sucker."

Previously, Frank T. Taplin of Cleveland, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Co. and another signer of the general code, came out of Johnson's office saying he had told the Administrator that he (Johnson) had been "played for a sucker," by the Appalachian operators.

Taplin said Johnson was far too patient with the operators in working for an agreement on a code, and that the Appalachian group was "stalling" so they could mine coal during peak season at wages lower than they would pay under a code.

Shoe Men for "Merit" Clause.

A fresh conflict, reminiscent of the automobile code deadlock, was in prospect with shoe manufacturers, who planned to insist on the merit labor clause in their code, despite an earlier declaration by Johnson it would be excluded from future trade agreements.

The merit clause provides that workers may be employed, promoted, discharged or retained regardless of union affiliations. C. C. Williams, a deputy administrator, who will open hearings on the shoe code Tuesday, said manufacturers would be asked to withdraw it, but employers asserted privately the request would be declined.

INDIAN GOING WITH BYRD

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—When Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd sails from Boston Sept. 25 on his second expedition into the Antarctic a full-blooded Indian will be included in his party.

The Indian, who may be first of his race to see the South Pole, is William P. Winneshiek, the last chieftain of the Winnebago tribe of Iowa, whose name was recommended by Columbia University. A graduate of Carlisle Indian School, Lebanon Valley College and Penn State, Chief Winneshiek is a lecturer, a chemist, and metallurgist, a boy scout official, the author of two books on scouting and an accomplished musician. He spent the summer playing in an Indian band on a local amusement pier.

INQUIRY SOUGHT INTO P. S. CO. FUNDS IN BANKS LAST APRIL

Four Creditors Want Boatman's National to Produce Books Showing Street Car Deposits.

An inquiry as to funds of the Public Service Co. on deposit in banks at the time the company went into receivership last April was sought yesterday by four Julgment creditors who have filed motions to intervene in the receivership case.

The creditors asked the Federal Court for subpenas duces tecum to require Boatmen's National Bank to produce its books at a hearing Monday on their motion to intervene. They asserted the company had on hand, in addition to the amounts seized by banks to apply against loans, substantial deposits which could have been used to pay creditors. Subpenas also were sought for L. C. Bryan, cashier of the bank, and Henry W. Kiel, receiver for the company.

As has been told, the company's deposits in the First National Bank, the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co., and the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., were applied against the company's notes due those banks. These deposits included money saved up to pay the company's 1932 property tax bill of $657,080. Deposits in the Boatmen's National Bank were not affected. The four creditors are Clarence Elkins, Elizabeth Freeman, Ruben Peterson and Ida Thompson.

Unveiling at Scene of Massacre.

By the Associated Press.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 9. — The 153rd anniversary of the Sugar Loaf massacre was observed today with the unveiling of a granite shaft at the scene of the ambush of the Continental army company of Capt. Daniel Klader in 1780, near Conyngham, five miles northwest of Hazleton. The memorial was erected where Tories and Indians, led by Roland Montour, Seneca chief, leaped from the forests as the soldiers stacked their arms and sat down to eat. Capt. Klader and 14 of his men were scalped and killed.

LUTHER'S 450TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

Divine Services, Historical Pageant and Sacred Concert at Wittenberg, Germany.

WITTENBERG, Germany, Sept. 9.—The celebration of the 450th anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther, leader of the Reformation, began in this gaily-decorated town today with divine services, a historical play and a sacred concert.

Many leaders of protestantism attended, including Dr. Erling Eidem, Lutheran Archbishop of Sweden. In the market place scenes of Luther's time were re-enacted.

Bishop Ludwig Mueller, head of the Evangelical Church as re-organized by the Nazi government will preach a memorial sermon tomorrow in the Schlosskirche, which was Luther's church. The festival will continue until Wednesday.

President von Hindenburg sent a message expressing hope that the reaffirmation of the christian spirit would make for unity in the Evangelical Church.

LUTHER'S 450TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

Divine Services, Historical Pageant and Sacred Concert at Wittenberg, Germany.

WITTENBERG, Germany, Sept. 9.—The celebration of the 450th anniversary of the birth of Martin Luther, leader of the Reformation, began in this gaily-decorated town today with divine services, a historical play and a sacred concert.

Many leaders of protestantism attended, including Dr. Erling Eidem, Lutheran Archbishop of Sweden. In the market place scenes of Luther's time were re-enacted.

Bishop Ludwig Mueller, head of the Evangelical Church as re-organized by the Nazi government will preach a memorial sermon tomorrow in the Schlosskirche, which was Luther's church. The festival will continue until Wednesday.

President von Hindenburg sent a message expressing hope that the reaffirmation of the christian spirit would make for unity in the Evangelical Church.

DENIES PROPOSING TO WOMAN, WENT WITH HER 14 YEARS

G. A. Zollmann in $50,000 Breach of Promise Suit Admits Giving Her Checks and Presents.

Although he knew her for more than 18 years, during which he presented her with many presents and for a while with a regular monthly check, George A. Zollmann, 46-year-old produce merchant, denies he ever intended to marry Miss Venita Schanbacher, whose $50,000 breach of promise suit against him is pending.

Zollmann's statement was made in a deposition taken recently before Special Commissioner Shepard Maginn. Miss Schanbacher alleges Zollmann made a proposal of marriage in 1922 which he never kept.

Zollmann, one of the owners of the Zollmann and H. M. Smith Produce Co., residing at 4521 Holly avenue, testified he had presented Miss Schanbacher with a ring and bracelets and with "money from time to time," and that he called her by endearing terms. Their friendship terminated in 1929, he said, over a misunderstanding and he said he had not seen her since then. But he identified as his a $50 check to Miss Schanbacher dated April 15, 1932.

Only Said "Merry Christmas."

Patrick H. Cullen, attorney for Miss Schanbacher, showed Zollmann the ring and asked when he had given it to Miss Schanbacher. Zollmann said about nine years ago at Christmas and that "Merry Christmas" was all he said when he made the presentation.

Asked if he loved her, he replied: "I don't know that I was just in love with her. You understand, I like lots of people."

"But you called here sweetheart?" "I was always in the habit of calling affectionate names around, my home or anywhere. Yes, I must have called her sweetheart."

"Well, do you call all the women in St. Louis sweetheart?" "Those I may go out with I may call sweetheart, may call them honey, may call them dear, something like that."

"You are not a man given to flirtatious relations with women, you are rather a sensible man, aren't you?"

Here Zollmann's attorney, Harry E. Haskins, interrupted: "Well, I thing that calls for an opinion and modesty might forbid it."

Can't Afford Marriage.

"You never intended to marry her?" Cullen continued. "No, I never did expect to marry her and she knew that too."

"What did you mean by going with her as long as the courtship of Jacob and Rachel, 14 years?" "I enjoyed her company."

"Are you opposed to marriage, yourself?" "Yes, I can't afford to get married, that is why."

Zollman admitted he had taken Miss Schanbacher to the movies and the theater and to his own and her church. Asked if she ever suggested marriage he answered, "Yes, I think she did ask and I told her no." Cullen then asked if Miss Schanbacher didn't reply with "I don't think that is treating me right," but Zollmann said he could not recall.

Zollmann admitted he knew that Miss Schanbacher quit her secretarial job during their friendship but denied he had persuaded her to do it.

Miss Schanbacher resides at 5858 Romaine place. Zollmann said that he lived with a sister at the Holly street address. Cullen asked him if anyone else lived with them and he said, "Yes, there is a young lady. We treat her as a member of the family."

Calls Him Daddy.

"She lives there without charge?" "Yes, that is right."

"Does she call you by any pet name? Does she call you 'daddy'?" "Yes, she calls me daddy at times. My friends call me daddy."

"And you call her honey?" "I call her honey, yes. As far as that goes I called her honey when she was a little girl, two years old, when she came into the home."

"How big a colony of young ladies have you that you call honey?" "I don't know."

FRANCE TO EXPORT WHEAT

Ministry Hopes to Sell 7,240,000 Bushels of Big Crop Abroad.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The second consecutive bumper French wheat crop was officially estimated today by the Ministry of Agriculture at 341,000,000 bushels.

This leaves an expected surplus of 39,000,000 bushels, of which the ministry hopes to export 7,240,000 bushels.

"Billy" Sunday With Injured Son.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—William A. (Billy) Sunday, evangelist, arrived here today to be with his son, George M. Sunday, who is in a hospital with severe injuries after a 75-foot plunge from the window of his apartment Thursday night. The evangelist canceled a revival meeting in Portland, Ore. Physicians said George Sunday would recover. His wife, the former Mauryne Reichard of Hollywood, said he had suffered a nervous breakdown recently and that his fall occurred after a violent scene in their apartment.

LEAD COMPANY PERMITTED TO WITHDRAW BANKRUPTCY

U. S. Judge Davis Consents to Action When 19 Wage Creditors Consent to Dismissal.

Permission to withdraw a bankruptcy petition filed in December, 1931, for the Ozark Lead Mining Co., was granted yesterday by Federal Judge Davis after 19 creditors with wage claims totaling $3000 withdrew objections to the dismissal of bankruptcy proceedings.

Under the court order the trustee in bankruptcy was instructed to turn assets over to the company. When leave to withdraw suit was asked last May, M. C. Rhodes, president of the company, said he had arranged for new financing, which would permit the lead mining properties at Annapolis, Mo., to be operated as a going business. Previously Rhodes had testified that $2,500,000 had been invested in the mines since 1922 with no return to investors.

PEEPING TOMS AND NUDISTS

ALLEGAN, Mich., Sept. 9.—Asserting their nudist colony in a wooded glen near here could have been discovered only "by peeping Toms," trespassing on private property or using binoculars, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Ring demanded examinations on arraignment in Justice Court today on charges of indecent exposure. Examinations were set for Sept. 21.

The charges originally were made against the Rings and 20 other men and women, mostly married couples, but on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Welborne S. Luna all the warrants were dismissed and new ones issued naming only Ring and his wife. The nudist colony had been in operation from March 1, until it was raided a few days ago.

SAYS POLICE LET VICE RUN WILD IN KANSAS CITY

Grand Jury Declares Slot Machines Pay Millions to Racketeers Who Probably Buy Protection.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—Charging the Kansas City Police Department with "permitting unmolested violations" of vice laws, the Jackson County grand jury in a final report of its investigation of racketeering here today delivered 13 secret indictments to Judge Allen C. Southern.

Racketeering in slot machines, beer and soda water existed in the city, the jurors declared in their written report, but stated that it was unable to collect sufficient evidence to justify further indictments due to lack of time. Its term ended today.

The jury estimated that there were more than 2000 slot machines in operation here Aug. 1, "producing a revenue of several million dollars annually, half of this revenue possibly going to a syndicate which probably used it for the purpose of buying protection, financing major crimes, and in employing defense for criminals who have been arrested."

Strictures on Police.

"Police officers," the report stated, "apparently have not received instructions, either direct or by inference, to confiscate slot machines, or to retard their operation, and the Police Department permitted such violations of the law to continue unmolested."

The report was made after the jury questioned more than 20 witnesses, including City Manager H. F. McElroy, Police Director E. G. Reppert, John Lazia, North Side political leader, and policemen.

The jury asserted that owners of slot machines were given five days to "salvage these gambling devices."

"When the city manager," the report states "was forced by public sentiment to realize that the slot machine should be eliminated, he made a statement to the press the devices would not be tolerated longer, but five days elapsed before the Director of Police issued an order to actually confiscate the machines."

The jury said gathering of evidence had been difficult as there was "marked hesitancy on the part of many witnesses, either through fear of physical harm or damage to their business or property, to testify as to the facts."

It recommended that the new term of criminal court, which convenes Monday, summon another grand jury to continue the investigation. It suggested that authority be given the new grand jury to employ its own investigators.

"For some reason the chief of police (Robert Phelan) for more than a year has been divested of virtually all his authority and rarely has been consulted on matters pertaining to his department," the jurors reported, "it strikes us as unusual that a police officer with the training and experience of Chief Phelan should be ignored."

Beer Racketeers.

The jury said it "believes from evidence submitted that the agents for several leading brands of beer sold in the city are either politicians or so-called "racketeers" who use their authority and power to coerce the small retailer into purchasing their products."

The report told of questioning police. After examining two members of the police raiding squad, the report stated, members "became so disgusted with their apparent lack of knowledge of gambling and vice conditions that it was thought a waste of time to question the others."

THOMAS REES, PUBLISHER, DIES

Owner of Illinois State Register for 53 Years.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 9. —One of the charter members of the Associated Press, Thomas Rees, publisher of the Illinois State Register at Springfield, died today at the age of 83.

Mr. Reese had been publisher of a daily newspaper for 57 years, 53 of which were spent with the State Register. In 1881, Mr. Rees and two associates purchased the State Register after having sold a newspaper they had published at Keokuk, Ia. In 1902 Mr. Rees was elected State Senator from the Springfield district. While serving in that capacity he introduced and obtained passage of the State's first hard road law. A world traveler, Mr. Rees wrote several books on foreign countries.

PERFORMERS FOR WELCOME INN RODEO TO ARRIVE SHORTLY

17 Present and Former Champions Are Among Entrants at Arena Beginning Saturday.

Performers in the Second Annual World Series Rodeo for the benefit of Welcome Inn, which opens Saturday at the Arena, are expected to arrive in St. Louis the middle of this week to prepare for their events. Seventeen champions and former champions, the management announces, are among the entrants. There will be nine evening performances and five matinees, at the first of which, next Saturdy, orphans of the city will be guests.

A new champion cowgirl must emerge from the competition since Tad Lucas of Fort Worth, Tex., last year's winner, has a broken arm and is not entered. Her title will be sought by Lucyle Roberts, Velda Tindell, Florence Randolph, Rene Shelton and Betty Meyers, several of whom are now competing in Chicago. An added attraction will be the trick shooting demonstration by Arlayne Brown, 17-year-old St. Louis girl who has demonstrated her uncanny accuracy in the use of pistols and rifles.

Music for all performances will be supplied by the Musicians' Post Band of the American Legion, which won first place in a recent competition among Legion bands in Jefferson City.

EVAPORATED MILK PACT IS SIGNED BY WALLACE

Marketing Agreement Including Plants in 25 States Goes Into Effect Immediately.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A marketing agreement for the National Evaporated Milk Industry went into effect tonight after receiving the signature of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Previously it had been signed by a majority of manufacturers who operate 161 evaporating plants in 25 states and who utilize 3½ per cent of the total fluid milk production in the nation.

The agreement, the Department of Agriculture said, "was advanced as a voluntary measure to stabilize prices, practices and conditions in buying raw material and distribution of evaporated milk."

It provides for the appointment of a manufacturers' governing committee to select a managing agent for the industry with the approval of Wallace. Producers of milk for the plants also are entitled to name as a committee eight persons chosen by the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation and by associations, not members of the Federation, who sell to evaporated milk plants. The producers' committee will confer with the manufacturers' committee regarding any changes in the minimum buying price schedule that may be contemplated.

Members of the manufacturers' committee were named as follows: W. T. Nardin, St. Louis, chairman; E. G. Annell, Dundee, Ill.; H. M. Clark, Manitowoc, Wis.; U. M. Dickey, Seattle; P. G. Kinzer, Milwaukee; E. G. McDowell, Chicago; R. B. Pate, Merrill, Wis., and Walter Page, New York City.

Enforcement of the agreement was placed in the hands of the manufacturers' committee with the understanding that no license will be imposed at the outset. Wallace said he signed the agreement with the understanding that prices paid to farmers will increase gradually and that consumers' interests will be protected from unfair increases in price.

A safe at the Garavelli Buffet, 3606 Olive street, was broken open early yesterday by burglars who took $804. Entrance to the building was made through a back window.

Two safes, one belonging to the Carpenters' Union and one to the Barbers' Union, were broken open by burglars who entered the Carpenters' Building, 1411 North Grand boulevard. The thieves were unable to open the inner doors of either safe and obtained only a revolver, which was in the office of the Barbers' Union.

Hearing a noise in the bathroom at his home, 3100 Laclede avenue, Oscar Schatz discovered a young man, whom he captured. The youth said he was a parole violator from New Bedford, Mass., and was attempting to get enough money to return home. He had pulled several window bars apart with a clothes line and said he had a Negro passerby push him through the opening.

George Zesis, restaurant proprietor at 514 North Vandeventer avenue, two men and two women customers were held up by a pair of armed robbers. Zesis was robbed of $69.40 and Miss Lucille Pilsins, 3940 Westminster place, of 50 cents, which the robbers took out of her purse.

VOLUNTEERS ARE SOUGHT TO COLLECT CLOTHING FOR NEEDY

Citizens' Committee Bureau Staff Has Been Busy With Other Duties.

Volunteer workers to aid in assembling stocks of clothing for distribution this fall and winter among needy families are sought by the Citizens' Committee Clothing Bureau, 815 North Broadway.

Mrs. Irvin Bettman, director, said demands on the bureau had continued heavy through the spring and summer when its staff ordinarily would have been engaged in collecting garments for winter distribution. The work of the volunteers will be largely soliciting contributions of discarded clothing from individuals and organizations.

Since the first of the year, Mrs. Bettman said, the bureau has distributed 464,647 garments among 157,273 individuals. The clothing is given out on requisition issued by the relief agencies of Citizens' Committee.

REJECTS PETITIONS TO VOID MISSOURI STATE LIFE SALE

Petitions of objecting policyholders to set aside the sale of assets of the insolvent Missouri State Life Insurance Co. to the General American Life Insurance Co., were overruled yesterday by Circuit Judge Hamilton.

Judge Hamilton approved the sale Thursday after a three-day hearing. He said the objectors should have filed their intervening pleas before the decree of sale was approved, and that it is now too late. Objectors holding $36,000 insurance were represented by Ephrim Caplan, and one holding $17,000 insurance was represented by former Circuit Judge Frey and Karol Korngold.

Attorney Caplan said he would appeal. Three other attorneys who appeared at the hearing in opposition to the sale have given notice of appeal.

156 RESTRICTED BANKS IN STATE GET NOTICE

Finance Commissioner Tentatively Sets Oct. 15 as Deadline for Reorganization.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9.—O. H. Moberly, Missouri Finance Commissioner, today tentatively set Oct. 15 as the final date which the 156 State banks which have been restricted since the banking holiday last March may continue operating unless they have reorganized on a sound basis.

The Commissioner pointed out that a number of the restricted banks have indicated they are making progress toward resuming operations on a normal basis. The banks were requested to advise whether they would have assets of a character that will meet the requirements of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which will become effective Jan. 1, 1934.

The two most important conditions which the bankers must consider in determining whether their banks would be reorganized soundly were listed by Moberly as follows:

First, whether the bank has a sufficient volume of business to justify the capital investment required by the banking act of 1933 and sufficient earnings to cover expense of able management and reasonable dividends to stockholders after setting up reserves for future losses.

Second, whether the facilities of the bank are needed in the community, or if another bank can satisfactorily serve the people it may be that the bank will be refused insurance of deposits by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and, in that event, the bankers' efforts would be directed toward a consolidation.

Moberly pointed out that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will aid banks in creating a new capital structure through the purchase of preferred stock, and suggested that they take advantage of such assistance for two reasons, which he said were his own personal opinions.

These were: First, that the R. F. C. is in partnership with the bankers, and such loans will lend confidence to the banks; and second, that the R. F. C. having this investment in the stock will have some bearing upon the bank being approved for insurance of deposits by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

DYERS AND CLOTH PRINTERS STRIKE CALLED IN NEW YORK

4000 Workers Affected; Similar Order at Paterson, N. J., With 7000 Involved.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The dyers and Cloth Printers' Union tonight called a strike affecting about 4000 workers. The walkout was ordered for Monday morning.

The strike, called by the Bleachers, Dyers, Finishers and Printers' Local of the American Textile Workers of America, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, followed on a report from Paterson, N. J., that 7000 workers there had also scheduled a walkout for Monday.

Both strikes, union officials said, were ordered to force action on an NRA code for the industry and to obtain a uniform wage scale. Last week about 8000 affiliated garment workers in New Jersey struck for similar reasons. Union leaders said the effect of the new strikes will mean a complete tie-up in the garment printing and dyeing industry in New Jersey and the New York City area.

THREE SUSPENDED FOR DRINKING

Inquiry to Be Made of Chief and Springfield, Mo., Detectives.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 9.—Al R. Sampey, chief of city detectives, and two of his men were suspended by Police Chief Paul Frey today pending a "thorough investigation" of affidavits by other officers, who said they interrupted a drinking party in Sampey's car between here and Kansas City recently.

The affidavits against Sampey and two other detectives were made by Tom L. Harris, Federal prohibition agent, and two Springfield policemen. These three said they were on their way to Kansas City to the trial of W. O. McDonald, former Federal narcotic agent, when they overhauled Sampey's machine, observed drinking in it, and confiscated a bottle of moonshine whiskey. Sampey contends the bottle, which has been turned over to the prohibition department at Kansas City, contained prescription whiskey.

YOUNG CUBAN HELD ON LINER

Chosen by Lot to Kill Machado Agent, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—A youthful member of the Cuban A B C who said he had been chosen by lot to kill an agent of former President Machado was detained aboard the liner Morro Castle today on its arrival from Havana.

The youth, who gave the name of Alfonso Casas, was arrested as a stowaway two days after the ship sailed and after he had found his quarry was not aboard. He was confined in quarters when the Morro Castle sailed for Havana late today. "We heard that Lugao, 'The Butcher,' was fleeing to New York aboard the Morro," Casas explained in Spanish. "A group of us met and drew lots from a paper bag. I was chosen. It was the happiest moment of my life."

GETS YEAR AND A DAY FOR EXTORTION ATTEMPT

S. W. Healy, Maunie, Ill., Trapped by Dummy Package, Pleads Guilty.

Seward W. Healy, unemployed dairy farm worker of Maunie, Ill., was sentenced to a year and a day in the industrial reformatory at Chillicothe, O., by Federal Judge Wham in East St. Louis yesterday for using the mails to extort, a violation of the Cochran anti-kidnaping act. Healy pleaded guilty.

Healy wrote letters threatening Frank Garner and Roy Chippinger of Carmi, Ill., with bodily harm unless they paid him $600. They put a dummy package in the stump he had designated and trapped him.

Madeline Pierson, 24 years old, of Queen Shoals, W. Va., who rode with a friend in a stolen car to Benton, Ill., where they were arrested, was sentenced to 90 days in jail for violation of the Dyer act.

George Dillon and his wife, Ruth, of Galax, Va., pleaded guilty of violating the Mann act. Dillon, who is 30 years old, was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. Mrs. Dillon, 24, was sentenced to one hour in custody of the United States Marshal.

Claude Grissom of Cairo, was sentenced to a year in prison on his plea of guilty of violating the Mann act. Otis Owens of Taylorville pleaded guilty of counterfeiting and was sentenced to five months in jail.

MAN KILLED, WOMAN SHOT AT TEXAS BEACH RESORT

Long-Time Friend of Victim Arrested for Questioning; Shooting Heard by Neighbors.

By the Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Sept. 9.—Hubert B. Oxford, 48 years old, Beaumont lumberman, was shot to death late today at Caplen, a beach resort, and Mrs. Seawillow Keith, 50, widow of a widely known former Beaumont druggist, was wounded critically. Billy Walker, soft drink manufacturer, was arrested for questioning.

Investigators said they learned Mrs. Keith and her two grandchildren went to Walker's beach cottage today, followed half an hour later by Oxford. Within a few minutes, shooting was heard by neighbors.

Oxford was found dead beside his motor car, parked just outside the cottage. Mrs. Keith lay inside the house with a bullet wound in the head.

Associates said the two men had been close friends for 20 years, hunting together and being associated in various business enterprises. Oxford's wife and family are in Beaumont. Walker's wife and daughter are visiting with relatives in Georgia.

REPUBLICAN LEADER ASSAILS ROOSEVELT'S 'BRAIN TRUST'

C. W. Carroll of Pennsylvania Calls Members "Academic Nuts With Half-Baked Theories."

By the Associated Press.

WATERFORD, Pa., Sept. 9.—Charles W. Carroll of Philadelphia, State chairman of young Republicans, tonight severely attacked President Roosevelt's "brain trust" before a party rally in Lake Leboeuf Park.

"The ship of State now is facing a dead-end highway, piloted by academic nuts with impractical, half-baked theories leading nowhere," Carrol asserted. "We'll have to return to an intersection and start all over again toward reaching the straight, open highway the nation has followed through history."

Mortimer E. Graham, County Chairman of the Senior Republican Committee, continued the attack on the administration, alleging it is "abrogating contracts and violating many constitution privileges."

"I'm with the President in this emergency, but when the crisis passes, it is up to the Republican party to reassert itself as a majority and return the nation to a constitutional basis on which it founded," Graham said.

FORD MAKING NO MOVE TO RETURN TO DETROIT

Manufacturer Remains Indoors at Vacation Cabin in Huron Mountains.

By the Associated Press.

BIG BAY, Mich., Sept. 9.—Henry Ford again remained indoors today at his vacation cabin in the Huron Mountain section, and there was no indication that he planned to leave today or even tomorrow on his return to Detroit.

H. E. Perkins, manager of the Huron Mountain Club, said Ford was arranging for some minor repairs to his cabin. He indicated that as far as he knew the motor manufacturer might be planning to remain here several days.

In Detroit it was understood Ford planned to be back some time Monday.

65 in Hospital Ill from Food.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—Sixty-five persons, including internes, nurses and 10 patients, were ill at Bell Memorial Hospital here today, apparently from tainted food eaten at the evening meal yesterday. After an investigation, Dr. H. R. Wohl, hospital superintendent, said he believed the illness resulted from tainted fish or salad dressing. It is not ptomaine poisoning, he said, but a minor ailment. None of those stricken were in a serious condition, he said.

4 MORE STATES WILL VOTE THIS WEEK ON REPEAL

Maine to Ballot Tomorrow, Selecting Delegates to "Deliberative" Convention.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 9.—Maine, pioneer prohibition State, which adopted its first dry law in 1851 and put prohibition into the State constitution in 1885, will vote Monday on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

With the most complicated scheme so far devised for a repeal election, Maine will select a convention of 80 delegates from slates of nominees in each of the 16 counties, undesignated as to their stand for or against repeal. This intricate procedure resulted from an advisory opinion of the State Supreme Judicial that the convention must be truly "deliberative" and that the election must possess none of the attributes of a referendum.

Both sides have met the ruling of the court for undesignated candidates by giving the widest possible publicity to the names of the candidates.

The Rev. Frederick W. Smith, superintendent of the dry Christian Civic League, said he believed "a majority sentiment of the State is with us."

Robinson Verrill, Portland attorney, associated with repeal organizations, said his forces were "certain of victory."

Gov. Louis J. Brann predicted that Maine would fall in line for repeal. "Maine will not be the first State to thwart the will of the American people."

An effort to repeal State prohibition in 1911 was narrowly defeated. The last session of the Legislature legalized the sale of beer.

Colorado Votes Tuesday; Drys Plan Last-Minute Rally.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 9.—Colorado votes on the twenty-first (repeal) amendment Tuesday.

"We are depending on the rural vote to offset expected majorities in Denver, Trinidad and Pueblo," said R. D. Dexheimer, superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League.

Edward Nicholson, head of the Colorado Repeal League, predicted the State would ratify the repeal proposal by more than 50,000 votes.

The Colorado Anti-Saloon League, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Women's League for Political Action plan a mass meeting in the Greek Theater of the Denver Civic Center Monday night. F. Scott McBride, national head of the Anti-Saloon League, is to speak.

Democratic leaders are depending on party loyalty to redeem the Democratic platform pledge to strike the eighteenth amendment from the Constitution.

Maryland Also Votes Tuesday; Ritchfie Predicts Dry Defeat.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 9.—Maryland is approaching its vote on prohibition Tuesday with a minimum of excitement. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, known the nation over as against prohibition, says the people have made up their minds and that repeal will win by an "overwhelming majority."

Anti-Saloon League Superintendent George W. Crabbe declares, on the other hand, that the dry vote will "surprise the press and public generally."

Minnesota Drys Call Volstead to Aid; Vote Tuesday.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 9.—A vote of some 700,000 Tuesday is expected to determine whether Minnesota will join the parade of states.

In 1918, only 300,000 persons voted in the general election when prohibition was submitted as a state issue, and was defeated for lacking a majority of the number of ballots cast.

Repealists have expressed utmost confidence in the outcome of Tuesday's election, while the dry factions, reluctant to hazard a guess as to the outcome, have said they were hopeful, adding that they expected a victory if there was a heavy vote.

They have called Andrew J. Volstead, former legal adviser of this prohibition district, from his Granite Falls, Minn., law office to aid them. Gov. Floyd B. Olson, while not publicly urging the voters to cast their ballots one way or the other, has expressed belief the repealists would win.

Naturalized American May Be Saint

PORTRAIT of the late MOTHER FRANCES XAVIER CABRINI, who died in 1917, on whose life and miracles hearings are being held in the Columbus Hospital, Chicago, as the first step toward having her declared a saint. The investigation and rituals will require years for completion, and the matter will finally be placed before the Pope. If she is canonized, she will be the first American citizen to become a saint. Although born in Italy, she was naturalized in the United States.

TO FORM SPANISH CABINET

MADRID, Sept. 9.—President Niceto Alcala Zamora today called on Alejandro Lerroux, leader of the conservative Republicans and former Foreign Minister, to form a new cabinet.

Lerroux accepted, and set about the task of replacing the fallen government of Premier Manuel Azana. He told the President he would sacrifice his belief that Congress should be dissolved immediately, because "I believe it is in the best interests of the country." President Alcala Zamora had held to the view that Congress should not be dissolved until pending legislation was terminated. He also had insisted on formation of a Republican coalition cabinet without inclusion of Socialists.

FOUR GET LIFE TERMS FOR KIDNAP MURDER

45 to 90 Year Concurrent Sentences for Abduction of Robbery Victim.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Sept. 9.—Sentences of life imprisonment, to run concurrently with sentences of from 45 to 90 years, were imposed today on four men who Thursday night kidnaped and killed Joseph Nesbitt, automobile truck service manager.

The sentences were given Robert Frazer, who confessed he shot Nesbitt; Charles Whitsitt and his brother Douglas, and Robert Buffa.

At Detroit earlier in the day the four had each been sentenced to 45 to 90 years imprisonment for the kidnaping which occurred in adjoining Wayne County (Detroit). Nesbitt was slain in Macomb County.

Before he died, Nesbitt, formerly of Warren, Ohio, told police he had been shot as he stood with upraised hands offering no resistance to a holdup. Frazer, in his confession, said he shot Nesibtt because "he was in the way."

Redman Lodge Officer Killed.

KEWANEE, Ill., Sept. 9.—Henry Holmstrom, 50 years old, State secretary or "Gatherer of Straws" of the Redman Lodge, was struck and killed last night by an automobile driven by John Drummond of Kewanee.

10,000 Acres in Arizona Flooded.

By the Associated Press.

GILBERT, Ariz., Sept. 9.—Swollen streams, filled by hard rains in the Superstition Mountains, broke down retaining walls in the Roosevelt Conservation District and flooded Gilbert and 10,000 acres of the surrounding valley today. Farm crops and stocks in Gilbert stores were damaged. Gilbert's main street was under two feet of water at the height of the flood.

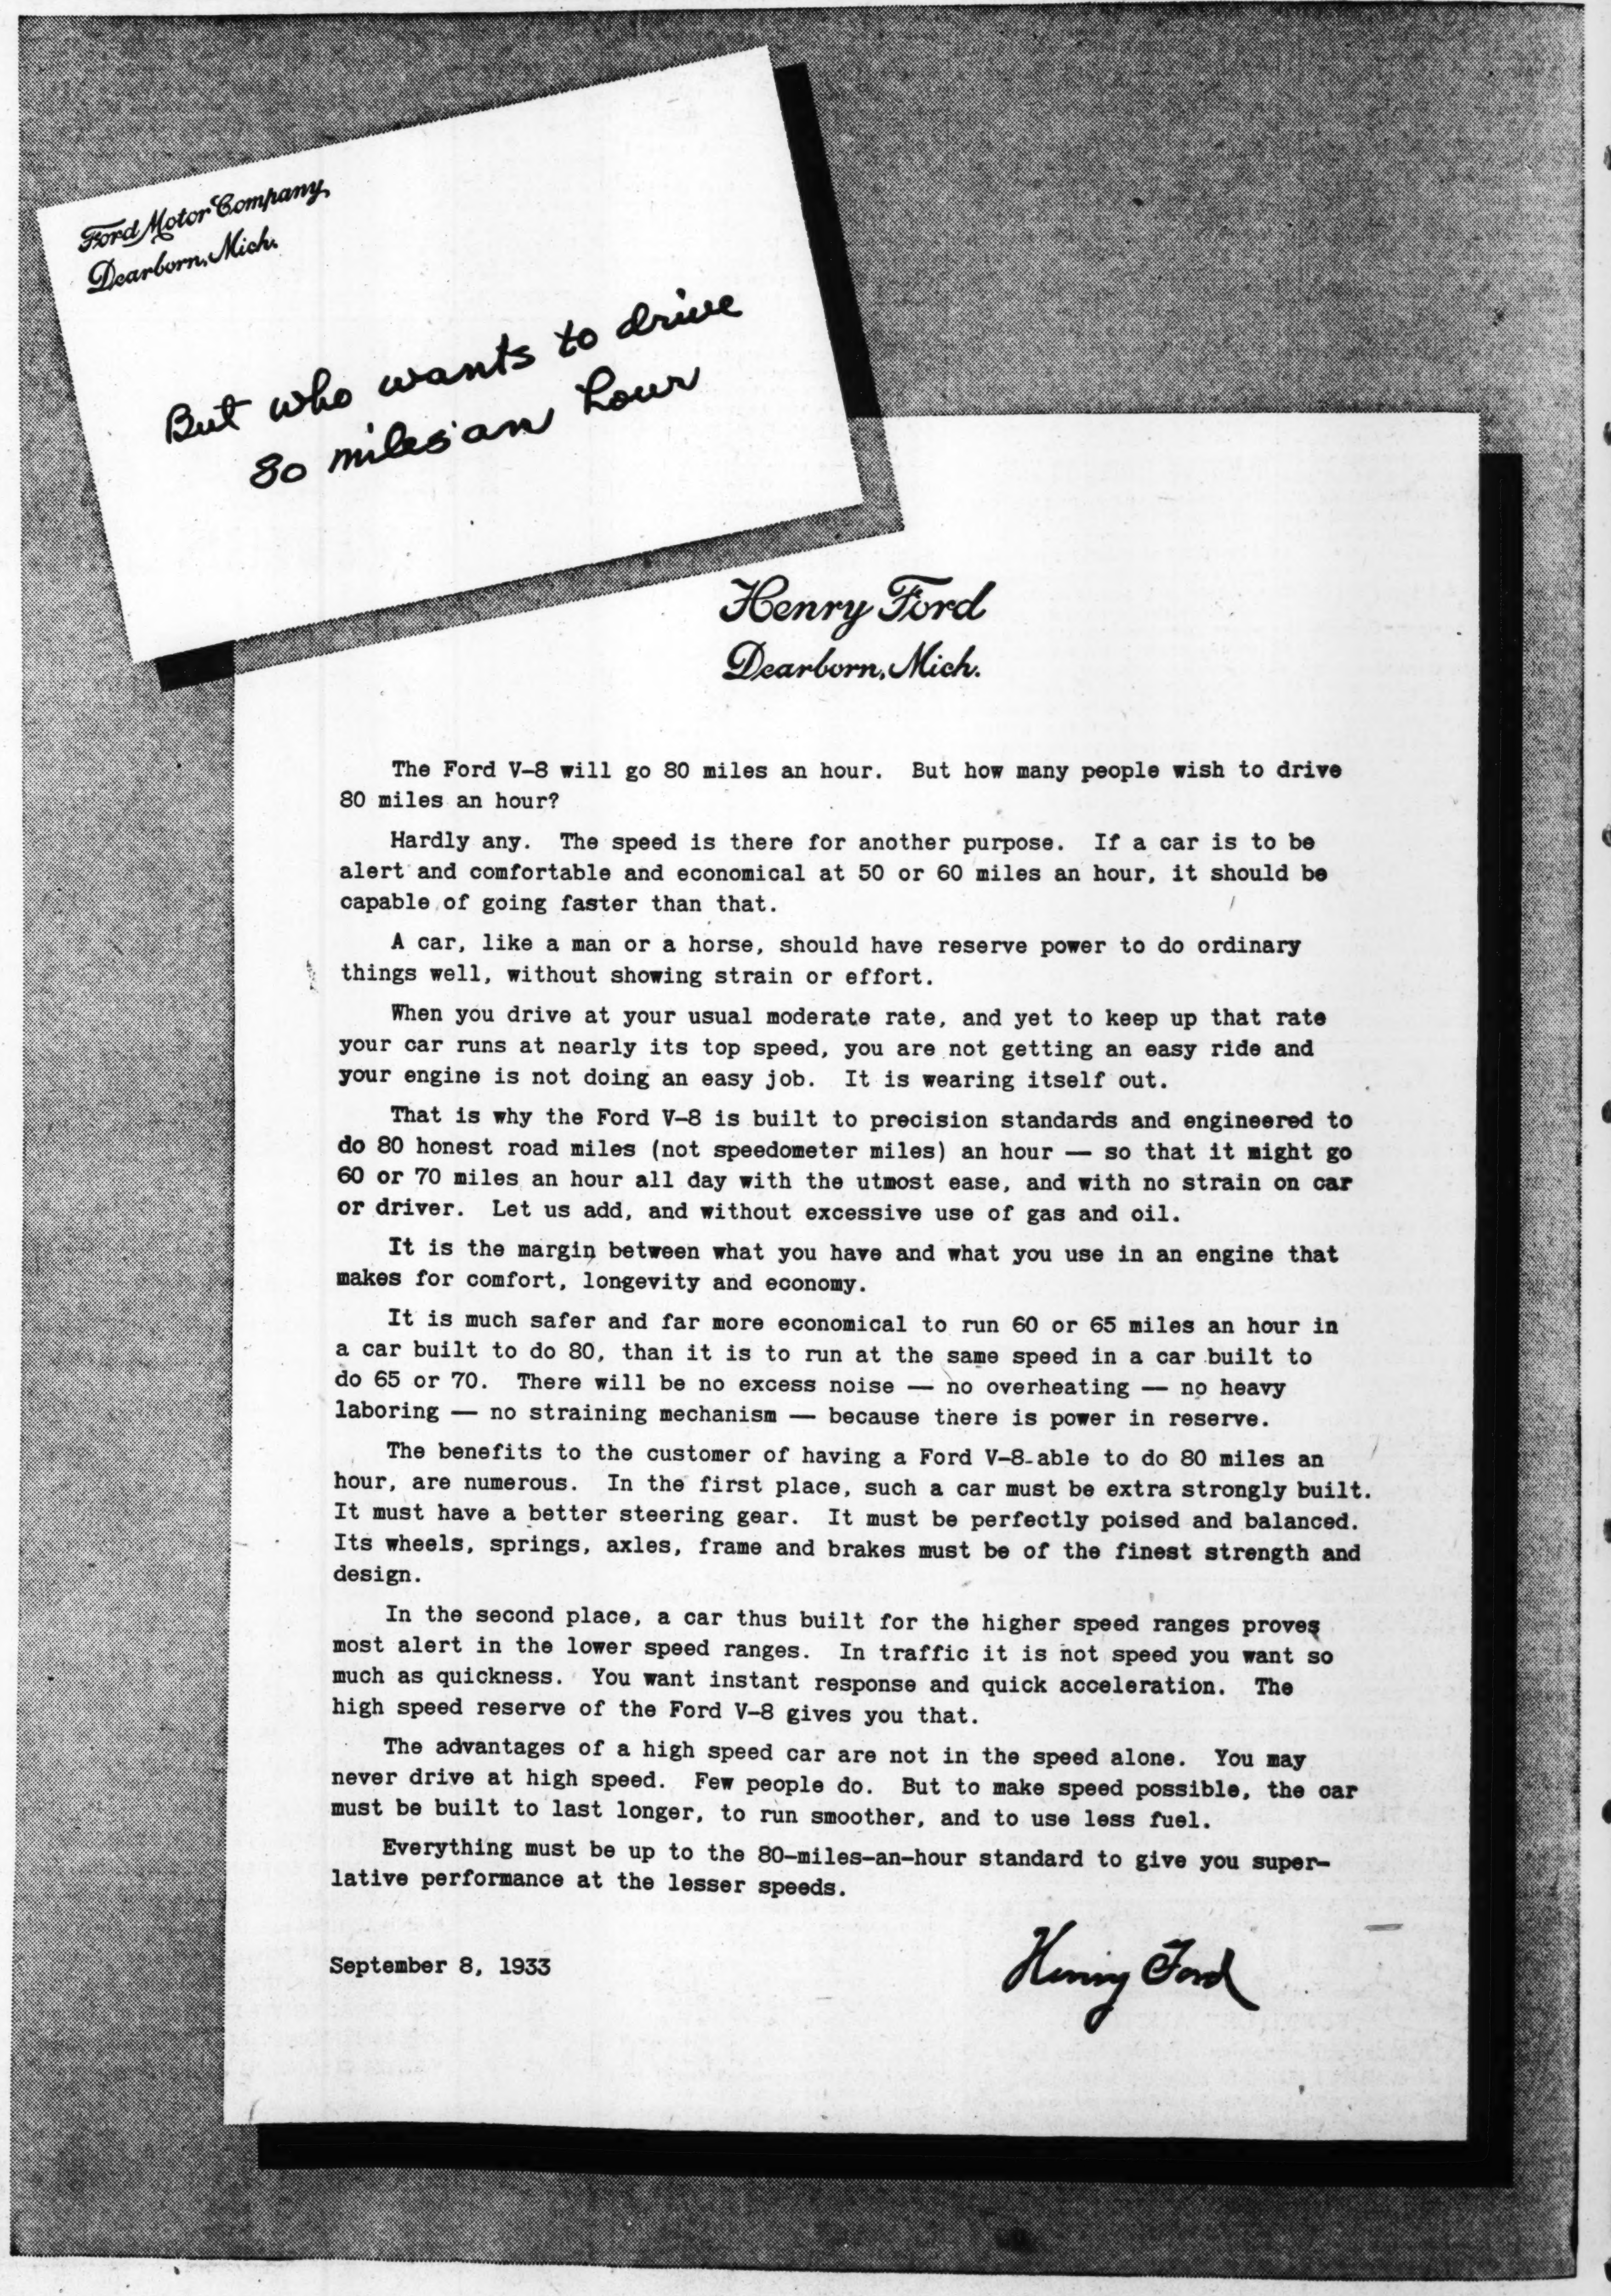
HOTEL SHORELAND
55TH STREET AT THE LAKE



Ford Motor Company,
Dearborn, Mich.
But who wants to drive 80 miles an hour

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

The Ford V-8 will go 80 miles an hour. But how many people wish to drive 80 miles an hour?

Hardly any. The speed is there for another purpose. If a car is to be alert and comfortable and economical at 50 or 60 miles an hour, it should be capable of going faster than that.

A car, like a man or a horse, should have reserve power to do ordinary things well, without showing strain or effort.

When you drive at your usual moderate rate, and yet to keep up that rate your car runs at nearly its top speed, you are not getting an easy ride and your engine is not doing an easy job. It is wearing itself out.

That is why the Ford V-8 is built to precision standards and engineered to do 80 honest road miles (not speedometer miles) an hour — so that it might go 60 or 70 miles an hour all day with the utmost ease, and with no strain on car or driver. Let us add, and without excessive use of gas and oil.

It is the margin between what you have and what you use in an engine that makes for comfort, longevity and economy.

It is much safer and far more economical to run 60 or 65 miles an hour in a car built to do 80, than it is to run at the same speed in a car built to do 65 or 70. There will be no excess noise — no overheating — no heavy laboring — no straining mechanism — because there is power in reserve.

The benefits to the customer of having a Ford V-8 able to do 80 miles an hour, are numerous. In the first place, such a car must be extra strongly built. It must have a better steering gear. It must be perfectly poised and balanced. Its wheels, springs, axles, frame and brakes must be of the finest strength and design.

In the second place, a car thus built for the higher speed ranges proves most alert in the lower speed ranges. In traffic it is not speed you want so much as quickness. You want instant response and quick acceleration. The high speed reserve of the Ford V-8 gives you that.

The advantages of a high speed car are not in the speed alone. You may never drive at high speed. Few people do. But to make speed possible, the car must be built to last longer, to run smoother, and to use less fuel.

Everything must be up to the 80-miles-an-hour standard to give you superlative performance at the lesser speeds.

GOV. PARK URGED TO HURRY PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—The necessity of immediate action by the State of Missouri, if the State and its municipalities are to obtain full benefits of the $3,300,000,000 Federal Public Works program, was urged upon Gov. Park this afternoon by members and representatives of the State Advisory Board of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works.

The Governor was informed that the present delay by the State and its municipalities in submitting public works plans for Federal allotments might result in exhaustion of the Federal funds before Missouri received its fair proportion.

Action was urged toward early preparation of a definite program of public works for the State and its municipalities, steps toward financing the State's part of it, and elimination of legal obstacles which now appear to present many municipalities from taking advantage of the Federal funds.

Those at Conference.

The conference with the Governor was participated in by former Gov. Henry S. Caufield of St. Louis, a member of the advisory board; Col. Hugh Miller, engineer in Missouri for the Federal program, and S. T. Rathell, associated with Col. Miller.

The board representatives told the Governor that so far only 14 public works plans had been submitted to the board for Missouri, in the manner required under Federal regulations, although more than $450,000,000 in such projects were suggested to a Public Works Committee appointed by the Governor at the time the Federal public works legislation was being considered by Congress. It was suggested that many of the municipalities apparently were under the impression the reporting of their proposals to the Governor's commitee was sufficient, and had made no move to obtain the required approval of the State Advisory Board, appointed by President Roosevelt.

Preparation of a program by the Governor's committee, for submission to the State Advisory Committee, was suggested.

The board representatives suggested that if the Governor calls a special session of the Legislature, that the call include provision for financing the State's share of suggested State public works, either through a bond issue or other means of financing. Under the Federal program, the Federal Government will make an outright grant of 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials, on approved projects, and the remainder must be financed locally.

20 Million for Institutions.

Former Gov. Caulfield said it had been estimated that probably $20,000,000 would be required for relief of overcrowding in the penal institutions, relief of overcrowding in the eleemosynasry institutions fireproofing of existing buildings, and additional buildings for the University of Missouri.

Caulfield said he favored a state bond issue, if it was necessary to get the improvements, and no other method of financing them was found.

Miller said the state should take advantage of the opportunity to get Federal funds, before the funds were exhausted.

Question of Method.

Gov. Park told the board representatives he was willing to co-operate as far as possible. He has not decided when he will call the Legislature in special session, but it

GOV. PARK URGED TO HURRY PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—The necessity of immediate action by the State of Missouri, if the State and its municipalities are to obtain full benefits of the $3,300,000,000 Federal Public Works program, was urged upon Gov. Park this afternoon by members and representatives of the State Advisory Board of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works.

The Governor was informed that the present delay by the State and its municipalities in submitting public works plans for Federal allotments might result in exhaustion of the Federal funds before Missouri received its fair proportion.

Action was urged toward early preparation of a definite program of public works for the State and its municipalities, steps toward financing the State's part of it, and elimination of legal obstacles which now appear to present many municipalities from taking advantage of the Federal funds.

Those at Conference.

The conference with the Governor was participated in by former Gov. Henry S. Caufield of St. Louis, a member of the advisory board; Col. Hugh Miller, engineer in Missouri for the Federal program, and S. T. Rathell, associated with Col. Miller.

The board representatives told the Governor that so far only 14 public works plans had been submitted to the board for Missouri, in the manner required under Federal regulations, although more than $450,000,000 in such projects were suggested to a Public Works Committee appointed by the Governor at the time the Federal public works legislation was being considered by Congress. It was suggested that many of the municipalities apparently were under the impression the reporting of their proposals to the Governor's commitee was sufficient, and had made no move to obtain the required approval of the State Advisory Board, appointed by President Roosevelt.

Preparation of a program by the Governor's committee, for submission to the State Advisory Committee, was suggested.

The board representatives suggested that if the Governor calls a special session of the Legislature, that the call include provision for financing the State's share of suggested State public works, either through a bond issue or other means of financing. Under the Federal program, the Federal Government will make an outright grant of 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials, on approved projects, and the remainder must be financed locally.

20 Million for Institutions.

Former Gov. Caulfield said it had been estimated that probably $20,000,000 would be required for relief of overcrowding in the penal institutions, relief of overcrowding in the eleemosynasry institutions fireproofing of existing buildings, and additional buildings for the University of Missouri.

Caulfield said he favored a state bond issue, if it was necessary to get the improvements, and no other method of financing them was found.

Miller said the state should take advantage of the opportunity to get Federal funds, before the funds were exhausted.

Question of Method.

Gov. Park told the board representatives he was willing to co-operate as far as possible. He has not decided when he will call the Legislature in special session, but it is understood the date probably will be early in October.

"We are agreed in principle," the Governor said after the conference. "The only question is as to the best method of raising the money for the State's share.

"If the Legislature is called in special session and submitted a bond issue, and the people failed to approve it in an election, the resulting situation and delay would be embarrassing.

"We understand each other and are in perfect accord on the needs of the State. I hope that every municipality which has in mind any public work will immediately take up the project directly with the advisory board."

The board representatives pointed out that legislative action, and possibly constitutional amendments would be necessary to enable of some of the Missouri municipalities to take full advantage of the Federal public works funds. The Governor has been considering inclusion of this subject if he calls a special session.

Limitation by Law.

The State Constitution definitely limits the debt that may be incurred by political subdivisions of the State. Cities of less than 75,000 population and counties, school districts and other political subdivisions by approval of two-thirds of the voters in an election on the proposal may incur an indebtedness not exceeding in the aggregate, and including existing debt, 5 per cent of the assessed valuation of property for taxation, within the political subdivision.

Cities of less than 30,000 population may by two-thirds vote, incur an additional debt, up to an additional 10 per cent of the assessed valuation, for certain municipal public utility purposes.

Cities of more than 75,000 population may by two-thirds vote incur a debt up to 10 per cent of the assessed valuation, for general purposes, and in addition by four-sevenths vote may issue public utility bonds, amounting to not more than 20 per cent of the assessed valuation, for municipal public utility purposes. The principal and interest for such utility bonds is payable out of the earnings of the utility for which the bonds were issued.

GIRL DISCLOSES MURDER AFTER BEING WHIPPED

Causes Arrest of Stepfather and Another Man Who Confess Killing Near Crossville, Tenn.

By the Associated Press.

CROSSVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 9.—Because her stepfather whipped her, Mrs. Otto Warner, 19 years old, accused him and another man of murder and led officers to a grave where they found the skeleton of James Copeland, 19, of Canton, O. W. H. Wilder, her stepfather, 52 years old, and William Burgess, 30, who keeps a lunchroom at Castle Ford, Idaho, were arrested charged with shooting Copeland to death, June 9, 1928, and then burying his body in a cornfield at Winesap, an isolated community in the Cumberland Mountains, 15 miles from Crossville.

Sheriff Baxter Swicegood said both Wilder and Burgess had confessed, but each asserted the other did the shooting.

"Mrs. Warner was 14 at the time and forgot exactly where Copeland's body had been buried," Swicegood said.

The Sheriff said two .32 caliber bullets were found below the chest of the skeleton, also a pearl belt buckle with the initial "C."

Wilder was arrested at his home near here. Burgess, who left Tennessee a few months after Copeland disappeared, was found at Castle Ford, Idaho, near Twin Falls. He waived extradition and returned.

Grover M. Deck, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, said James Copeland, son of John Copeland, an insurance man, came to Tennessee in October, 1927, driving an automobile for Wilder. July 9, 1928, he said, Wilder, Copeland and Burgess engaged in a quarrel, Copeland threatening to tell the authorities the other two were making liquor unless Wilder paid him money he owed him. Copeland then was shot to death.

Wilder's wife also is in jail in lieu of $3000 bond, charged with abetting the murder.

EX-CONGRESSMAN, DRY, HELD FOR DRIVING WHEN INTOXICATED

Former Representative J. E. Nelson of Maine Voted Against Repeal Amendment.

By the Associated Press.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Sept. 9.—Former U. S. Representative John E. Nelson of Augusta was arrested here today for driving an automobile when under the influence of liquor.

Nelson, an advocate of national prohibition during his service in Congress, was taken to the police station by two special patrolmen and placed under arrest by Chief of Police William B. Edwards. He was released without posting formal bail on the assurance of two prominent Brunswick citizens that he would appear in court Tuesday morning for his arraignment.

Nelson's arrest followed reports to police headquarters that a machine was being driven erratically along a road leading into town.

Nelson, a Republican, lost his seat to Representative Edward C. Moran Jr., in the Democratic overturn in Maine last September. One of the last votes he cast before leaving Congress was in opposition to the Blaine resolution submitting repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Mollisons to Fly to Near East.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The flying Mollisons on a return flight across the Atlantic will head toward the little kingdom of Iraq. Capt. James Mollison sailed for Canada today, confirming reports that he and his wife, Amy Johnson, would fly to the Near East.

WOMAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF INTIMIDATING WITNESS

Norma Vaughn, 92A St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, who was arrested in the Luer kidnaping case and was said by authorities for a time to be the woman participant in the kidnaping, pleaded not guilty yesterday of intimidating a government witness. The date of her trial was not set.

She is accused of having intimidated Pearl Loge, who lived with her at the St. Clair avenue address, in the Luer case. The authorities have announced that Norma Vaughn did not participate in the kidnaping and have named another woman, who is a fugitive.

Insurance Moratorium Lifted.

LINCOLN, NEB., Sept. 9.—The Nebraska insurance moratorium was lifted today by order of Gov. C. W. Bryan. In force since last March, the moratorium has prevented Nebraska companies and foreign concerns operating in this State from making policy loans or paying cash values of policies except in limited amounts. Gov. Bryan said insurance companies had requested the action, and their financial condition warranted rescinding of the regulations.

FORMER FIGHT PROMOTER SEES ACTION IN COAL STRIKE

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 9.—William F. Carey, former president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, today was in the thick of action exceeding that of the years when he was premier fight promoter.

Stones, hurled by picketing miners, clanged against the automobile in the trouble zone of a stripping operation of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co..

One struck him a glancing blow on the shoulder but he escaped unhurt. The windshield and glass of the machine, driven by William E. Conroy, were broken and the car battered.

State policemen convoying the Carey-Conroy car arrested John Geshan and Michael Smulgan. The men were subsequently released with a reprimand after Carey declined to prosecute them.

The picketing of several hundred miners has prevented two contractors from operating at Jackson. Carey is vice-president of one of the contracting companies.

The miners, who have stopped the work for nearly a week, contend the stripping operation will prevent employment of miners in underground workings.

Removal of the soil by steam shovels would lay bare a vein of coal two miles long and 500 yards wide. The jobless miners say it would mean that there would be no demand for their services for years.

Why drive with HOT FEET?

YOU know that pocket of hot air that centers around the clutch and brake pedals when you drive? Sure, everybody does.

All right, you don't have to suffer hot feet there any longer. Fisher No Draft Ventilation fixes that.

It draws in fresh cool air to displace the stale heated air and gently vacuums out that ovenlike temperature even on scorching days.

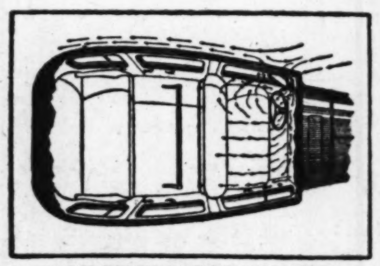
It does this without wind-in-the-face or drafts-on-the-neck of the person beside you or behind you, because Fisher Ventilation is individually controlled.

It does a lot of other things, too—like bringing you unblown and undisheveled to the party, keeping interior of windshield and windows unfogged in cold or rain, giving the back-seat riders a break for once in their lives in draftless comfort.

That's probably why people using No Draft Ventilation say we ought to point out that it takes this newest Fisher feature to make a car really modern.

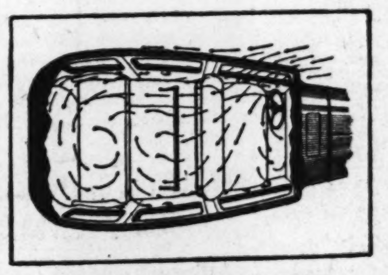
We're proud of it, of course, just as we're proud of all the numerous other features that make folks call the Fisher Body the strongest, safest, smartest body.

It's easy for you to try out Fisher No Draft Ventilation for yourself at any Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, La Salle or Cadillac dealer's—and remember only General Motors cars have Bodies by Fisher.



ALL FISHER BODIES HAVE NO DRAFT VENTILATION

At any speed in any weather it changes the air in the car without drafts. Draws out smoke and stale air. Prevents dangerous interior fogging of windows or windshield. Each passenger regulates ventilation to suit himself.



OTHER BODIES DO NOT

—which means that the speed of the car sends air currents whipping in the windows—whirling against the back of the neck—increasing the hazard of colds—making one person's comfort another's discomfort—without giving real ventilation.

AFTER-LABOR DAY MARKETS DULL, TREND WAVERING

Commodities, With Exception of Sugars, Wool Tops and Bar Silver, Which Improve Moderately, Are Generally Soggy.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Financial markets had little appetite for a resumption of the advance during the week and stocks and staples finished on a wavering trend.

Both bad news and good news of sufficient importance to motivate price movements to any real show of activity was lacking and dullness was usually the questionable feature of the proceedings in all categories. Large operators in equities and grains maintained a "watchful waiting" policy and the public, as a whole, refused to participate.

With the resumption of trading on Saturday, following six protracted week-ends, transaction on the Stock Exchange in shares dropped to the lowest in more than a year while total bond sales were the smallest since August, 1931.

The Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 90 selected stocks finished the week with a net loss of 1.4 points, and that for 60 bonds was also 1.4 points lower. Stock transfers for the five trading days totaled only 5,700,440 shares, against the relatively dull aggregate in the previous week of 9,773,199. Bond sales for the week amounted to $37,451,000, par value, compared with $44,744,000 in the previous period.

Commodities, with the exception of sugar, wool tops and bar silver, which improved moderately, were generally soggy. Cotton dropped more than $2 a bale and the Government's crop report on Friday, although about in line with private forecasts, did not aid the demand. Wheat sagged 2½ to 2¾ cents a bushel, corn receded 1¾ to 2⅞ cents and rye was off 4⅞ to 5⅜ cents a bushel.

What Statistics Show.

Just what effect applications of the numerous codes in the administration's national recovery program would have on the profits of business and industry was a matter of divergent opinion. Proponents of currency inflation, while not as sure of their position as in previous weeks, still were watching Washington for indications that the President would utilize some of his wide discretionary powers for monetary expansion.

In line with dollar depreciation ideas, the inflationists had little to cheer them in the movements of American currency in foreign exchange markets. The dollar gained some 2 cents on the British pound sterling and was up substantially against the French franc and other European gold funds.

So far as credit expansion was concerned, the Federal Reserve System increased its weekly open market purchases of Government obligations from $35,000,000 to $37,500,000. Little attention, however, was attracted by this relatively small increase.

Only 279,110 Shares Sell.

As markets went back on their regular Saturday schedule today, traders were so unenthused that volume in stocks dropped to the lowest level in more than a year, while bond turnover was the smallest since the summer of 1931.

Stocks merely loafed through their two hours and price fluctuations were hardly worth mentioning, extreme moves of a point being scarce. The closing composite of 90 issues was unchanged and the total turnover came to but 279,110 shares, the lightest weekend since July 9 last year.

A break in gold currencies attracted more attention than the highly uninteresting behavior of security markets. Little actual business in exchange was done here, but at London trading was active and a strong demand appeared for sterling from the continent. French speculators were said in one quarter to be covering their pound position. Sterling, however, lost a couple of cents in its relation to dollars. London's gold price dropped and there was a corresponding reduction in the American Treasury's quotation.

The weekend brought some rather cheerful trade news. Freight loadings in the week ended Sept. 2 rose to a new 1933 high at 666,652 cars, up around 34,000 from the previous week, due partly to increased shipments of coal which were stimulated by first of the month price increases. Rail stocks tended toward firmness as the market closed, although their changes were small. Union Pacific got back part of Friday's loss.

U. S. Steel's backlog dropped 129,681 tons in August, but this decrease was somewhat under the lower range of advance estimates which had mentioned 150,000 to 200,000 tons as the possible extent of the shrinkage. New business began to taper off around the middle of last month as consumers' needs slackened. Considerable interest attaches to fourth quarter steel prices; some manufacturers are announcing increases on certain products.

Motor Car Output.

Motor car output held up well last month. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimates August volume at 171,145 units, a rise of 213 per cent over August, 1932, and comparing with 177,080 for July this year. It was noted that production for first eight months of 1933, amounting to 1,153,402 cars and trucks, was 18 per cent larger than the entire production for the year 1932, which aggregated 977,134 units. The seasonal decline from July, 3.4 per cent, was much smaller than occurred in any corresponding period since 1929. Figures do not include Ford.

On the stock exchange, a few leaders managed to poke a bit higher. General Motors, American Telephone, Standard Oil of California, Southern Pacific, American Commercial Alcohol and National Biscuit had gains of approximately half a point. U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, General Electric, New York Central and Chrysler closed unchanged or nearly so. Owens-Illinois Glass was up a point and Public Service of New Jersey was down 1.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The dollar, in terms of the French gold franc, closed today with an approximate value of 71.14 cents compared with 70.25 cents yesterday and 73.68 cents a month ago. Bar gold at London was quoted at 129 shillings 2½ pence per ounce, the American equivalent being $29.23.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The gold currencies declined in relation to paper currencies in today's foreign exchange markets. The movement started in London with a sudden reversal of the recent flow of funds out of London to the gold standard countries, and in New York the dollar advanced even more than sterling. At the close, sterling at $4.52 was off 2 cents in terms of dollars, French francs at 5.51 cents off .07 of a cent, and Dutch guilders at 56.81 cents, off .79 of a cent.

AUGUST AUTO PRODUCTION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—August automobile production by members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which includes all important manufacturers except Ford, totaled 171,145 cars and trucks compared with 177,080 in July and only 54,066 in August, 1932.

Output for the first eight months of this year aggregated 1,153,402 units against 793,655 in the comparable period of last year. For all of 1932 production came to 977,134 cars and trucks.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

BERLIN, Sept. 9. — Continued selling pressure in dye trust shares and other sections caused weakness on the Boerse today. Despite some isolated fractional recoveries, the market closed mostly lower.

London and Paris closed.

FREIGHT LOADINGS FOR WEEK BEST OF YEAR

Total 666,692 Cars, Increase of 34,654 Over Preceding Week.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The American Railway Association today reported carloadings for the week ending September 2 totaled 666,652 cars, the highest for any week this year and an increase of 34,654 over the preceding week.

The total also was a gain of 105,327 cars above the corresponding week last year.

All commodities showed increases over the preceding week except livestock and forest products.

Loadings by groups follow: Miscellaneous freight, 230,396, increase of 14,309 over the preceding week and an increase of 33,782 over the same week of 1932; less than carload freight merchandise, 171,832, increase of 3325 and decrease of 2513; grain and grain products, 32,407, increase 3730 and decrease, 8079; forest products, 25,456, decrease 1188, and increase 9032; ore, 40,245, increase 2879 and increase 34,256; coal, 140,365, increase 10,741 and increase 34,936; coke, 7365, increase 997, and increase 3925; livestock, 18,586, decrease 139, and decrease, 12.

UNFILLED U. S. STEEL ORDERS DECREASE 129,681 TONS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 129,681 tons in August to a total of 1,890,444 tons at the end of the month. In July the backlog was down 86,546 tons.

A decline of 150,000 to around 200,000 tons for last month had been the general forecast of Wall street, which based its calculations on the assumption that new business had fallen off, especially toward the end of August when preparations for code operation caused considerable slackening.

In August, 1932, the corporation's backlog registered a gain of 3293 tons, standing at 1,969,595 tons on Aug. 31.

COTTON RULES LOWER IN WEEK-END TRADING

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Cotton was lower today under Southern selling and liquidation influenced by absence of demand combined with weakness in foreign exchange and the action of the wheat market. December contracts sold off to 8.86c or 17 points net lower and within 20 points of the low price touched on the mid-August decline. That delivery closed at 8.89. The general list lost 13 to 19 points.

There was some early buying on the steady Liverpool cables but the moderate demand was quickly supplied and prices eased later under Southern hedging and liquidation which was believed to be partly for old long account. Houses with Liverpool and Far Eastern connections bought at the opening but the continent was credited with selling here later in the morning. There was also some selling believed to be for Bombay account. Active months sold 14 to 17 points net lower in the late trading, with December to 8.86c showing a decline of 48 points from yesterday's high and of 113 points from the top price touched on the advance of Aug. 26. Closing quotations were within one to three points of the lowest.

Reports from Washington that a cotton production control plan for 1934 and 1935 had been approved and that its outlines were expected to be announced soon attracted some comment, but were evidently without particular effect on the immediate market. There was covering and trade buying on a scale down. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 100,488 bales against 101,296 last year. Spot quiet; middling, 8.85c.

Liverpool Spot Lower.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 9.—Cotton — Receipts, 4000 bales; American, nil. DOMESTIC CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION IN JULY

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — Domestic crude petroleum production for July was reported by the Commerce Department today as totaling 84,387,000 barrels, a daily average of 2,722,000, which is 40,000 barrels less than the June average, but 583,000 greater than the average for July, 1932.

The department said the main reason for the decline was that "the tank car movement from the East Texas field practically ceased and the daily average output of the field declined to 622,000 barrels, or nearly 200,000 barrels below the daily average of the previous month."

"Practically all of the other major producing areas showed increased output in July; for example, the daily average output at Oklahoma City was 270,000 barrels, a new high mark, and settled districts like Seminole, West Texas and the Panhandle showed increase.

"Daily average production in the coastal fields of Texas rose to 195,000 barrels, a new all time peak, as new field like Tomball, Greta and Livingston came into substantial productian and as production at Barber's Hill continued to increase."

Refinery consumption increased to 2,565,000 barrels daily, the report showed, the highest point in nearly two years. Stocks of refinable crude oil continued to increase, totaling 350,894,000 barrels on July 31, as compared with 348,197,000 barrels on hand the first of July.

Daily average motor fuel production reached a new high for the year, 1,201,000 barrels. The indicated domestic demand for motor fuel totaled 34,458,000 barrels, a daily average of 1,112,000. This is an increase of 11 per cent over a year ago but 12 per cent less than the average for June, 1933.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The New York Mercantile Exchange has signed under the NRA. A code, it was announced, will be submitted to other exchanges handling butter and eggs throughout the country.

August sales of H. C. Bohack Co. for the five weeks ended Sept. 2 totaled $2,757,200, a decrease of 6.7 per cent from the same period of 1932.

Commodity Exchange, Inc., will close at noon next Wednesday, thus joining other markets which will observe New York State's NRA half holiday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Favorable dividend changes in the past week totaled 17, well above the average of recent weeks, while unfavorable changes, numbering two, were the smallest for any week of the past five years, says Standard Statistics Co. In the week ended Sept. 1 there were 15 favorable and eight unfavorable revisions.

Movement of American cotton into sight this week was 259,000 bales, against 272,000 last year. Forwardings to mills of the world aggregated 215,000 bales, as compared with 238,000, while exports of 152,000 bales compared with 153,000 last season.

Interstate Department Stores reports August sales volume at $1,394,011, an increase of 21.4 per cent over a year ago. The figures do not include groceries and leased departments. July sales were 3.4 per cent under the same month of 1932.

The New York Stock Exchange reported that, as of Sept. 1, there were 1555 listed bond issues, having a total market value of $35,218,429,936. On Aug. 1 there were 1546 listed issues with an aggregate market value of $34,457,822,282.

BUSINESS INDICATOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Statistics appearing during the past week indicated a mixed business tendency, according to Moody's index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output.

These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is, if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

WHEAT MARKET DECLINES ON ARGENTINE RAIN

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 9.—Rain in Argentina carried wheat prices lower on domestic markets as did fact that Liverpool failed to respond to our rise of Friday. The drouth relief in the southern country, though limited to one province, was chief factor in week-end trade. Locally wheat closed 2½c lower and at bottom for day.

Report of rain in one province in Argentine was followed by lower drift in U. S. wheat markets. Drouth in Argentine has been stressed by the bulls.

Winnipeg closed unchanged.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅛ to ¼d lower after opening unchanged to ¼c higher.

December wheat opened at 86¼, down 1⅜c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 54,000 bushels, compared with holiday last week and 70,000 last year, included 32 cars local and 4 through. Corn receipts, which were 37,500 bushels, compared with holiday last week and 35,000 last year, included 22 cars local and 3 through. Oats receipts, which were 30,000 bushels, compared with holiday last week and 8800 last year, included 14 cars local and 1 through. Hay receipts were 2 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was 2c lower. Hard wheat declined 1½@2c. Demand for soft wheat was slow. Nothing was done until a late hour, when an order buyer paid 84½c for a couple cars No. 2, this sale showing a discount under futures. Hard and mixed wheat was slow. Mills, which were the only buyers, wanted choice qualities. Corn was ½@1½c lower. Receipts were light and the demand was slow. Industries were the principal buyers. Oats were steady to ½c higher. Demand was slow, with mills and shippers the purchasers.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange Saturday were as follows: No. 1 red winter wheat, 84c; No. 3 red garlicky wheat, 84c; No. 1 mixed wheat, 83½c; No. 2 mixed wheat, 83½c. No. 2 yellow corn, 47c; No. 2 white corn, 50c. No. 1 white oats, 36½c; red oats, 35½@36c.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Cash wheat-feed quotations were: Standard bran $14.50@15, pure $15.25@15.50. Mixed feed $18 and gray shorts $20@20.50. Oat-feed $8 and white hominy $19@20 per ton; (l. c. l. generally $1@1.50 per ton higher.)

RAIN BREAKS ARGENTINE DROUTH, WHEAT DOWN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Rains that broke six months' drouth in Argentina took the heart out of speculative buyers today, and prices tumbled down right and left.

Rallies lacked vigor, and the close for wheat was shaky at the day's bottom level.

A further drag on values was that attempts to hoist the Winnipeg wheat market to above artificial fixed minimum quotations were futile for at least the time being.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, despite prospects that the Government crop report Monday would show a smaller yield both of corn and oats than indicated a month ago. Rural selling of corn to arrive was enlarged.

Wheat closed shaky at the day's bottom level, 1¾@2⅛c under yesterday's finish, corn 1⅛@½c down, oats ⅜@¾c off, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

The rains were chiefly in Pampas Province. Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces, where drouth has been worst, were still dry.

Breaking of drouth in Argentina, even though relief failed to extend to areas that needed downpours, overshadowed all other market factors. Wheat was offered down without many takers until fully 2 cents a bushel loss had been witnessed. Contributing to wheat weakness was the fact that the Liverpool market today had completely ignored yesterday's sharp upturn in prices here.

Report current that Pacific Coast wheat was competing in Southwestern States, including Kansas, Texas and Louisiana. One firm was cited as having taken five cargos through the Panama Canal to Texas mills. Kansas purchases were stated to be all rail shipments from interior Pacific Coast areas.

ZINC ORE PRICES DOWN TO $1 A TON AT JOPLIN

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Sept. 9.—For the third consecutive week, zinc ore prices declined in the Joplin district when a base price of $31 a ton was paid today. It was $1 under a week ago. Lead remained firm, however, bringing $50 to $55 a ton.

Continued decline in the slab zinc quotation on the East St. Louis market was declared largely responsible for lower zinc prices here.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Renewed buying of lead following a short lapse of quietness was the outstanding feature in the nonferrous metal markets this week. The earlier demand was said to have supplied consumers' needs for the first half of September, but the fresh buying wave which developed in the latter half of the week extended into October. Battery manufacturers were the outstanding buyers, owing to continued activity of the automobile trade, but miscellaneous users also took considerable quantities, and the demand exceeded daily smelter intake. Prices, however, remained unchanged.

The copper trade was still marking time, while custom smelters and producers continued efforts to iron out differences which checked final adoption of the recovery code for this industry. In the meantime, business was on a very limited basis at the unchanged price of 9 cents for electrolytic in the Connecticut Valley.

Tin declined under moderate pressure of resale offerings, but the lower levels toward the close attracted buying by consumers and importers. A favorable view of August statistics and continued domestic tin plate mill activity had little apparent influence.

Zinc prices sagged further under light offerings which found buyers indifferent. Favorable August statistics failed to stimulate buying interest. The figures revealed a further reduction in stocks as shipments exceeded output. The trade was expecting another downward adjustment of ore prices.

Antimony displayed a barely steady tone as light offerings appeared at concessions in the face of poor demand. Some sellers, however, held steady.

Steel ingot production declined further as buyers remained cautious in placing new orders pending clarification of numerous details in steel prices, with activity variously estimated at from 40 to 45 per cent of capacity. With the exception of a scheduled advance in strips and annealed sheets next week, prices are expected to be unchanged for the last quarter. Pig iron shipments continue active, but some furnaces are being banked.

BONDS TRIFLE EASIER IN VERY DULL MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The bond market was almost at a standstill today in the resumption of Saturday trading and prices, as a whole, closed a trifle easier.

It was the dullest session since Aug. 8, 1931, sales totaling only $3,435,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues was off two-tenths of a point at 78.5.

While United States Government securities continued to move up moderately on a small turnover, other maturities displayed considerable hesitancy throughout and, while there were a few mild rallies, many loans were either fractionally lower or unchanged.

Some of the rails improved following announcement of the freight car loading figures for the week ended Sept. 2, which showed a more than seasonal gain exceeding 34,000. The news, however, created no unusual enthusiasm because the increase was about in line with expectation and was attributed principally to an advance in coal shipments. The drop in unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel Corporation of some 130,000 tons was much less than had been expected.

Alleghany Corporation 5s of 1944 advanced 4 points and gains of fractions to a point were recorded by some liens of Burlington, Santa Fe, Erie, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific. Among the losers of similar amounts were some bonds of Chicago & Northwestern, Denver & Rio Grande, Nickel Plate and M-K-T. Loans of International Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Kelly Springfield, and Wilson Co. were a bit heavy.

NEGLIGIBLE CHANGES AT END OF DULL CURB TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The resumption of Saturday trading on the Curb Exchange today resulted in a stagnant two-hour trading session, in which closing price changes were negligible. Several well known issues failed to trade at all.

Transaactions approximated only 71,000 shares, the smallest Saturday total since April 1. Sales on the previous Saturday session, July 22, amounted to 648,000 shares.

Utilities, oils and alcohols were steady.

Chrysler Exports Best Since 1929.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Chrysler Motors shipped more cars and trucks overseas in August than in any August since 1929, W. Ledyard Mitchell, chairman of the Chrysler Export Corporation, announced today. Exports of passenger cars last month were 268.7 per cent of the volume for August, 1932, while truck shipments were 537.6 per cent of a year ago. Combined shipments ran 299 per cent of August last year. Actual figures were not given.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—(U. S. Dept. of Agriculture)—The volume of business in wool during the past week was greater than had been expected in view of the heavy movment during the latter part of August. Advanced asking prices met some resistance from buyers, but a number of manufacturers and top-makers continued to accumulate sizable quantities of wool. The higher asking prices of late last week have been established by sales on most grades of territory wools.

NAVY DISTANCE FLYERS MAY SEEK NEW RECORD

3000-Mile Formation Flight From Panama to San Diego Contemplated.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Jubilant over the new record established yesterday by Navy air men in piloting six seaplanes on the longest non-stop mass formation flight, naval chiefs disclosed today that the ships were being prepared for the possibility of an even more ambitious jump—from the Canal Zone to San Diego, Cal.

It was said that should the United States decide to return the air visit of the squadron headed by Gen. Italo Balbo, Air Marshal of Italy, these planes almost certainly would be selected for the trip.

The six big twin patrol flying boats last night completed a dusk-to-dusk flight from Norfolk, Va., to Coco Solo, Canal Zone, a distance of 2059 miles.

"It proves conclusively that squadrons of airplanes can be moved long distances in the face of unusual conditions," Capt. A. W. Fitch, commanding the Norfolk air base, said.

The flyers, Capt. Fitch said, encountered almost every conceivable weather condition.

Messages Tell of Difficulties.

"Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock," he explained, "we received radio messages from the squadron stating that they were well past the Grand Cayman Island, in the Caribbean, and encountering head winds that registered a velocity of 50 knots.

"Messages received later reported the squadron as flying through areas of almost dead calm only to be followed again by news of strong head winds."

"This flight proves," Capt. Fitch continued, "that squadrons of planes may be dispatched from San Diego to Hawaii, make the flight in a single day, and be ready for action a short time after they land."

The jump exceeded the longest non-stop mass flight made by Balbo by more than 200 miles.

Should the flight from the Canal Zone to San Diego be made as a non-stop effort, the planes would cover a distance over the water of more than 3000 miles.

May Be Sent to Italy.

No time has been set for the flight, but it was indicated that the plane would arrive in time to take part in Pacific Fleet maneuvers.

One naval official said today that whether the jump was attempted as non-stop would depend on weather and other conditions. Should it prove feasible when the take-off is made, it was said, the effort would be made to set a new mass formation record.

Admiral William H. Standley, chief of operations, had no public comment on the possibilities of the new flight. Asked if the planes might be selected for a return visit of Balbo's ocean hop, he said that if orders came today for such a flight these planes would participate.

"Built for long range flying, these ships are as good as we have in the Navy today," Standley said. "Whether the same would be true tomorrow or next week, I do not know, since aviation seems to be advancing that rapidly."

President Roosevelt formally commended the naval flyers who made the record non-stop flight.

In a message addressed to Acting Secretary of the Navy H. R. Roosevelt, the President said the flight evidenced the efficiency of naval aviation and gave to the officers and men, led by Lieut. Com. Donald M. Carpenter, the record and honor of making the longest non-stop seaplane flight in formation in the history of aviation.

In addition to Carpenter, the flyers were: Lieut-Com. Herman E. Halland of Fargo, N. D., and Lieut. W. H. Buracker of Winchester, Mass.; H. R. Bowes, State College, Pa.; Robert W. Morse, Binghamton, N. Y.; H. W. Taylor, Newark; John L. Ewing, Boston; M. H. Kernodie, Graham, N. C.; J. L. Kane, Brooklyn; Yates Stribling, Baltimore, and Leonard J. Dow, Toledo.

PROPOSES AUTOMATIC RISE IN SILVER PRICE

Pittman Says Roosevelt Considers Exchange of Domestic Bullion for Minted Coins.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 9.—Senator Key Pittman of Nevada said today that President Roosevelt is considering a plan whereby the price of silver would be increased automatically to $1.19 an ounce.

If the plan finally is adopted, Pittman said it would result "in the biggest boom the west has seen in years."

The plan, Pittman explained, called for the President to issue an executive order directing United States mints to accept silver bullion from domestic producers and return minted coins to them, less about ten cents an ounce for minting charges.

This would net the producer $1.19 cents an ounce, compared to the present price of 36 5-8 cents.

Based on the 1932 production of 24,000,000 ounces of silver, Pittman estimated the producers would net about $30,000,000 annually, as each dollar contains about seventy-eight hundredths of an ounce of silver.

Pittman said he thought the question of the legality of the plan had been submitted to the Attorney General, but he didn't know yet whether he had given an opinion to the President.

The Senator said, however, that the United States mints had been coining bullion for Peru and other countries for many years and that he thought that under the law permitting such coinage it would also be possible for the mints to coin silver for domestic producers.

"It's an emergency measure that fits in with the President's Recovery Program," Senator Pittman asserted. "And it offers a way for the immediate stimulation of employment of miners in the western states without waiting for Congress to convene in January and consider silver legislation.

Elaborating on details of the plan, Pittman said that in order to stimulate employment only newly mined silver would be accepted by the mints, and regulations similar to those recently promulgated for handling gold bullion would be necessary.

GEORGE OVERBURY HART, ETCHER AND PAINTER, DIES

Native of Cairo, Ill., 65, Won First Important Recognition in New York in 1924.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—George Overbury Hart, world-famous painter and traveler, died today after a two-year illness. He was 65 years old.

Mr. Hart, an etcher and lithographer as well as a painter, was born in Cairo, Ill., in 1868. His father was a glue manufacturer, but young Hart preferred to sketch on the walls of the factory rather than attend to the glue pots. He left home.

He wandered about the world, painting as he went. First important recognition came for him in 1924 with an successful exhibition of his works in the downtown galleries. Later the Metropolitan and British Museums bought some of his paintings.

A brother, William C. Hart, survives.

Youth, 21, Kills Himself.

Harold Moise, 21 years old, fatally wounded himself last night in a field near his home, 367 Calvert avenue, Webster Groves. A revolver, with one discharged cartridge, was found beside him. He died while being taken to a hospital. He had been released recently from the State Hospital at Farmington.

CITY TO VOTE NOV. 21 ON NEGRO HOSPITAL

Proposal to Divert $1,500,000 of Bond Issue Funds to Be Submitted.

Ordinances calling a special election for Nov. 21 on the proposal to divert $1,500,000 of bond issue funds so that the new city hospital for Negroes may be completed were approved yesterday by the Board of Aldermen.

Submitted at the municipal election last April, the proposal fell short of the necessary two-thirds majority by less than 4000 votes out of 206,000 cast. Mayor Dickmann urged that it be resubmitted.

The proposal involves two propositions, one repealing the $1,500,000 in bonds voted in 1923 for construction of a northeast approach to the Municipal Bridge which is not now needed, the other authorizing the issuance of an equal amount of bonds for hospital purposes.

ATTENDANT ADMITS SELLING REVOLVER TO FOUR MADMEN

Break At New Jersey Asylum Frustrated When Wife of One Reports Plot.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 9.—An attendant in the criminal wing of the New Jersey State Hospital confessed today, police said, that he gave four madmen a revolver, ammunition and saw blades in exchange for $2. A chance remark of one of them frustrated their plot to shoot their way out of the hospital.

The attendant, Louis Haist, 35 years old, of Hamilton Township, said the maniacs had promised to mail him $1000 after they were safely away.

The break was to have been made tomorrow. The wife of one of the inmates, unidentified, was credited with preventing it when she reported to Oscar Heaps, superintendent of the criminal ward, that her husband had told her of the plan. The plotters were removed to the state prison and search of the criminal building disclosed a loaded revolver and 24 cartridges.

The inmates, three of whom were serving life terms for murder, were Tony Baccabora, 30 years old; George Malden, 38; Robert Tully, 35, and another who was unidentified by authorities.

STATUS OF CLAIMS AGAINST UNITED HOME BUILDERS

Those Allowed by Trustee in Bankruptcy May Be Paid in Three Months.

Inquiry by the Post-Dispatch into the status of claims of thousands of Missourians and Texans against the United Home Builders of America, a home financing institution that failed in 1923, disclosed yesterday that claims already allowed by the trustee in bankruptcy at Indianapolis will be paid in about three months, provided litigation now in the Supreme Court of the United States does not cause further delay.

The company, a housing trust, had assets of $2,340,000 when it went out of business following a bankruptcy proceeding against the Hawkins Mortgage Co. of Portland, Ind., which purchased control from William Sacks of St. Louis and W. M. Webb of Dallas, Tex.

The United Home Builders originally was a Texas concern. Sacks bought an interest in it and moved its offices to St. Louis, subsequently disposing of his interest to the Hawkins Co. The Hawkins bankruptcy resulted in criminal charges against Morton S. Hawkins, president, and a number of officers of his company. Hawkins and several others were convicted and sent to the penitentiary for using the mails to defraud through the sale of the company's stock.

The trustee in bankruptcy was ready to pay some of the proved United Home Builders' claims a year ago, but Hawkins, after being released from prison, made claims for his old company, the adjudication of which has held up payment of all claims pending a final decision by the Supreme Court.

PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT OFFICES TO BE UNITED IN TWO WEEKS

Missouri Labor Commissioner Announces Plan for Federal, State and City Agencies.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9. — Merger of the Federal, veterans' State and city-county public employment offices into one service will be completed within the next two weeks, Mrs. Mary Edna Cruzen, State Labor Commissioner, announced today.

The consolidation has been approved by the Federal Department of Labor and work is under way in the five sections of the State where it is planned to locate offices, Mrs. Cruzen said. St. Louis has contributed $36,000 for consolidation of the various employment services there, and Kansas City has promised a contribution. The Federal Government is giving $33,278 for the work.

Mrs. Cruzen said that the Federal money would be prorated to the various cities according to the amount of local contributions for consolidation of the various employment services.

Federal Grand Jury to Convene.

A new Federal grand jury will begin its work Sept. 25 on orders from Judge Faris. The September term of court begins tomorrow, and there are a number of persons in jail on Federal charges who have been unable to furnish bail.

LUER KIDNAPING TRIAL TO OPEN TOMORROW

Six Charged With Abduction of Alton Man; Large Venire Called.

Six defendants charged with kidnaping for ransom in the abduction in July of August Luer, wealthy Alton bank president and meat packer, are scheduled to go to trial before Circuit Judge Mudge at Edwardsville tomorrow.

Eighty veniremen have been summoned to appear tomorrow for examination for service on the jury, and an additional venire of 50 is to report Tuesday. Judge Mudge announced that no excuses from service will be considered since counsel are expected to examine the venires closely and every man summoned may be needed to complete the trial jury.

Judge Mudge also announced that spectators would be limited to the seating capacity of the courtroom, about 170. Corridors will be kept clear during the trial by Deputy Sheriffs.

State's Attorney Geers has announced he will ask the death penalty for the defendants, who are: Mrs. Lillian Chessen, 50 years old, of East Alton; Charles Chessen, 51, her husband; Randol E. Norvell, 33, Nameoki; Percy M. Fitzgerald, 39, St. Louis; Christ Nicola Gitcho, 56, Madison, and Mike Musiala, 38, Eagle Park.

QUEEN WILHELMINA'S RULE FOR 35 YEARS CELEBRATED

Demonstration at Stadium Where 10,000 Pass in Review; She Appeals to Holland's Youth.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Sept. 9.—Holland celebrated today the thirty-fifth anniversary of Queen Wilhelmina's accession to the throne.

The main event in the celebration was a national demonstration at the stadium, where 10,000 members of various associations marched past the royal family, Government officials and foreign diplomats. There were 35,000 spectators. Accompanied by the Prince Consort and Princess Juliana, the Queen smilingly witnessed the spectacle and appeared deeply impressed by the warmth of her reception.

In a short speech the Queen thanked the people for the devotion to her and to her house. Addressing the youth of the nation, she urged union in peaceful co-operation to overcome Holland's economic difficulties.

COLLECTOR REFUSES TAX BOOKS OF OVERLAND SEWER DISTRICT

County Official Advises Supervisors to Take Matter to Court as in Previous Case.

Collector Benson in St. Louis County refused yesterday to accept tax books which would increase by 80 per cent the levy in the Overland Sewer District, incorporated under the Ralph sewer law which was repealed by the 1931 Legislature.

Benson recently refused to accept books for an additional levy in the Lemay Ferry Sewer District. In both cases he advised the supervisors to take the matter to court. So far in the Overland district, 10 cents per 100 square feet, or $40,252, has been collected for surveying a sewer that is not to be built.

The supervisors want to assess an additional 8 cents, or $32,856, for "preliminary expenses for the year 1933."

MRS. AGATHA FABRICIUS DIES

She Was 91 and Had Lived in St. Louis Since She Was 12.

Mrs. Agatha Fabricius, widow of Henry Philip Fabricius, founder of the mercantile company bearing his name, died yesterday at her home, 3448 Magnolia avenue, of the infirmities of age. She was 91 years old.

A native of Germany, Mrs. Fabricius had lived in St. Louis since she was 12 years old. She and Mr. Fabricius were married when he was a First Lieutenant and in the Union army during the Civil War. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Augusta Van Aller, and two sons, Herman T. and Walter Fabricius.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at Wacker-Helderle mortua--, 3634 Gravois avenue, followed by cremation.

TEMPLAR CONCLAVE SEPT. 16

A feature of the conclave will be a parade Sunday afternoon from the downtown section of Belleville to the Belleville Township High School, where devotional services will be held. Business meetings will be held on the final day of the gathering.

New Naval Adviser At Geneva.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—President Roosevelt today designated Rear Admiral Richard H. Leigh as naval adviser to the American delegation to the General Disarmament Conference at Geneva, which will meet Oct. 16. Leigh, now chairman of the Navy General Board, will succeed Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, who has been made commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

DRIVE FOR FUNDS TO AID CHARITIES OF MGR. DEMPSEY

"Give and Help 'Father Tim' Carry On" Will Be Slogan of Workers Starting Campaign Tomorrow.

With the slogan "Give, and Help 'Father Tim' Carry On," a large committee representing various creeds will launch a movement tomorrow to raise funds for the support through the next year of the numerous charities conducted by Monsignor Timothy Dempsey.

Samuel W. Fordyce, attorney, is chairman of the committee sponsoring the appeal, and headquarters are at 1218 Olive street. The committee will have no solicitors to make a general canvass for donations, and therefore must depend upon voluntary contributions and the individual efforts of members of the committee.

"The way in which Father Dempsey's charities have helped meet the unemployment emergency, by providing food and shelter for thousands of men and women in destitute circumstances, merits an immediate and generous response on the part of the public, to insure the continuation of this relief work until the emergency is past," Fordyce said yesterday.

"Father Dempsey's charitable efforts are unparalleled in the history of St. Louis. For 27 years, since the establishment of his first institution, he has carried on day after day, giving help to the poor without reference to creed or race. During the unemployment emergency his charities have proved indispensable in providing quick relief, without red tape, to those in need.

"An appeal for funds was made in behalf of his charities last year, but the money raised at that time has been exhausted, and unless there is a liberal response to this appeal many people applying for food or shelter will have to be turned away.

"The demands upon his charities have been especially heavy during the past year. His emergency lunchroom, which was established Nov. 16, 1931, at 1209 North Sixth street, has served more than 2,600,000 free meals in the past 11 months, and his three hotels have given nearly 100,000 free lodgings to unemployed men and women. In addition, emergency relief has been extended to several thousand poor families.

"The situation among those who have been without work for a long period of time is probably more distressing today than it was a year ago; and there are still thousands who have not yet found employment and who must be given a helping hand this winter.

"No other agency is better equiped to carry on this emergency relief work than Father Dempsey's charities. He has demonstrated that a charity dollar in his hands is a dollar grown to its greatest power in alleviating misery.

"The cost of maintaining his charities, however, is much greater during the winter months, and while no definite goal has been set for the campaign, we hope that public appreciation of Father Dempsey's work will insure a large fund."

Contributions should be made payable to the treasurer of the Father Dempsey Fund.

ACCOUNTING MADE OF AFFAIRS OF INTERNATIONAL LIFE CO.

Receipts Since 1929 $1,602,041, Disbursements $1,594,277, Retiring Co-Receiver Reports.

An accounting of the affairs of the International Life Insurance Co., in process of liquidation, was given in a report filed in Federal Court yesterday in connection with the application of Joseph B. Thompson, former State Superintendent of Insurance, for discharge as co-receiver. Thompson sought discharge because he was recently succeeded in office by R. E. O'Malley. The other receiver is Massey Wilson.

The report stated that since the receivership was instituted in 1929 and disbursements $1,594,277, inclu the receipts have been $1,602,041 and disbursements $1,594,277, including $150,000 in dividends to stockholders at $4 a share. Claims paid in cash amounted to $341,533 and receivers' certificates were issued to pay the $1,194,000 claim of the Great Southern Life Insurance Co. and John C. Hart.

Present assets and liabilities were balanced at $26,644. Receipts included $10,538 from the bankrupt Toombs & Daily Co., investment house, of Chicago. The head of this firm was Roy V. Toombs, whose mismanagement of International Life ledt to its collapse and caused him to be sent to the Missouri State penitentiary. International Life policies were reinsured in the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., which collapsed two weeks ago and was sold to the General American Life Insurance Co.

THREE FLEE AFTER SEEMING ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY

Smash Glass Panel in University City Householder's Door, Fire Two Shots, Then Run.

Three men who demanded admittance early yesterday to the home of Robert Hogin, 515 North and South road, University City, fled after breaking a glass panel in the front door. One of them fired two shots aimlessly as they left.

Hogin said the men appeared to be drunk. He thought they intended to rob him. He is the owner of food markets in University City and Overland. The men rang his bell about 1:40 a. m., telling him first that they had a special delivery letter, and then that they were "special officers from Clayton" sent to arrest him.

When Hogin refused to admit them, the leader broke the door panel with the butt of a pistol and reaching through sought to unlock the door. Hogin pounded his arm and the men fled.

HOUSE BOMBED IN COAL STRIKE

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 9.—Dynamite wrecked a house today in the second blast set off since the anthracite miners of Pennsylvania, newly formed union, declared a strike at the collieries of the Penn Anthracite Mining Company. The house was that of Mrs. M. Pepperella, in Eynon. She had as boarders four men employed in the Raymond Colliery of the company and police expressed the belief that the dynamite was meant for them.

Mrs. Pepperella, her daughter, and the four roomers were hurled from their beds, suffering bruises.

A garage in North Scranton in which another miner kept his automobile was destroyed yesterday.

Explosion Injures Fire Captain.

Capt. William Dahte of the Maplewood Fire Department was injured shortly before noon yesterday when an extinguisher exploded while he was fighting a blaze in a woods at Big Bend and Greenwood boulevards. He was treated at St. Louis County Hospital for a fractured wrist and lacerations of the head.

By Babe Ruth,
Chairman, All America Board of Baseball.

For the twelfth time in as many seasons it is my privilege to assist The All America Board of Baseball in selecting an All America baseball team, made up of outstanding performers of the two major leagues. Back in 1922 we offered our first selection, little realizing that it would grow into an annual feature.

As in recent years, I take this occasion to express my appreciation for the prominence accorded the selections of our board by the newspapers, the fans and the players. Fans write about them, players frequently suggest this or that player as worthy of recognition, and the newspapers give prominence to these All-America teams each year.

In making these choices we have not been guided entirely by batting averages and pitching records. Other conditions must be considered. We try to figure out the players on natural ability and general value. I am quite sure that all our choices will not meet with general approval, because no team of this kind ever does. There will be difference of opinion as to the relative ability of players in every line of athletic activity as long as games are played.

Last Year's Team.

This brings me to something which happened last year in connection with our All-America selections, and it gave me the greatest satisfaction I have experienced in this annual work. We made our selections in late August, as we always have to do. There was some difference of opinion, as must always be expected. During September we heard much about the merits of players whom we had not selected, and also some arguments why others should not have been included in the team.

At world series time the members of the Baseball Writers' Association chose their all-star team. Votes were received from 191 members, and the team selected by the writers included the same 10 players whom our board had named. These votes were cast a month after we had made our choice, and at a time when the players could be rated on their work for an entire season. It surely gave me a thrill to get the returns of the Baseball Writers' poll.

Our 1933 team consists of six American League players and four from the National. This is the same ratio as in our 1932 selections. I feel that we may be accused of prejudice, because I am an American League player, but I wish to say that we forget leagues when making these selections. The writers vindicated our choices a year ago when the idea may also have existed that I caused American League players to be rated too highly. In 1929 we selected six

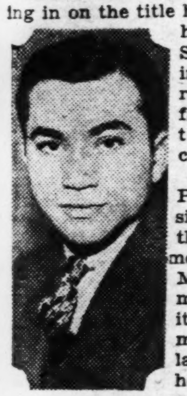
Wray's COLUMN

Carnera Taking It Easy.

WHAT once was considered the banner month of the outdoor fight season, September, will pass without a world's heavyweight championship bout.



ROSS.

Primo Carnera is too busy cashing in on the title he gained when he smashed Sharkey down in the sixth round of their fight last June to risk his crown yet.

The only fight Primo has had since he whipped the sailor was a movie fight with Max Baer — a match that, if it had been made in earnest last June and held this month, probably would have approached closer to the $1,000,000 goal than any title bout in several seasons.

Carnera is acting strictly within his rights in not fighting, as the minimum time allowed a champion between his title bouts is six months. In many states it is one year. Carnera, after cleaning up here, will adjourn to Europe to pick up a few hundred thousand lira in a fight at Rome with someone not too difficult—Uzcudun or McCorkindale probably.

1934 May Be Better.

IN the meantime, Primo's one grand hope of a smashing gate has fled. And the chances are it will not be better next season. Primo's advisers are gambling that there will be more spending money next June than there is this September—and we hope the view is sound.

But it may be difficult to fan enthusiasm to the pitch it had reached last June, when the public was all "hot" after Baer's surprising triumph over Schmeling

By J. Roy Stockton.

James Otto Carleton, the Comanche, Tex., cowboy, had one bad inning at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon and the Boston Braves of Bill McKechnie made enough runs in that one frame to break their seven-game losing streak and hand the Redbirds their first at-home defeat in 15 contests since Frankie Frisch took over the joys and sorrows of managing Sam Breadon's ball club.

The defeat was the fourteenth for the Cardinals in 19 games played with the Braves this season. Also it cut the Redbirds' margin over Boston to half a game and left Frisch's men two and one-half games behind the Chicago Cubs.

Four runs crossed the plate during Carleton's bad frame and the Braves added two more in the ninth at the expense of Jess Haines, to give Walter "Huck" Betts the victory, 6 to 3.

Two errors helped the Braves to make Carleton the losing pitcher and a wild throw by Durocher in the ninth made the tallies off Haines unearned.

Braves Come From Behind.

Boston came from behind to take the decision, as the Cardinals jumped on Betts for two runs in the opening frame. With one out Watkins singled to right and Frisch promptly scored him with a double to left. Medwick lined a single to left, scoring Frisch and Joe took second on the throw to the plate. There was action in the Boston bullpen, but Betts didn't need help, disposing of Collins and Allen to end the inning.

One was out in the third inning when Urbanski drew a pass to start Carleton's trouble and Rabbit Maranville slapped a single to left, moving Urbanski to second. Jordan singled to right, scoring Urbanski and when Watkins' wild throw to third, trying to stop Maranville, bounced into the grandstand, the Rabbit followed Urbanski over the plate and Jordan reached third.

Berger Hits in Pinches.

Berger punched a single to left, scoring Jordan and when Medwick fumbled, Berger took an extra base and scored an important run on Whitney's single to center.

Carlton then struck his best stride and put an end to the rally and held the enemy in check during the rest of his term on the hill. Betts also was effective after the first inning and the Redbirds didn't add to their total until the seventh when Allen doubled to left with one out and score on O'Farrell's two-bagger against the right field screen.

It looked like it might be the big inning and Dean ran for O'Farrell and Orsatti batted for Carleton, but Mowry hauled down Ernie's line drive and the Cardinals did not threaten again.

Haines breezed through his first inning, the eighth, but Hogan, leading off in the ninth was safe on

JIMMY HINES VICTOR IN $3500 GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Blazing home just before dusk with a final round 69, one of 18 sub-par rounds in the final day's play of 36 holes, Jimmy Hines of Great River, L. I., today won the fifth annual Glens Falls open with a 72 hole total of 281.

In a dramatic finish in which he sank a 15-foot putt on the home green for a birdie two, Hines nosed out Tom Creavy of Albany and Al Houghton of Washington, D. C., for the $1000 money prize and a leg on the E. W. West trophy by two

Crawford and Perry To Meet Today for U. S. Tennis Title

By the Associated Press.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The last American hope of saving something out of the tennis wreck of 1933 was blasted today by the twin shotmaking wizards of the British Empire, Australia's marvelous Jack Crawford and England's brilliant Fred Perry.

In exhibitions so devastating and decisive that no room was left for argument, the Anglo-aces from opposite sides of the world swept the last two American contenders out of the National men's singles championship and will meet tomorrow for the title already lost by California's Ellsworth Vines.

Crawford, despite a bad spill in the first set that painfully twisted his left knee, scored an unexpectedly one-sided victory over the wild and over-anxious New Yorker, Frank X. Shields, by scores of 7—5, 6—4, 6—3. Perry routed Lester Stoefen, the tall California blond, with almost ridiculous ease in the first semifinal, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2.

The invading stars were favor-

OLYMPIC WINNER BEATS LOVELOCK AT 1500 METERS

By the Associated Press.

TURIN, Italy, Sept. 9. — Luigi Beccali, the slender Italian who surprised the athletic world last summer when he won the 1500-meter final at the Olympic games in Los Angeles today showed that victory was no error as he outraced Jack Lovelock, sensational New Zealander, to win the 1500-meter event in the inter-University games before a monster crowd in Mussolini Stadium.

By the close margin of three meters Beccali defeated the man who had run the fastest mile in his-

FLYING HEELS VICTOR IN ROCKINGHAM DASH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SALEM, N. H., Sept. 9.—Leading from start to finish, Flying Heels captured the $2500 added New Hampshire Handicap, feature of the card at Rockingham Park this afternoon to hang up his second triumph of the meeting.

Marooned was second, half a length back, at the wire in the six furlongs, while Cattail was third. The time was 1:12 4-5.

CONEY ISLAND DAILY DOUBLE REFUNDS $811

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 9.—Today's daily double refunded $811.80 for $2 when King Today, refunding $95 to win the second race, was coupled with Devilish, the winner of the third race, which refunded $13.60 for $2.

RUTH CHOOSES SIX AMERICAN LEAGUERS ON HIS 1933 TEAM

National Leaguers and four from the American League. In 1925, 1927 and 1928 the teams were evenly divided, five and five. It would be a simple matter to name five from each league each season, but we would rather choose according to our idea of merit, than attempt to balance the team by leagues.

It has happened more frequently than otherwise that the American League has led in number of players. This is no argument in favor of league strength, since these are merely choices of individual players, not teams.

I have worked on this selection with a committee of newspaper men comprising the All-America board as in other years. This board consist of 10 sports editors or baseball writers from as many cities in the major leagues. Each member sends me his choice of an all-America team. I compare my choice with theirs, weigh the possibilities of all the players named, and then make the final selections.

I do not always agree on every position with the newspaper men. In 1929 we did agree on all 10 players, but that is the only time such a thing happened. Last year we differed on one player, two years ago we differed on three, and in 1930 on one.

The Committee.

The All-America board which worked in the selection of the 1933 team was made up of the following:

JACK MALANEY, Boston Post.
WARREN BROWN, Chicago Herald-Examiner.
TOM SWOPE, Cincinnati Post.
ED BANG, Cleveland News.
BUD SHAVER, Detroit Times.
W. S. FARNSWORTH, New York Evening Journal.
JAMES ISAMINGER, Philadelphia Inquirer.
HARRY KECK, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.
J. E. WRAY, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
KIRK MILLER, Washington Times.

Post-Dispatch Ruth Contest Winners to Be Named Sept. 17

PRIZE WINNERS in the Post-Dispatch's Ruth All-America team contest will be announced in all editions of the Post-Dispatch Sunday, Sept. 17.

The clerical work of handling the many thousands of letters, tabulating the votes and analyzing the written analysis that accompanied each, is still under way.

The number of votes received this year exceeded any total in the history of the Post-Dispatch's competition. Cash prizes totaling $700 will reward the successful contestants.

As the figures show, I have not differed to any great extent with the selections of the newspaper men. I find that the chief difference of opinion concerns pitchers, a condition which is not entirely new. I explain my views on the pitching in the paragraph devoted to this position.

Seven of the 10 players whom we have selected for this 1933 team are no strangers to the team. Al Simmons, who was not included in the 1932 selection, after making the team five years in succession, is back again, making his sixth appearance. It is also the sixth season in which Pie Traynor has been chosen. It is the fourth in succession for Chuck Klein and also for Joe Cronin. Jimmy Foxx is named for the third time, and it is the second for Bill Dickey and Charley Gehringer. The newcomers are Carl Hubbell, Wally Berger and Earl Whitehill.

Exceptional Year Enjoyed by Foxx Makes Him Outstanding Selection

Now for the various positions and the reasons why we have chosen the different players:

FIRST BASE.

The contest for first base honors has not been as keen this season as it was in some recent years. Foxx, Gehrig, Terry and Kubel have all been playing a strong all-round game, and the two St. Louis first sackers, Jim Collins and Jack Burns, also have been doing very well. But Foxx has had an exceptional year, and his long-distance hitting gives him the call over those who for a time may have appeared to better advantage. Foxx is the leading home run hitter of the year, the leader in driving runs across the plate, and he has been a far better defensive player than he is generally regarded. Foxx's remarkable hitting power overshadows his fielding, but you don't see many chances getting away from him.

Gehrig has not performed up to his usual standard this season, but has done a fine job, even at that. I look for him to come back strongly next year. Terry has played a remarkable game under the added burden of serving as manager. Kuhel is the most improved first sacker in the game, and coming along fast.

SECOND BASE.

In choosing the leading second baseman of the season we again meet a few players whom we have had to consider in other years. Charley Gehringer, Frank Frisch, Oscar Melillo and Tony Lazzeri have all won the all-star vote for this position in the past, these being the only players except Rogers Hornsby to be named for this position in our 12 All-America teams. They are all in the running this year, with Buddy Myer and Tony Piet as added starters, and Johnny Hodapp prominent for his hitting.

Gehringer is the choice of the board. This has been the best season of one of the game's greatest ball players. He lacks the driving power of Lazzeri, but in every other feature of play, batting or defensively, he tops or equals every other second baseman in the game. He is a power at bat, in the field or on the bases, an all-around star at the top of his game. Frisch, still a great star, would be second choice for all-around value.

SHORTSTOP.

Choosing the outstanding shortstop of the year comes under the heading of "no contest." For the fourth consecutive year we have chosen Joe Cronin and I am quite certain that the choice will meet with general approval. I felt last winter that the added duties of managing the Senators might handicap Cronin as a player, but he has come close to his batting performances of the past two seasons, he has played a bang-up game in the field and is even more of an inspiration and spark-plug to his team now than he was before he became manager. In fact, his year as manager has shown him to be even a better baseball man than we were inclined to judge him. Cronin is an ideal ball player, who does his best work under pressure, and as long as he holds his present pace it will be difficult for any other shortstop to win top honors. He was the committee's only unanimous selection.

Blondy Ryan of the Giants deserves mention in any discussion of shortstops because of what he has meant to the Giants. I doubt that they could have won without him. Vaughan of the Pirates and Bartell of the Phils have had a highly successful season as have Appling, Rogell and Williams in the American League. But none has done enough to get the call over Cronin.

THIRD BASE.

It has been the custom in recent years, whenever third basemen were mentioned, to think of Pie Traynor of the Pittsburgh Pirates. And so it is this year. Traynor goes on as the master of the sizzling corner, and he is hitting well above the average of the other men in this position. Traynor has been out-batted this year by two players who are new in the ranks of big league third sackers, but only two. One is Frank Higgins of the Athletics, who gives promise of developing into the outstanding third baseman of the majors. The other is Pepper Martin of the Cardinals, who had previously starred as an outfielder.

Johnny Vergez of the Giants has had a good season, and Ossie Bluege of the Senators was his usual dependable self. Each played a prominent part in the success of his team. But both were out-hit by Traynor, Higgins and Martin. In fact, both Higgins and Martin excelled Traynor in long-distance hitting. But the Pittsburgh veteran excels both defensively, and for all-around value we must give him the preference.

LEFT FIELD.

The choice for the outstanding left-fielder of the season rested finally between Al Simmons of the White Sox and Heinie Manush of the Senators. Naturally the stickwork must be considered as a big part in any comparison of outfielders, and at this time there is little to choose between the two, due to a recent slump of Simmons. But through the season Al has been in the thick of the fight for the batting leadership, and I regard him as one of the best outfielders I have ever seen. In batting power he excels Manush, and he also has a better arm. I look for him to shake off his slump and finish the season battling for hitting honors.

Others who have had a good season are Wes Schulmerich of the Phillies, Joe Medwick of the Cardinals, Kiki Cuyler and Riggs Stephenson of the Cubs, though neither has played steadily, and Bob Johnson, a newcomer as a major league regular, with the Athletics. Ben Chapman also has had a good season, though not up to last year's standard. I rate Chapman as one of the hardest luck hitters of the year. But after weighing all these leaders, Simmons gets the vote.

CENTER FIELD.

Center field has had its share of high class defensive players this season, but I think it has fallen slightly below its average in hitting. For a time Fred Schulte and Sam West were cutting great capers and giving the pitchers plenty of headaches, but as the season wore on they dropped off in their heavy hitting.

The outstanding center fielder of the year has been Wally Berger of the Braves, whose consistent, and likewise heavy, hitting had so much to do with the success which the Braves attained this season. Berger always had been one of our best outfielders, but this year his stickwork has been more notable than in any of his three earlier seasons with the Boston club. Chick Fullis of the Phils had a big year. Fred Lindstrom of the Pirates came along fast after a slow start, and Chick Hafey of the Reds was another topnotcher in allround play. Orsatti, Cramer, West and Schulte were others who have batted about the .300 mark, and Fred Walker of the Yankees has set a notable record for a newcomer. But for a combination of outfield skill, batting power at the plate and value to his team, we select Wally Berger as the leading center fielder of the year.

RIGHT FIELD.

If all the positions were as easy as this one what a simple matter it would be to pick an All-America team. There is no close second for the honor of being the outstanding right fielder of the season. Chuck Klein gets it with plenty to spare. He is the leading hitter of the two major leagues, a long distance slugger extra-ordinary and he gets the place for the fourth consecutive time. Others who have done very well are Mel Ott of the Giants, Johnny Frederick of the Dodgers, Randy Moore of the Braves, Paul Waner of the Pirates, Goose Goslin of the Senators, Evar Swanson of the White Sox and Roy Johnson of the Red Sox. But Klein is far ahead of the field.

CATCHER.

This season has produced plenty of capable catching, and also more than the usual number of catchers who have done as well with the bat as with the big glove. In the American League, Dickey, Cochrane and Ferrell have all caught fine ball and hit above the .300 mark. A newcomer to the majors, Pytlak of Cleveland, has also been among the heavy hitters of the league but he was not rated as a regular until the season was well along. In the National League, Davis of the Phillies, Grace of the Pirates and Hartnett of the Cubs have all been in the limelight. For catching finesse, and forgetting the hitting, you could hardly improve on Luke Sewell of the Senators or Jimmy Wilson of the Cardinals.

Weighing the all around merits of the various maskmen we regard Bill Dickey as the best all around performer among the 1933 catchers, with Ferrell, Cochrane and Davis all crowding him for honors.

PITCHERS.

The most difficult choice to make in selecting this 1933 team was the second of the two pitchers who are named annually. The first pitcher is a standout. That is Carl Hubbell, the shutout king of the season and a pitcher who is likely to finish the campaign with 25 victories. There was not the slightest hesitation in picking the Giants' brilliant southpaw. The rub comes in choosing the other pitcher.

The pitchers who have done particularly well, beside Hubbell, are Whitehill and Crowder of the Senators, Cantwell of the Braves, Dean of the Cardinals, Warneke of the Cubs and Grove of the Athletics. Others who had prolonged spells of brilliancy were Hildebrand of the Indians and Carleton of the Cardinals. Marberry, Hadley and some others also did remarkably well. We are considering the kind of pitching, rather than the number of victories and defeats when we talk of pitchers.

The choice for second pitcher finally narrowed down to two pitchers—Whitehill and Cantwell. Both pitched an unusual number of low score games, with Whitehill pitching the greater number of complete games. Since June 20 Whitehill won 10 ball games, of which two were shutouts and eight showed his opponents scoring but one run per game. It is generally believed that the American League ball is livelier. At any rate hitting in this league is heavier and runs more numerous. That Whitehill was able to pitch and win so many games of one run or nothing, is the answer for his selection over Cantwell, who is easily the third best pitcher of the year. Whitehill pitched two 2 to 1 games during Washington's winning streak, the longest of the season, and he toyed with the Yankees in the key game of the big series after we had won the first two and needed that game to tie for the lead. He pitched more complete games than any other American League pitcher up to September and led in winning percentage. He won 18 against 6 defeats while Cantwell won 19 while losing seven. But, as I said before, in a league where hits were more frequent and scoring heavier, Whitehill had a more difficult task.

Crowder was a bear for work but less effective than Whitehill. Warneke had hard luck in getting few runs in his favor when he was pitching fine ball. Grove, who had been on the All America team for four consecutive years, was not the Grove of other seasons, though still a great pitcher. Dean worked often but was very ineffective at times.

There it is, the team for 1933 as selected by the All America Board of Baseball. And I regard it as one of the strongest we ever named. I think, too, we could choose another team which would come close to it in all around strength. But this one in my opinion stands out as the best of the year.

Looks Like Trouble Ahead for "Sandy"

JOHNNY GOODMAN — U.S
GUS MORELAND — U.S.
JOHNNY FISCHER — U.S.
AP

Ross Somerville, the Canadian who sneaked in and grabbed this country's prized amateur golf crown a year ago, faces a double hazard in the big meet starting at Cincinnati, Sept. 11. The course has been toughened up to where it's practically a plot against the players, including the champion, and the younger stars of the United States are aroused and determined the cup shall not again go to Canada. Above are Somerville and Johnny Goodman of Omaha just before the start of their final match a year ago. Fischer and Moreland can be counted upon to give Johnny some strong support in his effort to keep the trophy at home this time.

161 To Compete in U.S. Amateur Golf Tourney Which Starts Tomorrow

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9.—Amateur golf's big six-day marathon will start here Monday with 161 challengers seeking qualifying positions for the United States championship over the Kenwood Country Club course.

Over this difficult 6780-yard layout, where par 71 has never been bettered in competition, the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying test will be played. The 32 low scores Monday and Tuesday will advance to Wednesday's match play rounds.

Picking favorites for this championship, the "world series" of golf, is risky. Veterans who have followed the amateurs every year since Chandler Egan won back in 1904, will tell you that this is the most wide open tournament they ever attended. And they say this after watching a large number of the competitors in final practice rounds.

But Ross Somerville, the silent Canadian from London, Ontario, who went to the front at Five Farms at Baltimore last year, is well liked to repeat. Somerville has been hitting his shots well and putting with his usual fine touch, although he hasn't been scoring well.

Then there is Johnny Goodman, national open champion and the lad Somerville defeated in the finals last year. He has a strong following and many believe he will duplicate the feat of Bobby Jones by taking both American major titles the same year.

Then there is a well-advertised group in which is found—Gus Moreland of Dallas, Tex.; George Dunlap of New York; Johnny Fischer, the home course hopeful; Charles Seaver of Los Angeles and a host of other shotmakers.

It seemed to be the consensus that the championship would go, as one seasoned campaigner put it, "to the fellow who is right and remains right for six days in one of golf's most gruelling tests."

United States Golf Association officials are confident that from an attendance standpoint this year's championship will break all records. They are basing their prediction on the size of the galleries which have trailed the notables in practice rounds all last week.

Chester O'Brien, Missouri amateur champion, and Jimmy Manion, veteran golfer, will represent the St. Louis district in the tournament.

HAMILTON TIES SUNDAY SCHOOL BASEBALL SERIES

Hamilton Christian, the defending champion, evened up the series to determine the 1933 Sunday School baseball titleholder by defeating Third United Presbyterian, 2 to 1, yesterday afternoon at Sherman Park No. 1.

Although the winning team made only four hits, five Third United errors helped in the victory. Harrison, the Hamilton pitcher, held Third United to five hits, walked three and struck out nine.

The third and deciding game will be played next Saturday at Sherman No. 1. If Hamilton wins, it will be its fifth consecutive championship.

strokes. Hines' rounds of par 71, 68, 73, and 69 gave him an aggregate three under par for 72 holes. It was the first major tournament victory for the Long Island professional who was semifinalist last month in the National P. G. A. tournament.

Creavy and Houghton each shot a 69 in the final round for 72-hole totals of 283, a lead which they retained almost two hours until the youthful Hines whizzed homeward with a flock of birdies and a gallery of nearly 2000 at his heels.

Five strokes back of Hines came the youthful Walter Kozak of Flushing, L. I., who was tied with Hines at the three-quarter mark and Willie MacFarlane, veteran Tuckahoe sharpshooter. MacFarlane shot rounds of 68 and 73 today and Kozak twice trudged the 6372 yard layout in 74 after two fine 69s the previous two rounds. Bobby Alston, youthful Ottawa shotmaker, and Johnny Farrell, debonair Mamaroneck pro were tied at 288, while a stroke behind was an early pace setter, Joe Brennan of Ambler, Pa.

Five prominent shotmakers were grouped at 290, including Denny Shute of Menoa, Pa., British open king and winner here last year; Phil Turnesa, Elmsford; Bill Mehlhorn, Brooklyn; Paul Runyan, Ryder Cup team member from White Plains, and Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis, runnerup to Johnny Goodman in the national open this year.

Others who shared in the prize melon were Johnny O'Connor of Bolton, Victor Ghezzi of Rumson, N. J., and Ed Dudley of Concordville, Pa., with 291s; Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., Willie Lamb of Toronto, Jack Curley of Wolleston, Mass., and Gene Kunes of Hartford, Conn., with 292s; Tony Manero of Elmsford, Herman Barron of Port Chester, Mack Sennett of Greenfield, Mass., Billy Burke of Greenwich, Conn., Hank Knowal, Utica amateur and Lex Robson, Canadian star, with 293s; George Christ of Rochester with 294, and Mike Brady of Mamaroneck, Jerry Gianferanti of East Lexington, Mass., Clarence Doser of Rochester, Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa., Dick Metz of Deal, N. J., and Ted Turner of North Adams, Mass., with 295.

Par Beaten 31 Times.

Johnny Golden of Noroton, Conn., Connecticut open champion, was the only linksman of prominence who failed to break in the money. He had 296 for the three days' play.

Par was blasted 31 times.

The lowest round of the tournament was turned in by Shute, a 67 in the final round which enabled him to finish nine strokes back of the leader.

Hines' golf was steady throughout the entire three days, equally superb with his irons, woods and putter.

Rheingolds Play Hinricks.

The Rheingolds will meet the Hinricks in the feature game in the East St. Louis independent baseball circuit's round robin series this afternoon. The Rheingolds are tied with the Local 100 for the lead. Each club has won its five starts. The Local nine will oppose the First Christians in the secondary feature. In the other contest, the Haunses pair off with the Whitsons.

The Chicago Cubs hold two world records. "Dizzy" Dean struck them out 17 times in a regular game and Howard Ehmke whiffed 14 Bruins in a world series.

Charley Sweeney once struck out 19 batsmen, but as he stood 10½ feet closer to the batsman, that record goes for Sweeney.

But when you are speaking of records, "Rube" Waddell once struck out the same three batsmen in three different innings on nine pitched balls. Beat that and take the money.

When asked if she would ever take up golf, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody said no, she didn't think she would ever get any fun out of playing poor golf. Helen, you don't know what you are missing. HILL-CLIMBERS IN STATE TITLE CONTEST, TODAY

Action, thrills and spills are assured when the pick of the country's motorcycle riders meet in the championship 350-foot hill climb this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Hilgert's Hill on the Gravois road, Route No. 30. The meet, sanctioned by the American Motorcycle Association, is being sponsored by the St. Louis Motorcycle Association.

These are not ordinary machines that the riders use, but especially constructed ones, costing from $750 to $1500. The motors are capable of developing 50 horsepower, but this terrific force is limited to a three-minute interval by cutting down the amount of fuel in the tank.

Just Like Bucking Bronchos.

In order to get the greatest amount of traction, the rear wheel of the machine is equipped with a skid chain. Even then the machine rears up in the air about every five feet and it is necessary for the rider to press a button on the handle bars which reduces the compression and the front wheel drops.

Twenty-two of Missouri's best amateur riders will compete in the State championship. Then the professionals will ride for a prize of $300. Also on the program is competition in the expert class, which consists of the winners of other races.

Each race will be timed electrically and riders go up the hill singly. The record for the 350-foot course is held by Stanley Polacek, the national champion, with a time of 10.23 seconds. Hilgert's Hill has a 47-degree angle.

The winners of the various classes will be sent to Bethlehem, Pa., to participate in the national hill climbing races there Sept. 17.

Fifty-nine Entries Received.

Fifty-nine motorbike experts, including 36 local performers and 15 prominent cyclists from out of the State, have filed their entries for competition in the five-event program.

Competition will fall in the 45-inch gauge amateur, 45-inch gauge professional, 45-inch gauge expert, 80-inch gauge amateur, and a special climb limited to police officers.

Survey of the entry list discloses the names of Gentry Shuster and Doc Burbess, both of Kansas City, who hold the State championship in the 45-inch amateur and professional events, respectively. Hank Eiler, local pro, and Everett Gammon, who paced the field in the professional and amateur 45-inch gauge event in the Midwestern championships for the past two years are also entered as is Ray Martin, winner of the Southern States Meet at Dallas in 1929 and 1930. "Speed" Thomas of Kansas City will be seeking his tenth straight hill climbing victory.

Belleville Plays Lecces.

The St. Louis Dairies, champions of the Missouri-Illinois Trolley Baseball League last year, will meet the House of David baseball team of Benton Harbor, Mich., tomorrow night at the North End Park, Belleville. Today the Dairies meet the Lecces, champions of the Southwestern Illinois circuit.

STEVENS FEARS ANOTHER HEAVY FOOTBALL DEATH TOLL THIS FALL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Dr. Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, former head football coach and now freshman coach at Yale, today threw a bombshell into the annual rules interpretation meeting of the Eastern Intercollegiate Association when he said he expected to again see "30 or 40 deaths from football injuries this fall."

Addressing a meeting of coaches, officials and athletic directors on the "control and treatment of football injuries," Stevens said there was still much work to be done before there would be a noticeable decrease in injuries and deaths from the game.

There are still too many youngsters, especially on playground and high school teams, using inferior equipment and playing without proper supervision, he said, in making his startling forecast.

He urged that a scientific campaign be inaugurated to cut down the injury toll in football and said his first suggestion would be the slogan, "Tackle high." A high tackle, if properly made, is just as effective as one at the knees where the tackler is exposed to serious injury, he believes.

He also urged that coaches discard the tackling dummy and accustom their players to being tackled, a necessary knack for a backfield man who hopes to go through the season without injury.

Dr. E. J. O'Brien, one of the East's best known football referees, spoke on the officials' part in helping to prevent injuries and said they could do little unless the school had competent trainers. As an example he told of two games where he was officiating and where, after he had stopped the game because he thought a player was unable to continue, the trainer had come on the field and then left thet man in the game. In each instance, Dr. O'Brien said, the player was seriously injured shortly after.

H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, Princeton's head coach, told of his suggestions to his players for off-season exercises to strengthen muscles and joints susceptible to injury and of the fine results he had obtained.

The meeting was in charge of Walter R. Okeson, of Lehigh, commissioner of the association, and chairman of the Football Rules Committee.

Neilson Captures Side Stroke Race In U. City Swim

Featuring two types of races which have not been included in local tank meets here in recent years, the side stroke event and the 150-yard medley, University City's swimming meet was held yesterday afternoon under Western A. A. U. approval at the Heman Park pool.

The revival of the side stroke style of paddling was marked by a splendid performance in the life guards' division by Steve Neilson, Westborough Country Club. He turned in the best time of the meet, when he beat out Ben Schaller, Lorelei's guard, by three strokes in 1 minute 7.2 seconds.

In the other side stroke race, which was for women, Lorraine Morrison took one of her two victories of the meet. All the girls ran into each other, about midway, in this race, but after they untangled themselves Miss Morrison pulled away to a strong finish. She also won the diving contest.

The 150-yard medley is similar to the same kind of relay except that each entry swims the whole distance, using the three strokes, back, breast and free style. Adolph Jacobsmeyer won this race, but Ben Schaller held the interest by overcrowding Al Hoppin's 20-foot lead in the last 50 yards to take third.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Yankess were exceedingly polite to the departing Browns here this afternoon for six innings and spotted the visitors a five-run lead. But in the seventh the big Bronx bombers teed off against Edwin Wells and tied the score at 6 runs apiece. Before the final decision could be reached a cloudburst descended on the ball park and the game was washed right out in the ninth inning with the Yankees at bat.

It was the St. Louis jinx, Lou Gehrig who struck the big tying blow, his twenty-sixth home run of the season that scored Babe Ruth ahead of him to knot up the score. Frank Crosetti hit a four-bagger previously in the frame, and George Rensa and Lyn Lary slammed out triples. The rally netted the champions five juicy runs.

Sammy Gray relieved Wells and held the Yanks scoreless until the deluge. But neither did the New York starting pitcher finish. Charlie Devens had to be rescued by Danny MacFayden in the third inning. Yankees pitching was wild and wooly, Devens giving six bases on balls and MacFayden three.

Babe Ruth In the Game.

Babe Ruth was back in right field after three days' rest in the dug-out and contributed a run-producing single in the big seventh inning. Unless the game makes a difference in the standing of the clubs at the end of the season it will not be played off, as the Browns are through with the Yanks for the year, losing 14, winning 7 and tying 1.

Devens passed two batsmen in the first inning and escaped without a run being scored on him. He passed two more in the second and didn't escape. Melillo tripled to right center to start it, Storti walked and stole second. Hemsley banged a long double off the right field screen, Melillo and Storto scoring. West also walked before the end of the inning, but was run down attempting to steal.

One of those runs was lost when the Yanks took their turn at bat. Gehrig was out when Chapman bounced a hit over Storti's head. Lazzeri drew four balls. Dickey popped to Melillo, but Crosetti smashed the first pitch for a line single to left, bringing in Chapman.

Reynolds singled to right to start the third and Campbell walked.

Burns beat out a hit to the left of the box and when Devens threw wild to Gehrig, Reynolds scored. Melillo walked to fill the bases, and the wild Mr. Devens was relieved by MacFayden. Storti was called out on strikes, but Hemsley walked, forcing home Campbell. Wells missed a third strike and Levey grounded to Lazerri.

The Yankees' Big Inning.

Seemingly there was no halting the aroused Browns and they added two more runs in the fourth on a walk to West, a ground rule double by Campbell that found a hole in the right field screen and hung there suspended, and Burns' single through the infield. Wells got into a little hot water in the sixth when the first two Yanks got on and Gehrig and Lazzeri missed home runs by inches. But Lou and Tony both grounded out eventually.

The Yankee aim was better in the seventh when Hensa tripled to the running track in right center and Crosetti hit his home run into the empty left field seats. The next two batsmen fouled out, but Lary shot another triple up the right field bank and Ruth singled to right, and Gehrig hit into the bleachers, tying the score. Gray relieved Wells and Chapman fouled to the catcher to end the disastrous inning.

And so into the ninth inning when darkness and rain descended on the Stadium.

and Carnera's equally convincing victory over Sharkey.

September, however, is not to be a total pugilistic loss. This week there will be one world's title defended, while Chicago will witness a major heavyweight leather-throwing engagement.

You Guess This One.

AT the Polo Grounds next Tuesday Barney Rosofsky—abbreviated to Ross—will defend his lightweight crown in a return match with the fighter from whom he won it—the rugged and determined Tony Canzoneri.

This time the men will go 15 rounds and Canzoneri is regarded as having a good chance to regain his lost crown. They fought 10 rounds in Chicago and the fans' pre-fight attitude toward Ross was "too bad, he's such a nice boy; pity he couldn't have been held back until he got a little farther along."

But Barney proved that the sympathy was wasted by outpointing Canzoneri in a verdict of divided judgments, on the part of the officials. There wasn't much doubt about the public's opinion—it was not worried about the decision as much as about the fight. It was a distinctly poor bout for both men, if the ringsiders' opinion meant anything.

The fact is that Canzoneri first admitted that he had "eased up" in the later rounds, thinking he had the fight won, and immediately afterward Ross coppered this statement with one to the same effect. He, too, had eased up, it seemed.

Such a Fishy Smell!

THAT was rather hard for sensitive fight stomachs to digest and when the return match was almost immediately announced some of the more indignant grasped their noses firmly between thumb and forefinger and emitted certain sounds which, translated, meant, in substance, "boloney" or perhaps "phoney."

There is no way of forecasting what is going to happen Tuesday. New Yorkers believe Canzoneri will show his best wares, this time, and that Ross will be shipped back where he belongs—into the "logical candidate" group.

For our part, it appears that Ross really may be just as tough to beat as their last fight indicated. Certainly he is not an easy target for the best of them as that sterling old warrior, Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, can tell you. It was Ross who sidetracked the big train from Dakota.

Sharkey Is "In Again."

THE other notable bout of the week will be a fight between Kingfish Levinsky and Jack Sharkey and will be held at Comiskey Field next Friday. If Sharkey is anything like in condition, he should be able to take care of Levinsky and give him a spanking in his first comeback fight.

At the same time, Levinsky is a tough hombre. He can take a machine-gun load of Sharkey's powder-puffs and still be dangerous with one of his wild swings.

CANZONERI

Sharkey has an ambitious program of fights arranged, culminating, if he can get it, in a fight with Max Baer at Miami in February. In order to protect this ambitious program, he will have to win from Levinsky. And certainly he must feel very little doubt that he will be able to accomplish this.

After he fights—and beats—Levinsky, Sharkey will journey to Philadelphia, where they will exhume that handsome has-been, Tommy Loughran, and pit him again against the man who once wrecked him.

Why Fight Again?

AT that time Tommy was riding high and handsome. He had surrendered his light-heavyweight crown and entered the heavyweight division. There were a lot of admirers who believed Tommy was good enough to win the world's title.

And then he met Sharkey. Also, in the third round, his chin met Sharkey's fist. And to the amazement of all who know that Sharkey is not a one-punch hitter, Tommy sank to the floor, through for the night, in the third round.

Harvesting While He May.

SHARKEY apparently has decided that he hasn't much longer to harvest his pugilistic crop and is going in for the biggest campaign of his life. The quality of his opposition is such that there is no certainty he cannot get back into the title challenging class by next summer.

If Sharkey gets another match with Carnera, we look for an entirely different fight on the part of the sailor. Sharkey found out, last June, that the way to avoid being hit is not by rushing into the strike zone. Next time he probably will step away from Carnera and make the big fellow shoulder the burden of leading.

Sharkey fighting on the retreat will be a much less easy object to whip that a Sharkey wading right up to Carnera's big guns and exchanging broadsides.

Fighting to remain in the hunt for the Municipal League baseball title, the Omahas will try to even up the championship series by defeating the Columbian A. C. this afternoon at Fairgrounds Park No. 1, starting at 2:30 o'clock. In the preliminary, the Schulers will try to make it two straight over the Gravois B. M. nine, in a game starting at 12 o'clock for the intermediate championship.

Unless the Omahas can solve the delivery of Hap Currier, who will be on the mound for the Columbians, it is not likely that the series will run to three contests. In the first meeting between the teams last week, Currier limited the Omahas to four hits and three runs. Currier's mates made victory easy for him by piling up 11 hits and 10 runs.

T. Hogan probably will be the starting pitcher for the Omahas, but he may be benched in favor of "Lefty" George, who had a fair measure of success against the Columbians as a relief hurler. J. Hogan will do the catching.

If the Omahas win and tie up the series, the third and deciding contest will be played next week to a free gate. For this afternoon's doubleheader the admission price will be 25 cents.

The Schulers did not have much trouble trimming the Gravois Business Men, 11 to 4, last week and for that reason they are expected to win the intermediate honors without the trouble of going to a third game.

Incidentally, three high schools are represented on the Schulers. Walter "Cosey" Koziatek is from Soldan; Elmer Serb, Alan Hug, Lee Sandweg, Frank Tusinski, Max Tonsi and George Straith are from Central and Bill Walker and Fred Pralle, from Beaumont. The majority of the high school stars on the Gravois nine are from Cleveland. They are Ed Steimach and John Furi, battery mates; Milton Faerber, Gene Powers and Murphy.

BONNIE MILLER WINS GIRLS' TENNIS TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Bonnie Miller, Los Angeles star, today won the girls' national singles tennis title with a 6—2, 6—1 victory over Frances Herron of the same city, in a quick final to the week-long tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

GIANTS HAND DERRINGER 25TH LOSS OF YEAR, BY 7-2 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9.—Poor old Paul Derringer staved off trouble for seven innings today, but it caught up with him in the eighth, when the Giants scored five times, and Derringer suffered his seventh straight defeat, and his twenty-fifth of the season, or within four of the major league record for the greatest number of losses by one pitcher in a single year.

It was the opener of a five-game series for the pace setters here, and the final score was 7 to 2.

For the first time in his last five starts, Roy Parmelee lasted the route, thereby gaining his thirteenth victory. It made the fourth time this year Parmelee has beaten the Reds, compared with but one setback here, in his 15-inning duel with Lucas.

Squirrel Hunting Is Good.

Sportsmen throughout Missouri are looking to the hickories for their game at this season. Squirrel hunting, they say is the best in several years.

There appears to have been no dearth of the rodents this season, State conservation officials say, after two fairly lean years of squirrel shooting. Squirrels have been reported as being fairly plentiful to abundant in every section since the season opened June 1.

Squirrel density is one of the most varying factors in a steady game supply in Missouri. These animals appear plentiful one year and even may become so abundant as to be regarded as nuisances, only to be scarce the following season. This variableness has given rise to a theory of squirrel migration.

Whether there is any marked migration of the rodents is something of a moot question among naturalists, but season to season changes in density of wild life often gives rise to the "migration" theory. Birds once were thought to go into hiberation in mudbanks throughout the winter until science proved otherwise. However, it is not entirely, improbable, nature observers say, that squirrels do migrate in large numbers over great distances.

"Reds" Not So Plentiful.

The gray and red squirrels are both found in all sections of the State, although the gray variety appears to be most numerous. The gray squirrel outnumbers the red squirrel almost four to one in the Ozarks, a check-up on game bags indicate.

The rifle is the proper squirrel gun, although the .410 and larger shotguns also are used.

Reports from the State Game Department show that the rodents may well be looked for in the hickory or other nut-bearing tree groves now. Best hunting seems to be not too far from small streams or creeks.

Many Fish Are Rescued.

Several hundred thousand fish, many of them game fish, have been rescued from drying sloughs in Northeast Missouri along the Mississippi River. Much of the work during the last week was done in Clark County, Dr. G. B. Herndon, chief of hatcheries for the Missouri Game and Fish Department said.

These rescued fish are being planted in public fishing sites and on the applications for 1933 plantings received from sportsmen throughout the State. The last date on which applications for filling this year will be received is Sept. 20, Dr. Herndon said.

Wilbur Buford, State Game and Fish Commissioner, and Dr. G. B. Herndon, chief of hatcheries for the State Game and Fish Department, have been invited to have part on the program of the International Association of Game and Fish Commissioners and the American Fisheries Society at Columbus, O., this month. They have not yet definitely decided to attend.

May Lease Game Farm.

Negotiations are underway by Commissioner Buford of the State Game and Fish Department to lease a game farm in Missouri where the State will centralize its production of Bobwhite quail. Construction of a mammoth wild turkey producing plant in Mudlick Canyon at Sam A. Baker State Park in Wayne County already is underway. The minimum annual production of the wild turkey plant will be 10,000 birds and it is planned by the State Department to establish a game farm for bobwhites that will produce even more than that number of quail each year for stocking purposes.

Big bass and jack salmon have been hitting, reports from Lake Tanycomo, the Lake of the Ozarks and the Current River country indicate. Float trips at this season are usually the most successful of the year.

Will Restock Streams.

The construction of fish ladders at the dams on Little Fork and Big Piney Rivers, in the West Plains district, has been authorized by the Game and Fish Department. Fish will be sent out from State hatcheries to restock several streams in South Missouri as soon as weather conditions will permit. Dr. G. B. Herndon, Chief of Hatcheries, is now examining each stream before planting the fish in order to determine which species will do best. Small mouth bass and trout need swift cold water while large mouth bass and blue gills do best in slow running water and deep pools. With restocking and observance of the game and fish laws, there is no reason that fishing in South Missouri streams cannot be made better, Dr. Herndon says.

To Buy 450,000 Acres.

Representative John J. Cochran of St. Louis last week announced that the National Forestry Commission has approved purchase of 450,000 acres of land in the Missouri Ozarks for $1,575,000. There will be four units in the Missouri Forest Reservation, which will be developed as State playgrounds and reforested, giving employment to hundreds of men.

The four units comprising the reservation approved are:

Clark unit, in Washington, Crawford, Dent, Maries and Reynolds Counties; 125,000 acres, or 25,000 in each county.

Pond Fork, 100,000 acres, in Douglas, Christian, Taney and Ozark Counties.

Rivers flow through each of the tracts selected. The area is mostly cut-over timber land, which will be reforested and otherwise reclaimed and beautified.

Two-Point Deer Killed.

District Game Warden Logan Wills of Linn, Mo., reported to Joe Green, Chief of Wardens,, that a 120-pound two point deer buck had been picked up on U. S. highway No. 50, near Loose Creek, Osage County. The deer, doubtless killed by a motor car, was found by Steve Zeilmann, a Linn blacksmith. The deer was brought to Jefferson City and turned over to St. Mary's Hospital.

BOEHMER TO PLAY WEINSTOCK FOR DISTRICT TITLE

Gustav Boehmer Jr. advanced to the final round of the men's district tennis tournament by defeating Charles McMillin, 6—1, 6—3, 6—0, in a semi-final match on the Triple A courts yesterday afternoon.

Boehmer's easy victory over McMillin was something of a surprise, because in the Clayton open tournament, McMillin met Boehmer in the final round and lost after an extended struggle which lasted four sets. The score of the match was 10—8, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2. Yesterday Boehmer had great success with his placements and outpointed McMillin from start to finish.

It took three hours and 15 minutes for Herbert Weinstock to defeat Karl Hodge, 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 5-7, 10-8, in the other semifinal match. It was Weinstock's first victory over Hodge, who had defeated him in three previous meetings.

Weinstock got off to a good start by winning the first two sets, 6-2, 6-4, only to drop the third by a 6-4 score. In the fourth set, Weinstock led 5 to 2, but Hodge rallied to take five games and even the match. Hodge also had to overcome a lead in the final set. With Weinstock ahead, 4 to 2, Hodge won the next two games and the players seesawed until Weinstock finally won out, 10 to 8.

Durocher's low throw. Cantwell ran for Hogan and Betts sacrificed, after which Urbanski walked. Maranville ran his string to three and two and fouled out, but Jordan walked on four pitched balls and Berger hit Jess' first offering to center for a single, scoring Cantwell and Urbanski.

Redbird Notes.

BILL HALLAHAN and Dazzy Vance will pitch for the Cards in this afternoon's doubleheader with the Braves. Tom Zachary and Fred Frankhouse are likely to be Bill McKeechnie's selections.

There will be a single game with the Braves tomorrow and an open date Tuesday. A House of David team, with its own lighting equipment, will beard the Cardinals at Sportsman's Park Tuesday night in an exhibition game.

The opener with the Braves attracted a ladies' day crowd of 6100 women, 400 girls and 2400 cash customers.

Dizzy Dean is the only player in baseball with two birthplaces. The Cardinal roster shows he was born at Holdenville, Okla., and the new who's who in baseball, just off the press, gives his birthplace as Lucas, Ark. Dizzy also has several birthdays.

Frisch could have caught Hogan's low liner in the sixth inning, but took on the first bounce intentionally and threw to Durocher, forcing Mowry.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The Red Sox this afternoon sent the Detroit Tigers away on the short end of a 6 to 4 victory. It was the only game the Red Sox won on the four game series.

Roy Johnson, Red Sox outfielder, made three hits, drove in three runs and scored two runs himself.

The Tigers launched a last minute rally in the ninth with two out, scoring a run on a squeeze play, but fell short. With two men on the bases, Dusty Rhodes' Sox twirler, gave way to Bob Kline, who forced Rogell to ground out to Marty McManus.

NOSES SEPARATE VICTOR, GURGLER AND FLYING DON; DOUBLE PAYS $78

By Damon Kerby.

Click, a seven-year-old chestnut gelding, won the $800 handicap in a pounding, thrilling finish yesterday afternoon at Fairmount in a race that brought a roar of enthusiasm from the 8000 spectators in attendance.

Only a nose back of the winner was Gurgler, with Flying Don another scant nose back in third place. Street Singer was four lengths back to lead the remainder of the field of seven in the six-furlong feature dash, worth $800.

Click, the favorite, ridden by Johnny Hernandez, raced into an early lead with Flying Don in close pursuit. Gurgler was third. The leaders sped around the track in that position until reaching the final furlong, where Gurgler raced into a fleeting lead.

A Three-Horse Race.

On they came down the stretch, Flying Don on the outside, Click in the center, and Gurgler on the rail. It was any of the three horses' race right up to the wire, and the crowd had no defnite idea of how they finished until the numbers went up on the odds board. When Click's number was posted, there was a roar of approval for the son of High Time and Photo was well backed in the betting.

The winner refunded $6.36 to win, Gurgler paid $5.28 to place, while Flying Don returned $3.92 to show.

Norma Wins by 6 Lengths.

The ease with which J. E. Miller's Norma C. won the fourth race from a band of maiden two-year-olds made the betting public wonder why it had overlooked such a "good thing." Sent to the front by Jockey Robert Creese when the flag fell, Norma C. galloped in front at all stages of the five and a half furlong sprint and finished six lengths in front of the remainder of the field, eased up. Clovinia was second and Equilibre was third in the field of eight. Norma C. paid the good price of $15.94.

An outsider had previously won the third when Young Bill, owned by Jack Carter and ridden by E. J. Kelley, led home a field of eight three-year-olds and up. The veteran Alamae set the pace for the six-furlong dash until turning off the back stretch, where Howard Oots' Terry Lass came to the front. Young Bill was in close pursuit of the leaders and in the drive down the stretch pulled to the front to win by a margin of a length, with Terry Lass second and Judge Urban coming up strong for the show position by a half length. A $2 ticket on Young Bill was worth $15.76 in the mutuels.

"Double" Pays $78.26.

Young Bill, coupled with Miss Avondale, winner of the second race, returned $78.26 in the "daily double," and there were 63 winning tickets, it was announced. Miss Avondale won the second in a close finish, being three-quarters of a length in front of the Evergreen Stock Farms' The Dipper, with Bob's Luck, owned by J. I. Murphy, a nose back for third.

Miss Kid, almost an even money favorite, was a winner in the first race without being extended. Old Pride was three lengths back for second place, while Emmaline H. ran third.

Dutch Uncle Scores.

The sixth race was the first distance event of the day, being at a distance of one mile and 70 yards, and seven starters faced the barrier. Lucky Carter, almost an even money favorite, set the pace until turning into the home stretch, where he weakened and Dutch Uncle came with a rush to win by half a length. Lucky Carter was second and Mokan was third, four lengths back.

Dutch Uncle was timed in 1:44 4-5 and paid $10.86.

Run On accounted for the seventh, a six-furlong dash, with Captain Joy second by two lengths. Threat was third in the field of six. Run On was clocked in 1:13 4-5, and in the mutuels paid $7.64.

Draha, ridden by Richard Clemons, was an easy winner in the eighth, having a two-length lead at the wire after leading all the way. Bobbie R. was second and Master Star third. Draha ran the one mile race in 1:40 4-5 and paid $14.28.

Fairmount Notes.

EIGHT races will be on tomorrow's program. The fifth and a mile and a sixteenth will be a feature and carries a purse of $500. Six three-year-olds and up have been named for the race in the overnight list. They are Westy's Broom, Elizabeth S., Penn, Flying Gibion, Athens and Dr. Billy.

Oaten and Lamporte are being shipped to Fairmount by W. C. Reichert. Oaten has been a frequent winner around Chicago, while Lamporte, it is said, may turn out to be the best juvenile at Fairmount. Lamporte is a half brother of that grand old campaigner, My Dandy.

Aquaplane, a six-year-old son of High Time, has arrived at Fairmount. Owned by Charles Baldwin, Aquaplane was once a stake horse in fast company around Maryland. He is reported to be in good condition.

Six carloads of horses will be shipped here from Blue Bonnets track immediately after its closing. The shipment from the Canadian track will include the stables of J. Daly and Frank Seremba. Daly has By Product in his string, winner of 10 races this year, while Seremba's stable is headed by Zekiel and Anne L. Seremba is a son-in-law of Joe Cattarinich, one of the principal owners of Fairmount.

Harmonical	107	5	8	8	8	8	8	Dobson	26.13

Young Bill, racing in improved form, came to the outside of the leaders reaching final furlong and showed good late speed, was drawing clear in last 20 yards. Terry Lass, reserved off the early pace, came around Alamae turning into the stretch, took short lead but flattened out near the end. Judge Urban, racing on the extra outside and finishing in the same fashion, closed gamely. Alamae, hard urged from the start, weakened in the final furlong. Shackleford was in close quarters reaching stretch turn. Agnes Sorrel showed early speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Young Bill, win, $15.76; place, $6.70; show, $4.24. Terry Lass, place, $5.50; show, $3.90. Judge Urban, show, $3.54.

Memory Time	112	1	8	8	8	8	8	Neal.	30.46

Norma C. sprinted into a long early lead and was being eased up in the final 20 yards. Clovinia, away slowly, and racing wide, disposed of Equilibre in final furlong, but was no match for the winner. Equilibre, under strong urging, faltered in the final drive. Transpro, close up for three furlongs, weakened turning into the stretch. Bohemian Girl and Memory Time were unprepared at the start.

$2 mutuels paid: Norma C., win, $15.94; place, $7.22; show, $4.58. Clovinia, place, $5.58; show, $3.64. Equilibre, show, $2.76.

Meteoric	100	6	7	6^{1}	7	7	7	Haber	31.87

Click, under a clever ride, was sent to the front under mild restraint and saved for the final drive, finished gamely after straightening out in the last quarter. Gurgler, racing in his best form, saved ground throughout, took short lead reaching final furlong but weakened right near the end. Flying Don, racing the overland and close up from the start, swerved badly in the last few strides and might have been closer if kept straight for the final issue. Street Singer, easily best of the others, could not get to the leaders under strong urging.

$2 mutuels paid: Click, win, $6.36; place, $4.66; show, $2.98. Gurgler, place, $5.28; show, $3.04. Flying Don, show, $3.92.

SIXTH RACE—$500, claiming, three-year-olds and up, one mile and 70 yards: Start good, won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:35, at post 2½ minutes. Winner, Mrs. D. Straphanger	110	1	2	5^{2}	6	6	6	Smith	16.14

Run On, under energetic handling, shook off the early challenges of Captain Joy and Threat and was in no danger in final furlong. Captain Joy, hard urged from the start, made bold effort to pass the ultimate winner turning into the stretch, but was not good enough. Threat, saved ground, was shut off reaching three-sixteenth pole, but finished well on the inside when placed in his best stride. The Judge suffered from slight interference when Parke on Threat was forced to ease back and was unable to reach the leaders thereafter. Elegy, pinched back at the start could not get to the leaders under strong urging.

$2 mutuels paid: Run On $7.64 win; $3.94 place; $2.90 show. Captain Joy, $4.76 place; $3.24 show. Threat, $3.74 show.

EIGHTH RACE—$400, claiming, three-year-olds and up, one mile: Start good, won easily; place driving. Went to post 5:40. At post one minute. Winner, Hunsaker & Kirby's b. m., 7, Bunting-Galanta. Trainer, H. Hunsaker. Time—:24 1-5, :48, 1:13 4-5, 1:40 4-5. Value to winner, $300, $65, $25, $10.

Decline	111	4	1	3^{h}	7^{4}	8	8	8	Hernandez	53.45

Draha, showing good early speed, was never in danger in final stages. Bobbie R. slipped through on the inside turning into the stretch, showed a game effort. Master Star had no excuses. The others were never prominent.

$2 mutuels paid: Draha, $14.28 win, $5.06 place, $4.48 show; Bobbie R., $6.24 place, $5.62 show; Master Star, $6.02 show.

(The quinela on Draha and Bobbie R. paid $41.16 for $2.)

Western League Head Announces Plan for Playoff

By the Associated Press

TOPEKA, Sept. 9.—With the second half winner still undetermined and the season's close but three days away, Dale Gear, president of the Western League, announced today plans for the league's play-off series between St. Joseph, Mo., first half winner, and whichever team emerges on top of the heap.

Three teams, Springfield, Topeka and Des Moines still are in the race for the second half flag, with Springfield holding a two and a half-game lead over Topeka and a three-game lead over Des Moines and only five or six games remaining on the teams' schedules.

In the event Springfield wins, the playoff is to open at Springfield Sept. 14, with two games there. On Sept. 16 the teams would begin a three-game series in St. Joseph, returning to Springfield on the 19th in event a sixth game were necessary. Should a seventh game be needed, the teams would flip a coin to decide which would be the home team.

Should Topeka nose out Springfield, the series would open at St. Joseph on Sept. 15 with three games played there. The next three, or as many as were needed, would be at Topeka with the location of the seventh, if it is needed, to be decided by a coin flip.

To win the play-off, a team must win four games.

Umpires are to be Rollie Naylor, Hi Erwin and Pat Donohue, Gear said.

ONE-ARMED PLAYER RETAINS TENNIS TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Lawrence M. Charest of Washington, D. C., retained his veterans' singles tennis title today by beating S. Jarvis Adams Jr. of New York, 6—4, 6—4.

The one-armed champion gave a great exhibition to keep his laurels. He craftily drew Adams out of position and finished nearly every rally with a shot to the corner.

He DID Click for $6.36, $4.66 and $2.98

BURKES AND HELLRUNGS PLAY SECOND CONTEST OF TITLE SERIES TODAY

Victors in the first of a three-game series to decide the University City League championship, the Burkes will meet the Hellrung & Grimms today, in an effort to win the pennant and the right to represent the league in the national tournament in St. Louis, Sept. 21-24. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock in Heman Park.

The Burkes won the first game, 9 to 3, behind the four-hit pitching of "Lefty" Wolf and rule favorites to annex their second victory today. The Hellrung & Grimm team, with its ace right-hander, Ed Richards, defeated, is expected to rely on Southpaw Ed Rolfe in an effort to stay in the running for the championship. Rolfe, veteran minor and muny league pitcher, has been enjoying one of his best seasons. Wolf will again take the hill for the Burkes, with Siemer behind the plate. Morganthaler, Hellrung manager, will catch for his club.

Three umpires, Willie Foley, "Ribby" Murphy and "Eggie" Ryan, will handle the game. The admission charge will be 25 cents.

EAST SIDE TEAMS IN TITLE GAME TODAY

The championship of the East St. Lous Municipal Baseball League will be decided this afternoon at Field No. 1, Jones Park, when the Hunters and Pennsylvania teams meet in the third and final game of the series. The Hunters won the first contest, while the Pennsy team came back last week to gain a 6 to 2 victory.

Louis "Legs" Delatine, former high school twirler, will be on the mound for the Pennsy nine, while Truman Hall or Adolph Miller will pitch for the Hunters.

ites, but the lop-sided margins by which they put to flight the last American defense shocked a capacity crowd of 14,500 spectators. Shields gave the crowd what few chances it had to cheer the homebreds, but he, too, found the pressure as well as the skill of his opponent too much to handle. There was little doubt about the outcome of either contest, once the test of stroking resources had been made.

Crawford After "Grand Slam."

Crawford, already the holder this year of the Australian, French and British singles championships, will make his bid for the first "grand slam" in tennis history when he plays Perry tomorrow afternoon for the American title. It will mark the second time in 52 years that two foreign stars have fought it out for the national championship. Two Frenchmen first turned the trick in 1926, when Rene La Coste beat Jean Borota in the final round, the year before the United States lost the Davis Cup.

Crawford is the first Australian to gain the final round here and Perry the first Englishman to do so since Hugh Doherty, the famous "Little Do," captured the all-comers tournament in 1903 and then beat William A. Larned in the challenge round in vogue at the time.

Crawford Has Knee Sprain.

Crawford's chances of making it a clean sweep for the year may be handicapped by the sprain to his knee, which was slightly swollen and still painful after he completed his victory over Shields. The rangy, blond anzac, as masterful a shotmaker as any to visit this country in years, seemed uncertain how his leg would feel tomorrow. He remarked, a bit ruefully: "I expect Perry will give me a licking."

They have not met on the courts previously this year. Perry withdrew from the final Davis cup singles, against Crawford because of a sprained shoulder, in as much as England had already captured the series. They broke even in two matches played in 1932. Perry is only 24 and Crawford 25, but both have every shot in the bag, plus rare competitive temperament and resources in stamina and strategy that belie their youth. They have been the twin sensations of 1933 on both sides of the Atlantic.

The final American stand was a bitter disappointment to those who hoped that Shields, at least would be equal to the big job of fighting off the invading challenge. The Yankee Davis cup aces, Vines and Wilmer Allison, had been trumped before even the quarter-finals were reached. For the semifinals, only the No| 5 and No. 6 ranking stars remain to carry on and neither Shields nor Stofen could rise to the occasion.

Americans Outclassed.

The giant stature of the two 23-year-old Americans, each standing over 6 feet 3 inches and their widely ballyhooed "cannonball" service failed to menace either Perry or Crawford. Both homebreds played nervously, uncertainly and finally "blew" altogether under the steady pressure applied by two of the world's smoothest shotmakers.

Stoefen's game rapidly went to pieces after he had held Perry even for the first six games. He failed to break the Briton's service once and lost his own five times in a match that lasted only 46 minutes. The answer was that the Californi piled up 65 errors—nets and outs—as compared with Perry's 36.

Where Stofen's chief ailment was in hitting wildly out of court, Shields soon developed an aggravating habit of plopping the easy kind of shots into the net and never quite shook himself free from it. He literally beat himself into helplessness against the corded barrier.

Crawford's bad fall, behind the baseline, in the eighth game of the opening set, made things a bit dark for the Anzac, momentarily. He appeared headed for a service break when he spilled, twisted his left ankle and arose to limp around the court. He lost three straight points and the eighth game. He quickly recovered his poise, however, served a love game and topped off his comeback by breaking Shields' delivery in the twelfth game at love for the first set.

Shields Beats Himself.

Thus fortified, Crawford settled to a flawless defensive game that soon had Shields flailing and fighting wildly to offset it. Time and again the giant New Yorker had advantages that stirred the big-crowd, only to provoke groans by his carelessness or misguided attempts to outmaneuver the Anzac.

Shields broke through Crawford's service for a 4-3 lead in the second set. This was his best chance to capitalize a comeback, but again he frittered it away. At deuce on his own service in the eighth game, Frank changed racquets, but netted two points. He double-faulted twice in the tenth game to lose the set.

The end was in sight now and it was only a question of when the next break would come. Shields hung on doggedly for six games in the final set, but dropped his service in the eighth and failed to collect a point in the final game as Crawford crashed over the winning points. Big Frank had power to burn, as his total of 30 earned points to Crawford's 13 revealed, but he made nearly twice as many errors—96 nets, outs and double faults to Crawford's 55.

GILBERT PILOTS TWO BELMONT VICTORS; PURSES TOTAL $40,200

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Little Johnny Gilbert, the country's ranking jockey last year, piloted home the winners of two of the East's richest fall stake at Belmont Park today.

The Pittsburg, Kan., flash sent C. V. Whitney's High Glee over six furlongs in 1:13-1-5 to win the 27th running of the matron stakes and its purse of $18,800, and then accounted for the historic Lawrence realization, worth $21,400, with Samuel Riddle's War Glory.

Then Gilbert won a six furlong dash with Sation, driving the Joseph E. Widener gelding the distance in 1:10 1-5, only one-fifth of a second slower than the track record.

Situation Scrambled.

Gilbert's victories in the matron and realization, served further to scramble the two and three-year-old championship situations, respectively. High Glee, a candidate for the $100,000 futurity, which will be renewed next Saturday, paid 3 to 1 as the third choice while War Glory, with the Dwyer as his only important stake victory, returned his backers 12 to 5.

Showing a liking for the fast racing strip, War Glory set all the pace to duplicate the 1920 victory of his famous sire, Man O'War. The three-year-old's time of 2:44 2-5 was not to be compared with his daddy's track record of 2:40 4-5, made in winning the race under 126 pounds. War Glory carried 123.

Joseph E. Widener's Golden Way, was made the 8 to 5 choice to win the one and five-eighths mile race but finished badly beaten fourth as W. R. Coe's Pomposity, a 15 to 1 shot, chased War Glory home, finishing a length back. Sarada, owned by F. A. Griffith, of Rochester, N. Y., was third, another three lengths to the rear and four lengths in front of Golden Way.

Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Inlander, crossed the line in fifth place. He was in front of only one horse, H. C. Phipp's Enthusiast, an added starter.

Stayed in Front.

Like War Glory, High Glee was in front all of the way, the daughter of Pharamond II held up the start for several minutes but Gilbert got her away with the leaders. She had to be ridden out, however, to beat E. R. Bradley's Bazaar, victor in the Hopeful, by one and one-half lengths. Jabot, stablemate of High Glee, was just a neck behind in third place while far back trailed the Wheatley stable's Slapdash, split-favorite with Bazaar at 13 to 5. Charles T. Fisher's Mata Hari, sensation of the early Western season, showed a brief flash of speed and then stopped, finishing last in the field of seven.

OLYMPIC WINNER DEFEATS LOVELOCK AT 1500 METERS

tory — 4:07.6 — and in doing it equalled the world record for the distance of 3 minutes 49.2 seconds.

The victory of Beccali, whose Olympic triumph made him a national hero, was enthusiastically reecived by a crowd which filled the monster stadium to its last seat.

The two had run almost shoulder to shoulder the entire distance in an encounter which paralleled for thrills the sensational duel at Princeton, N. J., July 15, in which Lovelock defeated Bill Bonthron and set the mile record but this time it was Lovelock who could not match the other man's finishing drive.

The race came as a climax to a week of varied competition in the inter-University games, called the "college olympics" and which saw the team of four United States athletes take three titles. The opportunity for a fourth was lost today when Henri Laborde, former Stanford star, failed to appear in time for the shot put.

Laborde won the discus throw Thursday while Johnny Morriss won the 110-meter high hurdles in the world record equalling time of 14.4 seconds and Ivan Fuqua won the 400-meter run. The fourth member of the team, Joe McCluskey, formerly of Fordham, was defeated in the 3000-meter final Thursday.

For the Americans it was the end of a successful European campaign during which, with four others, they won every meet in which they participated. The other four—Glenn Cunningham, Ralph Metcalfe, John Anderson and George Spitz—sailed for home some time ago.

County Title Contest.

The Kirkwood B. M., champions of the Missouri Tri-City League, will play the second game of a three-game series with Allenton, Mo., champions of the Meramec Valley League, for the championship of St. Louis County this afternoon. Allenton won the first game last Sunday, 5-3. The game will be played on the B. M. grounds at Peeke avenue and Geyer road, Kirkwood, starting at 2:30 p. m.

EDGEMONT AND VESS CLUB MEET IN TITLE GAME

The Edgemont A. C. and Vess club of St. Louis will open a three-game series to decide the championship of the Missouri Illinois Trolley League at Edgemont this afternoon.

Officials of the Edgemont club have made arrangements to increase the seating capacity of the State street park in anticipation of one of the largest crowds ever to witness a play-off series on the East Side.

Edgemont won the second half of the split schedule which closed last week by finishing three games ahead of the St. Louis Dairys and Vess club. Vess captured the opening half title.

In the four league games between Edgemont and Vess this year, Edgemont has put over three decisions, all by close contests. The lone win for Vess came in the first game of the season, 1 to 0.

Both clubs have star pitchers. Johnny Harshany and Al Besse have been the mainstays in keeping the East Side club on top during the final period. Both boys are expected to give a good account of themselves in the title series. Glen Barthleme and Norman Jung, two dependable hurlers, are with the Vess club.

Manager Besse of Edgemont has decided to send Harshany against the Vess club today. The Edgemont ace has won his last five five games. Barthleme will be his opponent.

Three umpires will be in charge of the series games with Jimmy Dunn behind the plate and Harry Gantz and Christ Lauth on the bases. Starting time is three p. m.

BILLIKEN

WASHINGTON, ST. LOUIS U. HAVE FINE PROSPECTS FOR NEW SEASON

By James M. Gould.

Football officially edges into the local sport-picture today when the Billikens of St. Louis University begin regular practice. Tomorrow the picture becomes greater in scope when the Washington University Bears start work under direct supervision of their coaches. Squads of candidates for both elevens have been in unofficial training for several days.

Both Head Coach Conzelman at Washington and Head Coach Walsh at St. Louis plan two workouts a day until school starts, when the labor will be confined to a single afternoon period. Washington has a bit the better of this plan, inasmuch as registration there is later than at St. Louis.

No Coaching Changes.

There have been no changes in the coaching staff at either college. At St. Louis, Coach Walsh again will have Joe Maxwell as chief assistant, while at Washington Gale Bullman will act in that capacity to Jimmy Conzelman. Former Billiken stars will help out in freshman work and Johnny Davis will be in charge of Washington's first-year men under Conzelman's supervision.

As nearly as can be told at this early date, prospects are excellent at both schools. St. Louis lost the more heavily by graduation—a complete regular eleven going out—but there also were "holes" left in the Washington personnel. However, the Bears will receive several high-grade players from last year's freshman squad, while the Billiken varsity will be reinforced the same way, but to a lesser degree. Whatever difference there may be in this regard is made up at St. Louis by the return to varsity play of Kersens, Axtell and Philpot, three experienced linemen, who, while at school, did not play last season. All of these men were regulars in 1931 and their return undoubtedly will help Coach Walsh solve some of his line-problems.

The finest pre-season spirit in years exists at Washington. For the first time in several seasons, there is no even theoretical division of authority and faculty, alumni and undergraduates are solidly behind Jimmy Conzelman in his effort to bring Washington out of its football "slough of despond." Conzelman will have a squad of some 50 with whom to work and, despite some unexpected losses of last year's freshmen, starts the campaign with first-class prospects for a first-class team. The Bears' offense, not very powerful in recent years, should this year be most attractive in its scoring strength.

At St. Louis a great forward line is assured. Two great backs will be missed—Benny LaPresta, one of the finest running backs seen here in years, and Joe Stephan, who, by putting on a little added scholastic steam, graduated early and thus is unavailable. As Stephan had been worked in much of the Billiken offense in Spring practice, Chile Walsh will have to get busy early to find a capable substitute for Stephan. It would be a miracle if he were able to find a back who could make the team's followers forget LaPresta.

Attractive Schedules.

Both university teams have attractive schedules. Washington has branched out considerably and, for the first time in many moons, will have Big Ten opposition here. The Bears meet Illinois on October 7 and Chicago, October 14—a very severe early-season test. Other fine Washington games are those with Missouri and St. Louis U. The only out-of-town game for the Bears will be one with Creighton at Omaha.

The Billiken schedule also has its points as games are scheduled here with Missouri, Kansas Aggies, Loyola of the South, Marquette and, of course, the year's big feature, the meeting with the Bears on Thanksgiving Day. So, both schedules provide real attractions and, at the same time, difficult tests of the power of the Billikens and the Bears.

St. Louis will open a day ahead of Washington, playing James Millikin on the night of September 29. Washington plays McKendree the next day. While neither Conzelman nor Walsh expect to have to "open up" against their first-game opponents, Conzelman will, if necessary, because McKendree handed the Bears a set-back last year and such things no longer are overlooked or passed up by Washington.

A game with Wichita University, scheduled by St. Louis to be played at Wichita and the only out-of-town contest booked for the Billiens, may be canceled. Wichita has had some little trouble with the North-Central Conference and, also, all is not quite settled as to the financial responsibility of the Kansas school.

RICHARD HUDLIN WINS MIDWEST NEGRO TENNIS TITLE AT CHICAGO

Richard Mudlin of St. Louis retained his crown in the Midwest Negro tennis tournament held in Chicago yesterday when he defeated Ted Thompson of Washington, D. C., in the final match. The scores were: 6-4, 7-5, 4-6 and 6-4. Mother Seams of Chicago, 65 years old, paired with Miss Ora Washington, to win the women's doubles honors. Eugene Turner beat Earl Waddell for the junior singles title.

CARDINALS PURCHASE ROCHESTER SHORTSTOP

Tom Carey, shortstop with the Rochester club of the International League, a Cardinal farm, has been purchased by the St. Louis club for 1934 delivery, it was announced last night. Carey, a right-handed batsman, is 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds and is hitting .297 for the season. He is 24 years old.

Carey, a native of Hoboken, N. J., started with the Chambersburg club of the Blue Ridge League in 1930 and hit .306 in 107 games. His purchase by the Cardinal organization was recommended by Scout Charley Kelchner, the same scout who picked up Charley Gelbert, Joe Medwick and Fred Frankhouse. Carey was shifted to Houston in the spring of 1931 where he won recognition as the best fielding shortstop in the circuit. He batted .240 in 1931 and raised his figure to .274 last season. His 1933 record shows he has participated in 155 games, going to bat 639 times, making 190 hits and scoring 89 runs. He has totaled 246 bases on his hits, getting 30 doubles, four triples and six home runs. He has stolen nine bases and driven in 51 runs.

LOCAL HURLERS OPPOSE CHICAGO IN GAME, TODAY

A team representing the St. Louis Hurling Club will oppose the "Young Ireland" team from Chicago at Sherman Park this afternoon. The St. Louis club last year won the midwest title from the "Sarsfields" of Chicago.

Hurling is the national sport of Ireland and many fine hurlers have come to this country in the past six or seven years. Among them are Ryan brothers, Martin Dume, John Walsh, Joe O'Brien, Phil Ryman and the Coleman brothers who play with the St. Louis team.

The length of the hurling field is from 140 to 170 yards and the width 84 to 100 yards. Side lines and end lines which connect lines at 21 to 70 yards from each end of the field line at center of the field. In the center of each end line are the goal posts, 16 feet high, 21 feet apart and a cross bar eight feet from the ground.

Lines five yards long and at right angles to the goal line are marked four yards from each goal post. The ends of these lines are connected to form a parallelogram in front of each scoring space, five yards by 15 yards.

A goal, counting for three points, is scored when the ball is played between the goal post and under the cross bar and a point is allowed when the ball is driven over the cross bar and between the uprights.

The lineups for today's game:

Mrs. Felbinger advanced through her defeat of Lois Keene, 6—2, 6—1 in the semifinals yesterday afternoon. Today's match will start at 3 o'clock.

The winner of the men's singles event will be awarded the first leg on the new Frederick Von Harten challenge cup. A player winning this prize three times will receive permanent possession of it. In a third round men's singles match Wayne Smith defeated Meyer Pankewer, 6—3, 6—4.

Joey Parks to Meet Light on Wednesday's Card

Charley Light, Indianapolis, stable mate af Jacke Purvis, has been signed to meet Joe Parks in one of the three 8-round bouts which Jack Tippett plans in support of the 15-round contest between Howard Scott, Claremore, Ok., and Dave Barry at Battery A Wednesday night.

Light is heralded as a rugged youngster, probably the toughest opposition which Parks has faced since turning professional and is expected to extend Joe to keep his record clear. Parks has not lost a bout since turning professional.

Scott is due to work at the National Gymnasium this afternoon. He lost a decision to Barry in their last meeting although he knocked Dave to the floor.

Eddie Edson, Jack Callahan's protege, is scheduled for a bout. He was to have made his first appearance in several months on the last card but his opponent, Steve Marre, injured his hand. Edson was on the shelf for some time owing to a broken hand.

In the other eight-round contest, Speedy Schafer, Negro boxer, will meet an opponent who has not been selected as yet.

Programs News; Changes on KSD.

JIMMY DURANTE and Ruth Etting will succeed Bert Lahr on the Rubinoff program at 6 o'clock this evening on KSD. The comedian and singer will be featured on this program until Eddie Cantor returns to it late next month. Rubinoff and his orchestra have gone to Los Angeles whence the program will be broadcast. Cantor's return to the air has been scheduled for tonight, but he is still working on a movie. Lahr will stay off the air for a month, then on Oct. 4 will be switched to the program now featuring Fannie Brice and George Olsen's orchestra Wednesday nights on KSD. . . . Mike Childs' orchestra is playing half-hour programs over KSD six nights a week—at 8:15 Sundays, 10:45 Monday, 10:30 Tuesday, 10:45 Wednesday, 10 o'clock Thursday, 10:45 Friday and 10 o'clock Saturdays, as well as several evenings from 9:05 to 9:15. . . . Jack Coleman, tenor, will sing with Vincent Riffici's Mediterraneans on the Community Forum at 5:30 today on KSD. . . .

First Nighter to Shift.

ED GARR, imitator and actor who made a name for himself in "Strike Me Pink," will be on Ben Bernie's program at 7 o'clock Tuesday night on KSD. . . . A new Sunday night show is to start at 5 o'clock this evening on KWK and the WJZ chain. Vincent Lopez will lead the orchestra. Alice Joy will be the featured singer. Johnny Morris, singer, and Charles Lyon and Joan Blaine as "Charlie and Joan" also are billed. Five noted arrangers have been engaged to make the music to be played sound "different." . . . Talks on hobbies will be broadcast at 2:30 Wednesdays over the WJZ chain, starting Sept. 13. . . . The First Nighter programs, New York hears, will be shifted Sept. 29 from the WJZ chain to the WEAF net and KSD. On Oct. 1, a program designed to interest the same audience that listened to the Fu Manchu series will go on the WJZ chain, presumably including KWK.

Kate Smith Continues.

THE Parisian program will be back on KMOX and the CBS net at 7:15 tomorrow night. Agnes Moorehead, comedienne, will be starred as "Cousin Anna" in humorous episodes in Paris. Nat Shilkret, just back from Europe, will lead the orchestra. . . . Kate Smith's final commercial program was that of Wednesday night. This week she goes on a non-advertising basis, at 7 o'clock tomorrow night, at 6:45 Tuesday and 7:15 Wednesday. In addition to KMOX, she will sing over 64 CBS chain stations from coast to coast. . . . Erno Rapee will lead a symphony orchestra of 50 musicians on the new Bath Club programs that will feature Nino Martini, tenor, and Jane Froman, and will open Sunday night, Oct. 1. . . . Wendell Hall "the Red-headed Music Maker," is on the WJZ chain at 11:15 mornings Tuesday to Saturday. . . . John Lewis, baritone, who has been featured for several years by WSM, Nashville, has signed a contract to sing leading roles for the St. Louis Municipal Opera next season in "The Student Prince," "New Moon," "Great Day" and "The Fortune Teller." . . . The Singing Lady is back on the air, scheduled on WGN (720) at 4:30 the first five week days. She is Irene Wicker, who also plays roles in several of WGN's dramatic broadcasts. She and Allan Grant, her accompanist, are said to have written more than a million words of continuity for this program and fully 2000 songs.

WHAS, WSM, WCKY Form Their Own Chain.

WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville, Tenn., and WCKY, at Covington, Ky., across the river from Cincinnati, have formed their own chain. WHAS is in the CBS chain. WSM is in the WEAF net and carries some WJZ chain programs. WCKY is a link in the WJZ chain. They have a permanent wire hook-up and exchange non-advertising studio programs as well as carry the same commercial broadcasts. . . . Non-network stations now may broadcast presidential addresses carried by the national chains by paying wire charges for lines from the nearest wire terminal. This policy has been adopted voluntarily by the WEAF, WJZ and CBS networks. The policy, however, does not apply in cities where stations are members of the chains, unless the network stations in such cities give permission. St. Louis, of course, has a station in each chain—KSD, in the WEAF chain, KMOX in the CBS net and KWK in the WJZ chain. It has been announced that if the proposed Ed Wynn chain gets going and extends to the Mid-West, WIL is to be its local station. . . . In a drive to close 45 to 60 Texas stations alleged to be operating without Federal permission, the Department of Justice recently filed suits against 18 persons, charging violation of the Federal radio act. The stations have organized and challenged the right of the Federal Government to regulate them, declaring that they operate only in intrastate commerce and so are subject only to State control. The radio act prescribes a fine of $5000 or five years' imprisonment, or both, as a penalty for operation of an unlicensed station. The Radio Commission asserts that it has a clear case in the Texas controversy.

"Jack" Sampson, radio inventor and expert, has begun a special day course in radio theory and practice at the David Ranken Jr. Trades School. Classes meet five days a week from 8:30 a. m. to 4:10 p. m., for a term of 40 weeks ending June 29. The course ranges from fundamentals of electricity and magnetism applying to radio through use of radio instruments and testers, tubes, circuits, receivers and service work to broadcast transmitters, public address systems, photo-electric cells applications and television and sound pictures practice.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY BOARD SEEKS $1,095,022 FOR 15 MONTHS

Effort To Be Made To Increase Tax Levy in Line With Change To Fiscal Period.

The finance committee of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors yesterday drafted a bill to appropriate $1,095,022 for carrying on the county's business for the next 15 months.

Under a recent enactment of the State Legislature, the fiscal period was changed to begin in December, instead of September, requiring provision for an additional three months expense in the new fiscal appropriation. Because of the additional expense an effort will be made to increase the tax levy of 6¼ per cent to 31¼ per cent to take care of the increase.

The appropriation recommended will absorb a deficit of $287,216 from the last fiscal year. The committee's recommendation will go before the Board of Supervisors Tuesday. The last appropriation, for 12 months, was $947,000.

The police radio sent two University City policemen to the 500 block of North Central avenue yesterday, where they found they had been summoned by a woman who had been frightened out of her home by two wasps. They calmed her and killed the wasps.

240,000 SIGN PLEDGE TO TRADE UNDER NRA

Total Expected to Reach 350,000 — About 65 Per Cent Are Women.

Signed pledges to patronize businesses displaying the Blue Eagle had been received last night by the St. Louis Committee of the National Recovery Administration from 240,000 persons.

About 65 per cent of the signers were women, John Ring Jr., director of the campaign said, stating that 85 per cent of the buying is done by women.

Ring expects to obtain more than 350,000 signed pledges. Distribution of blank cards and consumers' insignia to homes in St. Louis was completed last Friday.

Delivery of blank pledge cards to homes in St. Louis County was started by postmen yesterday. Mrs. Anthony C. McCartney of Webster Groves, chairman of the women's division of the St. Louis County organization, said 600 women workers would make a house-to-house canvass to encourage signing of pledges when distribution was completed.

The St. Louis office of the Department of Commerce yesterday received 689 signed copies of the President's voluntary blanket re-employment agreement from Missouri employers, entitling the signers to display the Blue Eagle. The total for the State is 64,791.

Chairmen for the women's division in eight county towns and communities were announced. They are: Mrs. J. H. Amos, University City; Mrs. Rose Fearnly, Normandy; Mrs. Eva Moss, Brentwood; Mrs. O. B. Avery, Deer Creek; Mrs. Jerry W. Cerny, Oakland; Mrs. Mitchell Hutchinson, Western St. Ferdinand Township, and Mrs. J. A. Ritter, Maryland Heights.

INCREASE IN MARRIAGES HERE ATTRIBUTED TO NRA

890 Licenses Issued in July and August, 159 More Than Last Year.

An increase in marriages during July and August was attributed by George W. Hartman, clerk of the City Hall Marriage License Bureau, to the greater security felt by those with jobs since the NRA program began.

In those two months, Hartman said, 890 marriage licenses were issued, 159 more than in the similar period last year. Young men, he pointed out, are reluctant to undertake the responsibilities of marriage unless they feel sure of their jobs.

MRS. SOL MATHES DIVORCED

Decree and Alimony Awarded on Charge of Indignities.

Mrs. Rhoda C. Mathes, 7126 Princeton avenue, University City, was divorced from Sol Mathes, waste material dealer, by decree of Circuit Judge Mulloy entered yesterday at Clayton. She charged general indignities.

By a stipulation signed by Mathes, who did not contest, she remains owner of the home. She is to get $400 alimony for the period prior to Sept. 1, $135 a month for the ensuing year, and $75 a month from that time on. They were married in 1917, and separated last July.

REAL ESTATE

PART FOUR — ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 10, 1933. — PAGES 1—12D

SITE IS LEASED FOR BUILDING ON LINDELL CUT-OFF

RECORD RENTAL IS REPORTED INVOLVED

Property Owned by Paul and Leo M. Grace and Dunn Estate — Other Activity in Vicinity.

Arrangements have been perfected for a long-term lease on a large plot of ground at the southeast corner of Lindell boulevard and Theresa avenue, in the section between Grand boulevard and Channing avenue, which is to be widened to conform with Lindell west of Grand and Olive east of Channing.

The identity of the lessee has not been disclosed, but it is understood to be an automobile concern. A record rental has been established on the valuation of the property, it was stated. Negotiations were conducted through the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

Virtually dominating the Lindell-Theresa cutoff, the site has a frontage of 125 feet on Lindell, with a depth of 144 feet on Theresa. It embraces two holdings, 75x144 feet on the corner, owned by Paul and Leo M. Grace, and 50x144 feet adjoining on the east, owned by the Dunn estate. The Grace parcel is vacant. A five-story building known as 3446-48 Lindell, stands on the Dunn lot.

Plans involve razing the building owned by the Dunn estate and construction of a new building embracing both holdings. The new building would meet the individual requirements, of the lessee, and form an attractive addition to this section of Lindell.

Acquired as Investment.

The Graces purchased the Lindell and Theresa corner on the eve of the stock market crash and Thomas Dunn acquired the five-story building, together with its site, just prior to his death in 1931. The purchase price of the latter included the benefit costs incident to the widening of the street. Both purchases were inspired by the advantages destined to accrue to the street, especially to property on the north side between Grand and Channing avenue, with the widening of the thoroughfare, according to George H. Streiff, manager of real estate department of the Mercantile-Commerce, who handled the negotiations.

The site is diagonally opposite the Shell oil station on the northwest corner of Lindell and Theresa and just west of the 150-foot triangular wedge in the bottle-neck between Grand and Channing, the stretch to be widened.

The Nokol Building at 3436-38 Olive street, with 45x144 feet of ground and owned by Fred J. Cornwell Jr., recently was purchased by Fred J. Fuhlage, a client of the Edward A. Bokern Real Estate Co. This building is occupied by the Becker-Marsden Co., agents for the Nokol oil burners, under a long lease.

Several years ago, the Del-home Co. acquired the building at 3414 Lindell, with a frontage of 160 feet, under a 99-year lease, providing for annual rentals graduating up from $7500, about 5 per cent on a ground value of $935 a front foot.

New Building Planned.

The Godefroy Manufacturing Co., of which C. M. Codefroy is president, a client of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., has disclosed plans for replacing its present building at 3504-06 Olive street, with a new structure extending through to Lindell, on which the site has a second frontage.

Plans are being considered for several buildings with fronts on both Olive and Lindell, made possible by the reduction in the depth of the lots on the north side of Lindell, incident to the widening. The widening project involves taking 20 feet off the north side of Lindell.

Work on the widening of the street was begun last week.

NATIONAL HOME LOAN MEETING AT CHICAGO

3000 Representatives to Seek Unity of Action for Economic Recovery Sept. 13-15.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The future of the nation's home mortgage structure will be analyzed in Chicago next week by nearly 3000 representatives of America's eight-billion-dollar building and loan industry.

Unity of action in moves for economic recovery will be a major purpose at the convention of the United States Building & Loan League, Sept. 13-15 inclusive.

Managers of home mortgage institutions will be urged to do an extensive loaning business in the months to come, so expansion of credit in this field may be furthered.

Valid appraisals for today's homes, steel houses, lending policies with respect to total home cost, interest rates—these will be leading "problem topics" for forum discussion.

The three-point program of the Roosevelt administration for safeguarding the home owner and the advancement of home ownership will be outlined by William F. Stevenson, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Board, and Horace Russell, general counsel for the board.

Statistics showing accomplishments of the industry during the last year will be made public in a report by H. F. Cellarius of Cincinnati, secretary-treasurer of the league.

Officials of the league say associations generally find business improving, "with their record for the past year surpassing, both in safety and in actual loaning done, all expectations of those who have been close to depression conditions."

"This convention will bring together leading representatives of institutions holding mortgages on 2,200,000 American homes," said Ward B. Whitlock, league president.

"On the investment side they represent the interests of some 10,000,000 savers, most of whom come from the wage-earning and lower-salaried class."

A. T. Terry, Son & Co. Moves.

Albert T. Terry, Son & Co. has removed to new quarters at 111 North Seventh street in the Wainwright building. This concern has long been established in the real estate field. Albert T. Terry, senior member of the firm, is a past president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

Many Persons Trade Things They Have for Things They Want

Resourceful persons do not permit reduced income to keep them from getting some of the things they need or want.

With the Post-Dispatch Exchange Columns, many persons trade things they have for things they want.

Most homes and offices have articles stored — and no longer needed. Most of these articles lose in value due to deterioration or through later models coming on the market. Articles of this kind often can be traded to advantage.

Many readers are watching the Exchange Columns in the Post-Dispatch to fill their needs. Many are using the Exchange Want Ads to tell what they have to offer.

To place an Exchange Want Ad call MAin 1111 and ask for an adtaker.

New Attempt to Salvage In Gold From British Sank Off Zuider Zee 13

(Copyright, 1933, in America by the St. Louis Post-D Times Co., elsewhere by The Times, London. AMS

DYNAMITE, in the theory of the Dutch latest and perhaps most interesting at 000,000 in gold and silver bullion fr Lutine that went down at the entrance of th Terschelling Island in 1799. Salvaging equipm aged by a violent explosion Aug. 24. Divers damage was such as could have been caus though no motive for dynamiting has been hunting for one. In the meantime the salv replace their destroyed equipment. It seem be resumed before next year.

A number of previous attempts have been made to recover the treasure; three of them met with a measure of success. Equipment designed by a German submarine inventor, constituting a radical departure from that used in similar ventures, will be employed in the present effort.

The Lutine, once the pride of the English Navy, went down off Terschelling during the night of Oct. 9, 134 years ago, with all hands save one. The frigate was bound for Amsterdam with a cargo of gold and silver, amounting to $12,000,000. When it left Yarmouth Roads on Oct. 8, it had orders to deliver to the command of the British armies, fighting at that time against the French in Northern Holland, £140,000 for pay and to proceed from there to Hamburg, where the shipment of gold and silver bars was to be deposited.

At that time Hamburg was in the throes of a financial panic and the Bank of England had sent the money to support sterling and the interests of Great Britain there.

Sole Survivor's Story.

According to the story told by the only survivor of the disaster, the beginning of the voyage was auspicious. The Lutine set out with full sail, but about 4 p. m. there came a change in the weather. Suddenly the air became thick with clouds and rain, a strong wind set in and it became apparent at once that danger was near.

Sail was shortened and the ship made ready for a bitter night. Driven by a west-northwest gale, with ever-increasing fury, the strongly built vessel was tossed about the seas until 10 p. m., when the sails were torn away. Engulfed by mighty waves, the Lutine was thrown against the Westerguende of Terschelling. Soon it was badly battered; finally the ship foundered.

Immediately the Lutine came into the possession of the Dutch crown in accordance with international law. As time went by the treasure lured inventors and adventurers, and many plans for salvaging it were devised. Immediately after the disaster, in the year 1800, efforts were started. Divers succeeded in bringing to the surface gold coin worth $330,000. Shifting sand made further operations impracticable, and it was not until 1821 that the next effort was undertaken.

Only insignificant recoveries were made in 1821, but the idea of the sunken treasure lying in the vicinity of Terschelling spurred new efforts, and again in 1857 a partly successful attempt was made to bring up the bullion. Besides a considerable amount in gold and silver coins, 46 gold bars and 64 silver bars were reclaimed, valued at $255,000. Again in 1886 an attempt was made, and $11,000 in gold was taken from the wreck.

Treasure Beneath Munitions.

As time went by salvaging operations became more and more difficult. The fact that the Lutine's treasure chamber lies beneath the munition chamber presented an additional problem. Heavy cannon balls, stowed near the chamber, proved to be an obstacle almost as difficult to overcome as the sea and the submarine sand.

New Attempt to Salvage $12,000,000 In Gold From British Ship Which Sank Off Zuider Zee 134 Years Ago

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 2.

DYNAMITE, in the theory of the Dutch police, has halted the latest and perhaps most interesting attempt to salvage $12,000,000 in gold and silver bullion from the English frigate Lutine that went down at the entrance of the Zuider Zee, near Terschelling Island in 1799. Salvaging equipment was seriously damaged by a violent explosion Aug. 24. Divers have reported that the damage was such as could have been caused by dynamite; and though no motive for dynamiting has been suggested, police are hunting for one. In the meantime the salvors are setting about to replace their destroyed equipment. It seems likely the work cannot be resumed before next year.

A number of previous attempts have been made to recover the treasure; three of them met with a measure of success. Equipment designed by a German submarine inventor, constituting a radical departure from that used in similar ventures, will be employed in the present effort.

The Lutine, once the pride of the English Navy, went down off Terschelling during the night of Oct. 9, 134 years ago, with all hands save one. The frigate was bound for Amsterdam with a cargo of gold and silver, amounting to $12,000,000. At that time Hamburg was in the throes of a financial panic and the Bank of England had sent the money to support sterling and the interests of Great Britain there.

Sole Survivor's Story.

According to the story told by the only survivor of the disaster, the beginning of the voyage was auspicious. The Lutine set out with full sail, but about 4 p. m. there came a change in the weather. Suddenly the air became thick with clouds and rain, a strong wind set in and it became apparent at once that danger was near.

Sail was shortened and the ship made ready for a bitter night. Driven by a west-northwest gale, with ever-increasing fury, the strongly built vessel was tossed about the seas until 10 p. m., when the sails were torn away. Engulfed by mighty waves, the Lutine was thrown against the Westerguende of Terschelling. Soon it was badly battered; finally the ship foundered.

Immediately the Lutine came into the possession of the Dutch crown in accordance with international law. As time went by the treasure lured inventors and adventurers, and many plans for salvaging it were devised. Immediately after the disaster, in the year 1800, efforts were started. Divers succeeded in bringing to the surface gold coin worth $330,000. Shifting sand made further operations impracticable, and it was not until 1821 that the next effort was undertaken.

Only insignificant recoveries were made in 1821, but the idea of the sunken treasure lying in the vicinity of Terschelling spurred new efforts, and again in 1857 a partly successful attempt was made to bring up the bullion. Besides a considerable amount in gold and silver coins, 46 gold bars and 64 silver bars were reclaimed, valued at $255,000. Again in 1886 an attempt was made, and $11,000 in gold was taken from the wreck.

Treasure Beneath Munitions.

As time went by salvaging operations became more and more difficult. The fact that the Lutine's treasure chamber lies beneath the munition chamber presented an additional problem. Heavy cannon balls, stowed near the chamber, proved to be an obstacle almost as difficult to overcome as the sea and the submarine sand.

Scientists and inventors were working on the problem at the start of this century. New plans were frequently devised, but none of them brought any tangible results. Since 1929 the Consolidated Drosin, Texel & Doeksen Co. of Terschelling has taken over the Lutine salvage rights.

For four years the concessionaires have vainly tried to free the wreck of sand. Shifting sand hills have made progress impossible. It was finally decided to find a new means to overcome this troublesome factor, which practically nullified all previous efforts, so as to enable the salvaging crew to go ahead with the work unhampered by the action of sand.

Description of Equipment.

Finally an apparatus was invented by E. Becker, who saw active submarine service with the German Navy in the World War. This invention is said to permit the carrying out of salvaging operations in spite of quicksand. It contains two separate parts, a shaft and a cone. The whole affair is propelled by a 320-horsepower Junkers airplane motor, which also operates a suction motor, designed to free the wreckage of sand. The shaft has a diameter of 12 feet, while the cone enlarges from a minimum width of 12 feet to approximately 120 feet. Both are constructed of metal plates. The shaft extends for a length of 51 feet and the cone has a length of 27 feet. The overall length is about 78 feet. The weight of the whole machinery is estimated at 175,000 pounds.

The motor, connected with the suction pump, drives through a separate channel the sand and water sucked in from the wreck. As the sand is removed the whole apparatus will go deeper and deeper until the spot has been reached on the deck of the ship beneath which the treasure of the Lutine is buried.

Damaged in Explosion.

It was this equipment that was damaged by the explosion last Saturday, Aug. 26. It was noticed that something was wrong with the steel tower and it was subsequently established that there had been an explosion below the water line. A police investigation indicated that the explosion occurred the previous Thursday, when inhabitants of the island heard a loud report.

The company undertaking the salvage announced it intended to build a new tower, but as the construction will take considerable time, it is likely that all salvage operations will be suspended until next spring.

It was Lloyd's which attempted the salvaging operation in 1857. Brought up at that time was the rudder of the Lutine and its bell. Today at Lloyd's in Leadenhall street, London, a chair and table made from the rudder stand in the committee room, at the service of routine sittings of directors. To the bell was assigned a more impressive duty. It was hung, and for years has rung the joyous announcement of a missing ship's safe arrival at some port, or the melancholy news that one more ship has been lost. At the first stroke the brokers and underwriters fall silent. Two strokes mean that a long overdue vessel has turned up. But three strokes mean that hope is gone for its return.

Bell the Last Word.

The Lutine bell's message has been, with few exceptions, the last word. So accurate are its an-

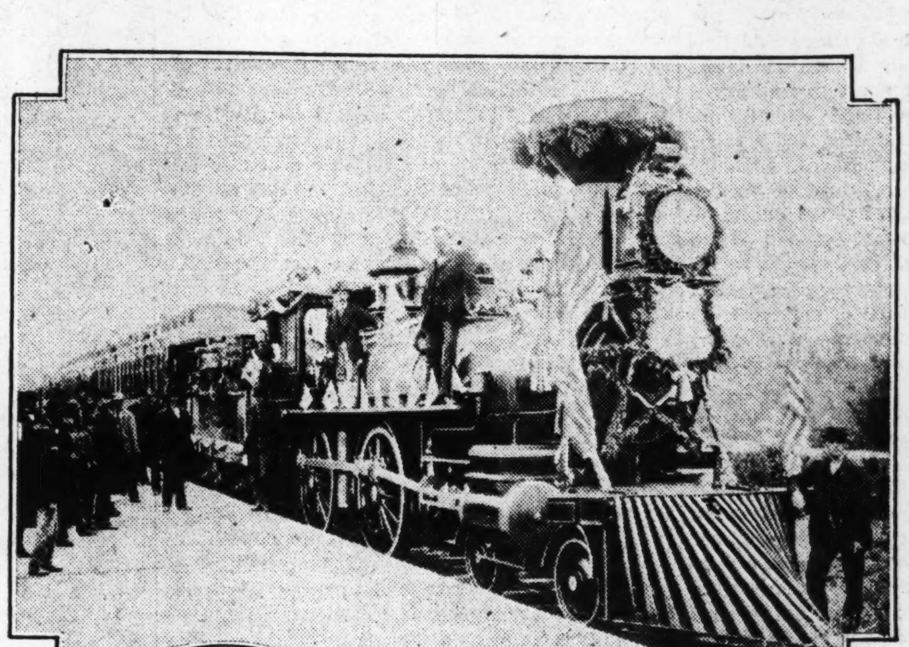
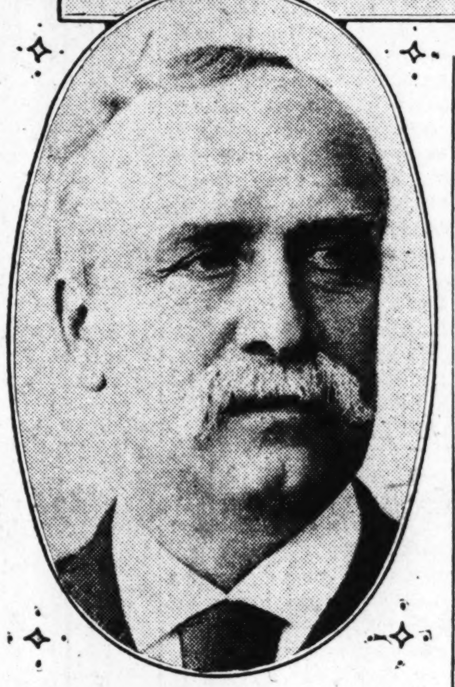
Recalling "The Last Spike," 50 Years Ago To Complete Railroad to the Far Northwest

Son of Henry Villard, Promoter of Northern Pacific, Tells of Jubilant Celebrations After Conquering Indian Perils and Nature's Rugged Obstacles, Only to Have Great Fortune Swept Away a Few Months Later.



Gaily decorated train, arriving from the East with guests from Europe and many American notables, to witness the driving of the last spike in laying rails to connect the industrial part of the nation with the Pacific northwest.



Henry Villard, financier who undertook to build the Northern Pacific railroad and then had his vast fortune swept away in a few months after the last rail had been put in place.

By OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD.

FIFTY years ago the West and Northwest were thrilled by the news of the completion of the third transcontinental railroad line, the Northern Pacific. The laying of 2045 miles of rails from Lake Superior to Puget Sound was completed on Wednesday, Aug. 22, 1883, at 3 p. m., so its chief engineer, Gen. A. Anderson, reported to Henry Villard, the president and completer of the railroad in a telegram still carefully preserved. But the line was not officially declared finished until the official driving of the last spike took place on Sept. 8.

This fiftieth anniversary is passing with comparatively little notice. The stress of the depression has prevented the Northern Pacific from carrying out elaborate plans for a half-century exposition in St. Paul or Minneapolis and perhaps in Oregon, too. This would have recalled not only the feats of the men who drove the line through the intense heat and the bitter snows of the plains and the wilderness and surmounted the main spur of the Rocky Mountains when the task seemed almost impossible, and of the executives and financiers who supplied the means, but would have recorded the tremendous change in railroading during the Northern Pacific's existence as a completed road.

From Indians to Motor Menace.

Today its problems are not to keep a line going through a sparsely inhabited country, at times menaced by roving bands of hostile Indians, and to induce settlers to take up the farms it could offer by reason of its enormous land grant. In 1933 it faces competition never dreamed of in 1883. Then the people in Oregon and Washington rejoiced that it had been made possible for a passenger to reach New York in six days after leaving Puget Sound. Since then the Northern Pacific has itself cut approximately 12 hours from the running time of its trains between St. Paul and Seattle. Today the traveler in a hurry can cover the distance by airplane in 23 hours.

Even more menacing is the motor car which speeds in a few hours over a distance it took the covered wagons of the pioneers weeks and months to put behind them. Motorbus and auto trucks are now serious competitors of every railroad, but even more menacing are the private automobile and the hard-surfaced highways. Every mile of cement road laid is a blow at the nearest railroad.

Henry Villard himself was so thoroughly afraid of the rail competition in so undeveloped a country that he combined all the Oregon railway and navigation lines into one great group and then brought the Northern Pacific into the system as essential to its safety—and was duly charged with creating a dangerous monopoly. What he would say today to small and cheap, self-propelled vehicles crossing from Portland to St. Paul on fine roads parallel to the Northern Pacific in almost as fast time as it took his fastest trains in 1883, it is not easy to imagine. I know, however, that many railroad men believe that not a single railroad will ever recover its passenger traffic of 1929.

Peep Into the Future.

There are still other novel problems confronting the Northern Pacific and all the railroads in 1933. Where will they stand when the "New Deal" is complete? Will they all be part of one great private system? Are they destined soon to pass into the hands of the Federal Government itself? There is one high official of the Northern Pacific who can see no way out but Government ownership and management.

Washington and the Interstate Commerce Commission now completely control the financing of the roads, even to the salaries of their officials, fix the freight rates and practically the wage rates. Under the present Federal Conservator, Joseph Eastman, the railroads are being taught, as in war-time, to think and act as one, to make huge savings by combinations and joint use of facilities. Some of them are so heavily indebted to the Treasury, which alone has kept them out of bankruptcy, that today there seems little chance of their ever paying the money back.

Is there not every prospect, in the face of a certainly steady increase in automobile competition, of the establishment of one great system?

Even the legislation of a few years ago requiring regional groupings of railroads made Northern Pacific officials rub their eyes. For what was Theodore Roosevelt's most striking act when President in 1902-03 but engineering the dissolution of the Harriman combination of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads—which Henry Villard believed to be inevitable if the Northern Pacific was not to be ruined—through the Northern Securities Co.?

Hardships of Builders.

But if the whole aspect of railroading today is utterly different from that of 1883 when there was still actually pioneering in America, that ought not to make the Northwestern states forget today the debt they owe to the men who forced the road to completion, hundreds of whom lie in unmarked, forgotten graves. The most eloquent passage in his address at the Last Spike ceremonies, Henry Villard devoted to these heroes who from the days of the first surveying parties risked their lives to open up a new empire. Their achievements, he said, "form a great sum of human patience and perseverance, energy and bravery, hardship and privation." It was "a mighty struggle of mechanical and manual force against the direst obstacles of primitive nature." Turning to his guests from all over the United States and England and Germany, he added: "You have the testimony of your own eyes that this highway had to be carved, as it were, out of very wilderness where we found nothing to help us—no labor, no food, no habitations, no material, no means of transportation."

The Indian menace was never to be taken lightly so that portions of the little regular army of those days were constantly in use as guards; on the other hand, the completion of the railroad practically marked the end of Indian fighting, for the last conflict with the Indians at Wounded Knee—a massacre the late Bishop Brent called it—occurred seven years after the driving of the last spike.

Something of what the construction gangs endured may be gleaned from a letter from Henry Thielsen, supervising engineer of the Western Department of the Northern Pacific, of Feb. 17, 1882: "Snow," he wrote, "lies five feet deep on the work, but the men—eight thousand of them—march out bravely to their tasks, the snow up to their armpits." Speaking of one contractor, he said: "His ox-teams break a road through the woods and use it till dark, but by the next morning the wind has drifted enough snow to completely obliterate the track and a new road has to be made."

Day of the "Last Spike."

The temperature in that terrible winter often stood for days at 16 and 20 degrees below zero. But the 15,000 Chinese laborers, who alone made the completion of the road in 1883 possible, stuck to their tasks when white men failed to leave their huts. The building of the Mullan Tunnel through the main spur of the Rockies could not be finished on time, such were the physical difficulties, so that a temporary road had to be built over the heights. But neither the men nor their engineers faltered, not in the cold nor in the intense midsummer heat of Montana and Washington.

When the four great excursion trains from the East and one from the West—the first trains officially run over the entire line—arrived on the afternoon of Sept. 8, at Cold Creek, 55 miles west of Helena, for their final ceremonies and the driving of the last spike, they found a grandstand with seats for 1000 persons. Their gaily decorated and festooned engines passed over a temporary track; in front of the grandstand there were several hundred yards of the main line left unfinished, the ties laid but not the rails. Awaiting them was a motley crowd of soldiers, cowboys, Crow Indians, track-layers, and construction men, a band, a guard, and cannon from Gen. Nelson A. Miles's regiment, the "Fighting Fifth" regular Infantry.

The guests hurried to their seats on the stand—for the trains were unavoidably late—and Henry Villard began the speaking by discharging "by this public acknowledgement, as much as possible, the heavy debt of gratitude" that weighed upon him for the achievement of the actual physical builders of the road.

Gen. Grant and Other Notables.

There followed the orator of the occasion, the ex-Secretary of State, William M. Evarts, and he in turn was succeeded by Ex-President Frederick Billings of the Northern Pacific, Sir James Hannen, representing the English guests, the German Minister to the United States, Herr von Eisendecher, who is still living in Baden-Baden at a great age, as a retired Minister and also Admiral of the German fleet that was; Dr. Rudolf Gneist, the great German historian; no less than five state and territorial Governors, and, in response to demands from the crowd, Gen. Grant himself.

With a humor that tickled the crowd, the ex-President of the United States declared that he was entitled to great consideration on that occasion, for when under Jefferson Davis, as Secretary of War, the first surveying expedition was organized by Gen. Isaac I. Stevens, then Governor of Washington Territory, he, Gen. Grant, issued the supplies for the expedition. He was then a Lieutenant, Acting Quartermaster and Commissary at a post on the Columbia River. He knew that Mr. Billings had put a lot of his own money into the Northern Pacific, but he had put in Uncle Sam's and that was a greater feat which especially entitled him to honor. He roused his audience to great enthusiasm when he declared that these intercontinental railways would have amounted to but little but for the veterans of the Civil War, who, after the great struggle, sought and conquered the Western Territory and made possible the building and support of the transcontinental railroads.

Crow Chieftain's Lament.

Finally Iron Bull, a Crow chieftain, who with six other Indian leaders stood on the platform like statues throughout the ceremonies, made a pathetic and moving speech in the sign language. Translated, part of it reads:

"There is a meaning in my part of the ceremony and I understand it. We have reached the end of our rule and a new one has come. The end of our lives, too, is near at hand . . . Of our once powerful nation

Question Raised of State's Right To Change Vote From No to Aye On Child Labor Amendment

Mrs. Roosevelt Urges Ratification While Dr. Butler Thinks It Dead Since 24 Rejected It—Courts May Have to Decide.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, wife of the President, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, recently have made public statements about the proposed child labor amendment to the Constitution, which derive from conflicting points of view, and which have raised several nice questions of constitutional law that only the Supreme Court of the United States can definitely answer.

Writing in the Woman's Home Companion, Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out that several states which previously had rejected the amendment had changed their position and had gone on record as favoring the amendment. She urged, in the name of humanity, that the amendment be ratified next year.

Dr. Butler, in his address Sunday, before the Parrish Art Museum at Southampton, Long Island, declared that since 24 state Legislatures had rejected the proposed amendment, the Federal Secretary of State long ago should have declared the amendment lost.

Fifteen state Legislatures have ratified the proposed amendment. They are: Arkansas, Arizona, California, Wisconsin, Montana, Colorado, Michigan, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Washington, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Illinois and Oklahoma.

Two States Reverse Stand.

Nine of these states ratified the amendment this year. Of these nine, North Dakota and New Hampshire had previously certified to the State Department their rejection of the proposal.

Other states still on record as having rejected the measure are: Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Idaho, Indiana and Virginia.

The question now arises, can a state which has once formally rejected a proposed constitutional amendment, change its certification of the vote from no to aye?

Mrs. Roosevelt urged the states which had previously rejected the amendment to follow this course.

Records Only Ayes.

The State Department, which records the actions of the state Legislatures as certified to it by the state Secretaries of State, has taken neutral ground and merely files the certifications until three-fourths of the state Legislatures or conventions ratify the proposed amendment. Thus North Dakota and New Hampshire are now recorded at the State Department as having ratified the amendment.

Officials of the State Department explained today that they construe the law as authorizing them merely to proclaim the amendment ratified after three-fourths of the states have certified their approval. They said that they knew of no law or precedent authorizing them to proclaim a proposed amendment rejected after more than one-fourth of the states had registered their disapproval.

Federal Statute.

The Federal law relating to the proclamation of the adoption of constitutional amendments is in section 205 of the revised statutes which reads as follows:

> Whenever official notice is received at the Department of State that any amendment proposed to the Constitution of the United States has been adopted, according to the provisions of the Constitution, the Secretary of State shall forthwith cause the amendment to be published, with his certificate, specifying the states by which the same may have been adopted, and the same has become valid, to all intents and purposes, as a part of the Constitution of the United States.

The statutes contain no provision for the proclamation of the rejection of a proposed amendment by more than one-fourth of the states.

Dr. Butler's View.

In response to an inquiry whether he believed that a state could legally change a negative certification to an affirmative approval, Dr. Butler telegraphed to the Post-Dispatch.

> Answering your telegram, my position is that when a constitutional amendment is submitted to the states, the Secretary of State presides at a roll call. If and when 36 states vote 'aye,' it is his duty to declare the amendment carried; if and when 13 states vote 'No' it is his duty to declare the amendment lost. Twenty-four states having voted 'No' on the child labor amendment long ago, it should have been declared lost. To assume that a proposed amendment may remain pending forever, and that states may change their votes from 'no' to 'aye,' but not from 'aye' to 'no,' as was done in the case of the fourteenth amendment, is contrary to reason and common sense.

Dr. Butler's reference to the fourteenth amendment related to the fact that New Jersey and Ohio attempted to withdraw their consent to the Civil War amendment before the Secretary of State had proclaimed it ratified. Dr. Butler intimates that these states were not permitted to change their votes. Constitutional records disclose, however, that the then Secretary of State proclaimed the amendment adopted after 28 other states had registered their approval.

If the child labor amendment is finally approved by a large number of states changing their position, as Mrs. Roosevelt has urged, only the Supreme Court of the United States can settle the question. Advocates of the amendment, however, are going ahead with the work, hoping that enough state Legislatures will act affirmatively to put the amendment in the Constitution next year.

'Reasonable Time' an Element.

If the child labor amendment is finally ratified by three-fourths of the states, another question the Supreme Court probably will be asked to decide is whether it was ratified within a "reasonable time" after its submission by Congress.

Unlike the eighteenth amendment and the twentieth or "Lame Duck" amendment, the child labor amendment contains no stipulation that it will be inoperative unless formally ratified within seven years of its submission to the states.

As late as last year, the child labor measure was generally grouped with the so-called "lost" amendments which apparently have been forgotten by the State Legislatures. The other "lost" amendments were two submitted in 1789, one submitted in 1810 and the Corwin amendment of 1861.

The last word of the Supreme Court on the subject of these "lost" amendments was spoken in 1921 in a prohibition decision titled Dillon vs. Gloss, 256 U. S. 368.

"Lost Amendments."

Commenting on the fact that a proposed amendment must be adopted within a "reasonable time" to become operative, the court said:

"These considerations and

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

France and the Rhine.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SPECULATION as to what locality will be the scene of the next European war is eagerly indulged in by many writers in Europe and America. Some think the Polish Corridor may be the battleground, others give the Rhine preference. Mr. Brisbane decides that it will be the Rhine. Not later than 1935, the guns will roar again and the pale blue sky of Germany will be darkened by 5000 bombing planes that will annihilate all life in that unhappy country. The French await only a slight provocation from Hitler to start the excursion.

It would be interesting to complete the story by telling us what France would gain by the destruction of her hated enemy. Will she have more restful nights and better dreams? But, above all, she would have that precious river, the Rhine, all to herself.

The desire for the Rhine has haunted France ever since the days of Louis the Great. The French consider the acquisition of the Rhineland a national necessity. Must France have the Rhine? A broad belt of German-speaking territory separates France from the river and where she is in possession of bordering land, she got her title by conquest.

The disintegration of the German Empire after the Thirty Years' War gave France welcome opportunities to cut as many slices off the Teutonic territory as she needed to get a foothold on the banks of the coveted river (Chambres de Reunion). She has been too successful, and today the genuinely German city of Strassburg, in an entirely German land like Alsace, endures French sovereignty. France's immediate object in the Rhineland today is the Saar Valley. The people of this district will decide by plebiscite in 1935 whether they wish to stay German or become French. The French are under no delusion as to what will be the verdict of the German Saar. Perhaps that may furnish the pretext for an armed conflict.

However, France feels that she ought to have all that's west of the great waterway, so that Caesar's phrase, "The Rhine is the frontier of Gaul," may be a fact at last. But only after a death struggle with Germany can France hope to achieve her goal, and the price paid for the treasure will be tremendous. The inevitable consequence will be a combine of the German and Slav worlds, and the Russian, who entered Paris victoriously in 1814, may be the master of Europe instead of a guest.

It is hardly imaginable that France can wish to bring about this abomination; only the decree of blind fate can lead her on to such insane action. And if she were to reduce Germany to a vassal of Russia, her days will also be numbered, and the Rhine for which she is striving so ardently now will have lost its charm and its significance as a landmark of European civilization.

When Henry VIII Fixed Prices.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A PROPOSAL has been put forward by Senator Borah to fix prices. Perhaps your readers are not all familiar with a like experiment tried in England about four centuries ago.

On hearing that prices had been advanced at local fairs, Henry VIII directed his Sheriffs to appoint valuers, to visit all fairs and fix the prices of all commodities offered for sale.

The order was obeyed. A few weeks later, the following decree was entered upon the record of the King's Councils:

"Our former decree relating to fixing prices at local fairs is rescinded. We cannot induce an Englishman to take sixpence for goods worth a shilling."

It ought not to be necessary to add, you cannot force an American to pay a shilling for goods worth sixpence.

Fish Hogs at Lake of the Ozarks.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PERSONAL appeals to the State Fish and Game Department have availed nothing. Thousands of honorable sportsmen appeal to you to inform the public of conditions on the Lake of the Ozarks for the past two years.

There have been many days when individuals not only carry away with them undersized fish, but many more than the amount permitted by law. A more outrageous demonstration of fish hogs has never presented itself than that on Labor day, when hundreds of men were fishing just under the dam of the Lake of the Ozarks. Twelve or 18 would be congregated on a wooden platform about 15 or 16 feet long and, as quickly as they would catch a string of fish, weighing from about 35 to 100 pounds, they would leave in their boats and another group would take their place. They would catch fish of all varieties and so fast they would not stop to string them.

There is a State law about fishing a certain distance away from the dam, as well the size of fish and the amount. If a Deputy Game Warden does happen to appear on the scene, the only thing he is interested in is licenses.

If this indiscriminate destruction continues to be permitted (it might be stated that a similar situation prevails below the dam at Osceola), it is time that the sportsmen took a hand to prevent it.

An Appeal to Reason

Addressing the British Association for the Advancement of Science last week, Sir Frederick Gowland Hopkins absolved science from blame for the paradox of poverty in the midst of plenty.

He says man is to blame; that so far from having permitted science to improve humankind, as we might have done, we have merely used it to promote greed and selfishness. Thus war, which has long been unworthy of us, has been rendered by science immensely more terrible than it ever was. The machine, which should long ago have been made the means of greater leisure for the masses and a more equitable distribution of wealth, has become nothing better than a means to greater profit for the few, the enslavement of the many, the impoverishment of all those essential to its true social function. Money, which might be the golden key to human happiness, became the plaything of gluttons, whose machinations are so involved that even they do not always understand them.

This is all quite true. It has all been said time and again. It is so universally acknowledged that the whole world is waiting for something to be done about it; for some nation to stand steadfast for the arbitrament of international disputes by better means than bloodshed; for some nation to make the machine the servant of man, so lifting, in the fine phrase of Flinders Petrie, "his face to the skies"; for political science somewhere to cast off every feudal shackle, every outworn chain forged upon it by the medieval past, and strike boldly for a conception of life which will bring man abreast of his man-made time; for political economy to devise a monetary system which will free the world from the bondage of inflexible credit.

It was so the American Republic came into being. The consequence of long forward-looking, it brought to fruition the progressive thinking of centuries. When Jefferson died, they found his desk full of the things which found application in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. The true fathers of the Republic, in an intellectual sense, were such men as the Encyclopedists of France. They envisioned a time when life would be better; when freemen would walk the earth; when government would be by consent of the governed; when men, to quote Mr. Wells, would become like gods.

No thinking man believes that the social and political imperfections of his own time are lasting. Aristotle, whose thought is said to have directed the course of civilization in Europe for two thousand years, lived at a time when impiety toward a fantastic mythology was punishable by death and all labor was slave. Karl Marx, whose philosophy has become one of the dominant forces of our own time, lived in exile at a time undreaming of his prophetic quality. Not to believe that life is ever moving; that the law of change takes precedence over every law that man can make; that human genius wears no time's collar, is to doubt the paramount truth.

All human progress is an appeal to reason. To reason with a people or an age is to ask them or it to abandon all prior belief and believe something new. The young Abraham Lincoln exhorting the people against human slavery as an economic anachronism as well as a social atrocity has his heroic counterpart in every chapter of history. It is precisely this spectacle we are seeing in the United States today. The prophets among us urge us to face truth and reality, to turn our backs upon primary certitudes, which, in the words of James Harvey Robinson, we "learned at our mothers' knees."

Right thinking is ever receptive to social and political necessity. Not even the Supreme Court of the United States, powerful tribunal that it is, can read the law except through the spectacles of our own time. The New Deal, so-called, seeks to adapt a great nation to new conditions. It asks us to realize that scientific and mechanical progress in the past quarter of a century has left our social and political science far behind. With production far outstripping consumption, and with money forced by invention into an unprecedented relation to the welfare of the masses, the New Deal proposes to limit production and bring about a fairer distribution of wealth; to make the farmer quit planting the fence corners with tractors; to give labor a greater portion of the profits of the machine; to bring the purchasing power of the people to a point at which it will balance production and consumption; to make money the servant of man rather than that invisible monster which devours him; to make government serve the good of all, not the selfish ends of a few.

There is nothing new about any of these. They have been urged upon us for many years, have at last become an appeal to reason. How are we going so to face the nation about? How are we going to bring about a balance of power between labor and capital in which each will respect the rights of the other? How are we going to make the feudal theory in industry, with its excessive profits and its swollen bonuses, realize that in such ways it can only destroy itself? How are we going to substitute short days for long days, short weeks for long weeks, fair wages for low wages, adult labor for child labor, fair competition for unfair competition, order for chaos? How are we going to make money a medium of popular exchange instead of chips on the gaming tables of Wall Street?

We can do these things only by appealing to the reason of the American people. They must believe in the new way of life as a social and political necessity, a way out of the great dilemma. Grover Cleveland said: "It is a condition, not a theory, that confronts us." We do not know the way, only the necessity that we take it. Thus we stumble into the dark beyond which is the light, as men always have done, whether Columbus sailing into the west, the Wright brothers first feebly flying at Kitty Hawk, or Marconi first timidly signaling space.

We know not what awaits us. We know only that behind us lie "the grey Azores."

William S. Kenyon

The country was saddened yesterday by the news of the death of Judge William S. Kenyon. Here was a man of intellectual and moral distinction. When he resigned from the Senate, at President Harding's personal request, to accept appointment to the United States Circuit bench, public opinion was divided as to wisdom of the decision. He had won high esteem in the Senate, where his ability imbued his utterances with the quality of authority and his intellectual integrity captured popular imagination. There was, in addition, a charming graciousness of manner that made him full heir to the great statesman he succeeded—the lamented Dolliver. The country was reluctant to see this spokesman of the "forgotten man" leave the Senate where his vigilance and vision were both needed.

The public doubts were quickly resolved. The distinguished Senator became a distinguished Judge, at the first opportunity that presented itself. St. Louis was the scene of that opportunity. It was while serving on the Circuit Court of Appeals in this city that he wrote his opinion in the Teapot Dome litigation that read like a blast of retribution. The judgment of the Federal District Court at Cheyenne, Wyo., which held as honest and valid the lease of Teapot Dome to the Mammoth Oil Co. by Secretary of the Interior Fall, was swept aside as a transaction "tainted with favoritism, collusion, and corruption, defeating the proper and lawful function of Government." In a word, Judge Kenyon spoke precisely as Senator Kenyon would have spoken. History, of course, subsequently confirmed not only the legality of the Kenyon opinion, but its searing indignation.

Judge Kenyon's death is a loss to the country; how great a loss can only be conjectured. He was still a young man, at 64, with years of usefulness ahead. The logic of events in their present making pointed to that highest professional preferment—a place on the United States Supreme Court, for which he was eminently qualified by his philosophy, his attainments, and his character. But if we feel, as we may, that his death leaves us a poorer people, we may also find comfort and assurance in the fact America still breeds men like William S. Kenyon.

The Leisure of Tomorrow

As an aggressive measure against the depression, American industry is being geared to a shorter day and shorter week. The objective, of course, is to put men to work, to pass employment around to the millions who have been industrially disfranchised by the economic collapse. The plan commands popular support, notwithstanding its application may be difficult in many instances.

One voice, of considerable carrying power, is heard in opposition. It is that of John W. Davis, who delivers the fiat that "no man should work less than eight hours," and goes on to ask: "What are they going to do with all the extra hours? Honestly, how many men do you know who will use them for self-improvement, for reading a worth-while book, or for studying something they need?"

The worth-while man of yesterday, today or tomorrow has been, is and ever will be a reader of good books. Those books will appear in an infinite variety of format and binding. There will, as always, be those to find "books in the running brooks." Some will find them in lathe and saw, some in chisel or brush, some in the companionship of woods and streams. A solitary geranium on a window sill in the sullen ugliness of a city may be an eloquent book, quite as fine a volume as acres of professionally coddled gardens.

That much of the leisure of the longer week-end will be squandered in such abominations as golf, tennis, bridge and baseball; in the futile pursuit of the wild turkey; in the hopeless quest of snaring the rainbow trout, and along the thousand and one other paths of wanton waste, may be conceded as highly probable. That may be dreadfully unfortunate, but, even so, there are hard-boiled eggs among us who will gaze at that gay, colorful, idle sector of the panorama without shedding a tear.

John W. Davis is an accomplished gentleman who has played stellar parts with distinction. The world knows him as a candidate for our highest office, as Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, as Solicitor-General of the United States, as an eminent lawyer, as one honored by many universities, whose speech has the cultured accent of sound scholarship. He has been a worker whose eight-hour day has often extended to the midnight oil. But the auspices of his toil have been inspiring, the rewards of his efforts munificent, his whole career a glamorous narrative of success. The eight-hour day of grueling physical labor, or sweat-shop hopelessness, or murderously monotonous drudgery is so far removed from his experience as, apparently, to be beyond his perception. Now, if a portion of leisure is to be allotted the sons and daughters of Martha, the children of Mary may, we submit, suspend judgment as to how that leisure will be spent.

The Old Southern Hotel

Broadway and Walnut was a fire of lights that May evening. Shining carriages drove up in rapid succession, depositing swallowtailed gentlemen with ladies in diamonds and the sweeping fashions of Garfield's last spring in the White House. Inside, gay chatter ran from one flower-lined room to another and up broad stairs from floor to floor. Before the ladies' parlor an ever-changing fringe of escorts waited the reappearance of dancing companions and caught glimpses of final touches through the door. And how the celebrants ate in the dazzling banquet room with its labyrinth of peacock tails! Dinner began with consomme de volaille en tasse. The hors d'oeuvres were olives d'Espagne, jambon de Westphalia glacee and salade de fruite a la Baden-Baden. Then came the huitres d'Orleans, petit tartelettes d'ecrivisse a l'Empereur, and then the entrees, filet de boeuf en Belle-vue, filet de poulet a la Vienne, riz de veau pique en caisse a la Parisienne and cotelettes d'agneau a la quatre saison. Did the guest relish fantaisies culinaires? There was a wide choice: la grande chasse du jour, le progres culinaire a la St. Louis, saumon de Kennebec sur sorie a la Brighton, attelettes de dindon en aspic en maniere de couronne. Then the salads and the desserts—six of one and half a dozen of the other! Glasses sparkled with Cook's Imperial, Brunswick's private stock, Pommery Sec. Mumm's extra dry, Amontillado sherry, Roederer's carte blanche and virgin brandy. It was the dinner of another century. Tear down the old Southern Hotel? There is nothing to tear down but a dust-covered shell. Its soul passed with a generation and in the years between there has been only a poignant memory.

Why Play Poker?

THE MIRRORS OF WALL STREET. Anonymous. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York City.)

WHEN, some years ago, the anonymous "Gentleman With a Duster" polished up the "Mirrors of Downing Street," his purpose may well have been to aid certain individuals of great importance in British statecraft to see themselves as others saw them, while the others presumably looked on, enjoying the spectacle not without the spice of malice.

The use of the word "mirrors" in the title of the present work, which discusses the characters and careers of 13 Wall Street "supermen," must be given a different application; for that has happened, and is still happening, in the world which renders the question as to how these men see themselves far less important than the question as to how we as a society shall see them—and ourselves in them!

We shall miss the vital point of the book if we persist in viewing them in the muckraking spirit as "horrible examples," to be assailed with righteous wrath. If we persist in viewing them merely as shrewdly scheming, ruthless individuals, to be condemned as individuals, we shall not get far in the understanding of our tragic predicament. For, in the larger view, which alone greatly matters in the long run, these men at their worst are to be considered only as social phenomena, rendered possible by a social theory and a life philosophy which, as a people, we have most enthusiastically indorsed.

If we deplore what we read in "The Mirrors of Wall Street," we should also consider that, as a people, we have cherished the belief that to get without giving is admirable; that to be rich, by any means, is to be "great"; and that to be richer is to be greater. The mole philosophy involved in the prevalent expressions, "to get by" and "to get away with it", is, in the last analysis, our real and only enemy, and not the conspicuously and even ludicrously "successful" practitioners of that philosophy, which has resulted in making our civilization itself appear very much like a vast racket.

It is scarcely intelligent to hate those who have done what the majority of us would have been exceedingly rejoiced to do, had we been sufficiently well endowed with the requisite acquisitive gifts and with "luck." Surely the spectacle of an acquisitive society solemnly indicting the successful exponents of its own philosophy is no less funny than would be the spectacle of the losers in a crooked poker game indicting the winner on moral grounds. Perhaps, when sufficient suffering has sharpened our social understanding, we may come to seek the cause of our troubles in the poker game itself—and stop the game. Why play poker for the means of life?

The 13 "supermen" of Wall Street here considered are as follows: Morgan, the younger Rockefeller, Baker, Lamont, Aldrich, Potter, Mitchell, Kahn, Dillon, Chrysler, Eugene Meyer, Dawes and Baruch. The first chapter, entitled "Wall Street and Washington," serves admirably as a general introduction. Therein is told the story of the Federal Reserve System from the year of its founding to the year of the crash, showing how the New York Federal Reserve Bank gained control over the system, thus defeating its original purpose; how thereafter the 12 banks of the system, acting as a unit under the direction of the controlling bank, produced the fatal inflation which reached a climax in the fall of 1929.

It is the story of one Dick Crissinger, an inadequately experienced small-town banker, by no means conspicuously endowed with either intellect or character, who, by virtue of being a crony of the incredible Harding, was appointed Governor of the Federal Reserve Board! It is also incidentally the story of one Andrew Mellon, who, before his sudden leap to London, was "the greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Hamilton"!

As for the 13 portraits that follow, those who delight in spiteful caricatures of the mighty will be disappointed. The anonymous author apparently writes with inside knowledge, and his portraits are convincingly human. Admirable gifts and qualities are discussed with due respect, yet always a mellow sense of humor is ready to deal amusingly and illuminatingly with foibles and vanities, hypocrisies and crooked dealings, ignorance, delusion, blindness—all appallingly plentiful among these Olympian arbiters of our destinies; and such arbiters they are and shall continue to be, so long as the vast credit schemes they and a score or more of others represent are privately owned and controlled.

In the Rockefeller chapter, it seems probable that some light is thrown obliquely upon the recent announcement of John D. Junior's enthusiastic indorsement of the NRA. The light emerges from a discussion of what is alleged to have been the real reason for the ousting of Col. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard of Indiana; a reason, it would seem, less concerned with lofty ethical principles than may have been supposed. The following quotation suggests the nature of the light:

"Without so much as consulting 26 Broadway, Col. Stewart annexed the Pan-American Co. to the Standard of Indiana and proceeded forthwith to enter into the most acute competition with the pet companies of Mr. Rockefeller: New York and New Jersey. There was not much that could be done about it. Stewart simply pointed to the Sherman law. He could not be budged.

"Here was the most unprecedented situation: two major Standard companies actually competing, and competing at the expense of Mr. Rockefeller. That was but the beginning. Not content with his Mexican supplies, Col. Stewart bought for a song a great sector of the Lake Maracaibo property in Venezuela, built one of the world's greatest refineries on the Dutch island of Aruba in the Caribbean, and proceeded to pump refined gasoline onto the Atlantic seaboard at unheard-of prices. . . .

"Despite the fact that Mr. Rockefeller had virtually no interest in the Indiana company, he organized the stockholders and Col. Stewart was ousted. One week later, the discredited Col. Stewart was given a pension of $50,000 a year for life by the Standard of Indiana. . . .

"The elimination of the Pan-American nuisance appears to be but one move in the Standard's present policy of reorganizing the world oil map. It was preceded by the merger of the New York and Vacuum; a it would surprise none familiar with the companies' policies if the next great merger involved the New Jersey and Californi corporations."

May not the suspension of the Sherma Law be welcomed as a rather good break i the business of vastly increasing a tremendous fortune in a society already sick unto death with fortunes vast and numerous?

This leads the reader to the vital truth o the whole book—the truth that will remai when most of these men have been forgotten and the rest of them discredited as lead ers. It is the obvious truth that machi industrial society is unable to support th fabulously costly social phenomena her considered, and all its millions of men and women and children at the same time.

The fatal contradiction in the scheme i to be found in the fact that such vast private accumulations of wealth operate to increase producing power, while the very fac of their existence and increase indicates a fatal progressive limitation of the consuming power of the millions. If the flow o wealth through the social body be likened to the circulation of the life-sustaining blood—and the analogy is certainly apt— then such private accumulations of wealth must be likened to a clotting of the bloo in a portion of the social organism, a condition no less deadly, in the long run, to th portion concerned than to the rest of th organism.

The problem cannot be intelligently di cussed in terms of class hatred. We are only men with needs and desires. Nor nee one be any sort of social doctrinaire, neatly tagged for ready identification (and probably vilification), to declare the folly tha is indubitably ours. It is a simple mathematical absurdity that is involved.

Either such social phenomena as those here considered will disappear, by virtue o a reasoned reorganization of society i keeping with modern industrial technique, or they must be safeguarded by some ruthless class dictatorship. In the latter case, a very large and steadily increasing portio of the children of the earth would have be frankly disinherited; as a considera portion already is, unavowedly, in fact.

It should not be difficult to predict th outcome of such a perilous arrangement.

Advisory Commission Will Hear Views of Repealists and Drys — Session at Hotel Jefferson.

ANOTHER MEETING SET FOR KANSAS CITY

Voluntary Committee Will Present Mass of Data It Has Gathered to Governor's Board.

The Advisory Commission on Liquor Control, appointed by Gov. Park to suggest to the Legislature a plan for liquor regulation in Missouri, will have its first hearing tomorrow at 10 o'clock at Hotel Jefferson.

Representatives of repeal and dry organizations and individuals who have studied the subject have been invited to present their ideas.

The hearing tomorrow and Tuesday is the first arranged by the commission, which will hold only two meetings, the second to be in Kansas City. Walter Williams, president of the State University, is the chairman.

Special Session Planned.

After the two hearings the commission will prepare recommendations to the Legislature, which, it is expected, the Governor will convene in special session before Jan. 1 to enact a liquor control bill and to take up other pressing subjects requiring legislative action.

The Missouri Advisory Committee on Liquor Control, a voluntary organization which succeeded the wet organizations active in the campaign for ratification of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, will present to the Governor's Commission a mass of data it has collected.

To Issue Questionnaire.

Through a questionnaire, which will be circulated in all counties in the State, the voluntary organization will attempt to obtain a cross-section public opinion on liquor control, and the replies received wil lbe placed at the disposal of the Governor's commission.

Opinion will be sought through the questionnaire as to whether liquor should be manufactured by the State or by private companies, whether it should be distributed through state-owned stores or privately owned establishments, and whether the number of licenses issued should be restricted. Place and hours of sale, form of permits, restriction or regulation of profits, local opinion and the form of State control administrations are other subjects included in the questionnaire.

TO VISIT LAKE OF OZARKS

Market Development Committee Will Study Trade Requirements.

The Market Development Committee of the Salesmanagers' Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, will visit the Lake of the Ozarks next Thursday and Friday, stopping at Jefferson City and several other communities on the way.

The party, traveling by bus, will spend Thursday night at the lake, and will inspect Bagnell dam. The purpose of the trip is to observe development in the lake region and obtain information on future trade requirements.

the general purport and spirit of the article (V) lead to the conclusion expressed by Judge Jameson 'that an alteration of the Constitution proposed today has relation to the sentiment and the felt needs of today, and that, if not ratified early while that sentiment may fairly be supposed to exist, it ought to be regarded as waived, and not again to be voted upon, unless a second time proposed by Congress.'"

"That this is the better conclusion becomes even more manifest when what is comprehended in the other view is considered; for, according to it, four amendments proposed long ago—two in 1789, one in 1810 and one in 1861—are still pending and in a situation where their ratification in some of the states many years since by representatives of generations now largely forgotten may be effectively supplemented in enough more states to make three-fourths by representatives of the present or some future generation. To that view few would be able to subscribe, and in our opinion it is quite untenable. We conclude that the fair inference or implication from article (V) is that the ratification must be within some reasonable time after the proposal."

Thus the child labor amendment probably has two legal obstacles to surmount even if it is ratified by three-fourths of the states: First, the Supreme Court probably will be asked to determine whether states can change their vote from "no" to "aye"; and, second, whether the amendment was ratified within a "reasonable time."

Recalling "The Last Spike" To Complete Railroad Line

there are now but a few left; just a little handful—and we, too, will soon be gone. After the Indian has given way to civilization, the whites will come."

Iron Bull finished by handing to Henry Villard not the golden spike, of which the press had already written reams, but the same rusty iron spike which had been the first spike driven when the railroad was begun at Thompson Junction in Minnesota in 1870. With this the platform ceremonies concluded, being marred only by one serio-comic incident. The bandmaster of the Fifth Infantry had composed a special piece for the occasion entitled "The Iron Horse," dedicated to Mr. Villard, and punctuated at intervals by the whistle of a locomotive. Unfortunately no one had notified Mr. Villard of this, then unusual, part of a musical composition, and when the engineer of a locomotive right alongside of the grandstand took pleasure in showing the gathering just how loud a whistle his engine had, Mr. Villard dispatched an aid and ordered the engineer to cease. The composer's heart was broken.

There followed the last scenes of this historic occasion. When the speaking finished, at a given signal the gangs from the East and the West began to lay the rails amid great cheering and shouting. The rails for the gang working from the East were pulled up on a flat car drawn by a black horse who bore a sign reading: "My name is Nig. I have drawn the rails 750 miles." It was his last day of hard work for the contractor on that occasion gave him to Henry Villard, who shipped him to his summer home at Dobbs Ferry where Nig spent his last years in happy idleness.

Legends About Last Spike.

When the last rail had been put down and everything was in readiness for the driving of the last spike which is now in the possession of the writer of this article, Mr. Villard and his party left the grandstand and proceeded to the junction of the rails. Unfortunately the place was not roped off and the actual ceremony of the driving of the spike was marred by the crowding in upon the participants of the motley group of spectators. That prevented any photographing of the driving of the last spike, in the absence of more cameras, with the resultant rise of an amazing number of legends as to what really took place. There is even a picture in the Montana Historical Society representing Gen. Grant and Mr. Villard standing quite by themselves with the General driving the spike in leisure and comfort, and I have read the testimony of several "eyewitnesses" who saw the "golden spike" that never existed.

I was only a small boy at the time, who sat with his two brothers and sister in the grandstand, thrilled even by the long speeches of the occasion. I followed my father to the last rail as closely as I could and saw him hold up the iron spike and give it to H. C. Davis, then an official of the Manitoba Railroad who had driven it in 1870. After that the crush was so great I was shoved aside by the surging crowd that towered above me, and did not see everything. But what happened then is incontestably established. My father struck the next blow and was followed in turn by Frederick Billings, his predecessor as president of the Northern Pacific; Mayor Carter Harrison of Chicago, William M. Evarts, Carl Schurz, Gen. Grant and my mother. The hand of her infant son, not four months old, she had with difficulty held him in her arms in that surging crowd, was placed upon the hammer and the crowd gave three cheers for "Henry the Second," who was unhappily destined not to live to maturity or to bear long his father's name. Several others took their turn, including Iron Bull, in his full regalia, and ex-Senator Nesmith of Oregon. Then, the ceremonies over, the trains continued on their way. As Edward Everett Hale wrote at the time, "energy, pluck and character in the Northern Pacific and allied roads" had "created for ages a great avenue of civilization."

Rejoicing in Northwest.

From the beginning of the trip to the Last Spike ceremonies the progress of Mr. Villard and his 336 guests was a continuous ovation. The twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis outdid themselves; it is safe to say that nothing like the extraordinary civic parades which took place there have ever been seen in the Northwest in the decades that have elapsed. It was not only their mutual rivalry which spurred them on. In St. Paul Gen. Grant shared with Mr. Villard the honors of the occasion. In Minneapolis President Arthur, Gen. Sheridan, and the then Secretary of War, Robert T. Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln, also sat on the reviewing stand, having just arrived over the Northern Pacific from a vacation trip to Yellowstone Park. Minneapolis still boasts that it took four hours for its parade to pass a given point, that in line were 14 bands, 15 companies of regulars and militia, 134 mounted men, 809 wagons, and thousands of men engaged in the various flour and lumber mills of the city. The many floats pictured the entire history of Minnesota and Minneapolis from the days of the French missionaries; on one stood Father Hennepin, the first missionary in Minnesota, addressing a band of eagerly listening Indians. The special correspondent of the Chicago Tribune telegraphed that "such a vast industrial procession has probably never been seen in this country, and in it was represented every vocation in life."

In Fargo, at Mandan, at Jamestown—everywhere there were decorations and the most open-handed hospitality. At Bismarck, where Mr. Villard laid the cornerstone of the Capitol of the then State of Dakota, which building was burned only two years ago, Sitting Bull, but a few years before one of the most dangerous enemies with whom the regular army had to contend, stood at Mr. Villard's right hand and sold his autograph for $1.50 to all who desired it.

Distinguished Guests.

When the excursionists stopped at an Indian encampment at Gray Cliff, Mont., to see how 1500 Crow men, women and children lived, two British cavalry captains borrowed ponies and raced bareback with young Indian braves, usually with success. One of these was then Albert Grey, who became Earl Grey, and Governor-General of Canada; the other, Capt. Halford, rose to be a Colonel and the favorite aide for years of the Prince of Wales, who became King Edward. Indeed, much could be written about the guests, both American and foreign, for some, like James Bryce, rose to international fame. Among them, for example, was the then Chief Justice of Great Britain, Lord Coleridge, and two other jurists who subsequently held that high office. So far as I have been able to ascertain, there are today not more than 10 survivors of that goodly company.

The press of the country was considerably divided as to the merit of this undertaking. There was almost complete agreement that it was magnificent advertising for the railroad—the Boston Herald wrote that it had not had "such an advertisement since Jay Cook's failure as the 'last spike' has given it. Nothing succeeds like success." The Western press had nothing but praise for the expedition and cited the vast amount of publicity received, which included no less than a dozen long articles in the London Times, and in many other English and also in numerous German newspapers. Three large scrap-books in the possession of the writer contain only a part of the articles which actually appeared.

Some of the Eastern comments were rather bitter. Thus the Utica Observer asked whether the English guests had not "awakened to the fact that they are only being used as advertisements," of a speculative scheme. Others attacked the railroad because of its land grant which, by the way, William M. Evarts warmly defended in his address at the opening exercises.

About Those Land Grants.

The land grant has been a bone of contention between the railroad and the Government for many years. Quite recently President Coolidge called the attention of Congress to the situation, citing the Secretary of Agriculture as his authority for the statements that the Northern Pacific had failed to complete 1507.21 miles of its railroad within the time required by law (this 41 years after the alleged default), and that it had obtained by the sale of its land no less than $136,118,533.14, whereas the cost of building the road had not exceeded $70,000,000. To this the railroad replied that the then President of the United States had accepted the 1507.21 miles of road when they were completed and granted the land earned thereby; that the railroad had received not $136,118,533.44 from sale of its land, but would not obtain a total of more than $100,000,000 when all are finally sold, and that "the Northern Pacific has expended upon its main line from Lake Superior to Puget Sound, independently of branches or feeders, a sum in excess of $300,000,000.

On June 25, 1929, Congress approved an act providing for the submission to the Federal courts of the controversy concerning the erroneous inclusion of Northern Pacific indemnity lands in the national forest reserves. The suit in equity which this act provides for is now pending in the United States District Court at Spokane.

The land grant itself was smaller than that awarded to the Central and Union Pacific lines, but it was enormous nonetheless. Under the grant of July 2, 1864, the acreage given totaled no less than 41,150,903, to which 2,838,958 was subsequently added.

Today, with our awakened national conscience, and our readiness to spend huge sums on such public improvements as the rebuilding of the Erie Canal, the Boulder and Muscle Shoals Dams, it is easy to look back and condemn the railroad land grant policy of Congress. But when the Northern Pacific was aided, land was the cheapest and most plentiful commodity in the United States. The Government was selling it to everybody at $1.30 an acre. More than that, the Government was fighting a war for the life of the Union and was having considerable difficulty in financing it. It was natural, therefore, if mistaken, to subsidize the transcontinental railroads by huge gifts of land which probably no member of Congress, or not more than one or two had ever seen and still fewer could visualize.

Curiously enough, besides giving the Northern Pacific a great deal of free advertising and informing many thousands of people as to the vast possibilities of the new empire thus opened, the foreign guests actually did the railroad a great deal of harm. For the fact is that these foreign excursionists were appalled by the long distances between stations, and the scanty evidences of a population able to support so costly a railroad. They realized with astonishment the newness of it all and heard, perhaps, that only 40 years previously the arrival of a single overland caravan from Missouri had doubled the population of Oregon. So they cabled home their doubts, and brought about a very considerable selling of the railroad's securities in England and on the Continent.

Thus Mr. Villard's guests contributed to the disaster which speedily overtook him. All during the summer of 1883, and especially while the Last Spike ceremonies were under way, the Northern Pacific securities, and those of the other companies of which Mr. Villard was the head, were being hammered down in Wall Street. Almost four months from the day when he presided at the driving of the last spike, Henry Villard was forced to resign the presidency of his bankrupt road.

Fortune Swiftly Vanishes.

Never was there a quicker or more drastic revolution of the wheel of fate. In September he was acclaimed as few men have been in the industrial history of the country; in January he was broken in health and shattered in spirit, and every one o fhis numerous railroad and steamship connections was at an end. His great personal fortune, which had enabled him at one time to advance $3,450,000 to continue the building of the railroad, had been lost in his frantic efforts to save the Northern Pacific from its unavoidable disaster. At first the victim of much abuse, the press rallied to his support when it became known that he had sacrificed all he had. He had built no less than "2000 miles of railroad in two years, or nearly three miles a day, including scores of miles of tunnels, bridges and trestles." He had commanded a construction army of 25,000 men and during this period his total disbursements exceeded $4,000,000 a month for construction work alone on the main line and branches.

Financial disaster was not new in the history of the Northern Pacific, for its failure in 1873 contributed largely to the collapse of the famous house of Jay Cooke & Co, the firm which was the great financial agent of the Federal Government during the Civil War, Mr. Cooke being the J. P. Morgan of his day.

Early Origins of Road.

The history of the railroad really dates back to 1853, when Jefferson Davis' interest was won for it when he was Secretary of War. Even before that, however, Dr. Samuel Bancroft Barlow of Massachusetts and Asa Whitney of New York had dreamed the dream of an iron road along the route of the Lewis and Clarke expedition, for which undertaking President Jefferson deserves the credit. The two men who headed the survey authorized by Congress and directed by Jefferson Davis, also became famous, Isaac I. Stevens, who fell as a Brigadier-General at the head of his troops at the battle of Chantilly, Virginia, and George B. McClellan, the "little Napoleon" of the Army of the Potomac. Then there was Josiah Perham, who, in 1853, planned a "People's Pacific Railroad Co." and tried to sell one share to each of 20,000 people in Massachusetts "within two weeks after the books are open, which will give it such force as to sweep the whole country like a whirlwind."

Numerous distinguished New Englanders followed in his footsteps, for the Northern Pacific was from its inception a New England undertaking. Two of its presidents were Vermonters, J. Gregory Smith, and Frederick Billings, but none of them had so meteoric and romantic a career as the man who earned the title of the "completor" of the railroad. Arriving in the United States in 1854 without the knowledge of a word of English, and with only $25 of borrowed money in his pocket, Henry Villard was for two years the foremost figure in the American railroad world. It was a tribute to the character and capacity of this immigrant, who won the friendship of Abraham Lincoln, and later of all the leading generals of the Civil War, in which he served as field correspondent of the New York Tribune, the New York Herald, the Cincinnati Commercial and other newspapers, that three years after his resignation as President he was invited and urged to re-enter the board of directors of the Northern Pacific.

In 1889, against his own better judgment, he was chosen chairman of the board of directors, again at the insistence of his friends and fellow-directors. But fate was still against him. On July 19, 1893, he voluntarily resigned, but when a month later the railroad again went into the hands of a receiver, he was in many quarters held responsible for the disaster. Not, however, by the board of directors which went on record in his defense. This ended, however, his active railroad career. He died at Dobbs Ferry in 1900.

BISHOP E. T. SHEEHAN DIES IN KIANG-SI CHINA

Native of Streator, Ill., Formerly Officer of Kenrick Seminary.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9. — Bishop Edward T. Sheehan ,member of the Vincentian Order and former treasurer of Kenrick Seminary in St. Louis, died of pneumonia yesterday at Kiang-si, seat of his bishopric. He was 46 years old.

Bishop Sheehan, a native of Streator, Ill., where his mother still resides, was ordained at the Vincentian Seminary at Perryville, Mo., in 1916, and was sent to Kenrick Seminary as a professor of English after a short term of service at Dallas, Tex. He was treasurer of Kendirck Seminary from 1917 to 1921 when he was made director of the preparatory seminary.

From 1922 to 1923 he was assigned to the factuly of St. Vincent's College at Cape Girardeau. He went to China in 1923 and was consecrated a Bishop in 1929. He paid his last visit to St. Louis two years ago and officiated at the ordination of eight priests at Perryville, Mo.

nouncements of ships lost that its three strokes are taken by marine and legal circles as meaning that underwriters must settle. Money owing to the crews is paid over to the heirs and wills are probated when the Lutine bell has tolled three times.

Lloyd's had been 29 years operating in the Royal Exchange when it had to announce that the Lutine had gone down with its treasure and crew. Even then there was nobody named Lloyd in the business. Its practice of marine insurance had begun informally among shipping men who met at the coffee house of a Welshman named Lloyd for coffee and to milling over of the simple broadside of marine casualties, sailings and arrivals which the proprietor printed for his customers. War always has boomed marine insurance; the American Revolution and the Napoleonic wars lifted the Lloyd group into importance—and the 900-ton Lutine, with its gold, bent on a war mission, was its first big advertisement.

Ship Lines Combine Offices.

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 9.—The Hamburg-American Line and the North German Lloyd Line announced today that they were establishing combined administration of their North American services to achieve greater efficiency. The move affects both passenger and freight ships to and from Canada and the United States, including gulf ports.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

All Quiet Along the Show Front

No Prospects for the Coming Drama Season Have Been Disclosed—Things are Quiet, Too, in New York, Where Few Dramas, and Fewer Musical Offerings, Are Finding Their Way to Broadway.

STILL no word has come regarding the prospects for the drama season in St. Louis. Arthur Casey has gone to New York after trying to get a theater for another shot at the stock-visiting star game and there are vague reports that the famous old Grand Opera House, once the gold mine of the show world, will be reopened next month as a buresque palace, but further than that, little is heard of any coming attractions. In New York, where the plays to be seen here later come from, things are moving almost as slowly. Among the few new offerings, that famous attempt of prisoners to break from New York's jail, the Tombs, in 1926, was dramatized in a lusty volcanic play called "Crucible," which arrived on Broadway during the past week.

The author, D. Hubert Connelly, was a city official at the time, and, as he was privy to the inside story, it may be assumed that the details of the play are fairly authentic. But the ineptness of the drama, according to metropolitan critics, indicates that Connelly is more of a reporter than a playwright.

So awkward did the plot become, that in the third act the first-night audience abandoned its manners and laughed uproariously at the tragic events on the stage.

ONE of the amazing and romantic stories of Broadway is the success of "One Sunday Afternoon," which was seen here as a motion picture at the Missouri Theater last night. It opened rather quietly early last spring, and although it was lauded by the critics, it failed to attract business. After a few weeks, it closed. But there ensued so much discussion of this story of small-town life in the 90's that it was reopened. Since then it has been playing to capacity business and seems destined to stay on Broadway for several more months.

AFTER an 11 months' run, "Music in the Air" goes on tour tomorrow, which leaves Broadway without a single musical attraction. That condition remains for only one night, however, as Earl Carroll brings in his "Murder at the Vanities" on Tuesday.

Strictly speaking, this isn't really a musical. It is a mystery melodrama, which is laid against the background /of a musical show. Nevertheless, as it is equipped with the usual Carroll array of chorus girls, it may be classed as a musical until another comes along.

IN A FORTNIGHT Blanche Bates for 30 years one of America's best-loved actresses, will return to Broadway. She isn't coming back to perform again on those stages where she won the hearts of a vast throng in the title roles of "Madame Butterfly" and "The Girl of the Golden West." This time she will be in the front of the footlights to see the debut of her 19-year-old daughter, Frances Virginia Bates Creel.

This brunette daughter of Miss Bates and George Creel, famous publicist of war-time days, is giving up a career in surgery to follow in the theatrical footsteps of her mother. She has a role in support of Tallulah Bankhead in Owen Davis' new play, "Jezebel."

ALTHOUGH she won all the theater can offer in fame, fortune and friends, Miss Bates did not want her daughter to be an actress. She, too, was only 19 when she played her first role in San Francisco. Three years later she went to New York to play with Augustin Daly in "The Taming of the Shrew."

That was the beginning of a memorable list of famous roles, notably Cigarette in "Under Two Flags," Yo-San in "The Darling of the Gods" and Mrs. Fair in "The Famous Mrs. Fair."

"I am of the fifth generation of actors on my mother's side," young Miss Creel explained during a lull in rehearsals. "My father once was a drama critic in Denver and he is enthusiastic about my decision."

Miss Creel's opportunity to play in "Jezebel" came about unexpectedly. Guthrie McClintic, producer of the play, was Miss Bates' last manager when she appeared in "Mrs. Partridge Presents." He happened to meet Miss Creel when she returned from her study of surgery in Germany and immediately offered her the part.

Miss Bates went East from San Francisco to be with her daughter, but she remains in the background. She stays away from all rehearsals, realizing that it would only make her daughter nervous if she were there.

Amusement Calendar

LOEW'S—Ronald Colman and Elissa Landi in "The Masquerader."

ST. LOUIS — Katharine Hepburn and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., in "Morning Glory." On the stage, the Municipal Opera cast and chorus in "Highlights from Nina Rosa."

AMBASSADOR—"She Had to Say Yes," with Loretta Young and Lyle Talbot. On the stage Ted Lewis and his band with a girl and music revue.

MISSOURI — "This Day and Age," with Charles Bickford, Judith Allen and Richard Cromwell.

Allan Jones to Sing With Mme. Jeritza

Allan Jones, Municipal Opera tenor will sing the leading male role in "A Night in Venice," opposite Maria Jeritza, Metropolitan Opera soprano, a Shubert production, in its Broadway premiere this fall. Its original music, written by Richard Strauss, is being adapted by Sigmund Romberg, who gave Franz Shubert's melodies similar treatment in writing the "Blossom Time" score for the Shuberts. Jones will not leave for New York until the completion of his present engagement, along with 19 other Muny Opera people, at the St. Louis Theater.

John Gilbert Will Not Quit the Films

John Gilbert, screen lover, who a few weeks ago announced his retirement from the films, has now signed a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and will resume his motion picture career by playing the male lead in Greta Garbo's new production, "Queen Christina."

The romantic lead opposite Miss Garbo was originally intended for Laurence Olivier, who was brought to Hollywood from England for the part. Metro officials failed to explain why Gilbert was given the part instead of Olivier, but said he was given a contract in response to fan demand.

Gilbert and Miss Garbo teamed in numerous silent films, including "Flesh and the Devil," "Love," and "Woman of Affairs."

Charles Bickford in "This Day and Age," at the Missouri.

Spencer Tracy in "Shanghai Madness," at the Fox Theater.

Elissa Landi In "The Masquerader," At Loew's.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS :: :: :: By Nie

SO many people have read and seen, in one form or another, that good old British society meller, "The Masquerader," that there seemed to be little excuse for making it all over again as a talking film for Loew's fans this week. However, Ronald Colman and the exquisite Elissa Landi have done it and done it well and the Hollywood producers, throwing aside the war and substituting a more minor English crisis to hang the plot on, have turned out a thoroughly worth-while picture. Colman, who announced that this would be his last film—and then changed his mind—plays the dual role of John Chilcote, M. P. and John Loder, his cousin, who looks so much like him that neither Mrs. Chilcote nor Lady Joyce, the M. P.'s girl friend, on the side, can tell them apart. Fine trick photography makes the interchanging of the two men rather baffling and adds to the effectiveness of the play and Miss Landi, called upon mostly to look very dazzling is all of that, all the time. There have been few changes in the plot for the idea was always sure fire with audiences and it has only been brought up to date in a perfectly consistent manner.

Success.

KATHARINE HEPBURN, of whom such great things were predicted after her first film, "A Bill of Divorcement," but who sorter fell down in her next picture, comes back with a bang in "Morning Glory," one of the most entertaining cinemas of the year at the St. Louis Theater. And she has, too, the advantage of a perfect supporting cast, for Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Adolphe Menjou, C. Aubrey Smith, Mary Duncan and Richard Carle are among those present so that the sparkling story is a thing of delight from start to finish. It's all about a small town girl who is partly a genius and partly a pretty naive kid. Convinced that she is to become a great actress she goes to New York to crash the gates of stardom. Her trials and tribulations, her failure in small bits and her sudden skyrocketing to fame when the big chance comes is delightfully and absorbingly told. There is no romance but, at the somewhat abrupt, if entirely legitimate finish, there is a hint that she may share her love for the theater with a love for young Fairbanks, who has been a faithful friend and admirer throughout. As to whether or not she will be just a morning glory—a bright flower blooming for a brief hour or two—or a steadily climbing rose, is left to the imagination of the audience. It is a swell picture and Miss Hepburn climbs into the front rank of Hollywood stars. On the stage at the St. Louis the Municipal Opera cast—Allan Jones, Leonard Ceeley, Berna Deane, Larry Rich, Joe Macaulay, Nancy McCord, Harry Morton and Nick Long among others—put on an entertaining variety bill and wind up with a fine tabloid version of the popular operetta, "Nina Rosa."

Youth Takes a Hand.

CECIL B. DeMILLE—the B being for bathtubs—has tossed aside his favorite props for the nonce in "This Day and Age" at the Missouri. There isn't even a fleeting view of a washbasin anywhere in the whole thing although, once, Mr. DeMille shows a close-up of an old cistern. Even that has no water in it, being filled with rats. Then there is a shot of an open grave, made from the bottom looking up, but those two holes in the ground, neither very inviting, are all he has to offer to remind one of the gorgeous individual Romon lavatories which played such prominent parts in his past spectacles. The story itself is rather far fetched but entertaining for all that with its scenes laid in some unnamed big city where grafters and racketeers run things to suit themselves. Everybody is apparently well satisfied to let 'em have their way until Charles Bickford, Public Enemy No. 1, kills a high school boy. Then the students rise up, take matters into their own hands and worm a confession out of Bickford in a kangaroo court. The flaming youths—5,000 of them the picture's press agent says—make it pretty exciting and a bunch of young actors, sons and daughters of some famous screen stars, show that they are ready to carry on the family traditions.

Telephone Guest Girl.

LORETTA YOUNG is one of those customer's girls in "She Had To Say Yes" at the Ambassador. You know, waiting at the phone to be ordered to show the out-of-town buyers a good time when they came to town and understanding, too, that the customer is always right. But Loretta was too nice a gal to say Yes to everything and if she didn't exactly say No once in a while she managed to keep the visitors guessing. Lyle Talbot, a rich young man, somehow got the impression that Loretta wasn't all that she should be, except in the way of looks, but when he found out that she was strictly on the up and up he mentioned marriage to bring the picture to an end and to show that the reward of virtue is Lyle Talbot. On the Ambassador's stage Ted Lewis and his band of musicians and entertainers put on a good show.

A Bed Time Story.

BATTLE and murder and sudden death get all tangled up with secret passage ways, howling winds, midnight chimes and things like that in "The Secret of the Blue Room," a horror story of the conventional pattern at the Grand Central. Lionel Atwill, one of our leading terror specialists, Gloria Stuart and Paul Lukas furnish the thrills. As an extra attraction for the kiddies the Grand Central has revived Mae West's sterling drammer of purity and manners, "She Done Him Wrong," which shows that half the world doesn't know how the demi monde lives.

Night Life in China.

THE Fox held over the Janet Gaynor-Warner Baxter film, "Paddy the Next Best Thing," until last night and this afternoon switches its screen fare to "Shanghai Madness," a meller with an Oriental setting, which has Spencer Tracy and Fay Wray in the leading roles. The phenomenally successful stage show, "No, No Nanette," with Doris Patston, Jack Sheehan, Clifford Newdahl, Ilse Marvenga and Guy Robertson continues with the new film. Next Thursday the Fox will make another change to Will Rogers in "Dr. Bull" and its flesh favorites in another musical show.

Rupert Hughes Yarn To Star Baby Le Roy

Rupert Hughes' story, "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen," will serve as a starring vehicle for Baby Le Roy, youngest contract film player. The story is scheduled to run in the October issue of a national magazine.

Colbert Will Sing A Lullaby in Jazz

In her first singing role for the screen, Claudette Colbert will offer a musical anomaly—a lullaby in jazz. It was written for her use in "Torch Singer" by Ralph Rainger, composer of the first popular torch song "Moanin' Low."

Lowe, McLaglen at Sea.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen will enact deep sea divers in "No More Women," to be filmed at sea.

Lionel Atwill in "Secret of the Blue Room," Grand Central.

Midtown to Reopen As Second Run House

The old Midtown Theater, on Olive street just west of Grand, which has been closed since the last Woodward Stock Co. days, is to reopen in a few weeks as a motion picture house, some managers apparently believing that more seats are needed for the cinema customers in that part of town.

According to report the Midtown will play the films which are first shown at Loew's Theater downtown, together with other second run features at about a 25-cent top admission price.

If the Shubert goes into films, as rumors says it will, the Grand avenue sector will be well cluttered up with cinemas show places with six houses scrambling for business.

"Broadway and Back" For Barbara Stanwyck

After she completes "Ever in My Heart," in which she is playing with Otto Kruger and Ralph Bellamy, Barbara Stanwyck will be starred in "Broadway and Back," an original film story by Sheridan Gibney, author of "The World Changes." Ann Dvorak and Patricia Ellis have been chosen to appear with Miss Stanwyck.

While there will be some music, "Broadway and Back" will not be a musical picture in the sense of "Gold Diggers of 1933" and "Footlight Parade." There will be some specially written songs, but they will be subordinate and there will be no dancing choruses.

Oakie's Mother to Remain in Pictures

Having made her motion picture debut at 65 years of age, Mrs. Evelyn Offield, a former St. Louisan and mother of Jack Oakie, has decided to make screen acting her "life's work."

"I'm still young and healthy," she explained, "and I don't see any reason why I can't work in just one picture a year. It's a lot of fun, and everyone says I was fine."

Director Edward Sutherland persuaded Mrs. Offield to play the role of her real son's screen mother in "Too Much Harmony."

An Old Friend Comes Back

"The Masquerader," Holder of a Lot of Theatrical Records and Once a Silent Picture, Returns, After Eleven Years as a Cinema Talkie—The Rise of Katharine Hepburn, Who Is Being Called the Answer to Europe's Exotics.

EVERY now and then that good old English society meller, "The Masquerader" bobs up in one form or another. Last winter Guy Bates Post played it, in the flesh, with the Casey company at the Shubert Theater and now, as a talkie, it is back at Loew's this week with Ronald Colman in the role long associated with Mr. Post and the beautiful Elissa Landi heading the rest of the cast. The screen hasn't seen the story in which neither a wife nor a mistress could tell a husband and a lover from his double for eleven years for it was in September, 1922 that it burst upon the cinemas with Post in the double star part.

"The Masquerader" started life as a novel, a best seller of 1905, by Catherine Cecil Thurston. It concerned a British politician dissipated and depraved by drugs. In England's great crisis, a young cousin from Canada stepped in to take his place at the helm of state and at his wife's side in perpetuating the story's masquerade.

The opportunity for quick changes and unlimited virtuosity in acting had already put E. H. Sothern and James K. Hackett to playing "The Prisoner of Zenda" all over two continents, and, in a slightly altered formula, made the names of Richard Mansfield, Dr. Henry Jekyll and Edward Hyde as inseparable as Porthos, Aramis and Athos.

It was Guy Bates Post and Richard Walton Tully, the pair who made theatrical history out of "The Bird of Paradise" and "Omar, the Tentmaker," who finally laid hands on "The Masquerader" and brought it forth to theatrical fame.

JOHN HUNTER BOOTH did the dramatization. In September, 1917, Post and Tully, Post as the villian-hero, Tully as the producer, took it from a roaring success on the road to the Lyric Theater, New York. From the moment the curtain rose on a heavy London fog, out of which materialized Mr. Post in a silk hat and immaculate evening attire and his double, a triumph of make-up, in a slouched fedora, "The Masquerader" was taken to the heart of the world.

"Omar, the Tentmaker" had given Post and Tully slightly less than a thousand performances. "The Masquerader," contemptuous of such statistics, was last heard of rolling past the two thousand mark, without counting the two hundred more that Post had chalked up in Australia.

Confused legal problems, involving heirs to estates all over the world, made the acquisition of the talking picture rights difficult. Three major studios in Hollywood started it, but, baffled by the legal complications of getting the necessary signatures, gave it up.

Last autumn, when Ronald Colman was beginning work on "Cynara," his producer, Samuel Goldwyn, looked about for a second Colman picture, one that would offer a contrast in its simple melodrama to the sophistication of English stage play.

"The Masquerader" was suggested, and the Goldwyn lawyers got to work. Rights started to pour in from Switzerland and England; options came from Australia and from Havana. The foreign rights of the novel, play and the earlier picture were clarified.

GUY BATES POST, always a fine actor, was made famous the world over by "The Masquerader" and while one play or one picture has been known to make a star out of a comparatively unknown actor it is perhaps a little early to proclaim Katharine Hepburn as a world beater and customer attractor for her performance in "Morning Glory," which is on view here this week also, at the St. Louis Theater. Hollywood, however, is pointing to her as America's answer to Europe's monopolization of the screen's exotic ladies, the Garbos, the Dietrichs, the Anna Stens. For Katharine Hepburn originated not in the glamour of continental Europe, but in the Yankee environment of Hartford, Conn., some 23 years ago.

Be that as it may, but few stars have cometed into fame with the startling suddenness of this 23-year-old. "One-picture stars," those who catapulted into electric lights on the strength of a first performance, have been limited to a sprinkling. Chevalier imprinted himself on the public mind in "Innocents of Paris"; "The Jazz Singer," the first feature-length talking picture, enlarged Jolson audiences from the thousands of the theater to the millions of the screen; Jackie Coogan, a five-year-old nobody, crept into the nation's heart in Charlie Chaplin's "The Kid"; Lew Ayres left a jazzband to star as Paul Baumer in "All Quiet on the Western Front;" Mae West, after a brief but memorable bit in "Night After Night," created a vogue in her first film, "She Done Him Wrong," which is being revived this week, by the way, at the Grand Central, next door to where La Hepburn is flaming; and Mickey Mouse in "Steamboat Willie," eclipsed the feature pictures on whose supposedly supporting program he appeared.

FOR generations, the Barrymores and their tribe have been of the theater. They know all the tricks; and are past masters in the art of using them. But Barrymore, as did Chaplin with the young Coogan, took a delighted interest in aiding the younger player. He coached Miss Hepburn in scene after scene which critics later claimed she "stole," when "A Bill of Divorcement" was screened.

Critical hoopla rent the skies after a "Bill for Divorcement." Fan interest was roused as it had seldom been roused before. A new comet had crashed the movie heavens. And the movie magazines, the trade papers, and the newspapers poured out volumes of information in response to reader demand. Miss Hepburn's age, her birthplace, her red hair, her 110 pounds weight, her 5 feet 4 inches of height were duly publicized.

By the time her second picture, "Christopher Strong"—which wasn't so hot—hit the screen, her career, her private life were unfolded to the public gaze. Today, Katharine Hepburn's peculiar mannerisms of diction and gesture are imitated by the younger set. Her exotic, lithe, sensuous walk—boyishly masculine one minute, softly feminine the next—has imitators among the youthful set. And her eccentricities make her a press-agent's joy. She uses her limousine to make a trip next door. Born to wealth, she chooses as her most comfortable clothes, a pair of old, patched overalls. She bites her nails, rather than have them manicured. And the screen magazines are shocked, but print the information she sleeps without nightclothing along with her clear-minded explanation she prefers to sleep that way—that at any rate, she doesn't expect strangers to wander into her bedroom.

OPPORTUNITIES.

In the Post-Dispatch Classified columns, are the Business For Sale advertisements—telling of places where a few hundred dollars may take over a business at which the man with business ability may begin his career—leading to independence.

There are the Business Property For Rent advertisements—where the business man may select a location and start a business of his own.

There are the For Sale offers where a small amount of money wisely invested may bring big profits by reselling—in a profitable turn over.

There, in the "Wants," men who need men find them—or they get in touch with money if money is the stepping stone to realized ambitions.

And if the offer wanted is not advertised they advertise for it—and get it.

Call MAin 1111 and ask for an adtaker.

CARD OF THANKS

WE WISH to extend our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, pallbearers, ushers and members of Concordia Lutheran Church of Kirkwood, Mo., for their kind sympathy shown us during our late bereavement in the loss of our dear son and brother, John Scheller Barthelmass. We also wish to thank Rev. Maschoff for his consoling words, Mr. A. Heinemann, Mrs. A. Heinemann and Mrs. Wilbur Bopp, in their arrangement of organ and song. We also thank Wacker-Helderle for their courteous and efficient service.
MR. AND MRS. J. BARTHELMASS AND SON, HOWARD BARTHELMASS.

WE desire to thank all our relatives and friends for the kindness shown us in our sad bereavement in the loss of our dear father, Valentine Gass. We especially thank the Rev. E. Stoltz for his services, the St. Louis Council N. A. U., the pallbearers and many friends for the beautiful floral offerings.
THE GASS FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

FINKE, CHRIST—In memory of my dear husband, who died Sept. 8, 1917:
It is lonesome here without you and sad and weary;
Life has not been the same to me since you were called away.
Sadly missed by wife and daughter,
MRS. A. MERKEL.

FOEHRINGER, OLLIE—In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away six years ago, Sept. 14, 1927.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all;
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.
Sadly missed by WIFE.

HENSLEY, CLARENCE—Passed into heavenly slumber Sept. 6, 1932.
Is wished peace and eternal happiness by WIFE AND SON, LULA AND CLARENCE JR.

KOETTER, H. H.—In memory of my beloved husband who departed this life Sept. 9, 1923.
Ten years ago, dear, we parted,
In a way God thought best.
But my love for you still lingers,
And will until I am laid by you to rest.
WIFE, CAROLINE KOETTER.

KRIEGBAUM, ELMER L.—In loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, who departed this life one year ago today, Sept. 9, 1932.
My lips cannot tell how I miss him;
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss him,
In a home that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN.

LIEBAART, HENRY I. C.—In loving memory of Henry I. C. Liebaart who departed this life on Sept. 8, 1931.
In far off Los Angeles, Cal.,
At early morn, when all was still,
God gave His great command;
In silent peace he passed away
Into the better land.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND DAUGHTERS.

MATTLI, ALICE LIGHT—In loving remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, who passed away one year ago, Sept. 10, 1932:
Thoughts return to days long past;
Time rolls on, but memories last.
LOVING MOTHER, SISTERS AND BROTHER.

MEISCH, GUSTAVA—In loving memory of my dear son, who departed this life Sept. 14, 1930. Gone but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by his MOTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

PANSKEY, LUCILLE—In loving memory of our dear daughter Lucille Panskey, who passed away this day, Sept. 9, 1929. Sadly missed by the JOERDER FAMILY.

RINGWALD, RUTH WILMA—In loving memory of our daughter and granddaughter, who passed away Sept. 13, 1932.
You suffered years of endless pain,
And waited for cures, but all in vain,
Till God alone knew what was best,
And took you away to peace and rest.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND GRANDPARENTS.

ROHLING, STANLEY—In memory of our dearly beloved son, who died Sept. 8, 1930:
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
MOTHER, FATHER AND SISTER.

ROBESON, MARY—In loving memory of my dear mother, who departed this life, Sept. 13, 1932.
You suffered days, yes, days of pain,
And waited for cures, but all in vain,
Till God alone knew what was best,
And took you away to peace and rest.
Sadly missed by DAUGHTER.
Requiem mass will be said Wednesday, Sept. 13, Annunciation Church, at 8 a. m.

IN MEMORIAM

STEINER, OTTO—In loving memory of my dear husband, Otto Steiner, who entered into rest Sept. 8, 1928.
Sadly missed by HIS WIFE.

ZIEGLER, ELIZABETH—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away Sept. 8, one year ago.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN.

What may seem to be the end of the trail may be only the forks in the road. No man is through as long as opportunity is still being developed. Men are coming into this unusual business from every trade, profession, and business, and are making good. They find that character and consistent work will accomplish results which constantly increase. You will meet men in this office who are making BIG MONEY who once were in these lines: Mechanics, clerks, a farmer, school teachers, engineers, merchants, a railroad conductor, salesmen, music student. These men average from $35 to $125 per week regularly, and more!

Our success, which is world-wide, is based on supplying a definite need at an acceptable price. Our product is unique. Last year was our biggest year; 1933 will be our fourth consecutive record sales year.

You do not invest or buy anything in joining Electrolux, Inc. (no refrigeration). Nor are you bound down to seasons. It is important and imperative that you do a full day's work regularly and not incidentally. We prefer men 25 to 48, with family responsibilities. While men in this business make from $4,000.00 to $8,500.00 a year regularly, you probably will start on a more modest basis—perhaps from $100.00 to $135.00 or up to $175.00 your first month—slightly more your second month, and so on upward. You spent years learning your past occupation. Are you willing to spend weeks learning one as good or better that pays from the start? But don't come looking for a miracle. Come expecting something unusual, based on definite superiority.

If you are sincere and wish to start in on a new outlook and broader prospect of success, call for personal interview Monday morning, 9:15 to 1:15, at 562 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive sts.

THE IDEAL MAN FOR OUR WORK.

1. Is 28 to 35 years old.
2. Has business experience, preferably sales.
3. Has enjoyed income of $2000 to $5000.
4. Has lived within his income and saved.
5. Owns $5000 to $10,000 life insurance.
6. Has good education.
7. Is active in business, social, fraternal or religious organization, likes people.
8. Is physically well—mentally alert.
9. Is willing to be taught.
10. Is not easily discouraged—energetic.

If you would like a connection with a New England financial institution, 89 years old, selling a service which has kept all its promises even in these depression years, write us a letter, using the above 10 points as your guide.
Box E-236, Post-Dispatch.

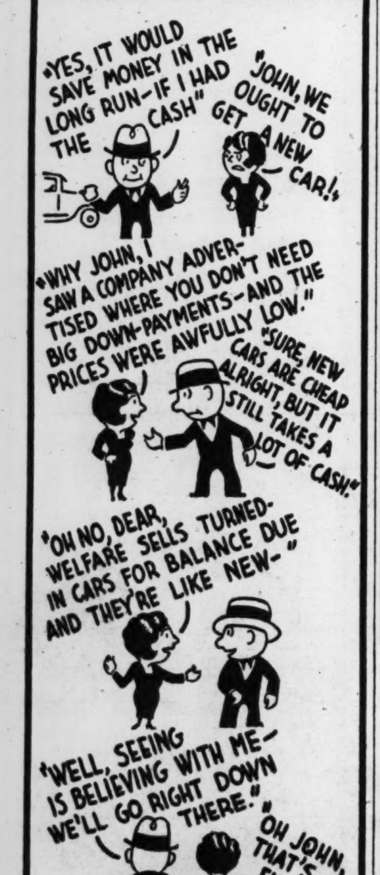
WHY THE BROWNS WENT TO WELFARE



"YES, IT WOULD SAVE MONEY IN THE LONG RUN—IF I HAD THE CASH"
"JOHN, WE OUGHT TO GET A NEW CAR!"
"WHY JOHN, I SAW A COMPANY ADVERTISED WHERE YOU DON'T NEED BIG DOWN-PAYMENTS—AND THE PRICES WERE AWFULLY LOW."
"OH NO, DEAR, WELFARE SELLS TURNED-IN CARS FOR BALANCE DUE AND THEY'RE LIKE NEW—"
"OH JOHN, THAT'S FINE!"

Terms: $10, $15, $50 down. You can make your own terms here, and we will even take your car as a down payment.

A superb play, a famous painting, a beautiful woman; each achieves fame for different reasons; but all three are comparable for the same fundamentals. They are all well executed, finished, well done . . . with every detail gloriously carried out by the master hand of genius.

So, too, with stores. Painstaking care, thorough fashion knowledge plus that subtle, indefinable spark, brings an institution ahead of its fellows. Marks it distinctively, and labels it supreme in its field.

For many years we have been building towards this one goal—Supremacy That we have at last achieved it is amply testified by the overwhelming "Trend to Kline's" of the best dressed women in St. Louis. They know that in our handsome new salons they will find the finest clothes from the fashion centers of the world. They know, too, that the price they pay matters little. Whether at $16.75 or $295, a dress by Kline's is authentic. Supremely the fashion!

$2,186,500 in Gold Exported.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today reported the export of $2,186,500 in gold to Italy, but there was no corresponding release from stocks held under earmark for foreign account. In the absence of an official explanation, bankers suggested that the metal had been earmarked for a foreign government, not necessarily Italy, in a commercial bank, and had therefore not been included in the reserve bank's earmarked metal.

Terraplanes Finish in First 4 Positions in Pike's Peak Climb

Terraplane Eights First and Second—Sixes, Third and Fourth—Record Broken.

For the second successive year, the Penrose Trophy will be in the keeping of the Hudson Motor Car Co. because of the record-breaking victory of Al Miller, driving a standard stock Terraplane eight, in the Pikes Peak Labor day hill climb. Miller's time for the dash up the 12.5 mile mountain course, 19 minutes and 55.2 seconds, beat the former stock car record by one minute, 25.7 seconds.

Only forty-eight seconds slower than the new record time was another Terraplane, driven by Chet Miller, who last year won the Pikes Peak clumb in a Terraplane and set the record which was beaten this year. Two Terraplane sixes, driven by Otto Bollman and Paul Bost, finished in third and fourth positions.

The Pikes Peak climb, most famous and punishing of recognized events of its kind, is sanctioned and supervised by the American Automobile Association. The Terraplanes which competed in this year's race were chosen at random from the factory production line by a representative of the A. A. A. Contest Board and, after inspection, were certified to be standard stock cars.

Fresh gravel, recently applied to the mountain road, made the course several seconds slower than last year. Despite this, the Terraplane driven by Al Miller, made the climb in faster time than did five of the specially-built racing cars entered in the other event of the day, the free-for-all-race.

The elevation at the starting point of the climb is 9150 feet, and at the finish at the summit, 14,109 feet. There are upward of 160 turns. The stability of a car in rounding these curves is a decisive factor since the loss of a fraction of a second on each would seriously handicap the car.

After the race the cars were turned over to the Contest Board for rechecking, after which certificates of victory will be awarded.

Following this inspection, two of the cars, the winning eight and one of the sixes, will tackle hills in Utah, California and Arizona in search of other records. This is part of the campaign of the Hudson Motor Car Co. to break practically every official hill climb record in the country.

The record breaking tour is under strict A. A. A. supervision and sanction. The cars are used to transport drivers and observers as well as for performing their hill climbing feats.

August Ford Sales Best Since June of 1932, Johnson Learns

The Ford Motor Co. has informed M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager, that the August just passed exceeded any month since June, 1932, in passenger car sales and any month since August, 1931, in truck sales.

"This increase in automobile sales all over the United States indicates that motor car industry is heading the country toward a business revival," Johnson said.

"The fact that the Ford Motor Co. sold more new Ford V-8's in August than in any month in the past 13 also indictes to us that the V-type eight cylinder automobile has come into its own," he added. "Our information from the Detroit offices of the Ford Motor Co. also was to the effect that the majority of trucks sold in August were of the V-8 type.

"In line with the record made in sales nationally our dealers in and around St. Louis sold more automobiles and trucks in the last week in August than in any other week in 1933. Indications are that the first week in September will compare favorably with our record week, despite the interruption of the holiday."

Wins 4 Air Races At Meet With Plane Lubertone-Oiled

A telegram from Chicago to J. J. Garland, president of the Garland Products Co., 2112 Washington avenue, said that a Lubertone-oiled plane driven by Roy Miner won four races on successive days during the recent air races held in connection with the World's Fair.

The plane, designed and owned by Ben Howard, formerly of St. Louis, now with the NAT at Kansas City, also made a closed course record of 201 miles per hour.

Each of the four races won by the Howard plane was over a course of ten five-mile laps. Lubertone is used for running in engines, as an added ingredient in lubricating oil and as an upper cylinder oil in gasoline.

Stutz Special Wins Free-for-All Climb To Mountain's Top

For the seventh time, since 1926, a Stutz special won the free-for-all climb up Pike's Peak on Labor day.

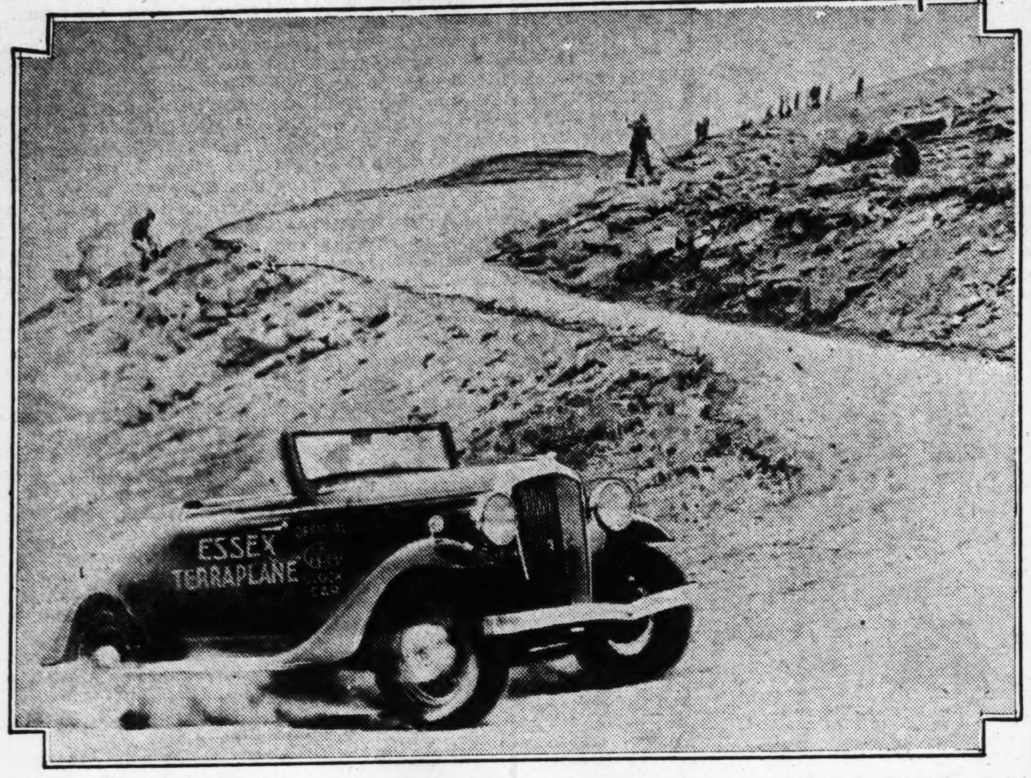
As usual, Glen Shultz was at the wheel of the winning DV-32 Stutz special. His time was 17 minutes 27.5 seconds, 40 seconds slower than the free-for-all record for the climb which he set with the same Stutz car last year.

Thilenius Tire Co. Firestone Dealer

J. D. Newton, branch manager of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., has appointed the Thilenius Tire Co., 3801 Washington avenue, a Firestone dealer.

The Thilenius Tire Co. has been in business for the past 11 years.

Winning Climb Up Mountain



Al Miller, in a standard stock Terraplane eight, rounding a curve during his record-breaking dash up Pikes Peak in the annual Labor day Hill Climb for stock cars. He made the 12.5-mile course in 19 minutes, 55.2 seconds, beating the record by one minute, 25.7 seconds.

Goodyear Salesmen Preparing to Attend Factory 'Homecoming'

Salesmen of all departments in the St. Louis branch territory of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. will meet A. W. Ellis, branch manager, here, preparatory to departing for Akron, O., where all will attend a "homecoming" of the company the week of Sept. 17.

Ellis said that the "homecoming" was to celebrate the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Goodyear company and was a direct result of improvement in the tire business. In all, 1400 of the company's territorial representatives will gather for the celebration.

At points along the way the coaches bearing the St. Louis sales representatives will be joined by others carrying delegations from other areas. The arrival at Akron has been timed so that long special trains from all points of the compass will arrive at the company's home plant on the same day.

The conference will make possible interchange of information on business conditions throughout the nation, first hand, and will give sales representatives an opportunity to familiarize themselves with all of the company's newest products.

Even Honey Bear Among Shipments By Airplane Express

Three dogs, a cat, a gamecock, jewelry, machinery parts, a honey bear and a wedding cake were shipped by air express last month, Rogers M. Combs Jr., chairman of General Air Express, said.

Los Angeles headed the list for variety with two shipments of cannibal insects to New Orleans, a $4100 shipment of diamonds to Mexico City, a wedding cake to Cleveland, a shipment of honey and a heavy iron casting to St. Louis.

Brownsville, Tex., was the point of departure for the honey bear, which was consigned to the editor of Time magazine. Dallas sent two dogs and a cat. Albany shipped a dog, and Chattanooga, Tenn., sent the gamecock.

Air express also came to the rescue of the Schmidt Brewing Co. in Detroit when a machine broke down. The part required weighed 360 pounds and was so large that an entire row of seats had to be removed from the plane. It was delivered in Detroit within seven hours after leaving St. Louis.

Dodge-Plymouth Dealers, Salesmen Guests at a Dinner

The Dodge Motor Corporation gave a Victory dinner for St. Louis and St. Louis County Dodge and Plymouth dealers Tuesday evening at Bevo Mill. V. C. Benedict, district manager for Dodge Brothers, was host for the evening, assisted by John Graham, special district representative.

The dinner was attended by 110 dealers and salesmen. Benedict expressed his appreciation of the showing of the Dodge organization in St. Louis and St. Louis County in August and complimented the dealers on their sales efforts.

Oliver-Cadillac Co. Raises Pay, Reduces Its Working Hours

The Oliver Cadillac Co., Cadillac and LaSalle distributer and Oldsmobile dealer, has put into effect a change in the working hours of its employes and increased wages and salaries of all in the organization.

Guy W. Oliver, president, said that, pending general adoption of the changes in the code affecting the automobile industry, he desired to put the operation of his plant in full swing along the lines of the new deal.

The reduction in working time and pay increases, he said, will more than conform to the code provisions.

Nothing in comfort features is missing from Graham closed cars. A glance over the rear compartment shows dome and side lights, robe rail, foot and arm rests and ash receivers.

Through the years Buick has had a reputation for especially light and smooth clutch operation, such an excellent one that The Observer was not surprised recently to encounter an owner who said he never had used the automatic clutch control on his car.

Chevrolet's rear axle construction not only simplifies mechanical service and reduces production costs, but it also reduces unsprung weight to make the car ride easier.

Among other things which the Observer would like to see reduced to figures is how much more quickly the Pierce-Arrow driver can get his foot on that low brake pedal than the operator of the average car.

In this year's concealed windshield wiper motors, the concealment seems much more effective than ever before. Wipers seem to be merely blades, which, of course, they are not.

Ab Jenkins' Record 3000-Mile Run Made On Goodrich Tires

When Ab Jenkins drove an average of 117.8 miles an hour for 3000 miles in his Pierce-Arrow special twelve on the Great Salt Desert near Salduro, Utah, and broke numerous world's and American records, he was using Safety Silvertown experimental tires built by the B. F. Goodrich Co.

"I was thoroughly satisfied with the performance of the Goodrich tires during my attack on the records," Jenkins said. "The tires were built to assure safety at high speeds, and they certainly lived up to expectations. No tires have ever been driven so far so fast.

"Throughout every part of my 3000-mile run, as well as during the shorter sprints, I had confidence in the tires, knew they would carry me safely, despite the punishment I gave them."

Hudson-Frampton Co. Hold Dealer Session

The Hudson-Frampton Motor Co. held a dealer meeting Friday which was attended by 75 dealers from St. Louis and the surrounding territory.

A. S. Frampton welcomed the dealers and introduced Jack Grosse, manager of the Greater St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, who spoke on the NRA code.

Chevrolet Contest Honor Man Sells 104 Cars in Two Months

Chevrolet salesmen and zone executives from every part of the United States are visiting the Chicago World's Fair as a result of a nation-wide sales contest.

The contest was held in May and June. During it, 958 salesmen sold 20,713 new Chevrolet cars and trucks and 16,514 used cars, a total of 37,227. These 958 salesmen, with a number of zone executives, 1,074 in all, are visiting the Fair in relays.

Highest individual honors were won by J. H. Metz, of Dover, Del., in the Baltimore zone. He sold 39 new and 65 used cars, 104 in all. Salesmen in small cities and towns in every section of the country turned in remarkable sales, total sales of 40 to 75 cars in the two months being numerous.

"Cannon Ball" Baker Averages 34 M. P. G. For Run in Beacon

Driving a stock Continental Beacon four-cylinder sedan from downtown Indianapolis to Bloomington and return, a distance of 101.2 miles, Cannonball Baker is certified as having averaged 34.5 miles per gallon of gas.

Baker's trip started and finished in the downtown district of Indianapolis. It was made over the hills of Southern and Central Indiana at an average speed of 30 to 35 miles an hour.

Preliminary Code Adopted by Tire Dealers in This Area

It Will Go Into Effect Pending Approval at Washington of National Code.

A meeting of the Greater St. Louis Tire Dealers' Association, which last Monday adopted a tentative NRA code at a meeting attended by some 400 dealers of the city and vicinity, will be held tomorrow at Hotel Jefferson.

Until the code submitted by the National Tire Dealers Association to the NRA Administration at Washington has been officially put into effect, the dealers here will be governed by the code adopted at the local meeting.

An executive committee, elected last Monday's meeting, will appoint a committee of three to hear and adjudicate complaints under the code.

Members of the executive committee, who represent the tire dealers of this city and St. Louis, St. Clair and Madison counties and St. Charles, are: H. G. Buckley, Buckley-Lee Tire Co.; Irvin Sleyster, Goodyear Service, Inc., East St. Louis; Jesse Johnston, Johnston Brothers Tire Co.; Earl Gordon, Goodrich-Silvertown, Inc.; Al Woehrle, Beverly Rubber Co.; M. MacConnell, Royal Tire Service; L. De Winter, Suburban Tire ervice Co.; Arthur Gunther, rthur Gunther Co.

Employes of local or national orporations are barred, under the ode, from buying tires for their wn use at preferred wholesale cost.

Among provisions of the tire ode: a tire which has been reeaded is not to be sold at less han a third of the wholesale price the tire; a charge of 25 cents ill be made in addition to the reair bill, for mounting five-inch res on cars; a mounting charge of 0 cents will be added for six-inch nd larger tires that have been reaired, and of $1 for such tires that ave not been repaired. A road rvice charge of $1, in addition to ny repair bill, will be made for d service within five miles of the y limits. A charge of 10 cents a ile will be made on service work eyond the five-mile limit.

How to Prevent Disaster When Tire 'Blows' at High Speed

roving Ground Manager Gives Rules for Driver When Front or Rear Casing "Lets Go."

Danger of tires "blowing out" has een greatly reduced in the last few ears, despite the increase in motor ar speed on the highway. Engieering advancements, giving betr weight distribution in cars, betr roads and improvement of tires ave combined to make it possible r motorists to forget tires when uring at high speed.

Accidents with tires, however, are ossible. C. H. Vincent, manager the Packard Motor Car Co. provg grounds, believes there are a w simple rules to meet such emerencies. Vincent has been driving st cars since 1905. He has cored 1,000,000 miles on roads and eedways. He has had tires, both front and rear wheels, blow out speed as high as 100 miles an our.

"Low pressure tires of today," he id, "are so much larger and so uch more pliable than the old gh pressure tires, that when a re gives out for any reason it ts a wheel drop farther. The attened tire spreads over the avement and offers a tremendous rag on the one wheel.

"I have found that the blowing a front tire offers more difficulty an is caused by a back tire going When a rear tire goes the ar end of the car fans back and rth. The car can be controlled meeting each skid with the front heels. When a front tire blows t it is a matter of hanging onto e steering wheel and keeping the r headed straight, despite its tenncy to head off to one side.

"Whether trouble comes from a ar or front tire with a car travelg at top speed, the most impornt rule to follow is to keep one's ot off the brake pedal. Because its greater traction the wheel ith the flat tire will exert greater aking effort than the other three heels.

"Letting the brakes alone and eping one's head will prevent ouble when a tire 'lets go.' Keepg air pressures up to those speci and avoiding high speed driv on tires that are badly worn, ll reduce to the minimum the nger of a tire letting go."

Modeling Future Car Designs

Heavy Movement Of Freight Shown in Chevrolet Report

How one transportation system supplements another is shown in a statement by the Chevrolet Motor Co. that in the first six months of this year the company moved by railway freight 69,596 full carloads of incoming materials and outgoing finished parts and automobiles.

This was an increase of 38 per cent over the full carload movement in the same period last year, according to C. R. Scharff, Chevrolet traffic director. It did not include 72,000,000 pounds of railway freight carried in less-than-carload lots, an additional 2,100,000 pounds moved by railway express and 24,000,000 pounds by freight forwarders.

Millions of dollars have already been paid to the railroads this year by Chevrolet for the traffic haulage essential in the movement of parts and raw materials to the company's 20 domestic plants, and the outbound carriage of parts and finished automobiles to dealers and zone warehouses.

The long sustained buying market for automobiles this year is reflected in the Chevrolet freight movement in June, the last month for which figures are available. In that month alone, the company handled 16,409 full carloads of freight, or more than three times as much as in June, 1932.

Chrysler-De Soto Begin Erection of Executive Building

To provide for increased production of De Soto and Chrysler cars, the Chrysler Corporation will move the administrative offices of these two divisions from the present factory buildings on East Jefferson avenue and the Belt Line railroad, Detroit, into a new administration and display building designed by Albert Kahn, internationally known architect. This will free four acres of manufacturing space.

Construction has started of the building which will be two stories in height and 501 feet in length. Modernistic in design and with a factory display salon for De Soto and Chrysler cars which will be one of the largest in the country, the new building will provide an entirely new facade for the great plant in which De Soto and Chrysler cars are built. It will face East Jefferson avenue and occupy all of the space at present given over to lawns and drive-away courts.

The western half of the structure will accommodate the De Soto executive office, dealers' and visitors' reception rooms and offices and a display of the complete line of De Soto models; the eastern half will contain the same facilities for the Chrysler Sales Corporation.

Shell "Travelaide" Service in Missouri, Illinois, Other States

What is said to be the most comprehensive highway map bulletin service yet rendered to motorists in the Middle West has been inaugurated by the Shell Petroleum Corporation in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

This Shell "Travelaide" comprises a weekly map prominently displayed at Shell service stations that shows last-minute information on the condition of all main highways of the State in which it is posted. Bridges or sections of highways under construction that are closed to traffic, detours, stretches of road recently oiled, and other information important to motorists, are plainly indicated on these maps, which are 34 by 31 inches in size.

In case floods, washouts or any other developments blocking traffic along the main routes of any State occur between the weekly map issues, new maps showing these conditions are immediately posted at Shell service stations in that State.

Registration Receipts Decline.

Motor vehicle registrations in all states in the Union amounted to $324,273,610 in 1932, as compared with $344,337,654 in 1931 and $355,704,860 in 1930, which indicates the effects of the depression on the users of motor vehicles. New York received the greatest amount last year, the total being $41,272,035, with Pennsylvania next at $29,815,715, and Wyoming at the foot of the list, with $676,442, but horses have not lost their popularity in Wyoming.

Plymouth Cars First to Make Run Over "Craziest Highway"

Two Plymouth cars recently made the fastest run known over 365 miles of road once known to international tourists as "the craziest highway in the world." The road runs between Shanghai, Hangchow and Nanking, China. Prior to the run by the Plymouths, it is said, no motor car ever traversed the distance entirely under its own power.

A silver cup and jade trophy were awarded to Plymouth in recognition of the feat.

Mark L. Moody, Plymouth distributer at Shanghai, accompanied by American and Chinese newspapermen, made the run just before to the opening of the new national highway which connect Shanghai and Nanking.

Plymouth also holds the transcontinental record in America, with the fastest road time on record between San Francisco and New York and return.

"CRUELTY" TO OUTLAW BAILEY CHARGED; JUDGE IGNORES IT

Attorney for Desperado Wants to Compel Officers to Be More Respectful.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Sept. 9.—The efforts of Harvey Bailey to secure more considerate treatment at the hands of State and Federal officers went awry today.

Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught ignored without comment the petition of Bailey's attorney, J. H. Mathers, for a writ of habeas corpus compelling the officers to treat Bailey in a more respectful manner.

The petition charged that Bailey, an escaped convict and accused participant in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel and in the massacre of five men at the Kansas City Union Station last June, is being treated as though he were a ferocious animal. It pointed out that he is chained in his cell and that his cell is searched at frequent intervals.

WIFE SUES, CHARGING HUSBAND MADE SANTA OUT A THIEF

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Marjorie McKennon in a divorce suit on file today in Superior Court charged that her husband, Paul, had put Santa Claus in a bad light.

McKennon, the bill alleged, gave their children $5 gold pieces for Christmas, took them from beneath their pillows while the children slept and then explained the next morning that Santa Claus had taken the money.

Negro Shoots Deputy; Is Killed.

By the Associated Press.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 9.—Deputy Sheriff Guy C. Massey of Wake County was shot twice today by Elvis Richardson, a Negro, who in turn was shot to death by the officer's son, Guy C. Massey Jr., on the streets of Zebulon, 25 miles east of Raleigh. The shooting occurred when Richardson resisted arrest on a warrant charging him with discharging firearms at a church several weeks ago.

Forest Fire at Norway, Ill.

MORRIS, Ill., Sept. 9.—Homes and buildings on several farms were menaced today by a forest fire which has been burning since last Wednesday near Norway, 15 miles south of Morris.

The flames have devastated 75 acres of timber land on the Samuel Adams farm. Farmers have made little progress in checking them.

RIVER NAVIGATION GOES ON

Boats Still Operate on Mississippi Below Mouth of Missouri.

Despite extremely low water, navigation continues uninterrupted on the Mississippi River south of the mouth of the Missouri River.

The stage at St. Louis yesterday was minus .2 foot, as compared with the September low for this section of the river of minus .4 foot in 1931. The Missouri has helped the lower Mississippi a bit, and a slight rise is anticipated by Weather Forecaster Nunn. On the upper river navigation has been impeded by low water.

Zero on the river gauge is a known low water mark at the bank. When it is zero on the St. Louis gauge the channel still contains from 15 to 20 feet of water.

INDICTED IN CRASH IN WHICH ST. LOUIS YOUTH WAS KILLED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Ia., Sept. 9.—An information charging manslaughter was filed today against Archie Farlow of alesburg, Ill., as the result of the deaths of Walter Freeman of Galesburg and Francis Joseph Green Jr., St. Louis youth, in Farlow's automobile in an accident Aug. 28.

The charge invloves only the death of Freeman and alleges that negligence and recklessness on Farlow's part caused the car to overturn on a curve.

Robert E. Reed of St. Louis, a companion of Green, who suffered a broken leg in the accident, told authorities that while Miss Vera Carlson of Galesburg was driving, Farlow called for more speed and pulled down the hand throttle.

Green, who was 18 years old and resided at 1125 East John avenue, was on his way with Reed to the State University of Iowa. They obtained a ride with Farlow near Mt. Pleasant, Ia. Reed's home is at 3901A Lexington avenue.

Built for Economy!

But that extra quality that enables Dodge to live through the terrific punishment it gets in the test pit means money in your pocket!

A car that can "take it" as this new Dodge does is a car that's going to be mighty easy on upkeep costs—on repair bills. In fact, Dodge offers you 7 definite points of economy. These points help to cut down gas, cut down oil, cut down running expense in every way.

Floating Power engine mountings give you the smoothness of more cylinders, yet retain the undoubted economy of six.

More Than $150 Savings!

The economy features of this new Dodge will save you upwards of $150 in actual cash . . . on running expenses alone! Plus what you save by the other money-saving features that are built-in to every Dodge at the factory! And yet this big Dodge Six can be bought for just a few dollars more than lowest-priced cars.

These are facts—not claims. You can test them with the "Show-Down" Plan . . . the sensational new way of checking Dodge value against competitive cars on merit alone. Ask your nearest dealer about the "Show-Down" Plan now! And take home a "Show-Down" Score Card—it's free.

Here's a "Thrift Code" for St. Louisans:

Buy Your Every Need for Now and Months Ahead in This 1933 Buying Carnival. Prices Must Soon Take Off to Higher Altitudes!

Take a long, last look at the price tags on the merchandise in this Premier Event. There is little, if any, likelihood that this generation will see such low prices again! A new economic order is coming into being . . . and higher price levels are one of its major premises. Already retailers are faced with higher replacement costs on virtually all their purchases. These additional costs must be taken into account when present stocks are exhausted. So we urge: Buy Now! That's what thrifty thousands are doing.

ORPHANS' HOME TO KEEP 75TH ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

Campaign to Raise $75,000 for Maintenance of Institution to Be Begun.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the German Protestant Orphans' Home, 8240 St. Charles Rock road, will be celebrated next Sunday. At the same time a campaign will be opened to raise $75,000 for maintenance of the home. In 1858 the late Rev. Edward L. Nollau founded the institution, which was incorporated under its present name three years later.

During the morning service the introit will be chanted by the Rev. Arthur E. Reiss, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical Church of Quincy, Ill., a former ward of the home. Addresses will be made by the Rev. Theophil Stoerker, superintendent of Emmaus Home, St. Charles, and the Rev. T. J. Hermann of St. Paul's Evangelical Church.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

PLACES HIGH VALUE ON SCOUT JAMBOREE

C. H. Mills Back From Godollo Delighted With Fraternal Spirit Shown.

The importance to international peace of the Boy Scouts' World Jamboree cannot be overestimated, according to Charles H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Council. Mills returned to St. Louis last week at the close of a brief vacation which he had taken after piloting 18 St. Louis scouts back from the jamboree.

Mills is now mapping out the fall program for the St. Louis scouts of which the chief event is the merit badge show. But nothing in scouting is half so important as the jamboree, he believes.

"The boys who learned to understand each other this summer at Godollo," Mills said, "may meet again some day over the conference table in some future crisis. I am certain that peace and understanding will be the result of such a meeting of former jamboree scouts."

Mills was amazed at the fraternizing which took place among the 30,000 scouts and the ease and informality with which they made contacts. One aid to this was the evening campfire.

"One night the American encampment entertained 40 scouts from Kent, England," Mills said. "They discovered that they had some songs in common and they enjoyed singing together. Later they paired off, an American boy with an English boy, to swap camping equipment.

"Another night two Rumanian scouts, dressed in gorgeous costumes, came over to entertain us wth their native folk dances. They were followed by a quartet of Spanish scouts who sang. It was a common sight to see boys of different nations skipping down the road together. Usually they were singing "The Bear Came Over the Mountain," which apparently all of them knew.

"Difference in language was no obstacle to the friendship of boys who know the scout sign."

Mills was impressed with the Hitlerjungen in Germany and the Balilla in Italy. In these countries Hitler and Mussolini have swept aside scouting and substituted their own youth movements. In Germany the American scouts had their scout greetings answered by a Nazi salute. In Italy the boys join the Balilla when they are six years old, go through a rigorous 12-year period of educational and recreational training.

In Venice the American scouts were entertained by the Balilla and witnessed mass drills and recreational activities.

Troop Notes

South District.

Troop 126, Holy Ghost Evangelical Church, received a standard troop award for the first time at a court of honor and parents' night held last Friday. The award was made by Dr. R. S. Vitt, chairman of the South District Court of Honor. He presented the banner to William L. V. Sippy, scoutmaster, and gave the standard troop bars to the 38 members of the troop. Members of Troop 198, St. John's Episcopal Church, attended the presentation.

More than 200 adult leaders attended the third annual South District scouters picnic yesterday at Spring Lake Camp, Forder and Telegraph roads. There were games and entertainment for men and women and at night Charles H. Mills, activities director, told the campfire gathering of the World Jamboree from which he has just returned.

The annual South District Rally will be held Saturday, Sept. 30, in Tower Grove Park. Final arrangements will be made at a committee meeting Tuesday night.

West District.

Troop 119, Shaare Zedek Congregation, will present "A Generation of Progress," next Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock at the church. The program includes a motion picture and a stage performance demonstrating the activities of the troop.

John Kneist, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 93, Church of the Redeemer, was presented with his eagle badge at a troop court of honor held last Friday. Second class badges were awarded to Hunter Hower and Walter Goodenough, and a first class badge to Stephen Ferguson. Twenty-fire merit badges were also given out and the troop was presented with its new charter.

Central District.

Troop 23, Gibson Heights Church, held a parents' night recently at which the scouts presented a program which was planned and executed without the help of any of the adult leaders. The scouts gave a series of short skits, sang songs and closed with a camping demonstration. Oliver Steed was master of ceremonies.

Troop 74 held a party last Friday at the home of Committeeman Toon to honor the troop's camparall patrol. The patrol won first place at the annual camparall in June and at the Central District picnic last month, thereby winning the district flag. Members of the patrol are: Bud Knoblauch, Dick Toon, Wilson Maile, Bob Reahan, Dick McDougall, Buck Jones, William Jones and Werner Kistenmacher.

Inter-Racial District.

Forty merit badges were awarded to Negro boy scouts at an interracial district court of honor held last week at Central Baptist Church. There were also 22 second, nine first, three star and one life class scout awards. It was announced that there are now 475 boys in the 24 troops of the interracial district. The Rev. D. R. Clark presided at the court of honor.

BRIDLESPUR HUNT CLUB FARMERS' PARTY SATURDAY

Prizes Offered at Annual Event for Owners of Land Used in Chase.

The annual Farmers' Party given by the Bridlespur Hunt Club for the farmers and property owners over whose land the chase is held, will be held Saturday afternoon and evening at Madame Defoe's on Baxter road. More than 500 have been invited.

Activities will begin at 3:30 p. m. with a mule race, to be followed by a showing of work horses and mules, and other events. The winners will get cash prizes.

Brief talks will be made by August Hill, County Farm Bureau head; the Rev. Joseph Polster, pastor of Zion Evangelical Church, Ballas and Clayton roads, and August A. Busch Jr.

Corn Beef and Cabbage Club.

The Corn Beef and Cabbage Club of St. Louis will hold its annual picnic Sept. 17 at Kuhs Gardens on Riverside Drive. An auto procession will leave Grand boulevard and Kossuth avenue at 8:30 a. m. The club was organized 12 years ago. John H. Kissel, 4111 West Florissant avenue, building contractor, is president.

MOVE TO SET ASIDE FIRST NATIONAL RULING

Petition Filed Seeking to Reopen Litigation Over Bank's Mortgage Participations.

A petition filed in Circuit Judge Calhoun's court yesterday sought to have set aside a decree of that court by which litigation concerning the guaranteed first mortgage participations of the First National Co. was settled last July 24.

The petitioner was Mrs. Ada M. Sprague, represented by her son, former Circuit Judge Harry E. Sprague. Stating that she owned three of the First National Co. participation certificates aggregating $13,000, Mrs. Sprague asked for permission to intervene in the earlier litigation, jurisdiction of which was retained by the court.

The litigation followed default of the First National Co., investment affiliate of the First National Bank, on $392,000 of its "guaranteed first mortgage participations," of which it had $9,577,508 outstanding. Various litigants sought an accounting and removal of the First National Bank as trustee for the mortgages and other securities underlying the participation notes.

This litigation was settled by stipulation. The First National Bank was confirmed in its position of trustee and former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield was appointed co-trustee, and the bank agreed to pay the expenses of administering the trust. Mrs. Sprague asserts the bank is not a suitable trustee; that as a creditor of the First National Co. it has transferred the collateral securities from the trust department to itself as creditor, thus violating its trust. Attorney Sprague said the certificates held by his mother, a widow, represented her life savings.

5-YEAR-OLD GIRL BITTEN BY DOGS, SERIOUSLY HURT

Child Attacked by Two Animals Belonging to Father; Brother Rescued Her.

Velma, 5-year-old daughter of Gus Grzymala, proprietor of a cafe at 710 South Sixth street, East St. Louis, was bitten by two bulldogs belonging to her father yesterday when she ventured into the fenced back yard where the dogs are kept.

"She was walking to that little shed at the back of the yard," her brother, Joseph, 11, related, "when Princie, the male dog, grabbed her by the hair and began to drag her around the yard. Then the female came up and bit her hand. I threw a cabbage head at Princie and when he didn't stop, I picked up a brick and hit him on the head with it. Both the dogs ran away and my sister, Mary, and I, helped Velma into the house."

Velma was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where it was said her condition is serious. East St. Louis police ordered the dogs tied up for 15 days for observation.

Drowned Man Unidentified.

The body of a man, taken nude from the Mississippi River on Friday, is at Festus, Mo., awaiting identification. The man, about 35 years old, was 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighed 170 pounds and had brown hair and mustache. Authorities believe he was drowned while swimming.

WASHINGTON U. FREE TUITION INQUIRIES DECREASE 80 PCT.

Officials Attribute Decrease to Better Employment Conditions for Adults.

Inquiries about free tuition for the unemployed at Washington University this year are only about 20 per cent of the number last year, according to university officials, who attribute the decrease to better employment conditions and wider knowledge of the restrictions on applicants.

Adults receiving free instruction must be residents of the St. Louis area, have at least junior academic standing and take courses only in certain departments. The total number of inquiries, when the time limit expired yesterday, was 61, to 44 of whom application blanks have been sent. Personal conferences will follow receipt of the applications.

Enrollment in evening and Saturday afternoon classes is expected to show a marked increase over last year, inquiries in August having been 25 per cent more numero than last year. Registration begins Sept. 18 and extends through Sept. 30. Registration in the School of Fine Arts begins Sept. 18, and in the College of Liberal Arts and professional schools Sept. 25. Classes in most divisions begin Sept. 28, with night classes starting on Oct. 2.

The Tragedy of the "English Butterfly" and the Perfume King's Son

Conflicting Reports Issued by the Police on the Suicide of Dorothy Wright in Roland Coty's Apartment Have Made the Affair an International Scandal.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

PARIS.

NO matter what the French police do about it now, it is clear that reverberations of the pistol shot that ended the life of Dorothy Wright, beautiful English girl, in the apartment of Roland Coty a short time ago will continue to be heard throughout the French Republic for many weeks to come. Not in 30 years has this ancient center of sensational happenings been stirred by a scandal as it has been stirred in this case of suicide, a suicide growing out of the liaison of an "English butterfly," as she was called, and the son of Francois Coty, world-famous perfume king and the wealthiest citizen of France.

In order to protect the reputation of a wealthy and influential man, the police made the grave mistake of trying to hush up the matter. They succeeded for awhile. Veteran representatives of international press associations, the special correspondents of the leading journals of Great Britain and the Continent and even the aggressive writers of American newspapers were all neatly hoaxed for a few days. But the ultimate result of all this veil of secrecy was to make a mere pistol shot gather the volume of a cannonade. Not only did the secrecy fail of its purpose. It resulted in a hopeless tangle of contradictory reports and a case so muddled that it is doubtful whether anybody will ever know exactly what happened or why it happened. And everybody blames the police. The criticism heaped upon them by both France and England has been of an extraordinarily violent character.

As near as can be determined from the maze of rumors, reports and conflicting statements, Roland Coty, who is married and the father of three children, returned to his luxurious suite in the Hotel George V very early one morning and found there his blond sweetheart, Dorothy Wright. That circumstance might not have been so embarrassing for Monsieur Coty, although it was unexpected, had it not been for the fact that he had supposed Dorothy Wright was at Cannes and had brought into the apartment with him someone else. Coty says it was a male friend, but a section of the French press insists that it was another sweetheart. During a scene which followed, Miss Wright whipped out a pearl-handled revolver and, before Coty could restrain her, shot herself through the head. She died a few hours later in the American Hospital at Neuilly.

A "clash of two jealous beauties" in M. Coty's apartment in the small hours of the morning would have caused a considerable stir, to say nothing of the stir resulting from the suicide of one of them. Coty knew that and took full advantage of his influence and his father's influence. "For reasons of State," the French police tried to draw a veil of secrecy around the tragedy and all connected with it. Behind the scenes was the wealthy and powerful Papa Coty pulling the strings to which the police danced obediently.

Featuring the police version of the affair as first given to the press was the absence of all reference to M. Coty, as well as a failure to state just where and under what circumstances the suicide occurred. Becoming panicky over the slashing attacks in the non-Coty newspapers, the police released a series of stories, all of which were contradictory and marked by the most glaring discrepancies in essential news details. But not once did the name Coty appear in any of the reports. One police account stated that "an English girl of obscure origin ended her life in the presence of a 'prominent man,' with whom she had been friendly, as he entered his apartment with two friends," while another report stated that a "young Australian girl shot herself, before her admirer could thwart her in her purpose, in full view of the man's four friends."

THEN during a moment of relaxed vigilance on the part of the minions of the senior Coty, an enterprising English correspondent got hold of Roland, questioned him point blank as to the tragedy and obtained his admission that he was the man in the case. Young Coty said he had seen the girl shoot herself and had tried to prevent her from doing so.

And while Paris was arching its eyes, shrugging its shoulders, and wagging its tongue in still more furious fashion over the Coty interview, as relayed from London, the mother of the dead girl, Mrs. Gordon Wright, arrived on the scene. Her appearance was rather unexpected and upset the hush-hush plans of the police still further. Without ado or ceremony, Mrs. Wright proceeded to blow the lid off the sordid mess, revealing to news correspondents the most lurid details of the liaison between her daughter and the young millionaire.

At the cemetery at Puteaux, Mrs. Wright, between sobs, aired her mind as to the failure of Coty to appear either at the church or burial grounds during the funeral services.

As the coffin was lowered into the grave Mrs. Wright cried repeatedly:

"Where is he? Where is Roland Coty? Why hasn't he come? He should be here, at least for her sake."

Roland had gone into seclusion in Tours, not only to escape the spotlight of notoriety, but to escape the wrath of his father, who was in a frenzy over the fact that his son had allowed himself to be cajoled into giving an interview.

Various details of the tragic drama have gradually been disclosed by the investigations of the Paris newspapers and the foreign news correspondents.

It was only two years ago that Dorothy Wright—"the girl with the gold-studded car"—who was brought up in the north of England, appeared like a meteor in the midst of the smart set of Paris, and her delicate blond loveliness and romantic temperament made her immediately popular with that sophisticated group of people.

She lived a life of exotic luxury, plunging into every gaiety and giving the impression that she was an immensely rich woman. Her motor car, clothes and jewels all stamped her as one who had all she could desire of this world's goods. According to young Coty, as quoted in the British correspondent's interview, this is what happened to her in the Hotel George V on the morning of August 2:

"DOROTHY and I were old friends," Coty related. "She used to come often to my apartment at the hotel. But I did not expect to see her when I arrived in Paris this time.

"I had flown to Paris early in the evening, and spent the evening in town with my friend. As it was late when we decided to go home, I suggested to my friend that he might spend the night in my apartment at the hotel.

"When we arrived I was surprised to find Dorothy waiting for me in the room adjoining my bedroom. She was fully clothed, although it was 5 o'clock in the morning.

"'What are you doing here?' I asked her.

"'I want to speak to you most urgently, Roland,' she said.

"I presented my friend and showed him to his room. Then I passed into the bathroom. While I was there I heard a peculiar click as of the opening of a drawer. I don't know why, but I felt a sudden presentiment of something wrong.

"I rushed into the bedroom, and there was Dorothy standing with her right arm behind her back. She was holding something. I guessed it was a revolver. She stared at me with wild eyes.

"'What is the matter, Dorothy?' I cried. She said nothing, but moved her arm.

"I rushed forward and tried to snatch the revolver from her. We struggled for a moment, and during the tussle I tore my shirt.

"I seized her wrist, but as I did so she jerked her arm up and fired the bullet into her head behind her ear. She immediately crumpled up.

"I did not know what to do for the moment. I was all disheveled. But as soon as I recovered my wits I rushed to the telephone and asked the hall porter to call the doctor.

"My friend rushed in to see what was the matter, but neither of us could stop Dorothy from firing the revolver."

So much for the Coty interview. The Paris newspaper Echo de Paris, without any mincing of words, says this version is not correct. The Echo de Paris, describing Coty as "a prominent French politician, a married man with three children," says that the "man in the case" accompanied Miss Wright to the hotel, and later told the police that she shot herself before he could intervene.

Notwithstanding that young Coty told a London news correspondent he was accompanied to his apartment by a male acquaintance, no one has yet learned just who this man was and where he had joined the millionaire before going to the hotel.

Adding another note of mystery is the fact that the police questioned or, at least, say they questioned four persons said to have been with Coty when the girl placed the revolver to her head and fired a bullet into her brain. This despite the fact that the Parisian millionaire had previously declared there was no one in his apartment save Miss Wright and a lone male friend.

Though the police say the girl shot herself at 4 o'clock in the morning—Coty says at 5—she remained without medical attention for more than an hour, when a Dr. Iselin of the Avenue Marceau was called, and when he arrived he found Miss Wright lying in the bathroom, he says, with a bullet through her temple. A small pearl-handled revolver was by her side.

THOUGH the physician called in to attend the dying girl states quite clearly that he found her in the bathroom, Coty, in his statement to the London newspaper reporter, declares the shooting took place in his bedroom, to which he rushed from the bathroom when he "heard a peculiar click."

Some of the Parisian newspapers scoff at the story told by Coty to the London newspaper reporter and they also ridicule the denials of Coty that a bitter quarrel between his mistress and himself preceded the shooting.

These same newspapers also say that the cause of the quarrel was not Coty's announcement that he was preparing to return to his wife and children and was going to give up Miss Wright, but his taking up with another woman.

The atmosphere of secrecy was maintained to the very end. After the permission to bury the body had been given, it was announced that the funeral would take place after a service in the Inkermann Protestant Church at Neuilly. Last-minute changes, directed by the police, were made which resulted in numbers of journalists and photographers going to the wrong church and missing the ceremony.

Actually the funeral service was held in Christ Church at Neuilly. Police were massed at the doors, refusing entrance to all but mourners. Newspaper reporters were denied admittance to the church, and were curtly ordered to leave the neighborhood.

Hundreds of police were massed in the cemetery, both in uniform and plain clothes. Newspapermen were routed from the graveside and one persistent photographer was escorted out of the cemetery by the police.

Following the outburst of protest at the grave by the girl's mother, over the absence of M. Roland at the services, she was hurried back to her hotel and placed under a police guard so that she might not give out any further statements about her daughter's unhappy romance.

Later the police announced that Mrs. Wright was well satisfied that her daughter had taken her own life, and she wished no further inquiries into the tragedy.

The mystery thrown about the identity of Mrs. Gordon Wright was almost as great as that surrounding the suicide of her daughter. Except for the fact that she is British and had been living in Brussels, whence she flew to Paris at the time of the tragedy, little is known about her.

The social gossips have it, however, that Mrs. Wright and her ill-fated daughter had traveled extensively and were well known in New York and in Paris. As to Dorothy, the story is that she was born in Ceylon and during her younger days lived a great deal of the time in India and Australia.

As to how the paths of Roland Coty and the beautiful girl crossed, there are many conflicting stories. One is that he met her in New York City during the spring of 1932, when he was on a trip to America in connection with his father's business.

Another and more plausible report is that the girl made the acquaintance of the young millionaire on the Riviera, at Cannes. It was said to have been a case of love

While Most of Those Who Try to Break Into the Movies Are Sure to Be Disappointed, the Demand for New Faces — Stronger Now Than Ever — Is Such That Recruits Are Constantly Being Signed Up.

By A. L. WOOLDRIDGE

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

HOLLYWOOD, California.

HITCH-HIKING, riding on motorcycles, in limousines and flivvers and "holding down the plush" on transcontinental trains, pretty girls and screen-struck young men are piling into Hollywood in unprecedented numbers, bent on crashing the gates of the movies. The return of musical comedies, necessitating the use of more singers and dancers, the cut-the-cost command from bankers, which is eliminating many fading high-salaried players, and the demand of theater-goers for new faces and new personalities are changing the aspect of the glamourous cinema town.

While most of the newcomers are due to "walk right in and turn around and walk right out again," the fact remains that the large studios are employing a lot of new talent and, strangely, taking on would-be Duses and Bernhardts and Mansfields who are utterly unknown to the stage and screen. If they can make the grade in the movies, there's a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. If they can't —well, the trip to Hollywood will have been an experience. That's the way they figure.

At the Fox studio the other day a smiling, attractive miss made application at the casting office for employment in a film to be made under the title of "My Weakness."

"I can sing a little—don't know much about dancing," she said, "but I think I can learn. My name is Mary Howard."

She was one among a crowd of nearly 100, an ash blonde, confident of herself, possessing a nice figure, evidently an outdoor girl, and just 18 years of age. Fifty of these applicants were given screen tests, and Mary Howard was among the eight successful ones.

For two weeks she rehearsed a minor role. And then a school girl friend came on the set who exclaimed:

"Why, Mary Rogers! What are you doing here?"

"Shush!" replied the little ash blonde. "I'm Mary Howard. Don't bawl me out like that."

But the "bawling out" had been done. Mary Howard, it developed, was in reality Mary Rogers, the daughter of Will Rogers, the comedian. On her own hook she had gone to the studio alone, contending that she did not want to use the Rogers name in obtaining a movie job.

WHEN the young woman recently completed her studies at a finishing school in New York, she announced her intention of finding employment of some kind.

"Daddy doesn't care what I do, so long as I do something," she said naively. "I've got to do something, he says—whatever I like to do most. But he won't have a lazy daughter around the house who's not interested in anything but loafing. I've been singing all my life, but I don't know that I'll turn out to sing professionally. I'd like to. Sometimes I think I want to go on the stage. But if I decide to try I won't let daddy help me. I'll do it on my own or not at all."

She made good her word. She went out "on her own" and it was to the movies, not the stage. Now she is being considered for the ingenue lead in her daddy's next picture and is "on the way."

Few girls, however, get the start that Mary Rogers got. Usually it's a long, hard fight. There's Florine McKinney, for example. Florine drove a flivver single-handed all the way from Fort Worth, Texas, to Hollywood in 1931. Across the plains of Texas and over the burning sands of New Mexico and Arizona she forced the old wagon along.

"Every time we hit a bump we dropped something, either a bolt or a nut," she said on her arrival. "My teacher, Mrs. Eva Brown, who accompanied me, kept urging me on. 'Hollywood or bust!' she repeated. And that's what kept up my courage."

Florine's nerve and good looks interested the Paramount people. They gave her a job at $75 a week (announced by the press agents as $750 a week), and she lasted for six months. Then, apparently, she was through. For nearly two years she was on the outside looking in. But again fortune smiled and Florine has just signed a contract with the great M-G-M organization, which will pay her $125 a week at the start and increase the salary over a period of years until it mounts to four figures. Her Texas flivver is junked, but its photograph remains as Florine's golden chariot.

Then there's Dorothy Coonan, a Minneapolis girl, who has had good fortune break all over her just because she is freckle-faced. A make-up expert at Warner Brothers' studios has counted 182 little brown specks on the young lady's countenance. If she should lose them she wouldn't have a job in pictures. She wouldn't be on the list of Warner Brothers' featured players and the picture "Wild Boys of the Road," in which she got the leading feminine role, might be her last as well as her first endeavor. Dorothy Coonan's freckles are worth money.

When "Wild Boys" was half completed, Miss Coonan was offered a long-term contract by the studio. It was the usual kind of a contract except for one unusual provision. It expressly provided that she must stay freckled. If she loses the freckles she loses her job, which means that she must stay pretty generally away from beauty parlors. One face bleaching might ruin her career. One mud pack might send her back to the chorus. Even a parasol endangers her future. When she was cast for that first role, they needed a girl who could masquerade convincingly in boys' clothing. Her screen test was the best out of a dozen. She plays a homeless waif, whom fate throws in with a gang of wandering lads—boys who are just drifting.

IN the same picture is John Harris, former employe of the National City Bank in New York, who bummed his way to the west coast. Seeing a gang of men whom he supposed to be hoboes, in the Southern Pacific yards in Los Angeles on his arrival, he swung off a freight train to join them, only to discover that they were members of a movie company. He was offered a job right then and there—and took it. Harris was a Columbia University student. What a break!

They come from every walk of life. Marigold Lake was cashier in a restaurant in Klamath Falls, Oregon. She was 23, pretty, a contender for swimming honors and sometimes a radio entertainer at home. Restaurant patrons often remarked, "Goodness sake, you ought to be in the movies!" Marigold took them at their word, hitch-hiked to Hollywood and really has landed a job with Columbia Pictures.

"I didn't have many experiences hitch-hiking," she said. "All the men who gave me rides were nice. Just once I was scared to death. That was when I found that the man who was giving me a lift was a bootlegger and had a lot of liquor in his car. I expected every moment to be arrested."

NIKOLA TESLA was born on the stroke of midnight. Unlike John Henry, Roark Bradford's mythical Negro giant, Tesla did not scale an enormous poundage at birth. Nor did the Mississippi run upstream, or the big cats whine in the 'brake, because his birthplace was in the mountains of Smiljan, in Lika, a border country of old Austria-Hungary. But there might appropriately have been some comparable upheaval of nature, for that night was born one of the queerest and one of the most useful men who live today.

People have always called him crazy—for a time—and have lived to see his weird dreams materialize and become part of their daily lives. Observers have treated his claims to new discoveries with a veneer of humor and have been spared to listen to the wheels of industry spinning to the measure of Tesla's brain. The result has been that the inventor has come almost to believe that the greater the scoffing at his claims, the more chance he has of success, so that now that there is laughter at his latest boast—his announcement of a source of power which will make the most powerful dynamo resemble a toy—he feels certain that victory is at hand.

This new power source, he says, will, first of all, bring about a new industrial revolution. It will overturn the Einstein theory, make possible the construction of mile-a-second rocket ships which will sail the stratosphere and furnish a means at last of communicating with other planets. NIKOLA TESLA and HIS "NEW SOURCE of POWER"

Inventor of the Arc Light Says It Will Make the Most Powerful Dynamo Resemble a Toy and Open the Way for Interplanetary Communication — His Vision of the Future.

By JACK ALEXANDER

NEW YORK.

NIKOLA TESLA was born on the stroke of midnight. Unlike John Henry, Roark Bradford's mythical Negro giant, Tesla did not scale an enormous poundage at birth. Nor did the Mississippi run upstream, or the big cats whine in the 'brake, because his birthplace was in the mountains of Smiljan, in Lika, a border country of old Austria-Hungary. But there might appropriately have been some comparable upheaval of nature, for that night was born one of the queerest and one of the most useful men who live today.

People have always called him crazy—for a time—and have lived to see his weird dreams materialize and become part of their daily lives. Observers have treated his claims to new discoveries with a veneer of humor and have been spared to listen to the wheels of industry spinning to the measure of Tesla's brain. The result has been that the inventor has come almost to believe that the greater the scoffing at his claims, the more chance he has of success, so that now that there is laughter at his latest boast—his announcement of a source of power which will make the most powerful dynamo resemble a toy—he feels certain that victory is at hand.

This new power source, he says, will, first of all, bring about a new industrial revolution. It will overturn the Einstein theory, make possibie the construction of mile-a-second rocket ships which will sail the stratosphere and furnish a means at last of communicating with other planets. The nature of the power the 77-year-old inventor will not disclose. He denies that it depends upon the unlocking of the atom, or the utilization of the difference of temperature in levels of ocean water, or conversion of the heat of the interior of the earth or of the sun, or the use of cosmic rays.

"I can only say now," he declares, "that it will come from an entirely new and unsuspected source and will be, for all practical purposes, constant day and night, and at all times of the year. The apparatus for capturing the energy and transforming it will partake both of mechanical and electrical features and will be of ideal simplicity. At first the cost may be found too high, but this obstacle will eventually be overcome. Moreover, the installation will be, so to speak, indestructible and will continue to function for any length of time without additional expenditure."

The new power will be transmitted without wires, the inventor says, and so potent are its possibilities that the entire direction of scientific development may be shifted. It is a bold claim, but so was Tesla's announcement many years ago that he had perfected a means for transmission of electrical power in an undulating current. Today, alternating current is a commonplace. The time is at hand now, he says, when power may be tapped into any factory or home as is the ordinary radio program.

COMMUNICATION with other planets has always been a pet idea of the dean of American inventors. He considers it "a mathematical certainty" that they are inhabited.

"I think that nothing can be more important than interplanetary communication," he says. "It will certainly come and the certitude that there are other human beings in the universe—working, suffering, struggling, like ourselves—will produce a magic effect on mankind and will form the foundation of a universal brotherhood that will last as long as humanity itself." In drawing this conclusion the inventor evidently had not consulted a statement he made on completing a wireless communication set before the turn of the century, to the effect that nations need no longer fight, with this new opportunity for mutual knowledge at hand.

Telsa is a tall man of slight build and a perpetually abstracted look. He is literally wrapped in thought at all times. His life is a monastic one. He never sees callers. He sleeps three or four hours a day and it is his claim that his mind is working even then on abstruse problems. Sleep, he says, is a racial habit, born of the fact that we spend half our lives in darkness because of the rotation of the earth. If people ate less poisonous foods, he says, they would need hardly any sleep and would live to ripe ages. He eats two meals a day, a morning supply of fats to provide fuel for the day's work and an evening meal of proteins to rebuild the worn-down tissue.

He lives at one of the midtown hotels and it is a common thing for him to go down to the grill at midnight and demand an order that throws the kitchen staff in an uproar.

"It's the duffer, the crazy guy!" growls the chef. "Onions, turnips, carrots, spinach en casserole with no pepper, no salt, no butter, only water! No meat, no salad!" Tesla lived in the old Waldorf until it was torn down. Then he moved to a smaller hotel that took over many of the Waldorf's cooks and waiters. He is a scourge to them. He always demands a stack of napkins and uses them all, never drawing the same one across his lips twice. But his room is untidy. A stack of magazines and newspapers reaches almost to the ceiling. On the dresser are dimes, quarters, half-dollars. He tips well, but never hands the bellboy the tip. He simply says, "Take a quarter," or "Take a half-dollar."

He apparently has little actual contact with other members of the human race. He takes walks in the evening, cloaked in thought, and picks up sick pigeons and takes them to his room, nursing them to health. Two or three can usually be found perching contentedly on his window sill, with no thought of flying away. He wears a derby and is a conservative dresser. Cab drivers who try to open a conversation drive him wild. He finds the recesses of taxicabs particularly suited to reverie. He patronizes, when he can, the same driver, a man who has learned to keep his mouth shut. He has never had time to marry.

Once, as he was emerging from the hotel for his evening stroll, he saw a workman carrying a piece of lumber to an excavation. The man was singing at his work. Tesla astonished the hotel doorman by throwing back his head and shaking with laughter.

"Did you ever see anything so funny?" he asked.

The doorman had, but didn't say so. He is still wondering where the joke was.

The inventor expects to live to be 130 or 140, as he says some of his forbears did. Many people could do the same thing, he says, if they watched their food and did not drink coffee or tea, both of which he rates as poison. Alcohol in moderation harms nobody, he thinks, and aids in the enjoyment of life.

Tesla's father was a Greek clergyman and his mother an inventor. His mother's father was also an inventor.

"WHEN I was 9 years old," he relates, "I built a turbine in a mountain stream on my father's land and connected it to all sorts of machinery. I told my uncle: 'Some day I am going to America, and I will run a big wheel at Niagara Falls.' I had read about Niagara Falls and it fascinated me. My uncle did not take me seriously. 'You'll never see Niagara Falls,' he told me. But I did come to America and I did put a big wheel in Niagara Falls." Tesla designed the power plant at Niagara, and it is said that his new projected power machine, in which he places so much trust, will be connected with, or draw upon, Niagara in some way.

As a young man he studied four years in the Polytechnic School at Gratz, capital of Croatia, and studied philosophy at the University of Prague and in Budapest. His first job was as engineer for a lighting company in Paris. As soon as he got the chance, he threw up the job and came to America, his goal. He is a naturalized citizen. Among his well known inventions are the Tesla coil, the Tesla motor and condensers, dynamos and incandescent lamps bearing his name. He discovered the principle of the rotary magnetic field and many others which have been of inestimable value to industry. He invented the arc light.

Nikola Tesla.

When awarded the Edison medal some years ago, he heard the chief speaker say: "Were we to seize and eliminate from our industrial world the results of Mr. Tesla's work, the wheels of industry would cease to turn, our electric cars and trains would stop, our towns would be dark, our mills would be dead and idle. So far-reaching is this work that it has become the warp and woof of industry."

Along with his power invention, Tesla is working on a method for improved production of steel. He expects it to double the strength of the product, so that only half as much will be needed for the construction of a modern building.

But with this and his other contributions to business and public welfare, he is, by a strange irony, a poor man, relatively. He has to worry about how to pay his hotel bill. He is counting on the steel invention to make him wealthy.

"WHEN it is perfected and in commercial production," he says, "I should be one of the big taxpayers of the United States."

For most modern scientists Tesla has little respect, and he includes Einstein.

"Modern atomic theories are all wrong," he declares. "They are the product of pad-and-pencil scientists, who deduce and deduce, and when they have finished have a grain of truth and 95 per cent illusion. The scientists from Franklin to Morse were clear thinkers and did not produce erroneous theories. The scientists of today think deeply instead of clearly, but one can think deeply and be quite insane.

"The scientists of today have substituted mathematics for experiments, and they wander off through equation after equation and eventually build a mathematical structure which has no relation to reality. They are metaphysicians rather than scientists."

As for the popular discussions about the energy locked up in the atom, he says: "The idea of atomic energy is illusionary, but it has taken so powerful a hold on the public mind that, although I have preached against it for 25 years, there are still some who believe it realizable. I have disintegrated atoms with a high potential vacuum tube I brought out in 1896, which I consider one of my best inventions. I have operated it with pressure ranging from 4,000,000 to 18,000,000 volts. My experi-

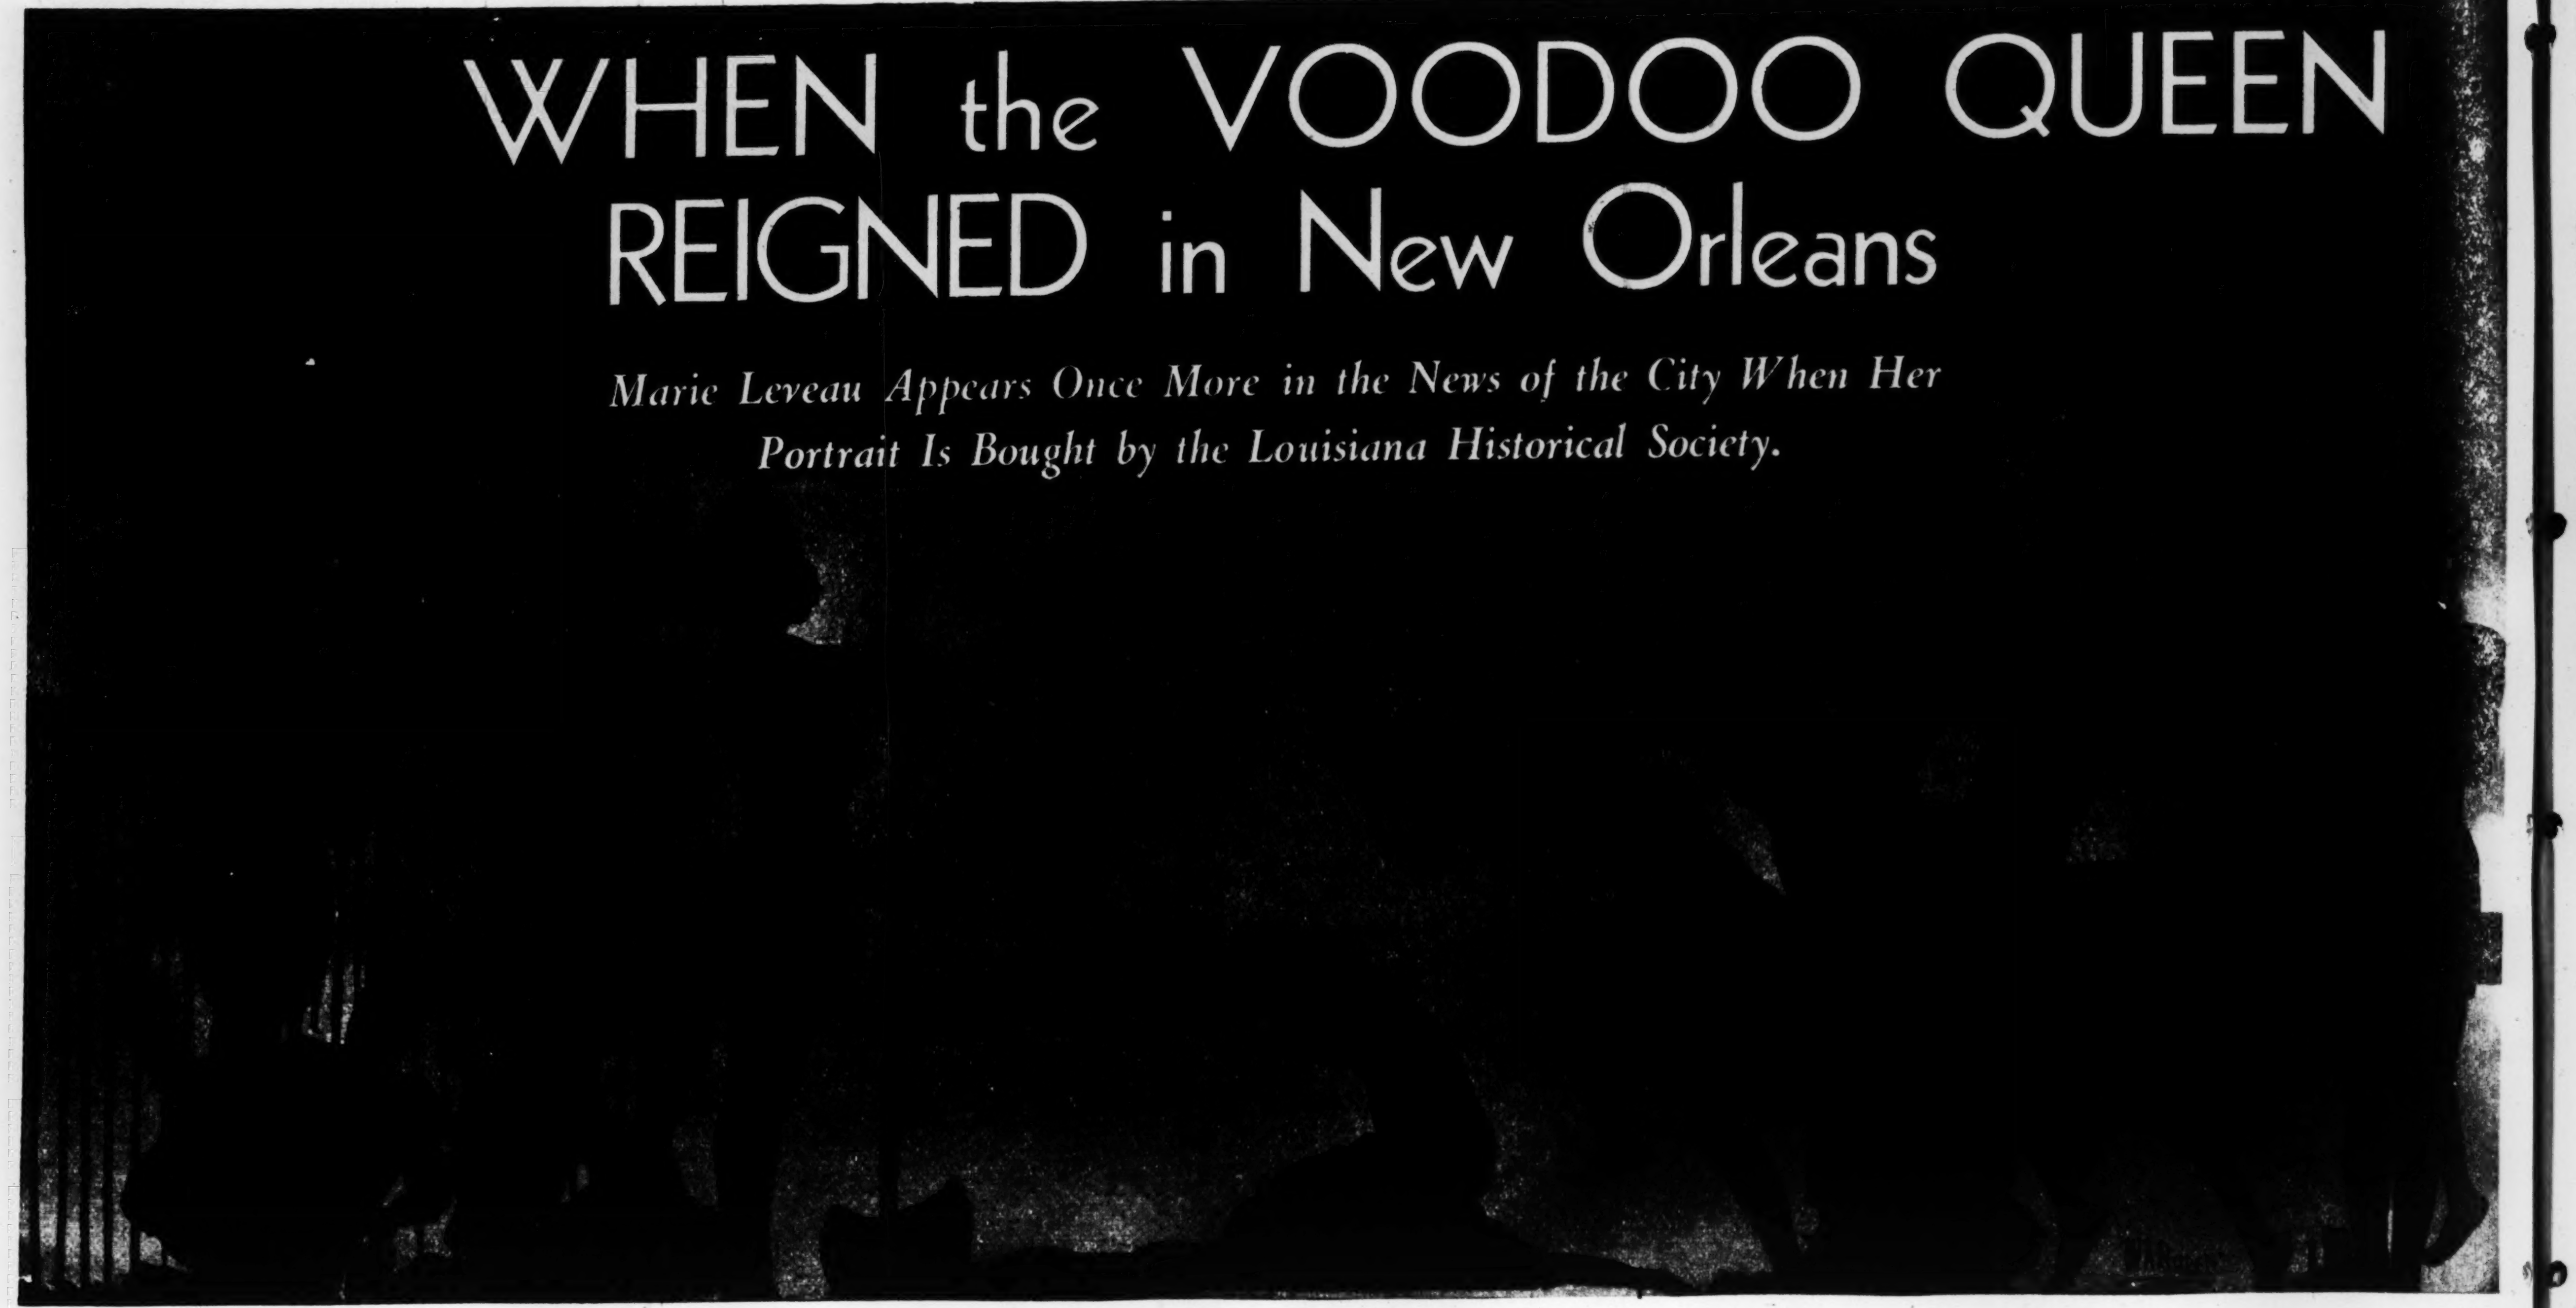
WHEN the VOODOO QUEEN REIGNED in New Orleans

Marie Leveau Appears Once More in the News of the City When Her Portrait Is Bought by the Louisiana Historical Society.



By MEIGS O. FROST

NEW ORLEANS.

THE sale of a portrait 96 years old the other day brought back to New Orleans' older residents memories of a strange reign of terror under which the city, then Louisiana's capital, lived for years. They had heard the tale from the lips of those who lived through it. It was the tale of the reign of Marie Leveau, the Voodoo Queen.

That amazing chapter of New Orleans life was brought back into modern conversation when the Louisiana Historical Society bought the George Catlin portrait of Marie Leveau. Catlin was both a noted ethnologist and an artist. He was an authority in his time on the Indians of North and South America. In 1837 Catlin, in New Orleans studying still existing Louisiana Indian tribes such as the Tchoupitoulas, the Natchez, the Choctaws, became fascinated by the Negro faces he saw here, slave and free, undiluted African and mixed-blood mulattoes, quadroons, octoroons. He began to paint them. No man knows how he arranged it, but he obtained a sitting from the sinister octoroon woman who ruled an invisible empire that had New Orleans in a grip of terror.

The Catlin portrait of Marie Leveau became famous. It is the only picture of the Voodoo Queen to survive. It came into the possession of the late Gaspar Cusachs, noted Louisiana collector and historian. On his death it was sold. It became the property of Simon J. Shwartz, then a wealthy merchant, stock and bond dealer—a collector who won international recognition for preserving rare Louisiana items of Americana in paintings, documents and manuscripts. France gave him the Legion of Honor.

IN 1926 he was offered $5000 by a New York collector for his portrait of Marie Leveau. He rejected the offer, smiling. The money meant nothing to him. But his fortune melted in the financial crash of 1929. A while ago he offered the portrait for $1000 with no takers. He was about to send it to New York to be put on sale, this summer, when the Louisiana Historical Society rallied to try to save the historic painting for its native city. The society, like similar bodies these days, had a badly-depleted treasury. But Edward Alexander Parsons, lawyer, himself a collector, president of the society, city librarian of New Orleans, managed to scrape together $126 in spite of the loss or indefinite freezing of some $60,000,000 of New Orleans bank deposits in the recent banking crash. The owner of the painting accepted the money. It became the property of the Louisiana Historical Society. It will hang in the Cabildo on Jackson Square, with other paintings of the Louisiana State Museum collection.

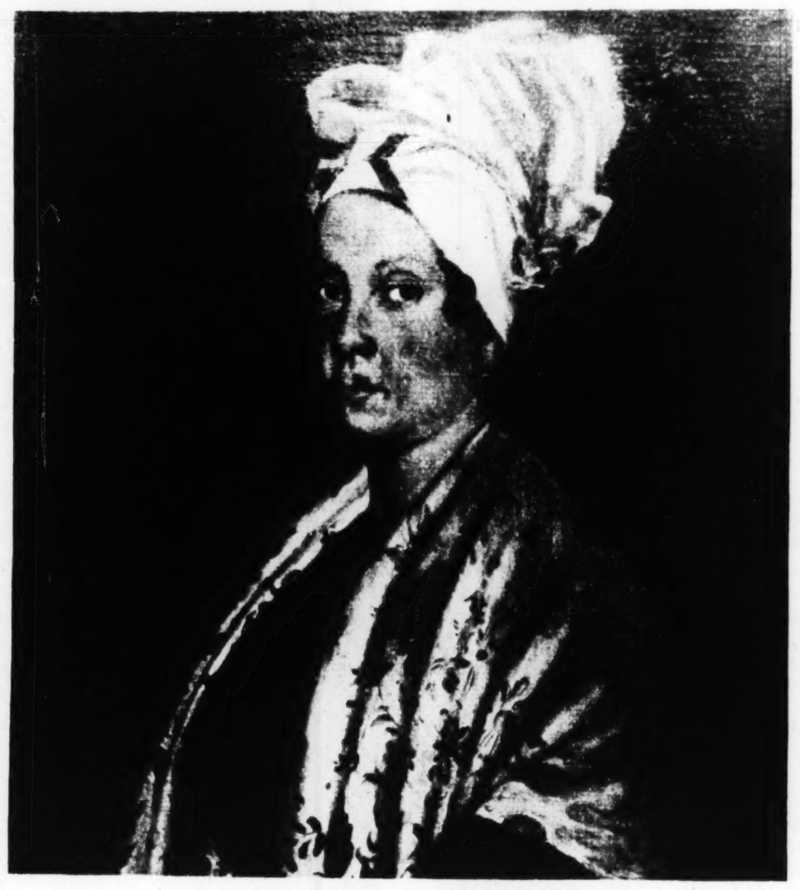
When the news of the purchase became known, tales of Marie Leveau came back to life. Search of ancient records reveals that incredible as they are, they are true. She was America's first great blackmailer, operating on a grand scale. She amassed a fortune that has been estimated at close to a million dollars, which, in terms of what it would buy in 1837, meant around $5,000,000 today. She was the high priestess who presided at savage orgies taken straight out of the black heart of Africa's Congo. She had a retinue which would do her bidding to the death. She had an intelligence service, with spies, Negro slave servants, in every home of consequence in New Orleans. In her brain she carried more knowledge of New Orleans scandals than any person before or since. Thousands, white and black alike, paid her tribute in cash or service; believed in her uncanny powers of black magic. She gave the gifts of life and death with impartial hand.

SHE had the brains of an executive of Big Business in planning, organizing, directing. She used the tools at her hand with amazing knowledge of the psychology of her time, and with results tragic and comic. She dispensed charity lavishly. She had more lovers than Catherine of Russia. She dismissed them to death casually when she was through with them. In a little one-story cottage on St. Ann street, near Rampart street, just off Congo Square (now Beauregard Square) where nightly the slaves danced the bamboula, an African orgiastic dance, until a curfew cannon boomed to send them scurrying to quarters, literally she ruled New Orleans, the dreaded, courted Voodoo Queen.

She was born at the beginning of the nineteenth century. When Catlin painted her in 1837 she was a comely octoroon in her mid-twenties or early thirties at the latest, in high white turban, embroidered shawl and black silk dress.

Exactly when she died is not known. One reference to her in ancient city records shows she was still living in New Orleans in 1884. She is buried in a mouldering brick and cement tomb in old St. Louis Cemetery No. 1, on Basin street, back of the Southern Railway's Terminal Station in New Orleans. It is in the heart of the once-notorious red light district that was a recognized city within a city up to 1917. On her tomb, rising above the ground, (for they do not dig graves in that low-lying part of the city where you strike water below the surface) dimly can be discerned the inscription: FAMILLE VV. PARIS NEE LEVEAU. (The Family of the Paris Widow Born Leveau.)

That would be her mother. For she is listed officially on ancient New Orleans city records that carelessly omit date of birth, for a Negro birth meant little then, as the illegitimate daughter of Marie Leveau, widow of Jacques Paris, and of Christophe Glapion. Both her parents were free mulattoes, descendants of Negro slaves and white Louisianans. She was an octoroon. Since she was free, nobody's property, her birth as an illegitimate child meant nothing to property-holding, record-keeping Louisianans. She was "just one more nigger baby," her greatest possibility of rising in life, since she was a female octoroon, that of becoming the mistress of some wealthy young Louisianan, selected at the annual Quadroon Ball. There the beautiful, seductive mixed-bloods, trained by mothers for their profession of mistress to rich young white youth, displayed their charms, silks and gems, in the Theater d'Orleans on Orleans alley, half a block back from the rear of the St. Louis Cathedral. The building stands today, a convent for Negro nuns. In St. Anthony's Garden, a strip of grass just behind the cathedral, were fought the duels that grew out of competition of young hot-heads for fresh or famous mistresses. There was the priest to shrive the dying loser; the doctor a block away to dress the wounds. The cemetery was just up the street. It was very convenient.



The George Catlin portrait of Marie Leveau.

But Marie Leveau avoided this destiny for a greater. Those were the days when white ladies of fashion wore towering coiffures of their own hair. Their braided locks incredibly were woven into swans and castles and flower gardens; protected by great linen bags and special head-rests when they slept. No woman could do that for herself. Hair-dressers coined money. Marie Leveau got her training as a hair-dresser. She became notably expert, an artist at it. That admitted her into New Orleans' most exclusive white-folks' homes; into the boudoirs where the white ladies gossiped of scandal, and a colored hair-dresser was no more supposed to have ears for anything but orders than a British butler.

Marie Leveau had ears and used them. She had a brain that stored away facts and held them tenaciously. Then it went to work to discover what it could do with this treasure-trove.

Voodoo was the answer. There had been some voodoo in New Orleans before her time. She organized it, broadened its scope, made a big business of it.

Voodoo is based, as in the Haitian jungle today, on worship of Gran' Zombi, the Snake God. It came out of the Congo, to Louisiana and Haiti alike, with the cargoes of Negro slaves. It is the cult of a priesthood with traditions and an intimate knowledge of vegetable poisons and remedies that goes back into the dimmest and mistiest of mankind's day-before-yesterdays. In the Louisiana of Marie Leveau's time, containing many ignorant, credulous whites and blacks, it grew like a jungle plant.

The harmless, non-venomous Louisiana kingsnake, often six feet long, with black skin mottled with greenish-gray like candle grease drippings, became the convenient symbol of Gran' Zombi. There were plenty of white roosters to supply the need of the white cock. The herbs of Africa grow readily in Louisiana's marshy soil around New Orleans, poisonous and healing alike. The stage was set complete with "props" for Marie Leveau.

THE "gris-gris" became a gold mine to her. The gris-gris, pronounced gree-gree, is a symbol your enemy is putting the voodoo curse on you. It has varied forms. It may be a simple cross of white salt, sprinkled on your doorstep. It may be a mingled pinch of salt, pepper and graveyard dirt. It may be a tiny twist of human hair tied with a silk thread; a tiny tuft of feathers, a baby's knuckle-bone rifled from a grave. All these gris-gris are of record in New Orleans as having been found on front doorsteps with the dawn, even as late as 1933.

When you find one, you know you are under a voodoo curse. Nothing but a voodoo counter-charm can lift that curse. Your enemy has paid money to a voodoo priest for that gris-gris to harm or slay you. You pay more to a more powerful voodoo priest for the counter-charm that renders the gris-gris powerless.

It is simple, like that. Marie Leveau made it simpler. She played both ends against the middle. Her agents placed the gris-gris with those she was paid to harm. She collected from them for counter-charms to nullify the gris-gris.

The counter-charm cost Marie Leveau pennies. She sold it for many dollars. A pinch of brick dust, of face powder. A tiny vial of alcohol in which oil of cinnamon, oil of cloves, any other pungent-smelling solution, was dissolved. You mixed the brick dust or face powder with water and scrubbed your doorstep. That took away the power of the gris-gris placed there. You sprinkled your bed, your dinner table, your clothes, your person, with the pungent solution from the tiny vial that cost you all the shrewd octoroon thought you could pay. That killed the curse of the gris-gris you found mysteriously in your pockets, your bedclothes, on your table. Mysteriously! With hundreds on hundreds of Negro household servants taking Marie Leveau's orders under fear of sudden death; lying when questioned!

Her love charms and hate charms were equally cheap to her; costly to others.

BUT this sale of gris-gris and counter-charms was only the small, steady income she drew from poor, ignorant whites and blacks, sweetened now and then by a fatter fee from somebody rich and credulous. Her heaviest income came from blackmail, born of scandal those who were involved thought hidden.

New Orleans is a place of semi-tropical climate. The girls mature early, as do the men. Particularly in those days, as in Restoration England, seduction was a fine art, practiced artistically and with leisure. Scent of jasmine, magnolia buds white in the dusk, tropical, lazy moon, fragrant night breezes, thrum of guitar and wail of violin in the distance, hot, young blood—it was a huge harvest of the results of all this that poured into Marie Leveau's open ears and appraising brain. Men and women paid and paid and paid. Suicides were many as money gave out and exposure loomed. But the legend of Marie Leveau's unholy all-seeing eyes through her service to Gran' Zombi became a fixed part of New Orleans life. Men and women who thought their sins were secret trembled at the mention of her name. Few of them figured that her spies were their own servants, watching, checking, reporting.

That she could deal death by secret poison is now reasonably sure. Those who defied her met strangely sudden ends. She always had an alibi. She had no need to administer poison with her own hands; she with faithful, fanatic black thousands at her beck and call; in the very homes, bedrooms and kitchens of her victims. It is of record that she could spread her secret edicts from end to end of the city in a day, from black lip to black ear, without one white human being knowing a word of it.

One night a year was her very own. St. John's eve, June 24. That was the night of the voodoo orgy in the remote suburban marshes by the shores of Lake Pontchartrain. White men who braved stinging hordes of mosquitoes, mud to their very necks, have left the story for others to read. An incredible, savage orgy. Black men and women, clad, at the start, then half naked, then stripped, drunk on tafia, crude sugar-cane rum, whirled in wild frenzy in a dance that ended in unprintably obscene orgiastic excesses.

I walk unharmed upon the Golden
Thorn.
Gran' Zombi protects me.
Nobody can harm me."

Thus the frenzied blacks chanted. And as their frenzy mounted, their orgy became an inferno of writhing nude black bodies, male and female, spinning, leaping, clasping, parting, until they fell exhausted and the mosquitoes clustered over them in clouds.

Whites as well as blacks joined the cult. Three generations ago police raided a house near City Park, where La Bayous and La Villes were battling in a game of racquette, similar to lacrosse, and found white women and men of high social standing mingled with black women and men in a voodoo orgy. Next morning there were suicides. Marie Leveau was not there; she had her air-tight alibi.

SHE had won a curious immunity to the law. Later, she was to invite newspaper men and other representative citizens to carefully controlled "orgies" on St. John's eve. That was her advertising, as she grew older and wiser.

She revised the ancient Congo voodoo ritual. She added to it much taken from the Roman Catholic Church she had seen at solemn high masses in the old St. Louis Cathedral on Jackson Square, creating a perverted form of Christian ritualism, mingled with savage jungle ritual. Mothers grew to warn naughty children: "Marie Leveau will get you!" She loved and lived, accursed, courted, feared, scorned, at least into her eighties.

To this day, black necromancers, obscure druggists, sell in New Orleans "Marie Leveau charms," gris-gris. The "fast luck charm" colored prostitutes sprinkle on their clothes. The "gambling luck charm" colored gamblers sprinkle on their fingers before they pick up the dice.

Nobody knows just when she died. Despite the official record, again with strangely missing date, that she rests in St. Louis Cemetery No. 1, the Negroes devoutly believe she sleeps in a nameless tomb in St. Louis Cemetery No. 3, on Esplanade avenue, near Bayou St. John. Thousands of blurred crosses are scratched on the crumbling cement, the worn bricks, obliterating all sign of name or epitaph. They are renewed yearly, with nails, knife points. The Negroes, and some whites, believe devoutly that if on St. John's eve, June 24, you go to that tomb, scratch a cross, appeal to Gran' Zombi, P'tit Zombi and Marie Leveau for your heart's desire, you'll get it before another St. John's eve rolls around.

The agents will say, privately, that it was the toughest assignment they ever had.

There were perhaps 60 Federal men involved actively in the search. Hardly a bureau of the Division of Investigation in the entire United States but was called on at one time or another to give aid in the search. Blake, in Dallas, and Gus Jones, in San Antonio, were in charge of the pursuit in its final phases. Over all was J. Edgar Hoover, in Washington, director of the division. Director Hoover was constantly in touch by telephone with his aids in the field, charting the whole campaign on the big map on his desk. What the search cost no one can estimate, but it cost plenty. Since it is believed to have broken the power of the gang Albert L. GIVEN first a white-faced bull, a well with a lot of iron in the water, a windowless lean-to with a dirt floor, nearby a pig pen with a sow and young pigs in it. Put this down somewhere in a great circle drawn with a 600-mile radius around Oklahoma City. Then try to catch, with this information, the leaders of the most dangerous criminal gang in the history of the Southwest.

That is the simple little game that Federal agents of the Division of Investigation of the Department of Justice played here through the first weeks of August. They won, as the arrest of Harvey Bailey on a farm near Paradise, Texas, made known to the world recently. The story of how they won cannot yet be told in complete detail—certain people must be protected, certain facts must be kept from criminals still at large. But Frank J. Blake, chief of the Dallas office of the Division of Investigation and one of those who directed the search, gave the writer enough of the inside story to show what a perilous, difficult man hunt this was. The agents will say, privately, that it was the toughest assignment they ever had.

There were perhaps 60 Federal men involved actively in the search. Hardly a bureau of the Division of Investigation in the entire United States but was called on at one time or another to give aid in the search. Blake, in Dallas, and Gus Jones, in San Antonio, were in charge of the pursuit in its final phases. Over all was J. Edgar Hoover, in Washington, director of the division. Director Hoover was constantly in touch by telephone with his aids in the field, charting the whole campaign on the big map on his desk. What the search cost no one can estimate, but it cost plenty. Since it is believed to have broken the power of the gang Albert L. Bates and George Kelly are credited with leading, with Harv Bailey as able first lieutenant, a gang that has ranged the whole United States for 10 years or more, the cost was perhaps not too high.

On the evening of July 22 Charles F. Urschel, his wife and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Jarrett, were playing bridge on the big, screened-in porch of the Urschel home in Oklahoma City. Urschel is wealthy in his own right. His wife was the widow of Tom Slick, who was at one time a fabulously rich oil operator. At a blunt word of command the bridge players looked up suddenly into the muzzles of two sub-machine guns. The gunmen, with a warning to the women, marched Urschel and Jarrett out to a sedan that stood with motor running in the driveway. They were forced into the rear of the car and made to crouch on the floor. The two kidnapers rode in front. About 20 miles from Oklahoma City Jarrett was released.

URSCHEL'S eyes were then blindfolded. For 14 hours, with only brief pauses for sandwiches and soft drinks, the kidnapers drove on. They drove at rather high speed, but, of course, Urschel, blindfolded, did not know in what direction they were going. The end of the ride was over a rutted, bumpy road. Urschel, still blindfolded, was put into a room with a dirt floor. On July 31 Urschel was released, a ransom of $300,000 having been negotiated. Where this ransom was negotiated is one of the facts which the Urschel family wants kept secret.

Urschel did very little talking for publication on his return to Oklahoma City. But he did talk to the Federal agents. Even though he had been through a terrifying ordeal and had escaped safely, he did not hesitate to give complete co-operation to the authorities whom he regarded as most capable of bringing his kidnapers to book.

But when it came right down to hard facts, there was not a great deal that he could tell. There had been talk of a white-faced bull among those of his captors who came to bring him food. In the water they gave him to drink was a great deal of iron. When, for brief intervals, he was allowed to remove his bandage, he made out that he was in a windowless lean-to that adjoined a larger dwelling. The kitchen was near, for he could smell food cooking. The well was at the corner of the lean-to, he judged from the sound. And the sow and her pigs were nearby. Once or twice he made conversation about the pigs with a man—apparently an elderly man—who came to bring him his food.

From Urschel's description of the ride Federal agents were able to draw the circle with a radius of approximately 600 miles around Oklahoma City. But this gave them a mighty large territory in which to work. It took in St. Louis and Kansas City, extending on the west almost to Santa Fe, New Mexico, and on the east almost to Nashville, Tennessee, south as far as Corpus Christi, Texas, and north as far as Davenport, Iowa. If ever there was a needle in the haystack this was it, and Agent Blake says so frankly.

"For the first 10 days we got nowhere at all. We followed lead after lead, only to come up against a stone wall. It was plain that the whole crime was planned with infinite care and no little patience."

Besides the scant information furnished, there were at the outset only the serial numbers of the ransom money to go on. And the agents suspected that they were dealing with a gang so large that this money could be shipped about the country and passed off in various sections. New leads came in gradually. One of them led to Joplin, Missouri.

This lead tied the Kansas City Union Station killings in with the Urschel kidnaping. It was fairly clear by this time that the men who carried out the kidnaping had something to do with the slaying of five men in the Union Station. Near Joplin was the farm of Herb Farmer. It was to this farm that Mrs. Frank Nash, wife of the Federal prisoner slain in Kansas City, flew by chartered airplane when she learned that her husband had been captured by Federal agents. Local officers subsequently led a raid upon the Farmer house.

Through the entire search Federal and local law officials have co-operated as perhaps never before. Several raids conducted in recent weeks by local officials in the Southwest have been the result of information furnished by Federal agents. "And we must make plain," says Blake, "that the assistance given to us in this case by local officials has been invaluable."

The Joplin lead was a blind lead in so far as the kidnapers of Urschel were concerned. There were many other clews that looked good at the start, but turned out to be worthless. They led to three or four points in Oklahoma. But all this time, when their search was apparently fruitless, the Federal agents were gathering definite crumbs of fact. It is the source, or sources, of their additional information that they refuse to disclose, although Blake denies that it comes from the underworld, or from gang associates of the wanted men. "We have learned," says Blake, "that underworld sources are unreliable and may be easily used against us."

Shortly after August 10 Federal officers became convinced that the two men who snatched Urschel off the porch were Albert L. Bates and George Kelly. These two men were considered the brains of the gang that has operated at will for so many years. According to Blake, they are so suave and clever that they have passed for bankers, wealthy oil men, cattle men from West Texas, brokers from the East. Their first lieutenant was known to be Harv Bailey, a powerfully built man of lower cunning, very well suited to carry out the commands of his superiors. Bailey's mother lives in Missouri, and it is probable, Blake says, that he was born on the farm on which his mother still lives.

It was known that Kelly was married to the daughter, by a previous marriage, of the wife of a farmer in Texas. This relationship was one clew that turned the Federal agents to the farm home near Paradise, in Wise County. But there were collaborative clews from a source which Blake will not reveal.

Prior to the Urschel case Federal agents had been interested in the Shannon farm. Federal agents had even visited the region following reports that the Shannon farm was the center of mysterious activities, possibly connected with liquor running. The agents could find nothing. The Shannons were highly regarded by their neighbors and the people of the little town of Paradise. Particularly was this true of R. G. Shannon, who won the nickname "Boss" because of his authority in local politics. He was, so far as anyone in the neighborhood seemed to know, an honest farmer.

DESPITE this apparent respectability, the Federal agents found that all the information in their possession regarding the kidnapers' hideout fitted this farm home at the end of a rutted road in a remote part of Texas. But a greater degree of certainty was necessary before the agents could take any action.

First, by way of confirmation, an agent went into the territory in a role that was not calculated to excite any suspicion. He represented himself, let us say, as a salesman of flavoring extracts. That was not his role, but it was similar. For two days he went from farmhouse to farmhouse, offering his goods for sale and picking up what information he could. He stopped at the Shannon farm. He drank long and deep out of the well. He noted that there was a sow with young pigs and a lean-to off the kitchen. In fact, every one of the clews tallied. This agent, Blake says, did his work so well, played his part so unobtrusively, that it is doubtful if any of the persons on whom he called, including the Shannons, would recognize him if they saw him again.

But even this confirmation, plus what had been learned about mysterious visits from strangers in big cars, the rapid rise and fall of the Shannon bank account and the receipt and dispatch of long telegrams in code, was not sufficient to justify a raid. Someone might be hurt or killed in that raid, and if it was a mistaken raid, then public opinion would react violently.

To make doubly sure, Blake chartered a private airplane and, with an agent as observer, had the plane fly back and forth over the Shannon farm and the immediate neighborhood. This was chiefly for the purpose of identifying the location of a cornfield that Urschel had described. It was the use of this plane that gave rise to the story that the kidnap hideout had been located through the fact that Urschel recalled that a plane which had passed on a regular schedule twice a day over the house in which he was a prisoner had on one of the days of his imprisonment failed to come over. GRIM HOLIDAY

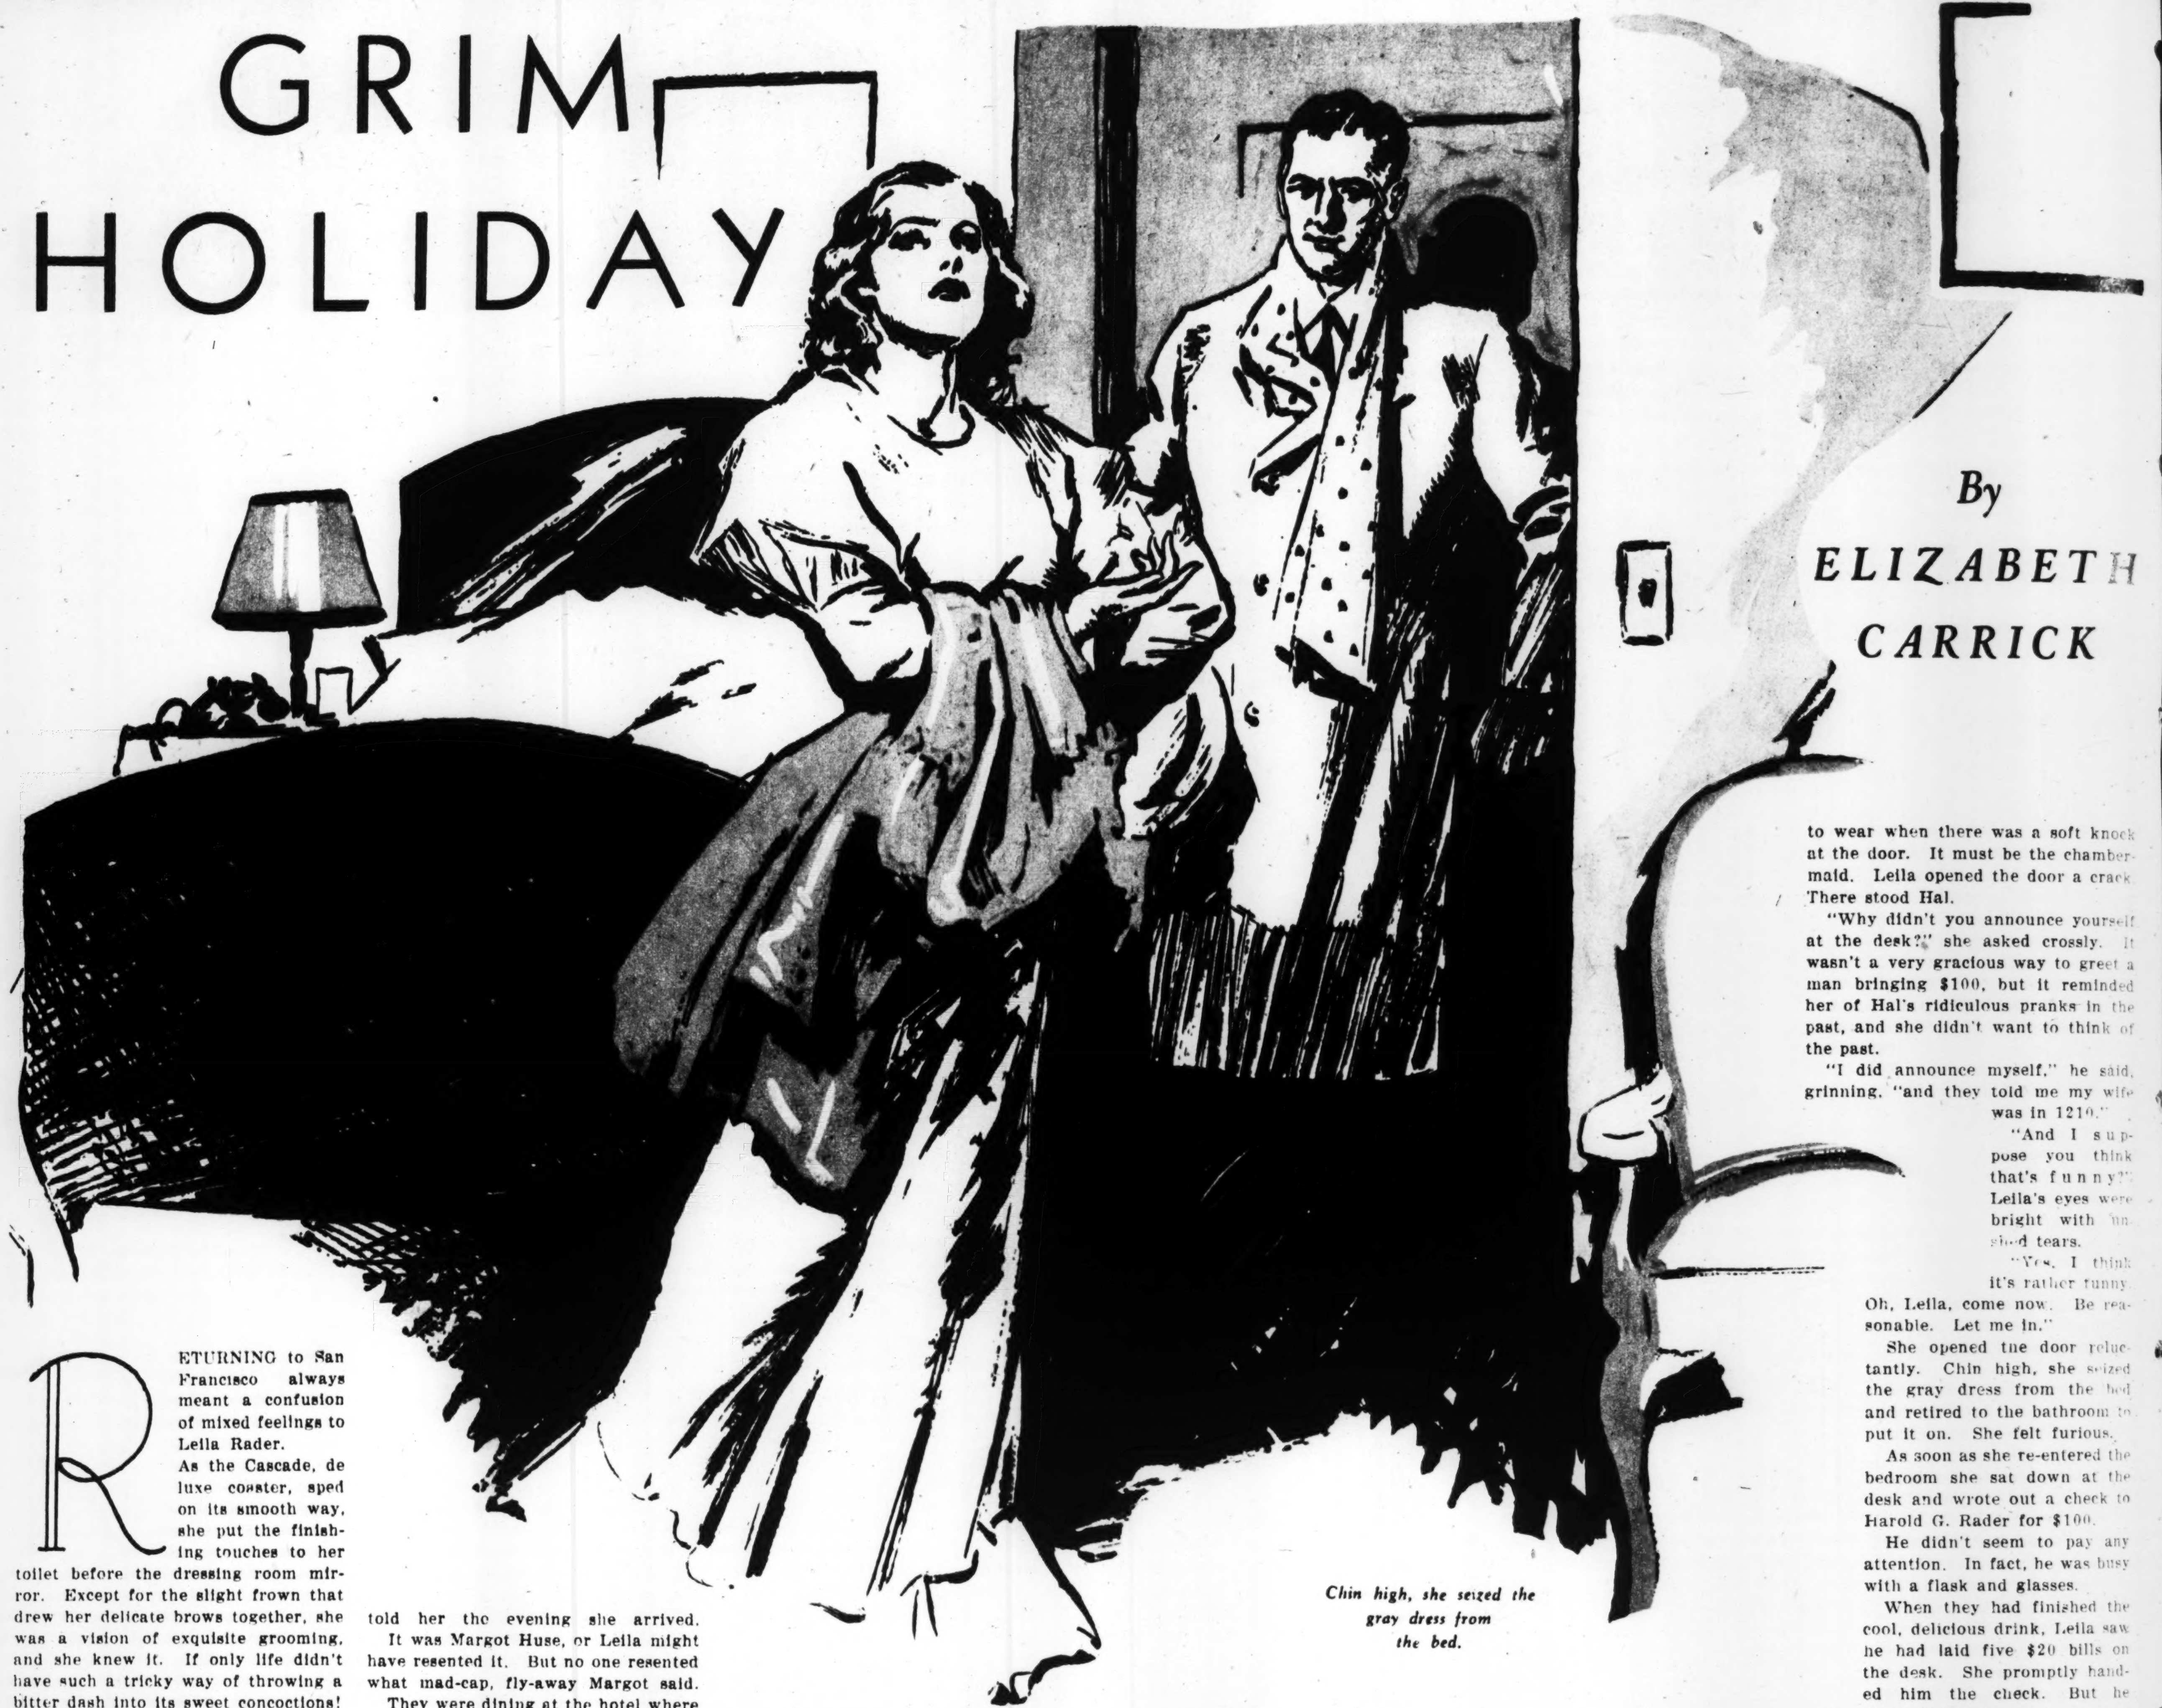
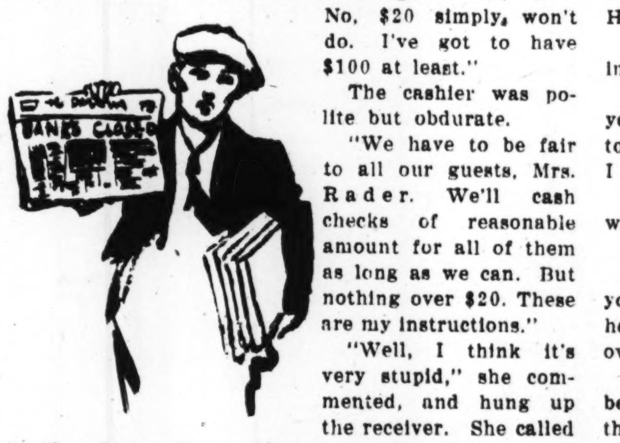
By

ELIZABETH CARRICK



Chin high, she seized the gray dress from the bed.



RETURNING to San Francisco always meant a confusion of mixed feelings to Leila Rader.

As the Cascade, de luxe coaster, sped on its smooth way, she put the finishing touches to her toilet before the dressing room mirror. Except for the slight frown that drew her delicate brows together, she was a vision of exquisite grooming, and she knew it. If only life didn't have such a tricky way of throwing a bitter dash into its sweet concoctions!

This trip, for instance—it was thrilling to contemplate a holiday with her old friends again . . . the benefit dance would be a gay affair . . . she wanted to see them all . . . to show them that she was still young and attractive . . . those married couples who had been her friends and Hal's before——

But there it was! The bitter drop. Why, after three years, did the memory of Hal still evoke a frown, and a trembly feeling somewhere in the region of her solar plexus?

She shrugged, snapped her vanity case shut, took one more survey of her carefully coifed fair hair under the tilted hat and returned to her compartment. In half an hour she would be in San Francisco.

Why should she allow the past to rise up so unpleasantly? Law of association, the psychologists would inform her. It was disconcerting, to say the least. A pity that the first breath of fog from the bay, the first glimpse of the purple Marin Hills, should stir in her a vague discontent.

She had every reason in the world to be satisfied. Returning as Leila Rader, young divorcee, with her father's substantial allowance to depend upon, should certainly wipe out some of the humiliations she had suffered as the penniless Mrs. Harold Rader, whose husband was too stubborn and visionary to consider her comfort.

Her smile, behind her tiny veil, was a bit malicious. So Hal thought her father's help would have been an admission of defeat, did he? Ridiculous, when every business was built up more or less upon the help of someone formerly successful!

She remembered how Hal had even criticised, perhaps disliked, her father. Well, the laugh was on Hal now. No doubt the depression had squeezed his limited resources further and he was probably still going around in shabby attire, with that bright, patient look, while her father, bless him, had weathered the last four years more than successfully. She was snugly conscious of the crisp check book nestling securely in her suede bag.

How good it was to be back in the city! "The city." Funny how San Franciscans always called it that, even when they went to Los Angeles or Seattle.

"Because you lived here during your married life," one thoughtless friend told her the evening she arrived.

It was Margot Huse, or Leila might have resented it. But no one resented what mad-cap, fly-away Margot said.

They were dining at the hotel where Leila was stopping. She found conversation a little difficult. She had thought there would be much to say. She used to have so much in common with Harry and Margot, but when the gay chatter had died down, she searched for some mutual topic and fell back lamely upon the depression.

"Oh, horrors!" she made a face. "That I should come to San Francisco, of all places, to hear that! I thought this was the brightest spot on the Pacific coast."

He smiled and said dryly:

"It is, but we're all part of America, you know. What I mean is, we haven't reached the climax yet. There's something more coming. If the new administration"——

Leila was really glad when Margot and Harry left early without even suggesting a game of contract. She planned her day for the morrow.

Suddenly she remembered she would need money for shopping. She must cash a check. Perhaps it would be well to get $100. Then she wouldn't have to cash another one in a day or so. She went up to the cashier's desk.

"I'D BE glad to, Mrs. Rader," he told her, "but $100 is a little more than I can give you tonight. I would take your check if it was to pay your bill, but I can't let myself get so low on cash."

"My credit is established at a local bank," she said coolly.

"Oh, yes, I understand, Mrs. Rader! We'll have the money for you in the morning, but tonight"——

"Very well, then. I'll leave my check with you, and please have the money for me in the morning."

"Certainly, Mrs. Rader."

She was just signing "Leila Rader," in her large, careless hand, when a familiar voice said at her shoulder:

"Well, Leila! I didn't know you were in town."

She blushed and shook so, as she blotted the check, that the cashier looked at her curiously.

"Hal!" Their hands met in a friendly clasp. She hoped her voice was casual. They strolled through the lobby and found chairs, but Rader did not seem inclined to linger. He sat on the edge of his chair, hat on his knee. His attitude nettled Leila.

"I hope I'm not keeping you."

"Leila! Of course not. I'm so glad to see you and have this chat. I was just thinking that it's late and you'll want to be going to bed."

"Do I look tired?" sarcastically.

"No, you look wonderful. That's a lovely gown. Really, Leila, you seem younger than ever."

Ah, that was better! She smiled and leaned back in her chair.

"You look well yourself, Hal," she told him. She had never seen him appear so well-groomed.

"Business good?" she inquired.

"I can't complain," he replied seriously. "My little building material company has weathered the storm."

"That sounds good. Did you lose much in the market?"

"I didn't have anything in the market, Leila. It's all in my business."

"Lucky!" she laughed. "Father's done well, too, all things considered."

"Your father was always successful," replied Rader.

Leila could not read the meaning of his words. As they talked, the most absurd thoughts kept coming to her. What dark blue eyes Hal has! How interesting that touch of gray at the temples! He's 35, but he looks 30. Hal always looked like the sun and wind to her. He——

"I beg your pardon?" She hadn't been listening.

"I asked if you are happy, Leila."

"Happy?" Her pulses quickened, but she said calmly: "Yes, Hal. I have a very pleasant life." She added significantly: "I never liked arguments."

"Or poverty?"

"Or poverty."

Well, that was that! He rose without further comment. As they said goodnight, he asked her to telephone him if he could be of service. Then he was gone and as she entered the elevator she had a momentary feeling of desolation, which turned quickly to anger. Hal Rader prosperous . . . successful . . . handsome. Who would ever have dreamed it?

Leila ordered breakfast in her room the next morning. Her glance caught her image in the mirror. She was satisfied with the reflection. She liked the way the sun fell on her ash-blond hair and peach-colored negligee. She liked the way the ecru lace caressed her wrists as the bright green pen moved swiftly across the paper while she wrote her mother. Better than all, she liked the security which allowed her all these things: beauty, comfort, luxury.

"Dearest Mother"——

The date was? She couldn't remember. She reached for the folded newspaper on her breakfast tray.

WEDNESDAY, March 1, 1933. But she did not finish the letter to her mother. Just below the date line, in ominous headlines, she read the words:

"STATE BANKS CLOSED BY GOVERNOR."

She picked up the telephone receiver with an impatient gesture.

"Cashier, please. Good morning. This is Mrs. Rader. You have my money for me? What? Yes, I know. I've just been reading about it, but—No, $20 simply won't do. I've got to have $100 at least."

The cashier was polite but obdurate.

"We have to be fair to all our guests, Mrs. Rader. We'll cash checks of reasonable amount for all of them as long as we can. But nothing over $20. These are my instructions."

"Well, I think it's very stupid," she commented, and hung up the receiver. She called Margot Huse next. That lady was little comfort and no assistance.

"My dear, we're all caught short! Harry would love to help you out, of course, but he has to have just so much to carry on the house and the office. We don't know how long it will be before we can get more"——

There was only one thing to do. Ask her mother to wire her some cash immediately. She put in a call for Portland and started to eat her breakfast. But her coffee was cold and her omelet had gone flat. The moment her mother said "Hello," Leila caught the anxious tone.

"I'm all right," she assured her mother hastily. "All I want is money. The stupid banks have closed in California. Better wire me $200."

"But, Leila, I can't"——

"Why can't you?"

"Because the Oregon banks are closed, too."

"But, Leila, even if Dad gets hold of some, the telegraph company might not cash the order for you. They're cashing only large amounts for business people or where it's a necessity."

"This is a necessity," said Leila.

"But, Leila"——

"Oh, mother, don't say 'but Leila' again."

"But, Leila, I must tell you, dear. Your father's affairs are not in very good shape right now. He's quite worried. I don't think you ought to spend any more money than you can possibly help."

This was too much. Leila hung up the receiver, white and subdued. She was really a little frightened. There was only one thing left to do. Call Hal. He answered almost immediately.

"Leila! How are you this morning? So nice of you to call."

"I'm not in a very good mood, thank you," she replied, "and I didn't call to be nice. I called, in fact, to see if I could cash a check."

"I think so. How much do you want?"

"Fifty dollars, if I can have it."

"You can have a hundred, Leila, if you need it. I have some put away here that I can spare. Shall I take it over to your hotel?"

"Oh, if you would, please, Hal, I'd be ever so much obliged. You're sure this won't inconvenience you—at home—or anything. I wouldn't want to put your family to any"——

"My family?" A short silence. Then: "Oh, yes. I have plenty for the house, thank you."

And Hal had married again! Well, what of it? She shrugged indifferently.

In the same indifferent manner she laid out her prettiest street dress . . . gray wool . . . soft and sheer.

She was trying to decide what hat to wear when there was a soft knock at the door. It must be the chambermaid. Leila opened the door a crack. There stood Hal.

"Why didn't you announce yourself at the desk?" she asked crossly. It wasn't a very gracious way to greet a man bringing $100, but it reminded her of Hal's ridiculous pranks in the past, and she didn't want to think of the past.

"I did announce myself," he said, grinning, "and they told me my wife was in 1210."

"And I suppose you think that's funny?" Leila's eyes were bright with unshed tears.

"Yes, I think it's rather funny. Oh, Leila, come now. Be reasonable. Let me in."

She opened the door reluctantly. Chin high, she seized the gray dress from the bed and retired to the bathroom to put it on. She felt furious.

As soon as she re-entered the bedroom she sat down at the desk and wrote out a check to Harold G. Rader for $100.

He didn't seem to pay any attention. In fact, he was busy with a flask and glasses.

When they had finished the cool, delicious drink, Leila saw he had laid five $20 bills on the desk. She promptly handed him the check. But he shook his head.

"I'm sorry, Leila. I can't take your check. You see, I've never been able to do anything for you materially. Do you realize this is the first money I've ever given you? You always paid your own bills out of your father's allowance. Lord, how I hated it! You didn't even ask for alimony."

"Hal, of course not."

"Thought it wasn't any use, I guess. Well, you were right. But things are different now. I can afford to give you this. I want you to take it as a little token of my appreciation of all you did for me."

"No," she said, thrusting the check into his hand, "no, I can't let you do this for me!"

Now Rader was angry.

"THAT'S the trouble with you, Leila. You never would let me do anything for you. You wouldn't live on what I could make and let me keep my self-respect. You would have an expensive apartment and keep two maids. So you had to pay for it out of your own money. You know what that led to—disgust for you and discouragement for me!"

"Does that matter now?" she asked. "Now that you are—married?"

"Married? What are you talking about?"

"I thought you spoke of your home . . . or family."

"I live with my mother at the Franciscan Hotel Apartments," he said.

Leila felt suddenly shaky. She sat down limply. Then for no reason at all she began to cry.

"Leila!" Rader was kneeling in front of her, grasping her hands, looking up into her face. "You can't dismiss marriage by a flourish of a pen. It takes more than a Judge's words to change habits . . . thoughts . . . memories. You've always been a part of me, body and soul. I never divorced you. That's why I haven't married again."

——"And I thought I came to San Francisco to attend a charity ball!" she said shakily.

"We can do that, too," said Rader.

"Too?"

"Yes. The other thing is to hunt up a license clerk and a preacher."

He laughed and hugged her close.

"I'd never have gotten you back, darling, if it weren't for the bank holiday. Lord, but I'm glad you had to come to me for help, Leila."

Dorothy Stevens used to be interscholastic golf champion of the Northwest and attracted much attention with her ready smile and naturally red eyebrows. She left Portland, Oregon, to its fate and got a place in Cantor's "Scandals" at the Goldwyn studio. Jane Vance, voted Chicago's fairest co-ed when at Northwestern University, who was singing for Paul Whiteman's orchestra, found a place next to Miss Stevens "in the line." She felt the Hollywood urge and succumbed.

Below the Mexican border, where the roulette wheels run day and night and exotic girls dance, Grace Poggi drew the attention of guests at Agua Caliente. Her grace, her youth and the skill with which she manipulated the castanets won her tumultuous applause. She was a hit with the revelers.

Grace is in Hollywood now, with a long-term contract signed by Samuel Goldwyn. Furthermore, she has won the attention of all studios, and her financial prospects are very bright.

Not vastly dissimilar is the position of Moweta Castenada, who was dancing in a San Francisco night club when a scout from RKO saw her and told her if she ever came to Hollywood to be sure and come around for a screen test. Moweta did not beat him home, but she came near it. At any rate, she's here now and under contract.

never furnished him with such information, Blake says.

The survey by plane further confirmed the Shannon farm as the site where Urschel had been held. Blake, in Dallas, and Jones, in San Antonio, laid the plans for the raid with the utmost care. They hoped to take at the Shannon farm both Step-son-in-law Kelly and Bailey. Thirteen men took part in the raid—four officials from Fort Worth, four from Dallas, one from Oklahoma City and four Federal operatives, led by Jones. They surrounded the cot on which Bailey was asleep. Jones poked him in the leg with the muzzle of a high-powered rifle and he awoke to discover himself surrounded by guns.

With Bailey were taken R. G. Shannon and his wife, Ora; his son, Arman; the son's wife, Oleta, a pretty young woman of 21, who is to give birth to a second child soon. Kelly was not at the farm when the raid occurred. Still hoping to catch him in their far-flung net, agents kept the news of the raid on the Shannon farm quiet for two days. But still Kelly eluded them. In Denver, Colorado, on a tip from a former companion, police arrested a man who gave his name as George Davis. Federal agents identified him as the Albert L. Bates wanted for the Urschel kidnaping.

BAILEY and the Shannons were taken to Dallas and held there under heavy guard, pending a decision of the Attorney-General in Washington as to whether they should be tried in Oklahoma City on the kidnaping charge or Bailey be taken to Kansas City for trial as a participant in the Union Station murders. Blake says Bailey has been positively identified as one of the machine gunners in that crime. Likewise, Blake says, Bailey, Bates and Kelly have been indubitably linked with the Urschel kidnaping. The exact chain of evidence will be disclosed by the Government only when the men come to trial. Bailey has been indicted by a Federal grand jury at Oklahoma City for the Urschel kidnaping.

As for the Shannons, their part in the kidnaping was more or less a passive one. Their neighbors in Wise County appear to have been genuinely shocked. They date the trouble in Paradise from Shannon's third wife, whom he found in Oklahoma through a want-ad in a matrimonial magazine. It was with her coming that there began the mysterious visits, the big motor cars, the curious fluctuations in the Shannon bank account. More and more the "Boss" neglected his farm. This rendezvous, Blake says, was only a place to "cool off," and, in the Urschel case, a place to hide the victim. CRASHING THE GATE IN HOLLYWOOD

Moweta did not beat him home, but she came near it. At any rate, she's here now and under contract.

The lure of the movies is felt wherever motion pictures are shown. Pretty Geraldine Barten, 17, daughter of a Slovakian fish merchant at San Pedro, California, was chosen to play a part in a one-reel melodrama filmed with home talent as a theater stunt. For her work she received nothing. But an executive from Warner Brothers-First National saw her, was struck by her appearance and sent her a message to visit him at the studios. Result? She signed a contract starting her on a motion-picture career. It was the first time she had ever been in a film studio. Hazel-eyed, auburn-haired, Miss Barten's only training had been in amateur theatricals at the San Pedro High School.

ALICE ADAIR, born in Paul's Valley, Oklahoma, put in five years trying to get a "break" in pictures and was about to give up in despair when Director Frank Borzage spotted her. He was looking for "a pair of expressive legs, with blond temperament," and Alice seemed to have them. She was given a role in "A Farewell to Arms."

"I think I can make a success as a comedienne if given a chance," she said confidently. "And—you never can tell—this bit, even though I'm acting with my legs alone, may be the 'break' I've needed."

But the legs didn't help much toward a career. Alice is back "in the line" again, still hoping.

Because she lost 15 pounds in 30 days, 18-year-old Patricia Farley won a contract with Paramount Pictures. Attracting attention as a hat-check girl in a scene with Mae West in "Night After Night," red-haired Miss Farley apparently possessed every qualification for screen success except one: she was over-weight. She thereupon was signed to an unusual contract, which provided that if she succeeded in reducing to movie-actress heft within a month, a job was waiting.

Thirty days to the minute after signing this provisional contract, Miss Farley reported to the studio, stepped upon a set of scales and automatically became a Paramount player.

A movie-struck boy and girl who are willing to travel all the way from Hazelton, Pennsylvania, on a tandem bicycle to get into films have applied to Columbia Pictures for roles in "A Man's Castle." Oliver Warburg and Carmen Steinhart are the two. In their letter they say:

"Please tell us the easiest way to get over the Rocky Mountains on a bicycle."

Little Dorothy Jean Hamilton, 2 1-2 years old, whose only claim to distinction was that she and her baby brother were gassed during the eviction of the bonus army from Washington, won a contract from Educational Pictures, because of the drama through which she had lived. And she made good with a rush. Fate, it seemed, had singled her out from among 150 other children.

Mae Green of Pasadena posed for posters used in advertising the Olympic Games held in Los Angeles. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives saw the pictures and were interested. "Wouldn't she do well in films?" they asked. Investigation disclosed, however, that Miss Green was still a student in high school and wasn't interested in the movies. She wanted to finish her education. Tests were made of her and she proved to have more personality than the poster pictures indicated. Then the M-G-M moguls wheedled—actually wheedled—her into going onto their payroll and Mae now is "Jean Parker." Her first part was that of one of the Princesses in "Rasputin."

Grace Poggi.

Margaret Lindsey.

This City of Jumping Tintypes got a chuckle for its very own not long ago when Margaret Lindsey arrived from London under contract to Universal. The customary welkin was hauled out and rung until it shivered. Reams of copy were turned out by the publicity agents.

"Great find!" said the scribes.

It has developed now that Miss Lindsey is from Iowa and that her English accent was acquired while playing a few roles on the British stage. When she forgets, she still talks "Ioway." In reality she is Lizzie Kies of Dubuque. But she has a contract now with Warner Brothers and is making good.

There came recently Gigi Parrish, a pretty little brunette, who, according to press notices, made the trip "on a motorcycle from Wilmington, Delaware." She is the sister-in-law of Anne Parrish, novelist, the notices added.

Gigi did arrive on a motorcycle, but it developed that the trip was from Laguna Beach, California, instead of Wilmington, Delaware, and that Gigi formerly was employed as waitress in a Hollywood beanery. Nevertheless, she got a job and now is an actress. Furthermore, it appears that she is going to make the grade.

Yvonne Howell got a position with Paramount because she could giggle with proper microphonic effect and could double for the stars when giggles were needed. Another girl was given temporary employment because she could scream like someone who meant it.

Blake says Bailey has been positively identified as one of the machine gunners in that crime. Likewise, Blake says, Bailey, Bates and Kelly have been indubitably linked with the Urschel kidnaping. The exact chain of evidence will be disclosed by the Government only when the men come to trial. Bailey has been indicted by a Federal grand jury at Oklahoma City for the Urschel kidnaping.

While Urschel was not present at the time of the raid—Blake says they never would have asked him to risk his life going through that —he has since made a complete identification of the hideout.

About the whole case Blake is very modest and very reticent. "You see," he says in his Texas drawl, "we don't want to teach these babies anything. Now they made three or four mistakes in this crime and if we were to make all the details known, why then the next time they wouldn't make those same mistakes. If I thought this was the last kidnaping, it wouldn't make a bit of difference, but we can't hope for that. And you'd be surprised how close these men follow the newspapers. If they're in St. Louis, they buy papers from Texas and the west coast and the East. They keep track of what's going on all over the country in that way. They're among the best patrons of out-of-town news stands, a fact which has been to our advantage often.

"Yes, I think we could have cleared up this case with only the clews that Urschel gave us. It would have taken longer. I don't want to seem egotistical, we don't want to magnify our part in this, but I think we could have done it with only that to go on, without the other stuff that I've had to keep back from everybody. I think we've put a big dent in the power of this gang. I don't think they'll ever be so powerful again."

ments have shown that the process of disintegration is not accompanied by the liberation of such energy as might be expected from present theories."

Likewise, the inventor holds with all the egotistic conviction of his intense nature, the cosmic ray is not caused by the generation of new matter in space. He believes that the primary rays from the sun, striking cosmic dust, throw off a secondary ray and that this is the cosmic ray. The secondary ray, he holds, is the source of the radioactivity of radium. If radium could be screened from the secondary ray it would be inert, he believes.

The inventor sees in his rocket-ship idea something that will change the face of war.

"I anticipate," he says, "that such machines will be of tremendous importance in the international conflicts of the future. I foresee that wars will be carried on without a single combatant passing a border.

"AT THIS very time it is possible to construct infernal machines which will carry any desired quantity of poisoned gases and explosives, launch them against a target thousands of miles away and destroy a whole city. If wars are not done away with, we are bound to come eventually to this kind of warfare, because it is the most economical means of inflicting injury and striking terror in the hearts of enemies that has ever been invented. Densely populated countries like England and Japan will be at a great disadvantage as compared with those of vast territory, such as the United States and Russia."

Unless it kills itself off by wars, the human race is on the threshold of great wonders because of the refinement of methods of observation it has perfected and the ever-increasing delicacy of human perception, the inventor believes. But it will have to brush up on its idealism.

As for himself, he will forget the opinions of his contemporaries and trust his reputation to posterity.

"My work, of course, is my life," he says. "I work longer hours than ever, but work comes easier now. I can draw on 50 years' learning. I find I must watch out for things that appear easy. Sometimes I say, 'Ah, I have it.' I get at it quick as a flash. Then I say, 'No, if it came as easy as that it cannot be right. There is more to do on this before the right answer comes.'"

So Tesla, the wonder worker, continues, his mind a ferment of strange and wild ideas, which may one day become everyday common sense—a monk of science, as remote from the world as if he lived behind the walls of a Trappist monastery.

at first sight on the part of the girl, and she and young Coty were seen everywhere together for a time. Then a breach developed and they drifted apart.

She next became friendly with the son of an Indian Prince, and it was rumored that they would marry. However, a Maharajah in India balked at his son's choice of a wife, and the young man was hustled off home under the guard of two Scotland Yard detectives.

MISS WRIGHT, upset at this turn of affairs, renewed her friendship with Monsieur Coty and took up her residence at a private mansion in the Rue de la Tour in the fashionable Passy quarter of Paris, where, for a short time, her mother is said to have lived with her.

Monsieur Coty was a frequent visitor of the girl in her elegant home and she often called to see him at his suite in the Hotel George V.

In the gay French capital the girl became a well-known figure, and wise were the smiles that greeted her as she drove about in a Hispano-Suiza car which was decorated with gold studs. At the wheel, night and day, there was always a liveried chauffeur.

Everyone in Cannes knew Dorothy Wright. She was seen at every party of importance, was forever being photographed, played a lot —for high stakes, too—at the casino, and counted many of the prominent men and women of the Riviera set among her friends.

She was a close friend of the Countess Villeneuve, the Parisian hostess. From time to time, between trips to Paris, Miss Wright made flying trips to London, where she gave big parties at the Savoy and the Cafe de Paris. In the British metropolis, she suffered, however, a keen disappointment in not being presented at the Royal Courts, attributing this social defeat to malicious reports of Scotland Yard as to her mode of existence on the Continent.

Some of the famous artists of Europe had done portraits of the girl, the most notable being by Karl van Dongen, which is now hanging in his studio in Paris.

Miss Wright sometimes drank too much, and generally smoked to excess, according to Monsieur Coty, but he denied that the girl was a drug addict. The post-mortem examination, however, supported by police inquiries, suggests that within recent months she had acquired the drug habit, and that cigarettes she used habitually were steeped in hashish and other Oriental drugs. The police declared that at the time of her suicide she was under the influence of cocaine.

AS A RESULT of a strange epidemic of so-called "love tragedies" among English girls in Paris, and some few American women, there has been a great outcry in the British press for a change in the moral code that obtains in France.

All the young women concerned were prominent in the cosmopolitan life of the French capital, and, generally, on the Riviera and at all the fashionable resorts of Europe.

Miss Ruth Cooper, a beautiful young Australian girl, who was on friendly terms with a prominent Parisian artist, died in his apartment under rather weird circumstances last November.

Another victim was "Mrs. Mary Hall," a ballet dancer, who was found shot lying upon a bed of red roses in a Parisian hotel last December. She had left a note asking that she be buried with a little white-satin dancing slipper she had left by her side.

The police investigation into the deaths of Miss Cooper and "Mrs. Hall" were thorough and complete, and now Paris is asking why there should be a difference in the tragedy of Miss Wright and why the feelings of Monsieur Coty should be spared.

PAINTINGS FROM THE PARSONS COLLECTION

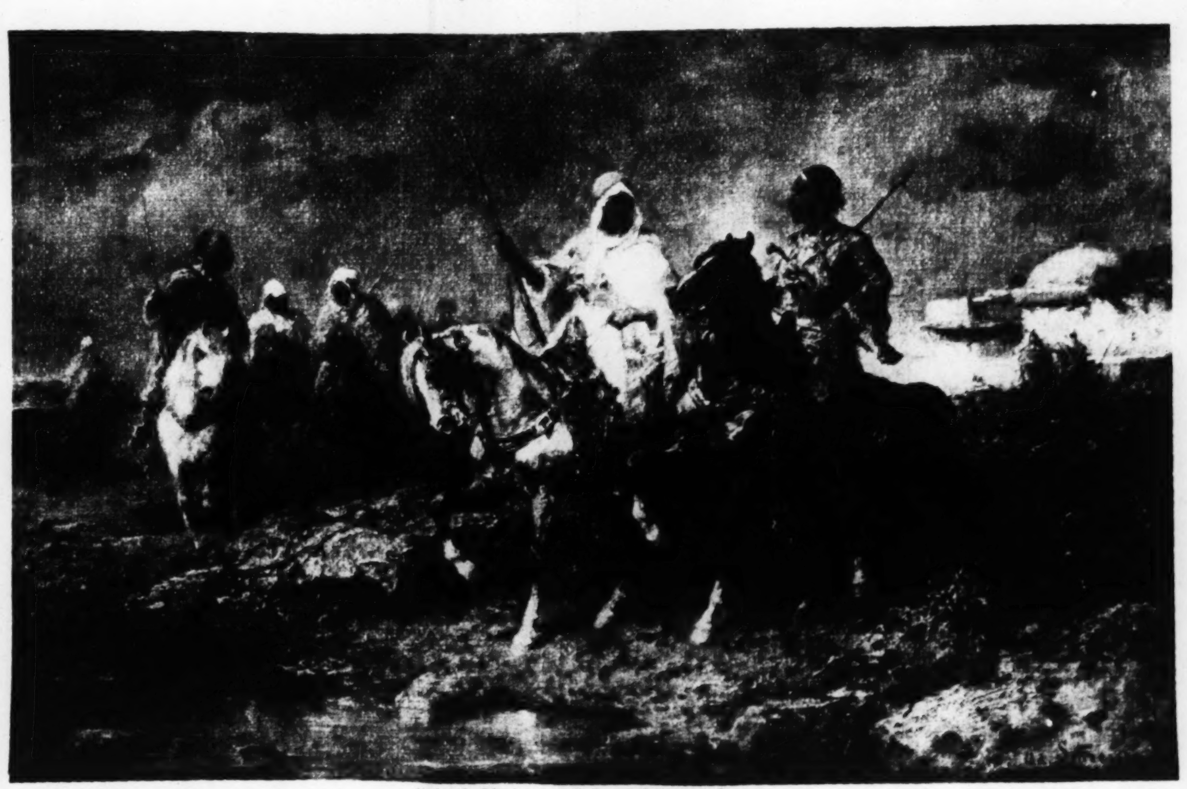
A GROUP of paintings from the Charles Parsons collection is the thirty-seventh in a series of exhibits being featured weekly at the City Art Museum in Forest Park. This exhibit is in the east wing of the museum, and may be reached through the Gallery of European Paintings at the left-center of the entrance hall. Each display in the "Gallery of the Week" presentation will be reproduced in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine, with an accompanying description of the exhibits by museum authorities.

The contents of this gallery form part of the Charles Parsons collection, bequeathed to Washington University and on indefinite loan with the City Art Museum since 1923. Though most of the canvases are works by nineteenth century European painters, the collection includes a number of works by important old masters. In this gallery are "Portrait of a Dutch Lady" by Jacob Gerritz Cuyp (1594-1651), who is chiefly known for his landscapes; "A Venetian Interior" by Bernardo Belotto, also called Canaletto (1724-1780), famous for his descriptive paintings of architectural subjects; "Portrait of a Councillor," attributed to the Venetian, Lorenzo Lotto (1480-1556), pupil of Palma Vecchio, and a full-length portrait of Miss Kemble by Sir Thomas Lawrence (1769-1830). A small, low-toned landscape by John "Old" Crome (1768-1821), the founder of the Norwich landscape school, also belongs to this group.

With the exceptions noted below, the remainder of the canvases are by nineteenth century French painters. Of particular interest are "Path by the Sea" by Camille Corot, which makes an interesting comparison with Cazin's "Path on the Cliffs"; a solidly painted river scene by Francois Louis Francais, and a fine forest scene by Diaz, who, like Renoir, began his life work as a painter of porcelain. The "River" by Jules Dupre, a landscape by Harpignies, a typical picture of sheep by Jacque and the "Haying Scene" by L'Hermitte are representative works by the Barbizon group, whose connection with the earlier English landscape school can be seen by comparison with the Crome.

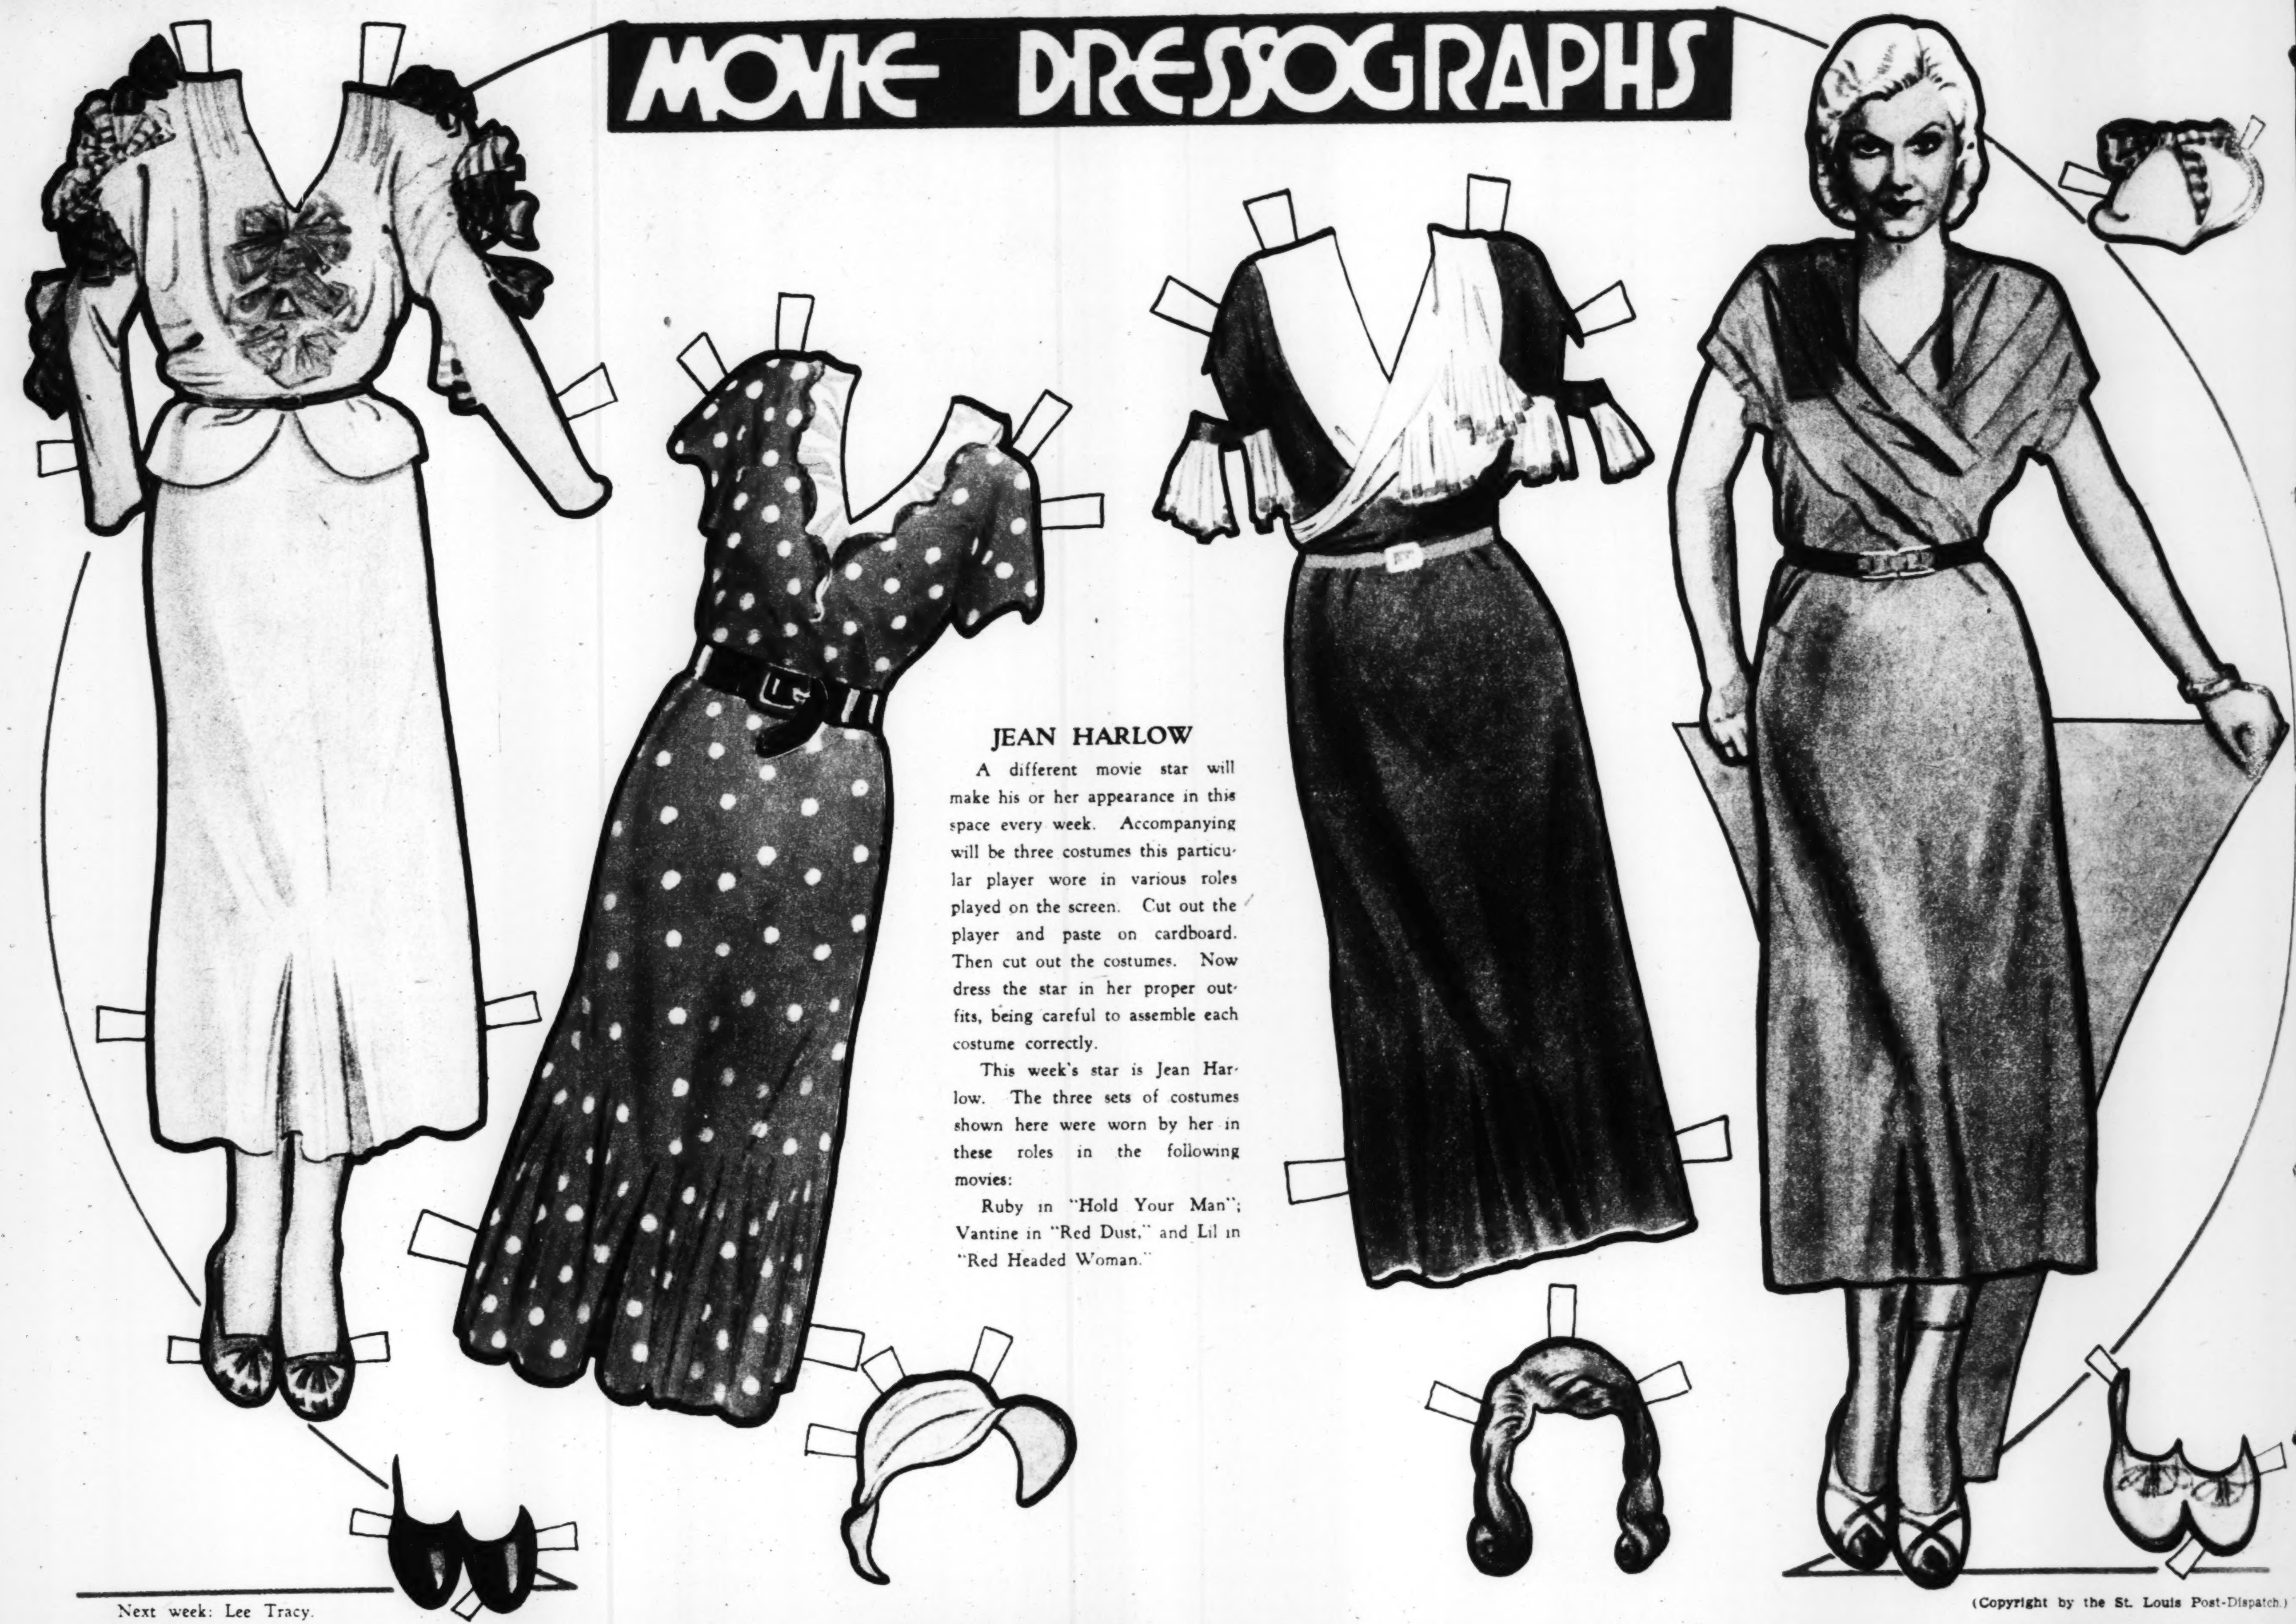
The work of both Jacob Maris and Josef Israels exemplifies the continuation of the Dutch interest in landscape and genre into the nineteenth century. The charming "Town in Holland," while more broadly handled, has the same atmospheric clarity that characterizes seventeenth century work. Adolph Schreyer's "Arab Horsemen" echoes the early work of the great Frenchman Delacroix in a more literal vein. The Swiss artist Alexandre Calame, who was considered the best portrayer of Alpine scenery of his day, is represented by the small picture "Mountains." A representative canvas by Alexander Wyant is the only example of American painting in the group.

Apart from its intrinsic qualities, the collection is a valuable record of the taste and discrimination of an ardent collector and connoisseur of the last generation, who was one of the forces in the creation of the present municipal museum.



"Arab Horsemen" by Adolph Schreyer.

MOVIE DRESSOGRAPHS



JEAN HARLOW

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen. Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in her proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly.

This week's star is Jean Harlow. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by her in these roles in the following movies:

Next week: Lee Tracy.

RUSTY RAT KEEP OUT —S. BONES

HICKORY HOLLOW FOLKS

And the Things They Do

By WALTER QUERMANN

THE RECEPTION AT HICKORY HOLLOW

THE CHARACTERS

RUSTY RAT—A wicked outcast from Iron City.
JOE WEB—A spider who guards the road to Hickory Hollow.
PAT O'POSSUM—A native of Hickory Hollow.
SHERLOCK BONES—A great detective.
BOB REDBREAST—Who brought the news of Rusty's approach to Mr. Bones.
TOILER TIM—One of Queen Ant's messengers.

Rusty Rat was forced to leave Iron City, where he had taken a doll house away from Betty Lou, a mamma doll. Queen Ant, whose army drove Rusty away, sent messengers to warn Sherlock Bones that Rusty was coming to Hickory Hollow. Rusty, knowing this, hurries to beat the slow-traveling ant messengers, but meets with a surprise as—

THE PLAY BEGINS

JOE WEB—Halt! You are not wanted here.

RUSTY RAT—Me? What did I do? And how did you know I was coming?

JOE WEB—I'm not here to answer your questions. I'm here to see that you do not enter Hickory Hollow.

RUSTY RAT—There must be some mistake.

JOE WEB—You'll have to see Mr. Bones about that. All I know is that I'm to keep you out.

RUSTY RAT—(To himself, as he walks away.) See Mr. Bones, is it? That's one fellow I don't want to see. I'll find some place to hide and slip in when they're not looking. (He leaves and presently is hiding in a cave in front of which Sherlock Bones and Pat O'Possum are talking.)

PAT O'POSSUM—What's all this I hear about Rusty Rat coming back to Hickory Hollow?

SHERLOCK BONES—Hm-m-m. He was here last night, but we are ready for him. (Toiler Tim enters.)

TOILER TIM—I have a message for you, Mr. Bones.

SHERLOCK BONES—Hm-m-m. I know, it's from Queen Ant, warning me that Rusty Rat is headed this way.

TOILER TIM—(Surprised.) Gosh! You know everything.

PAT O'POSSUM—How could you tell what the message said without reading it? Did someone tell you?

SHERLOCK BONES—Perhaps it was a little bird. In my profession there are many unsung heroes.

RUSTY RAT—(Whispering.) Curse him!

BOB REDBREAST—(To himself.) Unsung hero, am I? Well, here's where I burst into song.

THE FIRST STRIDE OF FAIRMOUNT'S RACING SEASON

Start of the first race on the opening day of the current meet at the East Side track. The barrier has just been raised, and the horses are lunging ahead from their positions in the Waite starting gate for the sprint to the first turn. Bill Snyder, serving as starter, is standing on the small platform in the foreground, with his back to the camera. He has sprung the webbing by pressing an electric button. At the far end of the line of horses is an assistant starter; another may be seen between the first and second horses nearest the inside rail. The second horse, incidentally, is Goldie Belle, which won the race at odds of 23 to 1; her jockey is O. Whalen. In the left background, near the far rail, is the calico lead pony, with its red-coated rider, who heads the procession when the racers parade to the post.

BABY'S skin is so unbelievably soft and fine. You wouldn't dare let any but the mildest, gentlest soap touch it. So, when doctor says: "Olive oil in soap is best," you choose your own precious Palmolive, with its secret blend of olive and palm oils.

It is these gentle oils that make Palmolive soothing, kind. Yet it cleanses thoroughly. It is pure. It is safe. There's no artificial coloring, no strong perfume, no harsh alkali in this natural, wholesome beauty soap. Palmolive's mild lather penetrates the pores, freeing them of accumulations easily . . . leaving skin soft, smooth, gloriously clear and fresh. Truly, Palmolive is the soap of youth.

Buy three cakes, today. Tonight, start this 2-minute treatment for baby and yourself, both. Massage a rich lather of Palmolive and warm water into those tiny pores. Rinse with warm water, then with cold. Why, really, there can be two schoolgirl complexions in your home . . . both kept clear and radiant by this soap, with its secret blend of gentle olive and palm oils.

WHAT! YOU, EDDIE?
AND BERTHA! OH DARLING IT'S SUCH A LONG TIME SINCE WE SAW YOU.
WE WERE PASSING AND DECIDED TO DROP IN.
IT STARTED TO RAIN JUST AS WE GOT A FEW DOORS FROM HERE AND...
OH KA CHOO!
OH EDGAR, THERE GOES YOUR SINUSES AGAIN! YOU JUST MUST GET THOSE DAMP CLOTHES OFF RIGHT AWAY IF GEORGE CAN LEND YOU A SUIT.
A SUIT OF CLOTHES?
A SUIT? YOU MEAN WHILE EDDIE'S SUIT IS DRYING?
THE IDEA OF YOU SPEAKING UP THAT WAY ABOUT LETTING HIM HAVE A SUIT, AFTER ALL THAT WOMAN HAS SAID ABOUT ME TO EVEN MY BEST FRIENDS. YOU KNEW TOO THAT SHE'S THE ONE WHO GOT ME OUT OF THE FRIDAY CLUB.
LISTEN JO, YOU KNOW WHAT I THINK OF HIM. I DIDN'T OFFER HIM A SUIT. HE ASKED ME POINT BLANK FOR IT.
GEORGE IS GETTING SOME CLOTHES FOR EDGAR. HOW ARE YOU, DEAR? YOU LOOK JUST WONDERFUL. HOW'S THINGS AT THE FRIDAY CLUB?
OH ALL RIGHT DARLING BUT SOMEHOW OR OTHER THINGS JUST HAVEN'T BEEN THE SAME SINCE YOU LEFT. I NEVER DID UNDERSTAND WHY YOU... OH HERE COMES THE BOYS.
EDGAR! OH YOU LOOK AS THOUGH YOU WERE SMOTHERING IN THAT SUIT.
IT'LL DO WHILE THE OTHER ONE DRIES.
EDDIE YOU LOOK SO....OH HA HA HA
HA HA HA! OH EDDIE YOU LOOK.....
EDGAR YOUR SINUSES AGAIN!
OH KA CHOO!
KA CHOO!
KA CHOO
EDDIE! HEY! WAIT! EVERY TIME YOU SNEEZE I HEAR THAT SUIT GIVING. WAIT, DON'T SNEEZE ANY MORE, PLEASE, WHILE I SEE IF YOUR SUIT IS DRY.
A..AH KA....
AS I SAY, DARLING, I NEVER REGRETTED LEAVING THE FRIDAY CLUB BECAUSE, AS YOU OF COURSE KNOW, CERTAIN MEMBERS WERE SIMPLY DELIGHTED WHEN I RESIGNED.
REALLY? WELL HONEY I JUST CAN'T IMAGINE WHO COULD POSSIBLY HAVE WANTED YOU TO LEAVE! LET ME TRY AND GUESS DEAR, AND.....OH HERE'S EDGAR AND GEORGE!
WHOO! GETTING MY SUIT DAMP MADE IT SHRINK UP SOMETHING TERRIBLE AND... AH KA-LISTEN, DON'T SNEEZE EDDIE. HOLD IT.
WELL EDGAR, I GUESS WE'D BETTER GO NOW.

ALSO, HE TORE MY BEST SUIT APART WITH ALL THAT TRICK SNEEZING AND... OH OH! LISTEN TO THAT!
AH KA CHOO!
Tuthill
HA! THERE'S THE DOORBELL. THEY THINK THEY'LL GET IN HERE AGAIN. LISTEN TO THEM RINGING THAT BELL. YOU SIT RIGHT HERE, GEORGE BUNGLE.
THAT LAST SNEEZE MUST HAVE SCATTERED HIS SUIT ALL OVER THE HALL. THERE GOES THE DOORBELL AGAIN. WELL IT WOULDN'T DO HIM ANY GOOD IF I DID OPEN THE DOOR BECAUSE THE ONLY THING I'D LEND HIM, IF I HAD IT, IS AN ELASTIC BLANKET.

HOW'DYA LIKE TO COME OVER TO THE HOUSE FOR DINNER?
WELL, THAT DEPENDS.
OH, YA AIN'T TO WORRY YASELF ABOUT THE FOOD — THEY'S PLENTY OF THAT. AN' GOOD, TOO.
LET'S GO.
THEY'S LOTS OF ROAST BEEF AN' GRAVY, FOR ONE THING —
I LIKE THAT, TOO.
AN' WE GOT NO END OF DUMPLIN'S —
I ALWAYS WAS IN FAVOR OF DUMPLIN'S
— AN' ME MOTHER JUST ORDERED A WHOLE FREEZER OF ICE CREAM.
YA MAKIN' MY MOUTH WATER.
WELL, HERE WE ARE — ONLY THERE'S ONE THING I FORGOT TO TELL YA.
WHAT'S THAT?
WE HAVEN'T NONE OF THE STUFF I WAS TELLIN' YA OF. 'CAUSE ME MOTHER'S AWAY VISITIN' — BUT IT WAS A SWELL JOKE, EH?
YEAH, SWELL —
— AN' TO PROVE TO YA I CAN TAKE IT I'M GONNA TAKE YA RIGHT OVER TO MY HOUSE, AN' WORD AN' HONOR, GIVE YA A SWELL FEED.
SKIP, YA THINK OF EVERYTHING
I'LL BE RIGHT OUT WITH THE FOOD
O.K
— AN THERE'S SOME LOVELY SPLIT PEACHES FOR DESSERT.

A CHILD CAN SEE THE DIFFERENCE

I LOVE NICE CLEAN THINGS TO PUT ON SO OFTEN
ALL MY CLOTHES SMELL SO SWEET AND FRESH NOW, MUMMY
THAT'S BECAUSE I'M WASHING THEM A NEW WAY, BETTY —
I'M USING RINSO IN THE WASHING MACHINE NOW. REMEMBER? — I SENT YOU FOR A BOX LAST MONDAY
OH, YES — THAT'S THE SOAP THE GROCER SAID EVERYBODY'S USING
I'M NOT SURPRISED EVERYBODY'S USING IT! RINSO WASHES CLOTHES 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER, AND IT'S SAFE EVEN FOR BABY'S FINEST COTTON DRESSES!
LOOK, MUMMY — IT SAYS ON THE BOX TO USE IT FOR DISHES, TOO
Rinso

"Give me Rinso—it gets clothes so clean!" says Mrs. Mary Flanagan of Shaw Ave.

"FOR SUDS that do a good cleaning job—that last a long time and don't fizzle away even in water that's hard as nails—give me Rinso. It gets clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter—so clean and sweet, they don't need to be boiled. I use it for dishes, too—and for all cleaning. It's so easy on my hands!"

3838A Shaw Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
